The Cambodian government has made a strong protest appealing to the conscience of the civilized world and demanding a solemn condemnation of all acts of barbarism committed by the Vietminh on the soil of Cambodia.

Cambodia recently protested to the International Control Commission, a body of the United Nations against the Vietminh incursions, which developed on Feb. 25 last two weeks. Previously the tiny kingdom, a French Union of Indochina Commissioner member, said in Paris that no official protest against any decision has been made to use American troops in Indo-China under any circumstances.

"If we have such a policy, I'd like to know about it," Hickenlooper said, "But I don't think we have."

Panty Raid Costs Western Students $1,300 in Fines

LONDON, Ont. (CP) — A "panty raid" on a women's residence at University of Western Ontario is going to cost the students involved a total of $1,300.

Little damage was done to Spencer Hall in the Wednesday night raid but each student was fined $50 or a choice of writing his examinations. The raid was the second this year. The second offence carried a mandatory suspension until August.

The raid started about 10:30 p.m. when 28 students forced their way into Spencer Hall. A fire-hose and water fight with the 70 girl residents followed before police were called in. The raiders left with their underclothing trophies.

Police picked up eight students outside the residence grounds. Two others were showed before a faculty board Thursday, 23 other messages came with them.

Each student was fined $50.

High Govt. Official Feels Oppenheimer Loyal American

WASHINGTON (AP) — A high-level member of the Eisenhower administration says he feels the atomic scientist J. Robert Oppenheimer is a "loyal American," even though "any information in his file is voluminous and makes it a . . . case of security risk."

This official gave his opinion to reporters, but stipulated that his name not be disclosed. He has had contact with the Oppenheimer case since 1947 when the physicist, credited with a leading role in development of the atomic bomb, was questioned by a Congressional committee.

Oppenheimer has been barred on President Eisenhower's orders from further access to United States atomic secrets pending a review of his case. A special three-man atomic energy commission panel has been sitting in the case.

PANEL DISMISSED

The administrator official said it is up to the panel, headed by a former secretary of the army, Gordon Gray, to decide whether Oppenheimer is a security risk.

Dr. Oppenheimer, at least on the surface, would have won. In my opinion is a loyal American," he said. "On the other hand, the file on him is very voluminous and makes a 'prima facie' case of security risk."

One of the allegations against Oppenheimer is that he opposed development of the hydrogen bomb even after president Truman ordered it. He felt the project of the super-weapon be pushed. Oppenheimer has asserted that he dropped his opposition as soon as Truman made his decision, and that he went at the task with a will.

SENATOR ASKED

Senator Bourke Hickenlooper (Rep. Iowa), a former chairman of the Congressional atomic energy committee and now its vice-chairman, was asked on a CBS radio program Friday night whether disloyalty figured in the H-bomb, decision.

"I wouldn't pass judgment on that particular matter at this time," Hickenlooper replied. "I will say that there were definite and powerful objections to proceeding with the H-bomb program. That is as far as I would care to go."

The New York Daily News says in a copyrighted story from Washington that Oppenheimer told the Senate Republican committee investigating American activities committee five years ago that Dr. Bernard Peters, a fellow atomic scientist, was scornful of the Communist regime in Russia but not sufficiently dedicated to the overthrow of the Soviet system to be a security risk.

The Daily News says its story is the first published "verbatim account" of testimony that led Oppenheimer Chairman Edward Condon, to send Oppenheimer to Europe to get Peters to agree to have written that it appeared to him as though Oppenheimer had a very large immunity for himself by turning informer.

Winters Appeals for U.S. To Encourage Development

WASHINGTON (CP) — Hon. R. H. Winters, Canadian minister of public works, today appealed to the United States to encourage long-term development of natural resources in both countries.

He said that the U.S. not erect tariff or other barriers against the import of iron ore into the United States, saying it is necessary to stimulate production in other countries and to find markets for strategic reasons.

Mr. Winters, former resources minister, spoke out bluntly against trade restrictions in an address prepared for delivery before the American Society of Newspaper Editors.

Canadians believe in letting private enterprise operate, he said, and they would like to see their major trading partners follow their example.

CANADIANS DISTURBED

"Canadians are disturbed," he said, "when tariff barriers are raised, import quotas are imposed in response to special pleas, or domestic industries are developed to keep competitive foreign products out of the country."

"We in Canada believe that economic inefficiency should be kept to a minimum," he said.

While Mr. Winters said he was not thinking only of Canada-U.S. relations, his references pointedly were to types of action which the U.S. has been accustomed to take for the protection of its own interests.

In urging an opportunity for the development of resources of friendly countries on the basis of the U.S. market — Mr. Winters said that "we cannot hold that an atomic war would allow time for the development of new sources of supply."

U.S. SYMPATHETIC

While the U.S. was sympathetic to the Canadian view, it still felt the first consideration should be for its own interests, Mr. Winters said, though these could meet requirements only at higher costs than from elsewhere.

"By denying other countries the opportunity to sell competitively in the American market," he said, "they are prevented from earning dollars needed to buy more from you or even to pay for what they have already bought . . .

"In any event, come an emergency, all the high-cost mines in the U.S. taken together cannot possibly meet the vast industrial requirements. You have only to look at the Canadian Pacific railway, being your next-door neighbor, is one of your most natural sources of supply."

World to Observe Easter Sunday With Prayers for Peace, Salvation

BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

The first Easter of the H-bomb era will be celebrated in a strife-torn world Sunday with prayers for peace and salvation.

Preaching that Christ is risen, mingles with fears that man has fashioned a weapon that could doom civilization.

The Easter hope of men, women and children around the world is that the occasion never will arise to unleash the H-bomb.

In Rome, the Pope will appear on the balcony of St. Peter's Basilica, to impart benediction to the world. He will also deliver a brief radio message at noon (6 a.m. EST).

The Christian feast of Easter by coincidence, comes this year on the same day as the Jewish Passover. Passover, which commemorates the flight of the Israelites from Egypt.

They coincided in 1923 and 1927, but will not again until 1961. The date of Easter is determined by the Gregorian calendar, based on the earth's position in relation to the sun, and that of Passover by the Hebrew calendar, based on moon's position in relation to the earth and sun.

Although the Holy Land itself is torn with Jewish-Arab tension, church bells will call worshippers to Easter services as usual in both Jerusalem, scene of the Crucifixion and Resurrection.

Also celebrating Easter Sunday will be Greek Orthodox Christians. Members of the order once believed that only blood could atone for sin. Such a self-flagellation ceremony of the Roman Catholic Brotherhood observed the Easter season without its former physical violence. Child Is Killed Near Marsh Hill, Driver Charged

On her way home from school after classes had been dismissed early for the Easter holidays, Georgina "Jean" Nobles, 11, foster daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Fred Heasman, Sidling, R.R. 4, was instantly killed Thursday afternoon when struck by a car on No. 14 Highway, ten miles north of Belleville.

The little girl had been playing ball with a school chum as they walked along the edge of the highway at the foot of Oak Hill. She missed the ball and darted out onto the highway to retrieve it when she was struck by a car driven by Gordon B. Faulkner, Stirling.

Faulkner was held by police and charged with dangerous driving. Bail was fixed at $500.

A ward of the Children's Aid Society at Belleville, the Nobles girl lived with the Heasman family for seven years. She attended March Hill school and belonged to March Hill United Church, where she was a member of the junior choir. She had a fine singing voice and was scheduled to take a leading part in a music festival at her school.

The little girl was fatally injured when she left for school the morning before the accident. "Good-bye, Mom, I'll see you soon," were her last words as she left the house, Mrs. Heasman said.

She is survived by two sisters, Janice of Belleville, and Dorothy Marie, of Springbrook, and one brother, James Edward, also of Springbrook.

Merchants Face Possible Fines For Thursday Night Opening

TRENTON (Special) — More than half the merchants of Trenton face the prospect of paying up to $50 fines for violating the early closing by-law Thursday night. All of those found guilty of a second count after 6.00 p.m. on Thursday were given a warning by police who were out in force on instructions from Chief Constable F. J. Taylor.

One east side merchant reports that a constable came in his store and told him he would be getting a summons. The constables worked in pairs. One Sherratt went up one side of the street while the other called in on stores open on the other side.

The town by-law affecting closing hours reads that certain retail merchants shall close at 6.00 p.m. every day in the week excepting Wednesday and Friday. Stores close at 12 noon on Wednesday and 9 p.m. Friday. In the event a holiday falls the day after Wednesday then the merchants may remain open for business all day Wednesday. There is no provision in the by-law for late closing on Thursday even though the following day was a holiday.

During Christmas week merchants may stay open until later hours. Some classes of business like tobacconists and restaurants are not affected by the by-law. Drug stores and garages have different regulations. The authority of carrying out the closing hour by-laws was vested in Trenton Police Chief.

WARNED BY POLICE.

Merchants who were warned by police were prewarned by Jack Goldberg, president of the Chamber of Commerce. He feels that Chief Taylor had no other alternative.

A prominent east side storekeeper described how he got his warning. "A constable walked in to my store at 8.10 p.m. He asked me if I was open for business. I indicated that I was and he then cautioned me. The merchant explained that he had spent $25 in the newspaper and on the radio advertising that his places would be open Thursday night. He was surprised at closing time to find that the day's turnover was larger after 8.00 p.m. than it was during the other parts of the day.

A well-established merchant in the downtown section claims that the town has gone by-law crazy. He said he would not feel over happy about paying the fine because his extra business warranted the fine. He maintained that he would not let a by-law interfere with the service he was providing for his customers. He said he intended doing something about having the by-law amended to cover a situation like the one that has been raised.

Guinness Hailed For Performance

LONDON (CP)—Afec Guinness, back on the stage for the first time since his appearance last summer in the Stratford, Ont., Shakespearian festival, was hailed today by critics as a "superlative" actor of "immaculate sincerity."

Guinness opened Wednesday night at the Globe Theatre in the role of an Iron Curtain cardinal charged with treason in Bridget Boland's "The Prisoner." The play chronicles the successful efforts of his captors to extract a confession of guilt.

There are only three speaking roles—that of the cardinal, who is on stage for all but nine minutes of the 2½-hour play, his interrogator and his jailer.

The Daily Mirror's Harold Conway termed Guinness' work "masterly progression — or recession — from lofty intelligence to a craving for the relief of madness."

The Daily Sketch and The Telegraph critics said they were disappointed in the play, but praised Guinness' performance.

Film Council Holds Meeting

The regular monthly meeting of the Belleville Film Council was held in the library recently. Mrs. Wanda Sine, president, presided. The program, under the leadership of Miss Elson, proved very interesting. A film "Let's Talk About Films," was shown by Mr. R. Ward of the National Film Board. This film showed the viewer how to extract a confident feeling of discussion, after it had been enjoyed, another film, "The Honest Truth," was presented, after which discussion took place on the truths brought out in the film.

Mr. Ward also showed two other films which could be used with profit in schools and in other meetings. They were entitled "The New Zealand Mirror," a recent edition and a good health film entitled "Freddie's Food."

Shrine Show For Children Great Success
Once again in the annual Shrine Kiddies Show was a terrific success. The packed house at the Odeon Theatre shook in their seats to a bigger and better cast and the largest crowed ever to attend the annual show.

As early as 8.30 a.m. the kiddies were lined up for the annual event along Front Street and the doors of the Belle Theatre, anxious and waiting for Noble Willard Fawcett's annual extravaganza.

The Shrine Club boys started arriving with their charges as early $.15 a.m. The kiddies were greeted with a generous bag of goodies along with a large balloon and a booklet donated by Western Ltd.

Noble Willard Fawcett assisted by Mrr. Thelma Kerwin worked hand in hand with the Shrine Club boys to hand out refreshments and novelties and at 10.00 a.m. the show was on the road.

After a short announcement by Noble Chas. Cawker operator Albert Bisette started his show consisting of an all-cartoon display featuring the following: The Happy Family; Woodland Bire Sportlight; Hop-A-long-Pop-a-long Popeye; Pig a-boo-Ali-white boats; Bug parade; Prize Test; Bone Thumb; Harvest Time; Plain Goofy; Bell-Hoppy; and Eye Witness 51.

REFRESHMENTS

During the intervals between pictures the Shrine boys dispensed ice-cream sundaes and Noble Aubrey Coe and his staff treated the kiddies to ice-cold drinks and all received a miniature bottle as a souvenir on leaving the theatre.

Under the chairmanship of Noble George McIntosh, everything went along in good order and the work was organized in such a way that there was no congestion. Assisting Noble George were Nobles Tom and John Lewis as joint chairmen of transportation; were Nobles Horace Wright and Jack Boddy in charge of crippled kiddies; Noble Lionel Crawford, publicity and tickets. The Nobles turned out in goodly numbers to carry out the work of the day in the best way possible.

Shrine Club president, Orlin Lloyd, would like to pay tribute to Chief Gerald Vance and his "Smoke-Eaters", to Chief Walter Frobert and his staff of "Kiddies Best Friends" to the members of the St. John Ambulance Brigade, who consistently lend their support to Shrine efforts and all the kind people of the city and district who lend a hand annually to make this party a success.

Thanks of all the Shrine members go out to their wives who worked hard to prepare the goodies to the show.

Noble Del. Storey, as representatives of Ramesses Temple, commended Noble Willard Fawcett, his firm and staff for their generous effort.

A Lift for Living

The Dawn of Easter

By DR. RALPH W. SOCKMAN

Across the continent multitudes gather in Easter Dawn services.

It is most fitting that Easter should be welcomed at sunrise. The earliest gospel record of the resurrection, that given by Mark, has this statement, "They came to the sepulchre at the rising of the sun." Easter is a festival of dawn.

Jesus Christ did not originate the belief that life is too great for the grave. That conviction is found among the most primitive people and persists among the most cultured.

What Christ by His career and resurrection did was, as St. Paul said, to bring "life and immortality to light through the gospel." Christ transformed death from a sunset to a sunrise.

I should believe in immortality even if I have never read the stories of Easter morning. When I look closely at the physical world, my reason leads me to believe that life goes beyond the body.

There is something that makes this universe go. It is throbbing with life. The mysterious force called life is touching the roots of the trees outside my door. The precipitate of spring's resurging life is in the air. The flowers feel it. The birds feel it.

SURGES THROUGH CREATION

We feel it, for the life in us is a part of that central force which surges through all creation, covering the ground with green, clothing the trees with foliage, pecking its way through the shell of the egg, swinging the stars through space.

And I feel that some of this universal, imperishable, on-going life is in me. How it came to me I do not know. To be sure, that spark of life was passed on to me by my parents at birth, but that power of generation is a mystery.

It is a mystery, too, where the seat of life is. It might seem to be in the brain. If a blow on the head or a clot in the brain can cause paralysis and death. But even if the brain be the seat of life, it is not the source of it. The brain does not secrete thought as the liver bile. It only transmits a force which appears to flow through it.

VASTER WHOLE

Jesus said, "Life is more than meat." It is more than brain. These lives of ours presuppose a vaster whole of which we are a part. And when I consider human personality, possessed of a spirit which is so much more than the body, my reason tells me that life is too great for the grave and death cannot hold the soul.

But mere logic is cold comfort when loved ones are taken. Moreover, when death strikes close to home, it stuns the mind so that we do not think clearly. And then some Christ to bring our minds out of the dark into the dawn.

I was in Buffalo the other day when a tragic fire took the lives of twelve or more little school children. Those grief-stricken parents wanted more than the arguments of logic. They craved the assurance of love.

CONTINUING CARE

When we look at Christ long enough to catch His spirit, we begin to feel His confidence of our heavenly Father's constant care. If as Christ said, a sparrow cannot fall without God's notice, we are sure little children do not die beyond reach of His love. Somewhere, somehow they will have the chance of growing up.

While I was still in Buffalo my phone rang. A woman called to tell me that her mother could not come to the memorial service as she had in the past. Her leg had been amputated, and she was nearing life's last door.

When I expressed my sympathy, the daughter said, "Oh mother is ready to go. She is looking toward it eagerly as to a new adventure."

For that godly woman, sunset has been changed to sunrise.

FOR A BROKEN COLLAR BONE

What's the easiest bone to break in the body?

Apparently it's the collar bone. At least it's the bone that gets broken most often, says St. John Ambulance.

A broken collar bone is usually caused by a fall when you try to protect yourself by throwing out your hand. The shock travels up your arm and breaks the weakest point—the collar bone.

It's not too difficult to tell when someone has a fractured collar bone. The injured person will hold his arm rigidly against the side of his chest and complain of any movement. If you run your fingers gently along the collar bone you will come to one spot which is exquisitely tender.

What should you do? First of all, don't move the arm. Strangely enough, the muscles attached to this bone will keep it adequately splinted providing the arm is not moved. To help nature along you can put the forearm in a sling and bind the upper arm to the side of the chest. Then get the injured person to a doctor.

WRIST BREAKS EASILY

Next to the collar bone is the wrist and for the same reason, taking a fall on an outstretched hand. The person who has broken his wrist will usually be found carefully supporting the injured limb with his other hand. Visible deformity, marked tenderness over the site of the fracture, and unwillingness to use the arm and hand, make the diagnosis easy.

St. John Ambulance recommends these first aid measures: steady the injured forearm by firmly pulling between fingers and elbow; apply a splint from knuckles to elbow (a simple way is to fold a newspaper and lay it along the palm side of the hand and forearm, or put a folded magazine around the forearm and wrist), fasten the splint securely by bandages at either end, plus one on each side of the facture, support the forearm in a sling.

One thing to remember, if you are not sure whether it is a fracture or not, treat it as one.

WHAT IS A GOOD TAX?

An average of $194 was paid by every man, woman and child in Canada in indirect taxes in 1952. The department of economics and research of the Canadian Chamber of Commerce is authority for that statement. The Federal Government collected indirect taxes amounting to $1,- 895,000,000, it says. Provincial and municipal governments collected another $1,199,000,000 in indirect taxes, for a total levy of $2,784,000,000.

Nor is that the whole story. "There is, however, another factor which may be considered," says the Chamber's publication, "News Letter." "Corporation taxes are called direct taxes because corporations are taxed directly on their earnings. However, generally speaking, these taxes usually find their way into the prices of products and services and to this extent, in so far as the consumer is concerned, are indirect taxes." Corporation income taxes at federal and provincial levels in the calendar year 1952 amounted to $1,405,000,000. If this amount is added to the previously mentioned figure of indirect taxes, then the per capita taxation per Canadian in these classifications amounts to $284."

"News Letter" draws no conclusion from these facts. But it might be noted that, in the past, there have been many taxation experts who have maintained that indirect taxes are "bad" taxes.

A variety of reasons have been advanced for this view. Because indirect taxes are "hidden," they are more likely to be paid without protest and the taxing body thus escaping pressure for economies. The original tax may grow tremendously as it is passed along to the ultimate consumer. Frequently the existence of indirect taxes of different types results in a situation where taxes are being imposed on taxes.

Not many years ago it would have been comparatively simple to discover, in any small group discussing taxation, at least one or two individuals who would suggest that the income tax was the only fair tax and that governments should derive practically all their revenues from that source.

But the intimate and painful experiences which we have all had with the income tax during the past decade or so has reduced its popularity with the masses, if not with all the economists.

The most that you can get the majority of people to admit these days, is that the income tax is the "least" bad of a bad lot and should be fairly applied. But there is a growing suspicion that certain groups—always those groups to which the individual in lamenting the suspicion does not belong—are not receiving their full share of the tax load.

Lately, too, especially in the United States, there has arisen a group of experts who regard income tax as a "fair" tax because it tends to slow down the whole economic machinery. Acting on this theory, Congress is now in the process of considering a taxation measure which will reduce the level of taxation on income derived from dividends. If this measure is finally approved, a United States citizen who receives $5,000 in dividend payments will be taxed less than half as much as a man who obtains his $5,000 as salary or wages. The theory is that this will encourage those with capital to invest it in the expansion of the nation's productive machinery, thereby increasing the number of jobs available for the U.S. residents. The proposed change, of course, reverses the procedure of taxing "unearned" income at a higher rate than "earned" income.

Taxes being taxes, in no matter what form they are levied, it appears unlikely that it will ever be possible to get a majority of the taxpayers to agree that any tax is a "good" tax, unless it is a levy to which they will not be subjected.

Nevertheless, it does appear highly desirable that governments should reach some decision as to what type of taxes are the least harmful—and that once such a decision is reached all taxing bodies should adopt a policy which does not conflict with this judgment.

JUST A CHEMICAL REACTION

A Japanese doctor is quoted as saying that he has "no optimism" regarding the chances of recovery of some of the 23 Japanese fishermen burned by radio-active ash from the March 1 H-bomb explosion.

Fortunately, it is possible to offer these victims some comfort.

On the authority of Lewis L. Strauss, chairman of the United States Atomic Energy Commission, it is doubtful whether the burns these men suffered were caused by radio-activity. Lesions started to heal so quickly, he has said, that it appears evident that these wounds were caused not by radio-active dust but by the chemical action of the dust to which they were exposed.

It is obviously highly important that the Japanese fishermen, and more victims of H-bomb blasts, should understand that at least some of their sufferings are not caused by dread radio-activity but can be explained by simple old-fashioned chemistry.

SINCE BEGINNING OF TIME

Ever since man gained the power of speech, it seems, his commonest remark has been, "Things are not what they were in our young days." This forms the burden of one of the earliest recorded Egyptian wisdom books, and each successive generation on reaching and passing maturity has shaken a regretful head and said much the same thing. JUST FOLKS

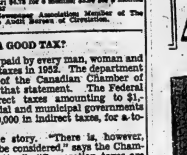
ALL LIFE CAN GIVE

What is life's pleasure made of?
The light of a baby's smile,
The blend of the sun and shade of
The world for a little while.

The song of the battle singing,
The peace of the living room,
The joy of a few friends bringing
The charm of the world to bloom.



A robe for the wintry weather,
A book and an open fire,
A family knit together
By love and the mutual desire.

Food on the oaken table,
Sleep when the day is done,
Health to be fit and able
Each morning to carry on.

Simple are life's real pleasures
From birth to our silent graves.
These are all that a rich man treasures
And all that a poor man craves.

OFF THE RECORD

LOOKING BACKWARDS

GLEANINGS FROM OUR FYLES OF BYGONE YEARS

50 YEARS AGO

APRIL 17, 1904.

Mr. Cyril Waite, manager of the Dominion Bank and chairman of music on the Board of Education, entertained the members of the King George Home and School Club last evening on the subject of music in the school and the boy singer. The president, Mrs. Hartwell, presided. The parent attendance averaged at least two Miss Thompson's room. Mrs. S. Turner gave an interesting report on the convention of the Ontario Federation of Ontario Home and School Club Association which was held in Toronto during the Easter vacation. Mrs. Grant and Mrs. Brown expressed the thanks of the club to Mr. Waite for his instructive and interesting address.

An abundance of maple syrup was offered on the market today at 80 cents per quart; butter sold at 25 cents per pound; eggs 18 cents to 20 cents per dozen; white fish, 5 cents per pound; chickens or large size sold as high as $1 each and small milk-fed chickens 50 cents each; potatoes sold at $1.50 per bag.

Mr. Thomas Bowman, secretary of the Modern Cleaners and Dyers has returned from Buffalo Convention where he attended a meeting of the executive committee of the Canadian Institute of Cleaners, Dyers and Pressers.

30 YEARS AGO

APRIL 17, 1924.

Mr. D. W. Ketcheson of Thurlow, formerly of Belleville, was in town today.

Mr. W. J. Northrup, K.C., arrived home from Ottawa today.

Mrs. and Mrs. C. Hamilton Brown of Montreal are visiting his mother, Mrs. George H. Hamilton, Bridge street.

Mr. Harry Buck spent yesterday in Kingston.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles Hardwick, Pope Street, had as Easter guests their Mr. and Mrs. Charles Coleman, Miss Doris Coleman, Norman Coleman and Ralph Coleman, who motored to the city from Toronto.

Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Wheatley are visiting friends in Toronto.

APRIL 17, 1914.

At the annual meeting of the vestry of St. Thomas' Parish the rector, the Rev. Canon Beamish, presided. The lay delegate, Mr. T. Ed Ketcheson as his warden and the vestry elected Mr. H. Freeman Ketcheson as people's warden. The following were appointed sidesmen: Messrs. Arthur Jones, Joseph D. Clarke, William C. Adams, A. C. Thompson, Thomas Nightingale, S. A. Lockwood, Arthur John Elliott, John A. Kerr, J. W. Davison, George Pearson and H. Seeley. John Elliott was appointed representative to the Diocesan Synod for a term of three years. The chairman of the building committee in connection with the building of the Parish House, Mr. John Elliott, submitted a report which showed that the total cost of the building and furnishings amounted to $14,500.

50 YEARS AGO

APRIL 17, 1904.

At a meeting of the city council it was decided to purchase voting machines this year. It was also decided to repair the tower; public to cost not to exceed $500. The tender was $1,800, cost of Number 2. Newton was appointed to act also as police court clerk.

Things are very backward this spring. Last year at this time potatoes and other market produce had already had two weeks' growth. This year the ground has not yet been touched.

Johnnie Gordanier says that he has not been stealing "Mrs. chicken dinner," he is leaving the wish bone to finish at the minstrel show. Johnnie has also a bunch of local jokes to spring —don't miss hearing them at the big minstrel show which is coming up soon.

English As She Are Writ

(Financial Post)

A Maclean's Magazine article pointed out that great writers of the English language occasionally violate what some people regard as the rules of good English.

It seemed to suggest that there are no rules of good English, and that every individual is free to say "do what he feels like" in such matters as the use of the infinitive, the dangling participle, and the relative clause which is singular or plural when the verb is plural or vice versa.

This "do what you feel like" principle is of course one of the accepted dogmas of current educational theory.

But I cannot help feeling that this matter of communicating by words and sentence it is a dogma which confers an unnecessary freedom on the person who is communicating at the expense of the person communicated with.

After all, communication is a matter of at least two people, and it may be of a million. There is the person speaking or writing, and there is the person, or the million persons, who will read what he writes or listen to what he says, and who can't do what they like about it and must take it as he delivers it.

I have no objection to the split infinitive, except that it requires a effort to understand, which is one when it should be split and few people have the literary sense to make that determination rightly. (By rightly I do not mean according to rule, but to good literary effect.) The dangling participle is by nature a blot upon the literary landscape if it is really dangling and has nothing in the same sentence to attach itself to. (The reader will perceive that I am not one of those who hold that a preposition is a bad word to end a sentence with.)

However, I am willing to make some concessions to the people who do-as-you-like: I do not insist that a relative clause must be parallel to the nearest noun or pronoun, as our ancestors did. "Try to lay to sin, the which I admire," is a sentence attributed to Hervey. I do not admire it, me because there is absolutely nothing for "trying" to lay to self except "sinners," which is obviously absurd; but I am willing to let that one go. The sentence "Leaping from bough to bough he shot the squirrel," in which the squirrel is at least there, and common sense dictates that it was the hunter and not the squirrel who fired.

As for Lord Bryce's "Tyranny is one of those evils that tends to perpetuate itself," who have a million hurried writers, with far more excuse for haste than Lord Bryce ever had, will at once protest the justifiability (hereby their own lapses into exactly the same error. But what has this, or any other of these examples, to do with grammar, which we are told is something we need not bother with at all?

All these examples are perfect grammar, their fault below is that they all, literally, say something which the author did not mean, and fail to say what he did mean. They are errors of meaning not grammar. They misrepresent the relations of the various concepts in the sentence. They are calculated to annoy, in varying degrees, any reader who has been taught to or read them; and therefore the writer has no right to use them. Can't the reader or listener any rights at all except to turn the page or the dial?

Ink Pellets To This Idea!

(London Daily Mirror)

Ink pellets and blots to Mr. J. S. Robinson, the headmaster at Hemel Hempstead, in Hertfordshire, who insists that all his pupils be equipped with fountain pens—preferably fifteen shilling ones.

How many more examples of schoolmen nonsense are we going to have?

What next? Wrist watches all round for the kids won't be late for school?

Mr. Robinson's explanation is an odd one. He says "extensive arrangements have to be made to provide ink" for children who prefer the old-fashioned pen-holder.

Imagine the terrific bustle and bustle and toil and sweat that go into filling a few dozen inkwells!

Another thing, says Mr. Robinson, is that ink spirit rest and on children's clothes. But as the headmaster says, the grammar school pupils he should know that children can do some pretty awful things — even grammar too.

They can drop them, stand on them, prod other children with them, take them to pieces, play with the nibs, squirt water at them, and occasionally swallow them.

Surely His Nibs can go one better. Why not a portable typewriter for each pupil?

One last thought. If Mr. Robinson thinks he is going to do away from the "extensive arrangements" of providing ink from now on, he has another coming.

I'll even imagine any better excuse in the middle of a threesome lesson than "Please sir, my pen has run out of ink!"

STRENGTH FOR THE DAY

DR. EARL L. DOUGLASS

GOOD FRIDAY

Can good come out of evil? Yes, it can. Christ died, and if His hand is laid upon the situation to make it so.

A murder occurred 2000 years ago. It was the most famous and significant murder in history. It was dastardly in every detail—diabolic. Yet the hand of God rebelled not when that vile crime and made it the means by which men and women believers enter heaven. On that day Jesus Christ, the only perfect man that ever lived and the divine Son of God, met the cruel death of crucifixion. In the mysterious way we understand, He took up His own soul the full burden of all the evil which sought to destroy Him. His blood in some way washes the sinner clean of sin. He took man's most heinous crime, death, wrestled with him and overwhelmed him. All the defeats which man has suffered during the ages were compensated for that day. The powers of hell fell before the kingdom of God was established.

The whole world is meditating today on this great and holy mystery.

We observe today as we observed yesterday in connection with the establishment of the Lord's Supper—this is mysterious but it is none-the-less basically true.

Remark Amended

(Fort William Times-Journal)

Having had a few months' association with the children of the neighborhood, the six-year-old has learned to handy words to hold his own.

However, the lad's parents were not prepared for the remark he made to his mother this week. Out of pure animal spirits he said:

"You big stupid ox."

Horrified by this speech his father lost no time in directing.

"Never let me hear you call your mother stupid again."

Abashed, the youngster said to his mother: "I'm sorry, mom, I just meant you big ox."

Most Boring Masterpieces

(Time Magazine)

Bored with popularity polls, the New York Philharmonic-Symphony recorders editor invited readers to submit lists of the five most boring "well-known-to-overplayed masterpieces" on record. Readers responded with enthusiasm and unprecedented joy," reported Editor Herbert Kupferberg. Their choices (not in order of preference):

1) Rimsky-Korsakov's Scheherazade, 2) Franck's Symphony in D Minor, 3) Ravel's Bolero, 4) Wagner's Parsifal, 5) Beethoven's Eroica Symphony, 6) Brahms's Requiem, 7) Dvorak's Symphony No. 5 ("New World"), 8) Beethoven's Symphony No. 9 ("Choral"), 9) Wagner's Tristan und Isolde, 10) Tchaikovsky's Symphony No. 5.

TODAY'S TALK

By GEORGE MATTHEW ADAMS

NATURE'S WONDERFUL WORLD

This talk was written on a beautiful spring day, inspired by a robin gathering material for a home nest in anticipation of a little family later on. I stopped and watched this mother bird. It seemed more important than anything else in my day. It set me to thinking of Nature's wonderful world. Spring time, home making time, love time, and song time.

I have been dwelling on the part of all birds and animals is most heartbreaking. It has been known that every bird and animal has its own design for a nest or home which is perfect. Some are most artistic, and nearly all of them beautiful to look upon. Many dogs are created so as to meld into the color of the tree or place where the nest is built. The tiny humming bird's nest looks almost like a knot on the limb of a tree. Other birds, like the robin, build their nests of mud and straw.

There is great intelligence in the world of Nature, regardless of the fact that we regard it as mostly instinct. It is amazing how soon

Not On Stable Basis

(Brandon Sun)

With so many farmers getting rid of their livestock, it's no wonder farm prices aren't on a stable basis.

Brotherhood

(Calgary Albertan)

There will never be a brotherhood of mankind as long as a gent is afraid to have the ignition key in his car.

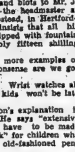
Sham's Zenith Now Reached

(Hamilton Spectator)

At the National Home Show in Toronto they are exhibiting a fireplace which opens into a guest bed, and we are wondering how much farther our civilization can go before it flies over the brink of the final Gibbonesque fall.

Already plunged in one abomination, is all the false-frontedness of our age—the ersatz, the phoney, the pretentious, the cute, the make - believe - functional, the short-cut, the decayed of taste and the slurred of thought.

Here is the ultimate ostentatious sham—for we need scarcely mention that the fireplace is large (it has to be, to conceal a full-sized bed) and dummy; there is, unfortunately, no chance of a real fire ever being lighted, being barbecued in mid-snore.



If a fireplace has meaning when no log can burn in it, if a bed need no longer stand four-square inviting repose but can be a gadget as impersonal as one of those upright pianos that are forced into the wall, then why not go the whole hog, build houses of cardboard with fake brick and stone, they will make the most impression, and the Hollywood method of parked alongside their grasscloth lawns, just as the Hollywood set is erected stick-and-cloth villages along the route of Cecil Mille the Great?

As for us, we shall remove ourselves, our family and our radio-clogged bed into the woods; we shall build a fire of real logs, in a fireplace built in the fine old light, softly humming a dirge for humanity and listening for the crack of doom.

Personal Health Talks

By DR. WM. BRADY

IS THERE A PHYSICIST IN THE HOUSE—No. 3.

Dr. Brady

You may remember I said yesterday that a physician questioned my views on digitalis.

Well at this moment I'm a little mad at him, but not just the nose, what with the 'flu a-moulding away I've been sneezing and blowing these many years past to the detriment of my three or four pocket handkerchiefs.

In college, between high school graduation and matriculation in medical school.

I can get along with an injection, but I'm not going to let anyone, but an encounter with an ignorant man who thinks he knows it all makes my gorge rise, as Robert Louis Stevenson would say.

Now I'm waiting and hoping for some one who will tell me more about physics than either of us to tell me in words of one syllable why I am right in my belief that the standard textbook of Materia Medica, Pharmacology and Therapeutics, Bastedo, Saunders, 4th ed., 28, was wrong when it said, so, where it said:

"Therapeutically it" (digitalis) "enables the damaged heart to do more work with the same expenditure of energy."

Remember, no one contends that digitalis itself yields significant heat or energy. And please hurry, the suspense makes my writing worse — heretofore it has always been fine.

Should some competent physician conclude it is time to take me aside and tell me the facts of life are not at all what I have believed all along, I shall be glad to be pretty and for a number of people.

In the first place, my gustatory likes and dislikes are simple enough—for instance I am fond of yeast-raised pure buckwheat pancakes—with which I am completely filled up to the manubrium right now — but I don't like to eat my own words, especially such words as I use to characterize what I regard as absurdities. But this crisis involves much more than just a public acknowledgement of my ignorance. If I'm wrong about the education of medical doctors, what further embarrassment and humiliation would entail would either not consider now. I can concede an occasional error and make due apology, but I'm afraid my reputation with readers would be ruined if I had to admit so many mistakes.

Hence serious this crisis is, you may judge by the fact that I spent only five days down the breeding green this past week.

THE PACKSACK

By GREGORY CLARK

A schoolmaster neighbor has resigned after twenty years of service. He is going on a lecture tour. man. His reason is that he has convinced himself he was no longer a schoolmaster but a baby-sitter.

"When popular education," he says, "was expanded to make every child go to school to the age of fifteen, I thought it a good idea that th demand coincided with that of the grandparents for a pleasure. Just about the time that an enlightened public opinion was persuaded that progressive principles of education, an enlighted public opinion was also starting to buy motor cars at the popular level. Movies had firmly established themselves as come with a rush. Everything was getting lovely. But there were the darn children to worry about. How could parents enjoy the new freedom, how could they share in the new spirit of entertainment, if they had to fret about their children?

"By the simple expedient of passing a law requiring all children to be accommodated in school until the boys' voices changed and the girls were on the verge of growing mustaches, and the girls were within two years of marriageable age, the whole problem was solved. If your child lagged in public school, he had to be kept after school to carry him along anyway. And carrier to keep after school to carry him along anyway. And carried to keep after school to carry him along anyway. And carried to keep after school to carry him along anyway. And carried

Restoration Of Boyhood Home Of King Completed

KITCHENER (CP)—Restoration of Woodside, boyhood home of the prime minister Mackenzie King, as an historic site is nearing completion.

When the work is finished, the dwelling in which the prime minister lived for about 20 years before he went to university will look as much as possible as it did in the '90s when Mr. King's lawyer father leased it.

The residence and property near here have been taken over by the federal government. The 11 acre holding was donated to the government by the Mackenzie King Woodside Trust, made up largely of Kitchener and district citizens who undertook in 1942 to restore Woodside.

FAVORITE SPOT

Mr. King, who always looked upon Woodside as a favorite spot, spent many months there in 1947 during his last visit to Kitchener.

John King and his family leased Woodside when the future prime minister was eight years old. Records at the Waterloo county registry office show the house was sold in 1890 while the King family was occupying it. During the early years of the present century, slices of the property were sold to a railway and to the city. The rest of the land and the house changed hands again in 1924.

The house was rapidly deteriorating when the trust took it over in 1943.

In the reconstruction which started in 1950 the grey brick structure was torn down. A new foundation was put in. Then the house was rebuilt with the same beams and bricks as in the original and as closely as possible to the appearance it had when the Kings occupied it.

OLD ENGLISH TREE

The rebuilding was completed in 1952.

Canadians of the present and of future generations who visit Woodside will find its landscaped ground set in a small bushland a few hundred yards off Highway 7. The trees, from England and Europe, were planted a century ago.

A covered porch at the centre of the house shelters the main entrance. Inside are a spacious library, a studio, a gracious curving stairway and bedrooms under scalloped eaves. Furnishings include Victorian cupboards and the kitchen sink with its old-fashioned iron pump.

J. Harper Schofield, Kitchener lawyer who is president of the Woodside Trust, said in an interview that a government official has suggested the trust's directors might continue to serve as members of an advisory committee. This would enable Kitchener and district men who have carried the project almost to completion to participate in future development of the site.

ANCIENT REMAINS FOUND

BOSHAM, England (Reuters)—The body of an eight-year-old daughter of King Canute, the Dane who ruled Britain 900 years ago, may be in one of two stone coffins uncovered here earlier this month. It was reported today. The coffins were discovered during repairs to the nave of the Holy Trinity church here. The other coffin contained the remains of a man believed to be of noble birth.

Trying to Lure Travellers To Land of Celts

By RON EVANS,
Canadian Press Staff Writer.

LONDON (CP) — A Canadian housewife living in Wales is waging a one-woman campaign to lure Canadian travellers to the land of the Celts.

Mrs. Margaretta Bradshaw, 45, born in London, Ont., and for 25 years a resident of Vancouver, decided that too few Canadians knew about Wales and that something should be done about it. As a starter, she has sent to it that two groups of Canadians this year will enjoy subsidized Welsh tours.

The first trip, a Commonwealth effort scheduled for June, will bring a group of Canadian teachers in Britain under the exchange plan. The second tour, in September, will be for a representative group from all Canadian provinces now being arranged by the Victoria league.

UNKNOWN COUNTRY.

"As far as Canadians are concerned," Mrs. Bradshaw said, "Wales is an unknown country. Because they know nothing about it at home, they don't include it when they plan their trips."

Mrs. Bradshaw admits that she had some misgivings when she moved with her English-born husband to the South Wales city of Cardiff in 1950.

"I had the impression that this city was a big grimy coal mines and all that. I was so pleasantly surprised with the city and with the surrounding country that I came to the conclusion it had been greatly maligned."

Later she met a group of Canadian friends in London for the Coronation and persuaded them to visit her adopted country. They were impressed, she decided to go to work.

She wrote to the Welsh travel board, suggesting 'that a greater effort should be made to interest Canadians. Board secretary Lyn Howell called Mrs. Bradshaw in for talks and plans were laid for this year's tours.

AFTER MORE PUBLICITY.

But she is still not ready to drop the matter. Now she plans to go to work on the British Travel and Holidays Association to promote more Welsh publicity in Canada.

"Most Canadians have preconceived ideas of what they wish to do or see before they leave and unless they know something of Wales they won't bother to come over as holidays, or as the Welsh say 'cross Offa's dyke.'"

Mrs. Bradshaw speaks from experience when it comes to travel. Her father, the late Wallace Dunstan, a Stratford, Ont., bank official took the family to Olds, Alta., when she was only a year old and a year later they moved on to Calgary. In 1916 they settled in Vancouver.

After graduation from North Vancouver high school, Mrs. Bradshaw moved to Quebec to work in Montreal and Rock Island. She returned to Vancouver in 1943, worked for radio station CKMO and later moved on to station CKNW in New Westminster, B.C.

She came to Britain in 1946.

Moscow Official Talks Out of Turn

LONDON (Reuters) — It would appear to be a safe bet that Comrade Lobachev, the deputy mayor of Moscow, won't be around much longer.

He has just been severely taken to task because he ordered two reporters from the newspaper Izvestia off the premises of Moscow city council.

That was his second crime. His first was that he ranted and raved at someone who had been ordered out of a condemned house and had come to ask his advice about where they should move.

Izvestia of April 8 told the story of how reporters L. Sulin and Mrs. N. Monchadskaya heard Lebedev shouting at and scolding the women. He refused to listen to their complaints and addressed the women in "a too-familiar manner."

Then he noticed the reporters had angrily ordered them off the premises.

Izvestia is the newspaper of the Soviet government. Its hints are usually heeded.

Meteorite Shower Rains On Farm

MITCHELL, Ont (CP) — Herbert Britton says a shower of meteorites rained down on his farm recently in nearby Hibbert township. With little trouble he found a 12-pound meteorite.

Residents of this area say it's nothing unusual.

They say a range of hills that run east and west to the south of this town appears to attract meteorites. In fact, in recent years the "mountains" have been the target for small meteorites.

One was found in the hills about two feet in diameter and exhibited in Mitchell high school.

British Sleuths To Help Aussies In Spy Probe

CANBERRA (CP) — Security officers from MI-5 — Britain's anti-spy organization — are flying to Canberra, it was learned today, to pick up new tips on Russia's espionage system from Vladimir Petrov, Russian embassy official who asked Australia for political asylum earlier this week.

The British sleuths will help Australian security officers question Petrov — ostensibly third secretary at the embassy but identified as chief of the Russian secret police in Australia — who told officials here of a Soviet spy ring in Australia.

Petrov, 45, fled the embassy—and his 35-year-old blonde wife—on Wednesday with hundreds of top-secret documents.

HEADS FOR MOSCO W

Authoritative sources said today that Mrs. Petrov will leave by air for Russia Monday. She will be accompanied by two Communist couriers who flew here from Europe soon after her husband's defection was announced. According to one source, the two men have been questioning members of the Soviet embassy staff and examining official files.

Fish Experts To Take Census In Mitchell's Bay

AYLMER, Ont. (CP)—Fish experts in a fleet of boats are going to pry into the sex life, food habits and birth statistics of Lake St. Clair bass next month to try to improve fishing conditions.

The bass census will be based on Mitchell's bay, said to be one of the best fishing grounds in Ontario for smallmouth bass.

A. H. Berst, district fisheries biologist of the Ontario lands and forests division here, says the fish experts will be out from May to mid-summer collecting reproductive organs of fish from anglers' catches and checking water and food conditions.

Purpose of the survey is to find out exactly when the fish are busy spawning. Fishing seasons can then be adjusted to give the bass time to reproduce before they are caught, thus leaving a new crop for next year's fishermen.

OPENING DATE CHANGED

Opening date for bass fishing in the lake now is June 25. A study of reproductive conditions in Long Point bay in Lake Erie, 20 miles south of Brantford, showed that a large proportion of the bass were engaged in reproductive activities up to July 1. As a result, the open season for Long Point was changed to July 1.

The reproductive organs taken from caught fish are carefully preserved and examined in the laboratory to find out the sexual maturity of fish, the ratio of males and females, whether the fish had completed their spawning or other data.

Preliminary studies of Lake St. Clair fishing have been made, says Mr. Berst, but the present check now is needed because more and more people are fishing there.

Man Is Buried In Nameless Grave

GALT (CP) — A grieving skill and the weathered rib bones of an elderly man were lowered Thursday into a nameless grave.

The partial skeleton was found protruding from Grand river mud near the Incinerator here Wednesday night with no indication of its identity.

Police said no elderly man is named on their missing persons lists for Galt or the surrounding district. They suggested that the skeleton might have drifted down from the river's upper reaches or from one of its tributaries.

Dr. James McQueen, coroner said the bones appeared to have been in the water for a considerable time, possibly as long as two or three years.

BOW—OR ELSE

TAIPEH, Formosa (AP)—Students who refuse to salute the national flag or bow before the portrait of Dr. Sun Yat-sen, founder of the Chinese republic, henceforth will be subject to expulsion from school, Nationalist China's education ministry decreed today. Some Chinese Christian students have refused to bow before Sun's picture on grounds that this is a form of idolatry.

Election Ends Family Rule Of Railway

NEW HAVEN, Conn. (AP) — The fortune of Patrick B. McGinnis, winning 11 of the 21 directorships Friday ended the three-year regime of Frederic C. Buck Dumaine as president of the New York, New Haven and Hartford Railway.

The battle for control of the $500,000,000 road has shared the spotlight with the current struggle for the New York Central Railroad.

The New Haven election ended six years of Dumaine family rule.

The outcome of the bitter proxy fight for the New Haven closed a marathon session which lasted, with various recesses, a total of 41½ hours.

The 44-year-old McGinnis told newspaper men the new board of directors will meet here this week with the expectation that it will elect him president.

Community Concert Assoc. Selects Next Season's Artists

Mrs. W. H. Finkle, president of the Belleville Community Concert Association states that once again the adult and student memberships are sold out. "I am happy to make this statement," she said, "and regret that many people were disappointed in their attempt to purchase a membership."

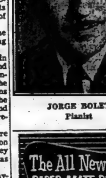
Much of the credit for the success of the membership drive is due to the efforts the corps of volunteer workers. "Without their yearly efforts," added Mrs. Finkle, "there probably could be no association in Belleville."

The artists for next year's program have been chosen and their contracts ratified. They are: Michael Rabin, violinist; Lois Marshall, soprano; Jorge Bolet, pianist; and the Vienna Academy Chorus. The artist committee attempted to arrange a series that would cater to varied tastes as well as to introduce new but worthwhile performers in the Belleville audience.

Everywhere, the talent of eighteen-year-old Rabin has been hailed as "incredible", "phenomenal", and "extraordinary." He has appeared five times with the New York Philharmonic, four times in Carnegie Hall, and once in Philadelphia.

The fame of Canada's own Lois Marshall is now international. Her warm soprano voice and captivating personality led even the great Toscanini to cry out "Sravissimo!"

Of youthful, handsome Jorge Bolet, it has been said that "he is challenging the eminence of some of our finest pianists."



The group attraction this year is the Vienna Academy Chorus. Their repertory, ancient and modern is distinguished; their musicianship is impeccable. There are twelve young men and twelve young women in the chorus, all graduates of the Vienna Academy of Music.

HOLLOWAY STREET W.A.

The Evening Auxiliary of Holloway Street United Church held its Easter meeting at the home of Miss Lenore Wilkes.

The president, Miss Norlene Frederick, opened the meeting with an inspiring poem.

The worship service was in charge of Miss Lenore Wilkes and her group. The topic of the evening's program was based on the present conditions of the Koreans to acquaint the group with the many needs in that country and the steps one can take to help relieve some of them.

Two appropriate selections were given by Miss Leona Morton on her auto harp, "When I Survey the Wondrous Cross" and "Alas and Did My Saviour Bleed."

The group then packed the layettes they have completed for Korea.

Refreshments were served.

For Parents Only
Easter Plans

By NANCY CLEAVER

"Sorry me that Thou are April, Lord And Thou the flowers and the grass; Then, when awake the soft spring winds, I'll hear Thee pass!"

—from "Easter" by Charles Hanson Towne.

Frost and first times mean have rejoiced at the coming of the Springtime. Long before Christians celebrated the resurrection of their Lord on Easter Sunday, pagan worshippers in many lands have joyfully entered into the festival of Spring.

Fathers and mothers in this mechanical hurried age, should take time with their children, to walk in the out-of-doors, to watch the miracle of seeds sprouting, of leaves opening, flowers unfolding, and of birds returning from the South. All the wonders of sight and sound and smell of the good earth stirring under the warm rays of the Spring sunshine, should fill our hearts with gratitude.

RECEPTIVE TO BEAUTY

Little children are very receptive to beauty, and it is a wise parent who takes time not only to enjoy Nature with his child, but to point out that all growing things show forth the power of the great Creator. One father, who watched his little boy's delight as the world turned green, quoted to him Walt Whitman's description of grass being the "handkerchief of the Lord."

The Easter holidays from school provide extra time to do things as a family. Mother has been going over the clothes of the various members of the family, and trying to plan for new outfits to wear on Easter Sunday. It is a mistake to encourage a youngster to think only of himself and his clothes. Even a little child can understand that the money set aside for clothes in the family budget must in turn help each member of the family. Junior can take pride in Dad's new suit as well as in his own shiny shoes, and daughter can be happy over mother's spring hat as well as her own attractive outfit.

GREETING EASTER EGGS

Mother can co-operate with plans for dyeing Easter eggs, if she takes time to blow the eggs she uses in baking and then keep the shells in the empty cartons. Eggs are an excellent source of protein and in Canada's Food Rules homemakers are advised to serve them at least three times a week. School age boys and girls can have a great many designs on blown egg shells if they handle them with care, and painting them with water colors. Pre-school children will be more successful dyeing and coloring with crayons on shells of hard-boiled eggs which are not so fragile.

Many new Canadians are skilful in producing lovely ornate patterns on Easter eggs. Perhaps you could call on a family of newcomers and admire their art. The children attending school pick up English very quickly and may enjoy telling you of some of their own Easter customs such as the small youngsters searching on Easter morning for gifts from the Easter Rabbit.

RELIGIOUS FESTIVAL

But Easter should mean more to children than the coming of Spring, new clothes, fun with colored eggs and chocolate rabbits. Above all, it is a religious festival. Easter Sunday morning should find every member of the household who can attend church, sitting together in the family pew.

To those parents who mourn the passing of a loved one, or who fear death for a friend or even themselves, there is comfort and re-assurance in the story of the First Easter Morning. Parents should not leave the teaching of immortality completely to the church. Every child should know that this life is just the beginning of Everlasting. Memorization comes easily to most boys and girls. At Easter, what better choice for Memory verses could there be than the first part of the 14th Chapter of John, Jesus own words: "In my Father's house are many mansions: if it were not so I would have told you. I go to prepare a place for you."

There was a time when TV was the arch foe of active sports. Now the boxing tube is credited with bringing the sedentary fan up on his hands and insisting that their schools would never do their homework, would tire themselves out every night and would be full of Hopalong they'd have no room for multiplication tables.
I was glad to read the other day of my reading of the Hopalong Cassidy of Moncton.
Since TV says Mike Norman, children are reading more. They go to the school library and listen, to find out about things they've seen or heard the night before on TV.
Children, and things after they get a little older, are the things TV sets its hooks into.

Stories of Famous Hymns

by HORACE B. POWELL

NO, NOT ONE!

There's not a friend like the lowly Jesus,
No, not one! no, not one!
None else could heal all our soul's diseases,
No, not one! no, not one!

No friend like Him is so high and holy,
No, not one! no, not one!
And yet no friend is so meek and lowly,
No, not one! no, not one!

There's not an hour that He is not near us,
No, not one! no, not one!
One night or dark but His love can cheer us,
No, not one! no, not one!

Did ever saint find this friend forsake him?
No, not one! no, not one!
Or sinner find that He would not take him?
No, not one! no, not one!

Was ever a gift like the Savior given?
No, not one! no, not one!
Will He refuse us a home in heaven?
No, not one! no, not one!

Jesus knows all about our struggles,
He will guide till the day is done;
There's not a friend like the lowly Jesus,
No, not one! no, not one!

In the days when most churches stressed soul-winning and held revivals more frequently than they do today and when Wednesday night prayer-meetings were more numerous and better attended, this old gospel hymn was a general favorite.

Several audiences liked it because of its comfort-giving message. Revival leaders invariably chose it at singing-time because of its swinging tune and the interest-ing form of its stanzas. Song directors used to divide their audiences into two parts. The first group sang the opening line: "There's not a friend like the lowly Jesus", and the second division would reply: "No, not one. No, not one". And so on through the song.

The author of the hymn, the Rev. Johnson Oatman, Jr., was a New Jersey Methodist preacher. His message reveals a personality that chose it at singing-time because of its swinging tune and the interest-ing way it pictured their sudden-ness into two parts. The first group sang the opening line: "There's not a friend like the lowly Jesus", and the second division would reply: "No, not one. No, not one". And so on through the song.

The author of the hymn, the Rev. Johnson Oatman, Jr., was a New Jersey Methodist preacher. His message reveals a personality that chose it at singing-time because of its swinging tune and the interest-ing way it pictured their sudden-ness entitled "Higher Ground" and opened with the lines:

"I'm pressing on the upward way,
New heights I'm gaining every day;
Still praying, as I onward bound,
'Lord, plant my feet on higher ground'.

Lord, lift me up and I shall stand
By faith, on Heaven's table land,
A higher place than I have found,
Lord, plant my feet on higher ground".

GOOD MANNERS

By MRS. BEECKMAN

PARTY FOR TWO ENGAGED GIRLS

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

I have two cousins, sisters. Each has a daughter; both have recently become engaged; and both are to be married soon, one in June, one in July. One of the engaged girls is my godchild; the other is not, I would like to do something for them in the way of entertainment before their weddings, but I need your help as to what to do. I had though of giving a shower or a tea or a luncheon for my godchild. Then either the same or another type of party for the girl who is not my godchild. Of course I don't want any ill feelings, and I don't want to show any favoritism. Have you any suggestions, Mrs. Beeckman?

Our home is an apartment of quite good size. Should I have the entertainment, of whatever kind you suggest, here in our apartment, or, say, in a private room of a restaurant?

Yes, I have several suggestions for the type of party you could most delightfully and appropriately give. In order to avoid all appearance of favoritism, you might give a joint party in honor of both engaged girls, say early in May, a late-afternoon party, to either Saturday or Sunday, and please, in your own apartment, as much the more gracious plan. Or you might give a luncheon for your godchild two or three weeks before her wedding date, a buffet-luncheon perhaps in your apartment, inviting your two cousins and other engaged girl of course, and a group of your godchild's most intimate friends. Then give this same kind of party for the other engaged girl two or three weeks before her wedding date. Or, I say, you might have a double shower for these two girls-to-be. Or you might like to plan to do what godmothers very often choose to do as their contribution-to-a-gift-to-a-godchild . . . give either a buffet dinner before the wedding rehearsal or a buffet supper afterward. . . and then give the same kind of party before or after the wedding rehearsal of the other bride-to-be. To this kind of party you may invite only the mother and father of the bride-to-be, the mother and father of the groom-to-be, and the members of the wedding party. This can be a very festive party, not at all an expensive party, and a practical one because it releases the bride's mother and father from entertainment-responsibility on this busy important evening.

Readers' Saturday Column

As Conducted by Mary Moore

QUESTION:

Thanks for your help with my problems . . . I read your comments on a letter from "Unglued". I remember that letter a month ago well . . . I was surprised that anyone could resent hearing the homey little comments about your Pete and Marianne. It brings an extra touch of warmth to your column. . . I find myself clipping the recipes and those little stories of your children and your friends and yourself. . . I have often wished that you would compile a book some day soon of your recipes and columns. When you do please include all the little heart-warming stories we look forward to in your column. You really have an excellent style of writing and any book you have published should be a success. I can assure you that I will be one of the first customers. I'm really serious about this book. It would be very disappointing not to have such a book published. We need more Canadian literature, I believe it is almost a necessity in the interests of Canadian culture to take time for such a project. . . you should have little trouble in enlisting the help of your many friends and readers.—Rose G.

ANSWER:

Where is Canadian literature! Culture! Have I ever arrived! Wait until I tell my writing buddies who took askance at my so-called style. Rose you are a dear. I have toyed with the thought of compiling a cookbook with running nonsense comment, but I have only two hands and one fuzzy head and 24 hours per day and can't see the time to do it at present. . .You may be sure if I do though, that I won't hide my light under a bushel.

QUESTION:

Some articles are being printed that advise the use of millet and sunflower seed meal. Could you tell me where I could obtain either of these meals?—Mrs. D. B.

ANSWER:

I have three more letters from readers asking for this millet and sunflower seed information. One from Creta McK., one Cliff B., Mrs. Joseph R. This is what I am able to find out (could well be though that the health adviser would answer his own posers.) Sunflower seed may be bought at large drug stores for 75c per lb. Ground millet seed at seed stores. Sunflower and millet meal may be bought at high class large grocery stores or departments. One other source might be health bakeries whose proprietors are foreign born and make rye bread and other health breads for which seeds are often sprinkled—sesame seed in particular.

QUESTION:

. . . sometime ago I clipped a recipe for Date Oatmeal Squares. It was a large recipe. I would like a recipe for raisin squares about as large as there are six children in our family so I need large recipes. Could you tell me how to make Matrimonial. I'm interested in keeping my weight down as I recently lost 15 lbs. by just dieting and no doctor.—Mrs. M. H.

ANSWER:

That is quite a bit of weight to lose. Be sure you are getting plenty of protein and fruits and milk and eggs and vegetables though they are the protective foods that your doctor would prescribe, if you were consulting him. . . .

RAISIN SQUARES

(Doubled recipe.)

Two cups boiling water, 2 cups seeded raisins, 1-2 cup shortening, 1 1-2 cups sugar, 4 eggs, 3 1-2 cups sifted flour, 2 tablespoons cocoa (optional), 2 teaspoon cinnamon, 1-2 teaspoon cloves, 2 tablespoons lemon juice, 2 cups chopped nuts. Pour hot water over raisins and let stand until well plumped and cool. Cream shortening, adding sugar gradually while creaming, then the eggs one at a time. Sift flour with cocoa, spices and add alternately with the water drained from the raising and the lemon juice. Blend in raisins and nuts. Spread in well greased square tins and bake at 350 deg. Fahr. for 30 to 40 minutes. Sprinkle with icing sugar, while warm and cut into squares when cool.

MELBA TOAST

Cut stale white or graham bread in very thin slices or 1-2 inch strips. Cut off crusts. Put in slow oven of 250 deg. Fahr. and dry thoroughly until a delicate brown.

ADVICE to the LOVELORN

By BEATRICE FAIRFAX

IF YOU WANT TO ADOPT A CHILD

A young married woman who writes me that her doctor has told her she can never have any children, says the doctor suggested that she and her husband adopt a child.

"We don't like that idea," she writes, "because the child would not be our own and also because we would know so little about its parents."

For such reasons as these, this woman and her husband hesitate to consider an adoption. They are afraid that they might unknowingly get a child with an unfortunate background which might result in its turning out to be a problem. She wants to know what I think about this whole business of adoption.

Now in the first place, this young woman may not know it, but even if she were most eager to find a child for adoption, the chances are that she would have a very hard time getting one. The fact is that there are far more people today who want to adopt children than there are children to go around.

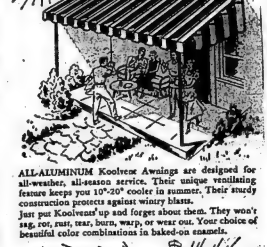
I know a great many instances of childless husbands and wives who are almost pathetically anxious to find a baby they can bring up as their own, and although they have gone from one adoption nursery to another, they have found as many other eager couples ahead of them that they have had to wait years before they were able to achieve their heart's desire.

Another thing my correspondent probably does not know is that while she may think it hazardous to adopt a child lest it turn out badly, those whose business it is to arrange adoptions are just as concerned lest the couple that takes the child should turn out badly. No matter how much a man and his wife may want to adopt a child, unless the adoption agency is as certain as it is humanly possible to be that they are the right kind of people, they would not be permitted to have one.

BACKGROUND INVESTIGATED

A third point is that a child's background is thoroughly investigated by the adoption nursery before it is given out for adoption, so that the people who take such a child may actually know even more about its inheritance than they would about a child of their own. There is almost certainly no more likelihood that, if wisely reared, an adopted child would develop unfortunate characteristics than there is of any other child doing so.

A so-called "good" background does not by any means necessarily guarantee fine character. Some of the finest families in the world have had children grow up to be sources of bitter disappointment and grief to them. By and large, one assumes no more risk in bringing up an adopted child whose family has been thoroughly investigated than would be taken in bringing up one's own child.



So I think the woman whose letter I quoted need have no fears if she and her husband decide to adopt a child. The greatest problem would be to find such a child, and then to prove to those in charge of its future that she and her husband are the kind of people to whom the child could safely be entrusted.

In a new book called "Children For the Childless," edited by D. Morris Fishbein, there is a chapter on adoption which would be of interest to any couple thinking about this subject.

The two doctors who have contributed this chapter to Dr. Fishbein's book called attention to the fact referred to above—that there are far more couples who wish to adopt babies than there are babies available. They quote statistics to the effect that every year there are about one million of the former and only 75,000 of the latter. They also stress another point I have mentioned, saying: "Adoptive parents, before deciding to apply for a child, should give much thought to their own suitability." Information on the procedure of applying for a child to adopt is also discussed from its many different angles.

Besides the chapter on adoption, "Children For the Childless" offers much valuable information for those eager to have children but who, for one reason or another, have not achieved parenthood.

Conversion To Duplexes Helps Solve Canada's Housing Problem

With a shortage of desirable housing still acute in most parts of Canada, old, multi-roomed houses are coming to the rescue through conversion into duplex or triplex form. Older houses are very often just as sound basically as the day they were built, and require only minor architectural changes, plus renovation and redecoration, to make excellent homes for two or three families instead of one.

These conversions are particularly apt where the children of the family have grown up, some having married, others moved to other cities. This leaves the old folks with too large a house on their hands, yet they are often reluctant to move out.

In many such cases, where the house is so built that the upper floor is virtually cut off, there is probably no need to construct a separate entrance for the upper flat. The main requirement to make the house a two-family unit is the provision of kitchen facilities on the second floor, and a bathroom for the ground floor occupants.

In planning this type of conversion, there are a few main factors to keep in mind. First, the upper floor kitchen should be located, when possible, directly above the lower kitchen. This makes for easy installations by extending the present water, drainage, and electricity or gas facilities directly to the upper floor.

In choosing fixtures for the upper kitchen, particular attention should be paid to the selection of the right type of sink. A combination laundry-tub and sink unit, with built-in drain-board will probably be most suitable. Bear in mind that the upper tenant will very likely want to use the sink for a certain amount of laundry as well as preparation of food and dishwashing.

Conversely, the location of the lower-floor bathroom should be as near as possible directly below the main bathroom, and for the same reasons. But in placing the lower floor bathroom, it is likely that suitable space for it will be a problem.

However, this is not nearly so much of a problem as might be supposed. Modern bathroom equipment is so designed that excellent arrangements of fixtures have often been made in a space as small as 3' x 5'. And so a bathroom might fairly easily be put into a large clothes closet, a storage room, or a pantry.

Bathtubs are now made in a variety of shapes and sizes to make the job of the conversion planner easy. Tubs will be found to fit into almost any shape of room, even very narrow ones. In these, a square bath-tub, which has the diagonal length of a normal tub, may be the answer to the problem. These tubs have the added feature of a bath seat, which is a convenience of particular appeal to the elderly.

FARM BUILDING TIPS AND NEWS

How To Plan Your Kitchen

By 'Home Builder'

Laying out a new kitchen, or revamping an old one, is a problem that confronts the potential home builder and the established home owner sooner or later during the occupancy of a house.

There are many ways to plan an efficient kitchen but there are three principles which should be followed. First, include counter tops or working space beside the sink, the range and the refrigerator.

Secondly, place the sink so that it is convenient to the range and refrigerator, and thirdly, plan the cupboards to store foods and equipment nearest the place where each item is to be used.

There are three kitchen layouts recognized as standard for efficiency beauty and economy. One of these three should be easily adaptable to your kitchen regardless of its size or shape.

The three types of standard kitchen are described as L shaped, U shaped, or "corridor" type.

THE L TYPE

In the L shaped kitchen three main work centres are arranged along two walls with the refrigerator nearest the entry door. The U shaped kitchen is ideal for larger homes and fits in well with plans that include breakfast rooms and extra cabinate space. The "corridor" type kitchen the ideal where space is limited, it requires a minimum of walking and reaching.

Certain important considerations should be taken into account when planning a kitchen. If there are growing children in the family, it might be wise to include a place in the kitchen for after school snacks. A breakfast nook arrangement is convenient if space is available. If there is a baby then a place for a play pen will keep baby always in view as mother goes about her work in the kitchen.

If the householder entertains often provision should be made for an extra large refrigerator and a larger than usual oven.

However, the chief consideration is the comfort of the persons using the kitchen most, namely the housewife. A picture window over the sink, good ventilation, and a Dutch door for receiving groceries will add much to the comfort and convenience of working in the kitchen.

OTHER ATTRACTIONS

Space for a small radio with which to while away the time spent in doing household tasks, a cutlery rack designed to hold cooking spoons and kitchen knives, open shelves at the end of a counter for cookbooks, pastry, waffle irons, and food mixers, and ample cupboard space are all conveniences that will make kitchen work less arduous and the kitchen itself more attractive.

Kitchen cabinets are one of the most important features of any kitchen. Cabinets near food preparation centres should provide for the storage of canned and packaged goods with special drawers for flour, sugar, and the various necessary utensils such as pots, pans, mixing bowls and so forth. This group should also be near the refrigerator.

Near the stove, cabinets should be designed to provide storage space for serving dishes and glassware while lower units can store utensils used for cooking.

Near the sink a section of the lower cabinets should provide space for cleaners, garbage container, and drawers or racks for dish towels. All all storage cabinet for brooms, vacuum cleaner, aprons, mops and so forth in the lower portion, and shelves for extra appliances in the top portion could be provided in one of the corners or least used sections of the cabinet unit.

EVERY SIZE AND SHAPE

Kitchen cabinets are available in almost every conceivable size and shape to suit individual needs and planning. Lower units are usually built with a 3-inch by 3-inch recess so that one can stand close to the cabinet without touching it with his toes. It is usual to build two storage shelves in the bottom with a set of drawers just beneath the top.

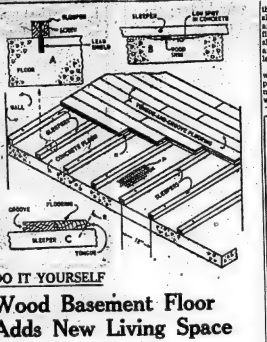
The counter top or work shelf, which is really the top of the lower cabinet can be covered with hard finishes, linoleum or a variety of new plastic materials all of which are available at your building supply centre complete with metal molding to finish the edges. One good sized cutting board is a handy addition to the working area.

The upper cabinets are usually about one foot in depth and can be extended to the ceiling or limited by individual preference.

COMMON SENSE TIPS

It has become common practice to use lipped slab, cupboard doors made of plywood or masonite. They are easy to keep clean and are attractive. Smart looking cabinet hardware is available to give cabinets a final touch of beauty.

Cabinets are very convenient and the lady of the house has an excellent chance to utilize her ingenuity in the planning and design of cabinets to suit her individual preferences. Adjustable shelves can be built in and raised or lowered to suit the nature of the items stored. Glass doors on top cupboards will show off colorful dishes and glassware.



It is much more pleasant to work in a kitchen with plenty of storage space, plenty of working area, and a big picture window for good lighting and a pleasant view, than to toil ceaselessly in an inadequate, poorly lighted and poorly ventilated kitchen with little or no convenient storage space.

ATTRACTIVE ADDITION

Should space permit a breakfast nook or a kitchen hall could prove to be a useful and attractive addition to any kitchen.

A utility room off the kitchen can also be useful. It may serve as a sewing room for the housewife, a study room for the children, a temporary playroom for children or just as an odd job centre.

Above all the kitchen itself should be as pleasant, comfortable, and as enjoyable as possible. Personal tastes should be your guide to selecting colors, curtains and decorative schemes. Sample kitchens are on display in many builders supply houses and inspection of their features can be arranged at your convenience. It is a wise home builder or home owner who has a kitchen problem to consider in advance a well-planned program of construction of conversion so that the maximum amount of convenience can be achieved in this most important room.

Wood Basement Floor Adds New Living Space

By J. RALPH DALZELL
Author of Books on Home Building and Repair

Many readers have asked how to lay wood floors over present concrete floors in basements to create extra living or recreation space. Putting down such floors is not difficult, with the help of your lumber and hardware dealers.

Wood floors should not be laid unless it is certain that the basement remains dry the year around. Even a little dampness will rot wood flooring and cause warping. Floor drains must be plugged and concrete or sewer gas will not enter the new room.

First, see that the floor is level. Use a straight, thick piece of wood at least eight feet long with a carpenter's level above it. Place the wood and level in opposite directions. Any low spots must be shimmed up as shown in picture B.

Sleepers must be laid first, as shown in the picture. Space two-by-two-inch lumber, such as yellow pine, on twelve-inch centers. Draw chalk lines on the concrete floor where sleepers will be fastened, measuring will tell you the number of lineal feet to buy.

If the basement floor is level, an adhesive may be used to fasten the sleepers to the concrete. When the floor is not level, use anchors of the Johnson and Ackerman type. Holes must be drilled in the floor to accommodate the lead shields as pictured at A. Holes should be at four to six foot intervals. The use of an electric drill equipped with a concrete-cutting bit will be found very useful to make the holes.

Lay the sleepers nearest the center of the room first, and check the level of each one with a carpenter's level on a straight board. Shim up any low spots with wood strips as shown at B. Be sure the sleeper is level before tightening the screws. Now lay the second sleeper, checking its level as well as its levelness with respect to the first sleeper. Continue laying the sleepers, checking with the level, and loosen the screws from the lead shields where necessary.

Mop the spaces between sleepers with hot asphalt (as at 'P' in the picture) to make doubly sure that moisture will not enter the floor when it is laid.

Soft or hardwood flooring may be used, but the boards must be tongue-and-grooved as shown in illustration C. Tell your lumber dealer the dimensions of the room and he will figure the lumber needed. Use nails of the screwlight variety, about two and one-half inches long. Drive one nail through the flooring into the sleeper at the angle shown by the dotted line in picture C. Make sure that tongues enter grooves by using a hammer and a short piece of scrap lumber before driving nails. Cut flooring lengths so that butt joints come over the midpoint of sleepers, as at M.

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS

Q.—What hard woods will finish well and be easy to work?

A. Red alder, basswood, butternut, chestnut and yellow poplar. Birch and walnut are next. Cherry, maple and oak are most difficult.

Q.—What is "modular construction" and why is it recommended?

A.—When a house is designed so all parts conform to a specific unit of measure. A four inch unit is generally accepted—all dimensions are divisible by four. Economies are derived through less cutting and fitting.

CHIPS OFF THE SPORTS BLOCK

By GEO. H. CARVER, Sports Editor

NORTHERN LIGHTS!

NORTH BAY — Expanding popularity of softball was noted in this "Gateway to the North" yesterday at the annual convention of the Ontario Amateur Softball Association.

Secretary Frank Feaver said a record number of delegates to the confab, that 1953 saw another affiliations record go by the board — 141 local and district associations entered, 218 affiliations in the 17 series, and an all-time record that marks the continuation of steady growth since 1934 when 34 associations entered 53 affiliations.

In the championships, Feaver said, 475 games were scheduled and sixteen series were completed. The Junior "A" finals commenced by Kirkland Lake at Toronto was not completed. This means the Belleville Glen Roys, 1952 all-Ontario champions, still hold the title.

The outstanding developments of the year, he said, were the service provided by the group insurance policy; the spread of local association skill schools and the widespread coverage of Ontario affiliated operations. Assistance to minor-age teams was also greatly increased.

The association sponsored a blanket insurance policy and 3324 players took advantage of the one dollar per year premium. The policy calls for protection against injury while playing or in softball travelling. 114 claims were paid by the insurance company amounting to $4784.06.

The extent of softball injuries was amazing, the secretary pointed out. They ranged from broken teeth and fingers to fractured skulls and spines.

25,282 players were registered, a slight decrease from 1952, but this was noted in a loss in minor age representation in one affiliated association, which was almost overcome by increases in other districts. The record registration is 34,838 for 1952.

Feaver said there was a decrease of 91 umpires in the registration lists which saw only 286 apply for cards. This was due, he felt, to the increase in registration fees. He strongly urged that OSA registration be required for all umpires in the associations.

Again, he said, phenomenal success is indicated in official reports. The small financial deficit noted in the treasurer's report does not offset in any way the magnitude of that success. A substantial cash balance is on record and the expenditures of the moneys collected were for the welfare of softball.

Outgoing president Bill Jacks in his report said that softball "lost a good friend when the executive member from Belleville, late Harry Knott, passed away. The association's deepest sympathy was extended to the family through secretary Frank Feaver, who attended the funeral."

He remarked on the sound financial position of the association, saying that, although this year there was a deficit in operation, the executive made the minor travelling allowances more attractive and all will agree that by doing this the association is promoting its minor softball to a greater degree.

The fact that 1953 was a "suspension-free" year speaks well of all members and particularly the high calibre of the umpires.

The famed hospitality of the Northland was never in better evidence. Northern hearts are equalled in size only by the hosts, and a friendlier, more sociable bread and camaraderie cannot be found anywhere. The "boys from the banana belt" were accorded a royal welcome, and the sturdy grip of northern hands was as sincere as it was strong.

The Northland Softball Association was the hosts at a reception and refreshments in the Empire Hotel, convention headquarters, last night, followed by entertainment that no one but the "trappers" could produce.

This in turn, was followed by a delectable buffet luncheon.

Friday morning, after the boys got their names down on registration rolls and other official business cleared, they were taken on an hour's official sight-seeing tour. This took in beautiful Lake Nipissing (you fairly choke with beauty), the Royal Canadian Air Force station where pal Devine and I stepped off the plane yesterday afternoon and the airfield. Brother, how these flyboys get around.

At twelve noon there was a civic welcome where the delegates were given the freedom of the city. Most of 'em had it by that time anyway, followed by the official banquet. The afternoon was taken up with election of officers and general discussion under which a lot of the 87 amendments to the constitution came under fire.

Fires Winning Goal at 4.29 Of Overtime, Puck Deflected In Off Doug Harvey's Hand

BY W. E. WHEATLEY
(Canadian Press Staff Writer)

DETROIT (CP) — The name of Anthony Joseph Leswick, the tough little left-winger on Detroit Red Wings' No. 1 checking line, was written today in the annals of Stanley Cup hockey as the man with the golden goal.

It was Tony who fired the winning goal Friday night in the Red Wings' hard-earned but well-deserved 5-4 overtime victory over Montreal Canadiens.

That big goal for Tony and his mates meant the seventh and deciding game of the finals, the massive cup itself and $16,000 in cash instead of the losers' $9,000.

As it turned out, the winning goal at 4.29 of overtime was a tough break for Canadiens who had put up a fighting battle against the National Hockey League champions. The puck whipped into the net off defenceman Doug Harvey's gloved hand.

It cost them the cup they had won only a year ago, and now it goes to the Red Wings for the sixth time since this city came into the NHL in 1926. Canadiens have also held it six times.

Floyd Curry had scored for Canadiens at 9.56 of the second and Red Kelly for Detroit in the second.

The electrifying overtime goal came quickly and for a second the record hockey crowd in the Olympia Stadium of 13,791 was stunned. Then bedlam broke loose.

20-FOOT DRIVE

Tony, who scored only six goals during the regular season, came coasting into the Montreal zone while tall Glen Skov, centre for Canada's line, went into the left corner. Skov dug out the puck and sent it across the front of the Montreal goal. Tony pounced on it and let drive from about 20 feet out.

Goalie Gerry McNeil saw the shot and was set to play it. But Harvey stuck up his hand to block the shot. The puck struck his hand, careened off and went into the net over McNeil's left shoulder.

That ended one of the most brilliant hockey battles of the series. A battle that went undecided through six games and was carried into overtime in the seventh before it was settled.

It was equally as good as the overtime game in Detroit last Sunday when Montreal squeezed out a 1-0 overtime victory, a win that kept Canadiens in the hunt. They took the next game at home to square the series.

Only once before in Stanley Cup history has a seventh game been decided in overtime. That was in 1950, also in Detroit and also won by the Red Wings. It was a 4-3 decision over New York Rangers, and the man of the hour then, after 2.31 of a second overtime period, was Pete Babando.

Friday night it was Tony's big moment.

SASKATOON AMATEUR

Tony is short, dark haired and heavy-browed. He is a little more than five feet, six inches and weighs around 160. He entered pro hockey in 1943 with Cleveland of the American Hockey League after rounding out his amateur career with the senior Saskatoon Quakers.

For the next two seasons Tony was in Canada's armed forces. Then he began his big-time hockey with New York Rangers and remained with them until the 1951-52 season when he was traded to Detroit for Gaye Stewart. Tony's biggest scoring year was in the 1946-47 season when he collected 27 goals.

Early in June the Red Wings cut loose with all their power but Gerry McNeil threatens together. The Red Wings had far more of the play and goalie Terry Sawchuk had less work and far fewer dangerous shots to handle than McNeil.

CURRY SCORES

Floyd Curry, who scored two goals in Montreal Tuesday when his team won 4-1, for a time seemed likely to be Montreal's hero. He put Montreal in front at 9.17 of the first period, with a 30-foot screened shot, off Paul Masnick's pass. Sawchuk was beaten, all the way.

But while Masnick sat out a penalty early in the second period for hooking Gus Goldham, Red Kelly tied it. Ted Lindsay and Alex Delvecchio made the relays that put Kelly in the opening on a power play. The low shot was partly screened and the puck caught the far side of the net.

Red Wings won the opening game 3-1 and lost the second by the same score here. They squelched Canadiens twice on Montreal ice, 3-2 and 2-0. The Montrealers struck back to win in Detroit 1-0 in overtime, and then in Montreal 4-1.

ALUMINUM PROJECT

CANBERRA (CP) — Australia will save more than $5,000,000 a year by producing all its own aluminum requirements in a plant now nearing completion in Tasmania. The Australian government has contributed more than £20,000,000 to the project.

Truckmen Lose To Stouffville By 6-3 Count

KINGSTON (CP) — Stouffville Clippers Friday night defeated Kingston Frontenacs 6-3 in two eliminations from their best-of-seven Ontario Hockey Association Senior B semi-final series. The Truckmen now lead the series 3-2.

The next game between Stouffville tonight and the seventh, if necessary, in Kingston Monday night.

Wally Samanski opened the scoring for the Truckmen at 7.36 of the second period, but a tremendous drive from the Clippers gave them four goals within three minutes and a 5-1 lead by the end of the period. Bert Baker counted two inside 36 seconds, Frank Stephenson got two more almost as quickly and then rapped in a third with little more than a minute left in the period.

Gord Haddleton scored again for Stouffville in the third, and Jack Thaler and Bob Holden scored singles for the Truckmen.

Chiselers Take Major 'A' Title

Walt Moore's Chiselers are 1953-54 Major "A" League champions. In a three-game play-off Thursday night Chiselers rolled 3091 to top C.N.R. (3590) and the Bellville Golf champions for the last six years (3496.)

Chiselers' games were 1288, 1274 and 1529.

Bill Bateman led the attack for the winners with 847, followed by Al Hitchon 824, Walt Moore 754, Lee Hardwick 749 and Ray Lundberg 717.

Cross Between Lake, Speckled Trout Will Be Named Wendigo

TORONTO (CP) — A five-man board of judges has selected the name wendigo—an Indian evil spirit—for a new species of game fish developed from a cross between lake and speckled trout, biologists who developed the fish called it aplake, after both its parents.

P. K. Ketcheson, Ontario conservationist, reported that wendigo was submitted by two entrants in his contest to pick a name—P.F.C. Cole of Toronto and D. Milner of Honey Harbor, Ont.

The judges were: Dr. F. A. Urquhart curator of the Royal Ontario Museum of Zoology; outdoor writers for Toronto's three daily newspapers, Robert Turnbull of the Globe and Mail, King Whyte of the Star and Doc McGibbon of the Telegram; and Syng Whittaker of the CBC, Toronto.

BIOLOGIST DEVELOPED IT

The aplake was first developed by Dr. Victor Soloman, Dominion government biologist. He stocked waters in the Banff area of the Rockies.

The Ontario department of lands and forests began developing the new fish, using male speckled trout to fertilize lake trout eggs. Nearly 100,000 were planted last year in lakes in the northern part of the area between Sudbury and Sault Ste. Marie.

Department officials declined comment on whether they would accept the name, the Algonquin term for an evil spirit.

"In Ontario, D. Soloman said that name is all right with me."

J. P. Cuerier, who is conducting further experiments with the new fish said "I don't care too much what they call it."

Mr. Currier said there s still a lot more work to be done and it will be another two years, if not more, before the department has perfected the new species.

He said the fish has reproduced in hatcheries to the third generation, but it is not known yet if it will reproduce in natural settings.

Batter Struck by Pitched Ball Awarded First Base Major Rule Passed at Convention

NORTH BAY, (CP)—The first Ontario Amateur Softball Association meet to be held in northern Ontario ended here Friday night after 39 amendments to the rules and constitutions were passed.

Frank Howe of Hamilton, secretary, said the convention was a whopping success. More voting delegates attended than ever before in the association's 28-year history.

Although only 19 amendments were carried, the delegates discussed 62. The most important one was that a batter who struck by a pitched ball and, in the judgment of the umpire, makes a sincere effort to avoid the pitch, will be awarded first base. Previously, the pitch was called a ball with no advancement on the part of the batter. The proposal was made by St. Catharines.

APPROVE BY-LAW

Delegates also approved a by-law proposal from the Thunder Bay Softball Association which says: "That appeals to the OASA, concerning decisions of committees or committees officers of the Eastern Ontario Amateur Softball Association or the Northern Softball Association or the Western Ontario Athletic Association, must be made only with the consent of the president of the association whose decision is appealed."

A move by Whitby that the association allow the replacement rule allowing teams to gain substitutes for players obliged to go into the armed services, football or hockey training camps or universities while playing softball was defeated.

The meeting also agreed that no part of a pitcher's clothing may be of white or cream colors.

The amendment passed for minor baseball included that all Peewee games must start at 11 a.m. hours before sundown and that no floodlight games be scheduled in the pee-wee series except by agreement of the managements of the competing teams. Pee-wee players will not be allowed to wear spikes on their shoes. Another decision was that distances between bases in the midget series will be 85 feet.

PETERBOROUGH 1955 SITE

It was decided that the 1955 annual meeting will be held at Peterborough.

Ray Wray of Montreal, vice-president of the Canadian Amateur Softball Association, announced the arrangements have been completed to hold the eastern Canada senior A finals again at Montreal during the labor Day week-end. The Montreal Snowdon League champs have won the best-of-three series for the last three successive years.

Charles S. Lewis of Toronto was installed as the fourth life member of the association. The others are Col. G. C. McArthur of London, Verne Mellwraith of Guelph and George H. Spooner of Galt.

Fort William Shades Edmonton In Junior Final

FORT WILLIAM, (CP) — Displaying an amazing reversal of form, Fort William Canadiens squared up their Western Canada Junior hockey final with Edmonton Oil Kings at a game apiece Thursday night.

Shut-out 6-0 in the opener of the best-of-seven series, Canadiens shaded the westerners 2-1 before 5,652 fans.

Fort William went into the lead after more than four minutes of play when Johnny Seychuk, making his first appearance of the series, slammed home Don Clusiau's passout from behind the net.

The second period passed scoreless but at the 11:40 mark of the final frame, Vic Marks accounted for what eventually proved to be the payoff tally on a pass from Stan Zaluski.

John Bucyk saved Oil Kings from a shut out four minutes later. The teams remain in Fort William for a third game tonight.

Overtime Tie In First Game Of West Final

PENTICTON, B.C. (CP)—Winnipeg Maroons and Penticton Vees played to a 4-4 overtime tie here Thursday night in the first game of their best-of-seven Western Canada Allan Cup hockey final.

The next game will be played here Saturday.

Only six seconds separated Penticton from victory — six seconds and an 18-year-old junior recruit to senior ranks.

Gary Aldcorn, elevated to Maroons this year to go in junior hockey, fired the tying goal at 9:54 of the overtime period.

Marmora Loses Int. 'C' Title In Three Straight

MARMORA, Ont. (CP) — Lucan won the Ontario Hockey Association intermediate C title Friday night by defeating Marmora 4-3 for a clean sweep in their best-of-five series.

Lucans threw back a last-ditch Marmora rally in the last few minutes of the game to take the series 3-0.

Fred Revington scored twice to lead the Lucan attack. Rowett and Stretton got the others. Trumble, Marmora goalie, was tabbed the star.

Lucans jumped into a 2-0 lead in the first period, made it 3-0 in the second and were outscored 3-1 in the final.

Sundridge Beavers Ahead of Durham In Final Series

DURHAM (CP) — Sundridge Beavers defeated Durham Rockies 3-1 Thursday night to take a 2-0 lead in the Ontario Intermediate B best-of-seven final. The third game will be played in Bracebridge tonight.

Mye Sedore opened the scoring for Sundridge in the first period with an assist by Herb Anderson. Then in the second frame Keith Mogbridge tallied again for Sundridge on a pass from Harold Kidd and Ed Odorynski.

In the third, Eddie Michanik tallied for Durham, with Jack McCreight getting the assist.

Solunar Tables And The British

There are few places in the world where the Solunar Tables do not function satisfactorily. Mostly the fish go on the feed with the advent of the Solunar Periods, get their dill during the time allotted to them by Mother Nature, and then retire to their resting stations to relax for a while.

Brown trout are quite apt to adhere closely to this daily cycle of feeding and rest periods, at least all the "brown trout with which I have had experience. There are some, however, who pay not the slightest attention (so I have been informed) to this terrestrial schedule of theirs. They live in British chalk streams, notably the Itchen and the Test.

When the Solunar Tables first were published, it was only to be expected that I receive letters from British anglers, asking how come. They weren't content simply to obtain copies of the tables and try them out. They wanted to know why, in full and complete detail.

Being a credulous sort of fellow, apt to take things at face value, I used to scurry back out and write them letters. I discussed the underlying theory, made graphs and diagrams, and went to considerable trouble to answer questions in full.

One man will remain irradically in my memory. His letter, seemingly friendly and showing much interest, was written on the stationery of that august body, The Fly Fishers' Club of London. As I say, it had a distinguished tone to it.

FOUR LONG LETTERS.

After an interchange of about four long letters (at least, mine were) I began to find out something these letters. I discussed the underlying theory, made graphs and diagrams, and went to considerable trouble to answer questions in full.

He had gone into the thing quite intensively, giving actual times and relating experiences. The fact these guidelines to activity bursts coincided almost 100 per cent with the published times in the Solunar Tables for some reason was not mentioned.

I wrote him back in correspondent who flabes the itchen. I had learned from sad experience that it did not pay to write a member of the Houghton Club or the editor of the Fly Fishers' Bulletin.

CLEAR, BRIGHT LIGHT.

His reply cast a clear, bright light on the entire matter. I don't think he meant to enlighten me thus, but this is what he said, exactly—"It seems incredible that such a phenomenon should exist, because if it did, in fact, exist, one of our members would have discovered it long since."

Conversely Scottish anglers are quite open-minded. Several have sent me complete reports, showing that Scotch fish do respond activity to the Solunar Periods.

French anglers use the schedules with great success in the chalk streams of Normandy. A French edition of the Solunar Tables is published annually by Au Bord de'l Eau, the French equivalent of our Izaak Walton League.

Of course, I may be a bit severe with our British cousins. They may very well be acting in good faith, I hope so. Just the same I'm sure that if they kept track of the daily Solunar Periods, they would find, in common with many of us here, that the habit of doing so pays big dividends in sport.

Wild Brawl Features Game As Marlies Defeat TeePees 3-1

ST. CATHARINES (CP) — A wild brawl in which 500 fans took to the ice and 10 policemen participated, highlighted a 3-1 victory by Toronto Marlboros over St. Catharines TeePees here Friday night.

The win kept alive Marlboros' hopes for an Ontario Hockey Association Junior A championship and forced a sixth game. St. Catharines, who won the first three games of the best-of-seven final, still lead the series 3-2.

The near riot in the Garden City Arena started with only two seconds of play remaining in the game. The fight started between Marlboro coach Reg Hamilton and a TeePee fan behind the Toronto players' bench. Hamilton apparently was irked when his defenceman Jack Blonda was cross-checked across the face by St. Catharines player Chester Warchol. Warchol didn't receive a penalty. In a matter of seconds it seemed most of the arena was fighting.

WHISTLES USELESS

Referees' whistles, the arena siren and the playing of the National Anthems couldn't stop the melee either. When the teampers were finally cooled the remaining faceoff was only a formality.

As in the last game when the Dukes came from behind for their 5-3 victory in Toronto, Marlboros had to clim uphill to keep from being eliminated. They spotted TeePees a 1-0 lead before the game was 56 seconds old. That was all.

Marlboros went ahead 2-1 before the period ended and added an insurance marker in the second period before heading for the scoreless third stanza.

Hugh Barlow was the lone TeePee marksman when he scored at :57 of the first on passes from Brian and Barry Cullen. Charlie Burns took Mike Nykoluk's pass 10 minutes later to tie the score and Nykoluk made it 2-1 at 16:42. Burns scored his second goal of the night in the middle period to salt the victory away.

Marlboros took six of the nine minor penalties handed out but TeePees could do little while the Dukes were short-handed. One of the three St. Catharines penalties, however, was costly to the TeePees. Burns scoring his second marker while Pete Koval was off for tripping.

Baseball Season Starting Out as Big Rookie Year

By JOE REICHLER
(Associated Press Sports Writer)

The four-day-old major league baseball season is still in the budding stage, but it's starting out as a big rookie year.

With Friday an open date no club has played more than three games, but already 47 first-year men have seen action. A batch of others, including several highly-touted freshmen, are almost certain to get into the lineup soon. Rudy Regalado, Cleveland's spring sensation, has been used only as a pinch runner.

It's hardly fair to make any comparison at this early stage, but the most outstanding performances thus far have been turned in by Forrest Spook Jacobs and Vic Power of Philadelphia Athletics, Gene Baker of Chicago Cubs, Frank Bolling and Billy Bruton of Milwaukee Braves, Bob Skinner and Curt Roberts of Pittsburgh, Bill Skowron of New York Yankees, Harry Agganis of Boston Red Sox and Wally Moon of St. Louis Cardinals.

The majority of the rookies or near-rookies who have had an opportunity to work so far haven't been particularly effective. Jack Harshman, Chicago White Sox southpaw, was the only one to pitch a shutout. Regalado and Bolling connected for home runs, Bob Skinner and Curt Roberts of Pittsburgh Pirates, Bill Skowron of New York Yankees, Harry Agganis of Boston Red Sox and Wally Moon of St. Louis Cardinals.

Waterloo-Siskins Defeat Weston By 6-5 Score

TORONTO (CP) — Waterloo Siskins scored four goals in the third period to defeat Weston Dukes 6-5 in an Ontario Hockey Association Junior B playoff game here Thursday.

The victory was the second for the Siskins in the round-robin playoffs, which also involves Kingston. Bill Wharmsby scored two goals for the Siskins, Bill Oberle, Whitey Youngberg, Don Gravel and Don Helbein notched the others. Gil Mollard fired a pair for the Dukes, his 20th and 21st of the season. Bill Kennedy, Jim Shropshire and Ken Girard tallied the others.

Detroit's rookie trio of second-baseman Bolling and outfielders Tuttle and Al Kaline have pleased manager Fred Hutchinson so far. One of Bolling's three hits this three games has been a home run.

Winnipeg Monarchs climaxed a spectacular Memorial Cup final by beating Copper Cliff Redmen 7-6 to win the series by three games to one. In that junior hockey final of 17 years ago Copper Cliff won the first game 4-3 in overtime, and Winnipeg managed to take the next two by 6-5 and 3-1.

Montreal Royals Defeat Ottawa Senators 3-2

MONTREAL (CP) — Montreal Royals Thursday night fought off elimination from the Quebec Hockey League semi-finals with a 3-2 victory over Ottawa Senators.

Senators now lead the best-of-seven series 3-2 and need only one win to go into a best-of-nine final against Quebec Aces.

Ottawa defenceman Johnny Arundel deflected in Royals's first goal when he tried to block Roger Leger's blue-line drive. Dick Wray and Eddy Litsenberger also scored for Royals. Howie Hopelle and Jackie Giesebrecht counted for Ottawa.

Sixth game of the series will be played in Ottawa.

Winnipeg Wins Over Tri-Bells In Final Game

TORONTO (CP) — Winnipeg Paulins won the Canadian senior senior basketball title Friday night with a 45-43 victory over the defending champion Toronto Tri-Bells in the final game of their best-of-five series.

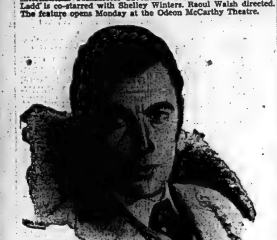
Paulins, trailing 17-16 at the end of the first quarter, outscored the Tri-Bells with close-in set shots that disturbed the Toronto defence for the last five sessions.

The series went right down to the wire. Tri-Bells won the first game, dropped the second and third and then came back with a 48-35 victory in the fourth Wednesday.

Centre Herb Olafsson led Paulins with 25 points. He scored 6 in the first two quarters and shot the Winnipeggers into a lead they never lost. Forward Carl Bidd of Winnipeg followed up with 12, 11 of them in the last quarter.

Ray Momotiuk, a five-foot-six centre, potted 15 points for Tri-Bells before he was sent to the bench with five fouls late in the last quarter.

ATOMIC REACTOR



STOCKHOLM (CP) — Sweden's first atomic reactor will begin operation this summer. The experimental plant has been blasted down into granite rock to a depth of 130 feet, with a roof at least 40 feet thick. Other safeguards against atomic accidents include 3,000 tons of iron ore and 60 tons of graphite.

SIDNEY TOWNSHIP
WET or DRY?
For some forty years, the sale of alcoholic beverages has been forbidden in our Township.
WITH NO ONE IN THE TOWNSHIP, MORE THAN A 15 TO 20 MINUTE DRIVE TO THE NEAREST HOTEL OR LIQUOR OUTLET IN BELLEVILLE OR TRENTON, NO ONE COULD REALLY BELIEVE THAT SIDNEY TOWNSHIP HAS BEEN ACTUALLY DRY. YOU IN FACT EVEN GET SOME ALCOHOLIC BEVERAGES LEGALLY DELIVERED TO SOME PARTS OF THE TOWNSHIP.
The local option law has not stopped the citizens of the Township from legally purchasing all the alcoholic refreshment they wished, whenever they wished.
THE LOCAL OPTION LAW HAS PREVENTED, HOWEVER, THE TOWNSHIP FROM REALIZING FULLY, THE ENTIRE BENEFIT WHICH COULD BE HAD FROM THE TOURIST INDUSTRY. IT HAS ROBBED THE TOWNSHIP OF INCREASED TAX REVENUE AND INCREASED PURCHASING POWER.
The Dutch Mill Inn, which is interested in this vote, paid out last year, some $25,000.00 in wages, mostly to Township residents. It paid out over $30,000.00 in food, which included eggs, chickens, vegetables and other foodstuff grown locally. These sums and others were paid out of money received almost entirely from the travelling public, NOT FROM THE LOCAL AREA.
ON THE 21st. OF APRIL, YOU, AS A RESIDENT OF SIDNEY TOWNSHIP, WILL BE ASKED TO VOTE ON THE QUESTION OF WHETHER YOU ARE IN FAVOR OF PERMITTING LICENSED HOTELS, IN THE TOWNSHIP, TO SERVE ALCOHOLIC REFRESHMENTS WITH MEALS.
Let us understand this clearly. By voting yes to the two questions, licensed hotels in Sidney Township, (Which now forbids the sale of all alcoholic refreshment) will be permitted to sell WITH MEALS and ONLY WITH MEALS such alcoholic beverages as the customer may require, providing he is of legal age.
THERE IS ONLY ONE ESTABLISHMENT IN ENTIRE TOWNSHIP OF SIDNEY WHICH QUALIFIES FOR A LICENCE AS A HOTEL.
IT WILL NOT PERMIT ANY OF THE FOLLOWING:
1. TAVERNS or BEVERAGE ROOMS
2. COCKTAIL BARS or LOUNGES
3. ANY STORE FOR ANY ALCOHOLIC BEVERAGE
BEFORE YOU VOTE
Remember:
1. BOOTLEGGERS ARE MUCH HAPPIER WHEN PEOPLE VOTE DRY.
2. THOSE INTERESTED IN A DRY VOTE, CAN ALWAYS COUNT ON THE WHOLEHEARTED SUPPORT OF THE BOOTLEGGERS.

HORSE SENSE BRIDGE

By SAM GORDON
The Kibitzer

Rules in bridge cannot be as tight as a drum. A beginner is better off assured they are. But an expert player will loosen up a little in his own requirements with some bids.

Take an opening bid of two notrump. Many players call it slight winners. Specifically this means eight of the highest cards in the pack; conditionally, seven highs among which are four aces.

With that meant, both high cards an expert player may start with an opening of two no-trump when holding only six highs. Not that it is correct. Only because it may be a good gamble.

So was it in the deal shown here:

♠9 8 5 3
♥Q 10 6 4
♣K 5 4
WEST	EAST
♠7	♠A K Q J
♥7 9 5 3	♥8 7 2
♦Q 10 9 8	♦7 5 4 2
♣J 10 9 8	♣7 6
SOUTH
♠10 6 4 2
♥A K
♦A K J
♣A Q 3 2

The expert bid two in south opened with a bid of two no-trump. His correct opening was a bid of one club, a harmless bid such a bid promises and lacking something that an opening of two no-trump shows.

Should be severely criticized for opening with two no-trump instead of one club? If he were not an expert the answer is yes. Why? Because such a stretch usually runs into the need of expert play.

As an expert he would have a good excuse for taking a chance. He is capable of taking advantage of almost any opportunity for an extra trick. Or make such an opportunity if it is possible.

Clever players are readers of what each opponent holds. After the first lead or a few tricks they get a mental picture of unseen cards. This is an asset for manufacturing favorable situations.

Also, an opponent is likely to make a mistake. Or misread what his partner may have. All a skillful player needs is just a hint of this and he pounces on it to his own advantage.

Do not get the impression that I approve of such stretching. My claim is that it is a lasting proposition in the long run. But an expert will sometimes make his own odds. And book it, too.

DRIVE-IN THEATRE
SUNDAY MIDNIGHT
"APRIL IN PARIS"

Doris Day, a Broadway chorus cutie, finds herself delegated to represent the American theatre at an international art festival in Paris. It's the result of an inspired blunder by Ray Bolger, a state department underling, who had confused Doris with Ethel Barrymore. Bound for Europe, Doris meets Claude Dauphin, a French entertainment idol who, after being stranded in the U.S., is working his way back home as a waiter. En route, Doris and Ray fall in love, although he is engaged to the daughter of his boss. Doris and Ray quarrel when he refuses to tell the other girl, and Doris teams with Dauphin in a mad whirl of Paris night life which is intended to make Bolger jealous. The scheme works, Ray makes a clean breast to his one-time fiancee and her father, and claims Doris for his own.

"The Bad and the Beautiful"

Walter Pidgeon, a production tycoon, received a long distance call from Kirk Douglas, at one time a top-bracket Hollywood film maker, now down and out in Paris. Douglas has arranged financing for colossal comeback feature, provided he can enlist the services of Director Barry Sullivan, Writer Dick Powell and Star Lana Turner, all of whom he has ruthlessly doublecrossed while pursuing his Hollywood career. Pidgeon summons the trio to his office and asks them to consider Douglas' request. Each, in flashback, outlines his or her experience with Douglas as a result of which they will go to Douglas' aid.

"Corky of Gasoline Alley"

The Walt Wallets, consisting of adopted son Skeezix and their own two children, Corky and Judy, are shown in their Gasoline Alley environment at a crucial moment. Corky brings a new wife home and insists on quitting college and going to work, but wants to get his own job. He will accept no help from Walt or from big brother, Skeezix. He does get a succession of jobs, the last of which is dishwashing in a restaurant. This leads him to acquiring a diner-type lunch-room, financially backed by Skeezix, and for a while it looks like a loss for everyone when a drive-in chain wants the location; but the happy ending makes it around the corner, with the cocky Corky a business success.

Armed Forces Paying More Attention to Spiritual Needs of All Servicemen

OTTAWA (CP) — The armed forces, chiefly concerned with the art of killing, are paying more and more attention to the spiritual needs of servicemen.

This does not mean that there has been any religious upsurge among Canadian sailors, soldiers and airmen but that the services are providing all possible religious facilities.

Chaplains say they find this is a hopeful and encouraging factor in their work that top officers are providing religious leadership as well as support for the work of the chaplain corps.

There are several examples of this.

During Easter week-end, every man in the services will have the opportunity to attend church service, no matter where he is or what his particular faith. Civilian clergymen are asked to help where no padres are available.

SERVICES IN FIELD

In West Germany, 4,500 members of the 1st Canadian infantry brigade now are moving to a training area for tactical exercises. Services will be held in the field for them.

In Korea, Easter messages from religious leaders in Canada are to be broadcast from Good Friday to Easter Monday over Radio Maple Leaf. There will also be special Easter services for members of the 25th Canadian infantry brigade.

Brig. J. V. Allard, brigade commander in Korea, some months ago started a religious training school where soldiers can spend a week. The brigadier is a Roman Catholic. The school is open to men of all faiths.

The "Padre's Hour" now is part of the training syllabus in all army schools. It has remained on the syllabus despite the pressure of other training needs during Canada's defence buildup.

SPIRITUAL VALUES

Why are the forces devoting this effort to religious needs?

Maj. J. P. Goforth, M.C., assistant director of Protestant chaplain services at army headquarters here, says: "The army's top officers realize the importance of spiritual values in the contest with communism. These values make better soldiers."

Maj. Paul J. Dufour of Windsor, Ont., assistant director of Roman Catholic chaplain services, says: "I think a lot of veterans will be glad to get the opportunity to keep practising their faith in the army. But there is every facility."

Chaplains of all faiths say they have not noted any marked increase in religious activity among servicemen. But some add that the religious outlook is more hopeful than during the Second World War.

Padres find there is a greater percentage of church-goers among officers than men. They see this as a hopeful sign in itself because more religious activity — or a breakdown in religion — percolates slowly from top to bottom.

MORE MARRIED MEN

Father Dufour says: "There's a difference in the army today, at least in Canada, compared to the war years. So many men are married and live off the camp. In the family, I think, religion is stronger. These men go to mass in their civilian parishes. That means that these church leaders are missing in camp on Sunday mornings."

Maj. Oxford, born in China of Presbyterian missionary parents and who won his Military Cross at Normandy, says: "The soldier's sense of need has to be awakened. When he realizes he isn't getting everything he wants from television or a ball game, he comes to us. A soldier is responsive to strong leadership . . . The average commanding officer is giving the chaplain every support."

Nurse Wins Award

GUELPH (CP)—Mrs. Lila McGill, Guelph nurse, was awarded damages of $3,852 including $470 for an operation in an action against the City of Kitchener heard in Supreme Court here Wednesday.

Mr. Justice Rene A. Danis found defendants guilty of negligence in connection with a fall suffered by Mrs. McGill in Kitchener auditorium on Dec. 13, 1951, while attending a bingo.

"It seems to me the defendant was more anxious to increase the seating capacity of the auditorium and thereby increase revenue, than to make sure of the safety of the public," said Mr. Justice Danis.

MADOC—On Sunday evening Trinity United Church Mission Band held a special Easter meeting in the schoolroom of the church. A fairly good crowd of parents and interested friends was in attendance.

Marilyn Devolin was in charge of the program and following the singing of an Easter hymn, she called on Mrs. Drinkwalter, their leader, who extended words of welcome and briefly reviewed the work of the Mission Band.

This was followed by the program, Robert Tayler "Call to Worship" by use of the poem "The Palms". Charles Johnston gave the prayer; a trio (vocal) Shirley Fox, Brenda Tayler and Rev. J. Duffin; choral reading, "The Easter Story of the Bible". Junior chorus "Read Your Bible"; Exercise "Easter Resolutions," by six girls. A poem by Lee Brintnell and chorus by the band. A film on India, "Know Your Next Door Neighbor," a visit to Vellore was interesting.

Mrs. C. Howse was pianist for the evening.

Mrs. Empey expressed thanks to the band and its leaders for a splendid program. Mrs. Lane concluded the service with prayer.

Garden Notes

Two Annuals The Florists Favor

By FLORA M. SAVILLE

Florists' shops often feature flowers which would grow well for you in your summer gardens. Two of these are the Schizanthus and the annual Chrysanthemums.

Both of these are easy to grow, and have a really long season of bloom. They come into bloom early, while the plants are still quite small and continue on into the fall. Whether you choose them for bedding or cut flowers they will delight you with their consistent performance.

Now, what more could a part-time gardener wish? Yet, seldom are these two found in our gardens The Schizanthus, also known as butterfly or fringe flowers, looks like a mass of violas on a compact bushy plant. They grow about two feet high and the flowers are an inch or more across. The feathlike leaves are obscured by the mass of flowers, which run through white, pink, crimson and mauve to those veined in color. These also make attractive winter house plants if the seed is sown in pots in the fall.

FAVORITE

Annual Chrysanthemums have long been a bedding favorite with Scotch and English gardeners. The large daisy-like flowers are borne on long stems and the colors range from clear yellow to crimson with many banded in color. The plants are 18 inches high and the leaves deeply cut. The new hybrid Golden Crown are outstanding butter yellow blooms on 36 inch plants, with long stems for cutting. The foliage is silvery-green and the blooms three to four inches across. The flowers make attractive arrangements and last well.

BLOOM EARLY AND LONG

If you are looking for other annuals to fill your cutting garden or beds, look for plants which come into bloom early and have a long season of bloom. They should not only supply color to the garden but they should supply cutting material for the home. For those who like the spicy scent of carnations there is the Dianthus pink. Chaubaud's strain is especially fine.

An old favorite which is coming back into favor is the balsam. The blooms are like small roses along the stem. The new gardenia flowered types have blooms clustered at the top of the stem. Blooms are white, pink, rose several shades of red and mixed. They are drought resistant.

COLORFUL BACKGROUND

Conflowers either in solid or mixed colors provide a colorful background plant. The new double hybrids have extra-large flowers and long stems on three foot plants.

Calliopsis, or Coreopsis is another quick bloomer. The hairlike stems hold up a mass of daisy-long-lasting blooms which may be spotted, or blotched in mahogany, crimson, orange or yellow. There are tall types two feet high, and dwarf types suitable for edging, or rock gardens nine to 12 inches high.

Annual foliage plants can fill many roles in the garden too. where a high screen, or background plant is needed choose the Castor Oil plant, or Ricinus. Seeds sown in May will reach a height of 12 to 14 feet in by July. The immense leaves are two to four feet across and are a colorful blend of copper, bronze, red and green. Giant Superb is a mixture of various types of Ricinus.

Kochia, or burning bush, also called annual cypress makes a trim hedge plant. It is a light green though the summer and turns bright carmine in the fall. It is also suitable to edge walks and as a background, or foundation planting.

Copper Orach has attractive tangy crimson foliage and may be used as a bedding plant, as a border, or in groups in the perennial border. It grows quickly and attains a height of three and a half feet.

Russians Bundle Fugitive's Wife Aboard Plane

Will Get Another Chance To Refuse to Return Home

SYDNEY, Australia (Reuters)—Amid hysterical scenes at the airport, blonde Mrs. Evdokya Petrov, wife of a fugitive Russian diplomat, was bundled aboard an aircraft here today and began her journey back to Moscow.

Shouting crowds milled around the weeping Mrs. Petrov trying to separate her from her Australian escort. Some of them declared that she protested: "I don't want to go. Save me."

The Russian officials flatly refused Vladimir Petrov's request to talk to his 25-year-old wife before her departure.

Mrs. Petrov was brought here by air from the Soviet Embassy in Canberra. She has not seen her husband since April 3, when he sought asylum from the Australian government, taking with him documents which will be the basis for an official investigation into Soviet espionage.

WOMEN CRY

Many of the crowd who collected at the airport to see her leave were women. Some of them settled in this country. Women cried hysterically "don't let her go!" while the men aimed blows at the Russian escorting the weeping Mrs. Petrov.

She is flying back to Moscow by way of Singapore and Zurich.

In Canberra, Prime Minister Robert Menzies announced that if there is any doubt about the wishes of Mrs. Petrov "the government proposes to give her further opportunity at Darwin and other places to refuse to return to Russia."

The 29-year-old woman, whose diplomat husband took political asylum in Australia, was accompanied on the flight to Overseas Airways plane by two Soviet couriers who arrived from Moscow to escort her back to Moscow. F. V. Khlistin, embassy second secretary, was also among the Soviet officer with her.

They had just completed a 300-mile dash by road from Canberra to catch the plane at Sydney airport.

The Petrovs have not seen each other since April 3 when Vladimir deserted his job as third secretary and secret police representative at the embassy and was granted political asylum in Australia.

The day after Prime Minister Robert G. Menzies announced Petrov's desertion last Tuesday, his 24-year-old wife told a press conference at the Soviet embassy that he had been kidnapped.

Menzies said her charge was "fantastic nonsense." She said she escaped when would not, as Petrov had done, bring husband's or documents with him from the embassy.

Woman Asphyxiated

TORONTO (CP— — A gas jet which was believed to have blown out accidentally was found early today and left her sister in critical condition.

Mrs. Ann Toye, 76, died shortly after firemen arrived at the house where the women were found lying unconscious. Her sister, Edith, 82, was overcome while lying in bed.

Believed Girl Found in Brook Was Strangled

Claim Body in Water Two to Three Weeks

SYDNEY, N. S. (CP)—Police have identified the body of a young woman found floating in a brook on Sydney's outskirts as that of Mrs. Florence Deverne, 25, of Glace Bay, N. S.

Relatives who identified the body today said they had not seen her since November. Relatives said she and her husband had been estranged for some time.

An autopsy performed Saturday disclosed the woman had been strangled. Finger marks were found on the throat of the dead woman. Dr. Norman D. Muggah of Sydney has called an inquest for May 3.

RCMP officers described the girl as about 5 years old, five feet two inches tall and weighing about 130 pounds. She had reddish brown hair and her eyes are thought to be brown.

She was fully clothed, wearing a green plaid skirt and a sheer sleeveless blouse with a black ribbon tie. Dr. Beverly Beaton, who found a blue shortie coat with red lining.

'LOVER'S LANE' NEARBY

The body, believed to have been in the water two or three weeks, was found by an eight-year-old boy out fishing Friday morning. It was found in a small brook.

The brook runs alongside a secluded "lovers' lane," a roadway leading into the wooded hill country behind the lumber. Debris scattered along the road indicates it is a much-used parking place.

Investigating officers checked reports that a woman was seen in the Sydney area over the weekend, but to no avail. They also checked reports that both sides of the brook without turning up any clues.

Miserable Weather Cuts Down Many Easter Fashion Parades

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Much Easter finery looked a little wilted after fashion parades in the water over the week-end, as cool rain and even snow.

In some cases, however, the traditional Easter parade blossomed under sunny skies. Hundreds dressed in their Easter spring outfits and thousands jammed boardwalks and city streets.

Few parades were unspoiled by wind or bad weather and some have shut the week-end's drop through that crowded churches for prayer and special services for the anniversary of Christ's resurrection from the grave. Morning and evening services were held.

In the Jewish church, the second seder night of Passover feast will be held in remembrance of the escape of the Israelites from bondage in Europe.

TOUGH IN WEST

In the areas of Alberta and Saskatchewan, sunny skies brought the hatless and coatless. But rain, hail and snow soon forced them to seek shelter.

In Winnipeg, gusts of winds up to 36 miles an hour kept paraders holding their hats.

Toronto's sunny merchants put on a successful drive to shift the city's big parade of fashion from its traditional spot on the lakefront boardwalk at Sunnyside to Yonge street, further north.

CROWDS CREATE JAM

While large crowds still paraded in the traditional spot, the merchants got 60 models to parade in their Easter fashions in cars driven around Bloor and Yonge streets and many of the most stylishly dressed women in the city were compiled the traffic jam in the area was worse than it had ever been on former easter Sundays on the lakefront.

Closely allies at Ottawa and Montreal made the parades colorful affairs. In Ottawa, Parade at Saint John, N.B., discouraged by sudden snow.

At Halifax, clearing skies and warm sunshine in the afternoon brought forth many of the fashions. Many visited the bier of the late Premier Angus L. Macdonald in Province House.

Eisenhower and Dulles Will Confer on Indo-China Problem

By MARVIN L. ARROWSMITH

AUGUSTA, Ga. (AP) — President Eisenhower and State Secretary Dulles confer here today on U.S. efforts to bolster Indo-China against the Reds and save the rest of Southeast Asia from communism.

The president sent his private plane, the Columbine, to Washington for Dulles and the cabinet officer's first hand report on his London and Paris negotiations last week in search of a Pacific defence alliance.

Dulles was scheduled to go immediately to the president's Easter holiday headquarters at the Augusta National Golf Club. They planned to talk at lunch and afterwards. Dulles was to return by jet back to Washington in the late afternoon.

One aspect of the Eisenhower-Dulles conference may be the controversy touched off by a statement by Vice-President Richard Nixon's state department critic in reply to a hypothetical question, that U. S. troops might have to be sent into Indo-China if the French withdraw. Nixon praised his answer, however, but he doesn't think the French will pull out.

IDENTITY LEARNED

Nixon spoke at a meeting of the American Society of Newspaper Editors and stipulated at the time that his remarks were not to be attributed to him. But the identity of the speaker later leaked out.

Eisenhower's headquarters has declined comment on whether Nixon's statement represents administration policy. James C. Hagerty, presidential press secretary, refused comment specifically Sunday night on a demand by Senator Albert Gore (Dem., Tenn.) that Eisenhower make his policies clear with respect to Indo-China.

The statement department, in a statement Saturday night is prompted by Nixon's remarks, said it is "highly unlikely" that U.S. forces will have to replace French forces in Indo-China. But the department backed up the vice-president's stand that Southeast Asia must be saved.

Nasser Again Ousts Naguib As Egypt's Political Boss

By ROBERT HEWETT

CAIRO, Egypt (AP) — Lt.-Col. Gamal Abdel Nasser once more was Egypt's boss today. He title as well as fact, and Maj.-Gen. Mohamed Naguib was relegated to figurehead status.

In the latest lightning shift in the turbulent Egyptian political picture, the young army officers of the ruling Revolutionary Council early stripped the 52-year-old premiership and military governorship from Naguib to Nasser.

The 35-year-old Naguib, who recently lost out in his fight to retain military governorship of Egypt, swore in a new cabinet. The first cabinet act, Maj.-Gen. Mohamed Naguib was relegated to figurehead status.

From the Suez canal zone came reports of new clashes between Britons and Egyptians. A British army spokesman said a guard on the Suez Canal was killed in a holdup at Port Said. Three Egyptians stole the truck and kidnapped the driver. He returned about midnight with a minor neck injury.

A report from Port Said, British army in the customs zone fired on an Egyptian police station and car, from a barge, the spokesman said. Later a body, believed to be that of the killed, was found floating in the water.

Gloomy Canadian Delegation Will Leave for Geneva

Hold Little Hope Of Making Progress

By DAVE McINTOSH
Canadian Press Staff Writer

OTTAWA (CP)—A gloomy Canadian delegation leaves today for the Geneva conference on Korea and Indo-China.

External Affairs Minister Pearson and his aides held out meagre hope that Communist China and Russia would even approach the United Nations aim — a united Korea where free elections could be held.

Canada, the nation which supplied the fourth largest armed force fighting in Korea, after the United States and Britain, will hold low-level talks in Geneva, but it is practically certain neither will be used.

One cause is Canadian government recognition of China. The other is Canada's opposition to Chinese membership in the UN. Canada would likely place these views before the Reds and has pulled out of Korea and Indo-China and is in no mood to remote.

Both Mr. Pearson and Prime Minister St. Laurent have said the government is not now considering recognition of Communist China but that it may be considered change; that is, if the Reds show they are prepared to live with the West and back it up with deeds.

OPPOSES RECOGNITION

Further, Canada is said to be stubbornly opposed to recognition and has said it will not shrink from using its veto in the UN Security Council to keep Communist China out of the UN. The U.S. will be with Canada on the West at Geneva.

The conference starts a week from today. The Canadian delegation, leaving by air from Montreal, plans to stay six weeks and it is unlikely it will participate in that part of the conference dealing with Indo-China. Canada has not been asked to make any commitment in Indo-China and is not among the 10 nations which are to consider formation of a Southeast Asia pact similar to the North Atlantic Treaty Organization.

Before leaving, Mr. Pearson will attend a meeting of NATO foreign ministers at Paris April 23. There the West will discuss further its policy on the Korean-Indo-China issue.

After Mr. Pearson, top man on the delegation is Chester Rouning, now Canadian ambassador to Egypt but an old China hand who speaks Chinese fluently. John W. Holmes, assistant under-secretary in the external affairs department, is the Russian expert. He served in Moscow. The remaining two members are W. H. Barraclough of the department's Far Eastern division who was secretary to Mr. Pearson at the time of the Korean war, and J. E. de Lobbiniere of Mr. Pearson's office.

Toronto Hunter Being Sought

HUNTSVILLE (CP— — Search parties, hampered by flood waters and deep snow, today were continuing a three-day search today for Harry Pickergill, 70, who failed to return from a hunting trip 30 miles north of here.

Jack Lanlacs and two companions, Louis Mitalyi and Heimuel Nurmer, also of Huntsville, began hunting Good Friday in the Lake Vernon area.

His two companions reported Lanlacs missing when he did not return to a pre-arranged meeting place.

Russia, Communist China Would Be Full Members

By DON DALLAS

LONDON (Reuters)—The Communists will try to seize the initiative at the Geneva conference on the Far East, diplomatic observers here believe.

They may try to counter the proposed Southeast Asia regional defence pact by proposing an Asian security pact which would include Russia and Communist China as full members.

In general Communist tactics at the Geneva meeting which opens April 26 are expected to be the same as those employed at the recent Communist policy in Europe.

At the Berlin conference of the Big Four foreign ministers early this year, Russia proposed a European security pact in which she would take part.

She has since indicated that the United States could also participate. The Soviet government has also shown interest in a conference joining the North Atlantic Treaty Organization, so as to prevent the nature of this pact from "aggressive" to "defensive."

DIVERT ATTENTION

Thus, Soviet policy in Europe has aimed to divert attention from Communist or possible aggressor by contending that Germany represents the real danger to peace. This argument is calculated to appeal especially to France, which sees in proposal for Asia would be a "collective security" pact in which Germany would be excluded as full partners with the Western powers and the Soviet Union.

Communist China is in no such circumstances. It would probably be hailed with a call for an immediate cessation of hostilities and promulgation of a final settlement in Korea. It would probably also seek admittance of China to United Nations membership.

The Communists would argue that the pact would be directed against "the revival of Japanese militarism," Japan having been occupied by the Western coalition in the Second World War, though not Russia only during the last few months.

While Washington could be counted on to reject such a proposal, some French officials, sick of the fighting in Indo-China, might be tempted to look twice at it.

Three Killed As Car Plunges Into N.S. River

TRURO, N. S. (CP) — Two women and a man were killed today when an automobile plunged into the Shubenacadie River from here.

The dead: Ernest T. C. Otto, 24, of Dartmouth, N. S., and Shirley Ann MacKean and Ethel Murphy, both of Halifax.

The car failed to make a sharp turn at the Shubenacadie bridge and crashed through a wooden guard rail, landing upside down in deep water.

Police recovered the bodies.

NO CANUCKS FOR INDO-CHINA

VICTORIA (CP) — Secretary of State Pickergill said Saturday he sees "no possibility" of Canadian troops fighting in Indo-China, Mr. Pickergill spoke to newspaper men after he arrived in Victoria with Mrs. Pickergill and their four children on a visit.

Believe Reds Will Propose Asian Security Pact

Reds in Malaya Plan to Step Up Terrorist Raids

SINGAPORE (Reuters) — Malaya's Communist leaders have decided to step up terrorist attacks in the British colony, a British army spokesman said here today.

The decision was made at top level meetings at which the Communist guerrilla commanders overruled civilian party leaders who argued that the six-year-old war should be slowed down to win grass-roots support, an intelligence officer, Capt. Ian Lasse, told reporters.

Meantime at Penang, pan-Malayan Labor party leader Ineha Sopiee charged that Britain was out to his group by British Colonial Secretary Oliver Lyttelton. He said Lyttelton's recent visit here was part of the Malayan independence movement's campaign to discredit the demands for reforms.

Lyttelton has refused to talk to leaders of the outlawed United Malaya Nationalist Organization and the Malayan Chinese Association.

Many U.S. Ports Will Have To Be Expanded

LONDON (AP)—The Board of Trade Journal, a British government publication, said Sunday other U.S. Great Lakes ports will have to expand and improve before the benefit can be had from the St. Lawrence seaway, which would bring much more Atlantic trade to the Lake ports.

In a featured article on Chicago's progress as an ocean port, The Journal contrasted the planned 27-foot deep seaway channel with the 21-foot depths on the Great Lakes, and said only three have a depth of 26 feet. They are Presque Isl., Mich.; Two Harbors, Minn., and Calumet Harbor, Ill.

Chicago has only 21 feet, and soon Milwaukee, Muskegon, Michigan, Oswego, N.Y., and Sandusky, O.

"Chicago will be obliged not only to deepen its harbor but also to improve its approaches and terminal facilities . . . some work has been done on the harbor mouth and by Chicago is more restricted in its choice of locations for harbor and other facilities because of the Great Lakes ports . . . only three years ago, now considered one of only partially developed, are available."

Queen Receives Bejewelled Chiefs On Throne Flanked by Elephant Tusks

By GOMER JONES

KANDY, Ceylon (Reuters)—Queen Elizabeth sat on a carved throne flanked by mounted elephant tusks today to receive the bejewelled chiefs of this ancient city.

The chiefs paid homage to the Queen and her husband, the Duke of Edinburgh, in the ancient audience hall of the kings of Kandy, who ruled Ceylon up to the 19th century.

In contrast with the gem-studded splendor of the chiefs' dress, the Queen wore bare-cheeted and wore a simple, homespun splashed with scarlet trimmings.

Fifty-two of the 55 chiefs in the five provinces of Kandy were drawn up before the royal couple. With them were 30 members of the chief hierarchy of the Buddhist priests in their saffron and yellow robes. Their heads were shaven and they carried ceremonial fans.

The ornate dress of the chiefs followed various patterns but was based on the theme of gold-ornamented shoes called jutas and linen trousers drilled in the ankles, covered by up to seven layers of cloth—each more elaborate than the last.

A cold-studded, jewelled belt completed the outfit, the symbol of their authority.

The Queen and the duke were greeted by beating drums and dancers as they approached the throne. Then the Queen's herald was called to British.

Reading the address of welcome, the Queen said she hoped Ceylon, with its ancient civilization and traditions of good government, would use its freedom to ensuring the happiness and well-being of all her people.

She wore a full-skirted dress of yellow silk with a small hat of yellow mimosa blossom and green leaves. The duke wore the white uniform of an admiral of the fleet.

Robert Cavell, Father of Two, Seeks Boy Friend She Cannot See Through

ROME (Reuters)—Miss Roberta Cavell—formerly Mr. Robert Cavell, father of two children—left Rome for London Saturday to face life in England as a "free" woman.

Miss Cavell, a wartime flight pilot and racing car driver, had spent six weeks in Italy for a plastic surgery on her face after a sex-change from man to woman. She has undergone an operation at Rome station.

Miss Cavell, tall, big-boned, with a slim waist, wide hips and a 36 inch bust, told reporters:

"I have one definite aim—to continue to collaborate with the doctors in research on the problems my case has revealed.

"One thing that is certain is that I shall not make my public appearances as a boxer. My first appearance as a freak will be in a large bottle of formalin in the laboratories of the Royal College of Surgeons."

Speaking in a husky voice, she said she would like to get married, "but the problem is that I can see through the average boy friend a mile off."

Her friends added that among hundreds of letters she has received since her change of sex was announced, "there has never been a nasty one."

Eighteen months ago I cut loose completely from everyone I knew and began to live entirely as a woman.

"I don't think I was very pleasant as a man. I hope I'm nicer as a woman."

Devaluation Of Mexican Peso Is Announced

MEXICO CITY (AP)—The government announced Saturday a 30.8-per-cent devaluation of the peso, effective today to strengthen the economic welfare of the nation's home and abroad.

Treasury Minister Antonio Carrille Flores said the peso will be devalued from 8.65 to 12.50 to the dollar.

The devaluation took Mexico completely by surprise. Even bank officials, notified of the original announcement which came from the International Monetary Fund in Washington, said they had had no inkling of it.

The change will mean a sharp increase in prices for most items and not much immediate change in salaries. As a result, it could touch off a wave of strikes and political unrest such as occurred when the last devaluation was announced in 1940.

Carrille Flores told reporters the Mexican government has a substantial dollar reserve—$201,000,000 and that the devaluation step was taken to cut down imports of non essential items, encourage exports which have been lagging, discourage flow of Mexican capital abroad while at the same time encouraging investments in Mexico, and make tourist dollars mean more to Mexico.

OTTAWA (CP) — Mexico's devaluation of the peso likely will make it harder for Canadian exporters to sell to that country.

A trade department official, commenting on a Mexico City report that the Mexican government during the week-end devalued the peso from 8.65 to 12.50 to the dollar said the move probably would hit hardest at items imported from Canada which are considered by Mexican authorities to be non-essential.

Chief of Staff Says Russia Has Big Air Force

WASHINGTON (AP) — Gen. Hoyt S. Vandenberg, U.S. Air Force chief of staff, has advised Congress that Russia is expanding and improving an air force against which it is virtually impossible to build an adequate defense.

But at the same time he declared that the U.S. Air Force has the power to deliver nuclear weapons on short notice to any place, at any time, offensive weapons stronger than Russia's "by a good deal."

At the same time, indication was given in testimony on the air force budget that the U.S. wishes to withdraw its fighting units from Korea during the year starting July 1, providing a firm peace treaty is obtained.

SUNRISE SERVICE

Turning took issue with what he called "recent statements on the air" that the air force's long-range striking arm, the strategic air command, is not strong enough to do its job.

"The strategic air command is the best striking force ever developed in the world," Twining said.

Twining, Air Force Secretary Talbott and other military leaders appeared before the House of Representatives Appropriations Committee in mid-February. Their testimony was made public Saturday.

(Ma)-Gen. Kenneth B. Hobson, director of manpower for the air force, touched on Korean withdrawal when explaining the manpower program.

Air force officials said there is no intention of stripping Korea of combat units while nothing more than an armistice is in effect. Such a program would not be possible until a firm and durable peace treaty is reached, they declared.

Sunrise Service By Y.P.U. Held On Mount Pelion

TRENTON (Special)—"Victory Through Christ" was the theme of Rev. G. J. Mlnielly's Easter Sunday message to more than 600 followers of the Protestant faith attending the morning service at King Street United Church yesterday.

"Christ's resurrection," he said, "is a proof that we are the redeemed children of God."

He warned against going into the tomb that Christ came out of. He called on his listeners to engage in a Holy war against sin. "Sin we are not alone. God is with us. Jesus faced temptation and conquered sin because he trusted God."

Mr. Minielly explained why some people do not trust God. "Because some people think they can depend on their own strength. They think they have to grow up so much. They are not aware that the Christian life is the holiest life."

Mr. Minielly described Lenten time as a time of deep spiritual awakening, that if we are interested in our thinking we are spiritually weakened. He figured that it was the true meaning of Lent rather than a period, to be observed as a time to repent for the sins of the year to give up some habit a person had wanted to. Rev. Minielly Newsbeat also advised his listeners to follow through on their good resolutions.

Mr. Minielly stresses decay and ruin for both the individual and society if people continue to live by being disloyal, if the breweries continue to encourage drinking by subsidizing sports and the sale of obscene books are continued. He admonished that people may survive the future by accepting Jesus Christ as their Saviour.

Early in the morning Mr. Minielly followed by 22 members of the church's Young People's Union climbed to the top of Mount Pelion for sunrise prayers.

To the beauty of the sun streaming up over Quinte Bay this stalwart group kneeled and worshipped with heads bowed. Leaders in prayer were. Murray Workman, Marjorie Parks, Dorothy Calns and Beth Minielly.

After this unique service the group returned to the parlors of King Street United Church for a buffet supper and Easter sunrise breakfast.

Sunday school attendance was reported by all other Trenton places of worship.

Canada May Be Asked to Curb U. S. Shipments

WASHINGTON (CP) — The United States likely will ask Canada shortly to curb shipments of lead and zinc into the American market.

The request may take the form of a suggestion that Canada volunteer to reduce exports. The U.S. domestic industry, faced with a declining market, has appealed for some form of tariff protection.

The industry's appeal, together with a request by Congress for a complete survey of the domestic situation, has been given consideration by the U.S. tariff commission.

The six-man commission likely will complete its survey today and send it to a congressional committee.

CANADIAN VIEWPOINT

Some knowledge of the U.S. point of view is understood to have already reached Canadian officials and may have prompted the appeal made by Canada's Public Works Minister Winters here Saturday.

Speaking before the American Society of Newspaper Editors, Winters urged the U.S. to buy its raw resources from the cheapest supplier — Canada, he said, does not want to be treated as a marginal supplier, to find the US. doors open in war but closed in peace.

And in a time of emergency, he added, "all the high-cost mines of the U.S. taken together cannot possibly meet strategic raw material requirements."

WOMAN BADLY HURT

42 Persons Die Violently In Easter Week-End

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

At least 42 persons met violent death in Canada over the long Easter week-end. Twenty-six died in traffic accidents, five were drowned and police said four others' sons were slain.

The Canadian Press survey showed that Quebec province led the toll with 15 dead. Ontario had 11 deaths, Nova Scotia five, British Columbia four, Manitoba three, Alberta two and Newfoundland and New Brunswick one each.

Roads made slippery by rains in many parts of the country led to many traffic accidents. Quebec alone counted 12 traffic fatalities and Ontario five.

Four persons died in one Quebec accident alone. The Gravelly family were returning to their home from Easter mass when their car collided with a train in the village of Val David. Killed were Rolland Gravelle, 42, his wife, 36, their daughter, Cecile, 13 and son, Andre 10.

Three others died in another Quebec accident Thursday night when their car hit a bus near Hudson.

BOY IS SHOT

Thirteen-year-old Robert A. Heyburn, was fatally shot at Adolphustown, near Kingston, Saturday night by a 14-year-old pal. Neville Taylor, with whom he was playing cowboy shooting. Taylor boy said he was playing with his father's revolver.

Drowning victims were an 11-year-old boy in a Quebec river when a motorboat overturned; a woman, 32, who stumbled into a small fish pond near Barrie, Ont.; a five-year-old Nova Scotia boy who fell into a tub and in a half-foot of water when a stump overturned on top of him; a British seaman who fell off a ship in St. John's, Nfld., harbor; and a fourteen-year-old boy in Lake of Manitoba river while at play.

There were three victims of accidental shooting. In Portage la Prairie, Man., a boy, 13, died when a gun he was examining in the basement of his home discharged; at Owen Sound, Ont., William George Johnson, who had been hunting groundhogs, died Sunday when his gun went off as he was climbing into his truck; and in Quebec a 16-year-old hunter died when a shotgun discharged into his stomach.

In Vancouver, James Iverson, 26, a truck driver, died of head injuries. Police said he was struck by the butt of an air rifle while he was trying to settle a party. Fred Buttin, 43, was charged with murder.

In Toronto, Harold Shaw, 36, died of a knife wound in the abdomen. Knife police charged William Lunness, 54, a cattle buyer, with murder.

Edmonton Man Wounds Woman, Then Himself

EDMONTON (CP)—Two policemen are holding wounded Joseph Georgy, 45, in hospital today here following a shooting fracas Saturday night in which a 41-year-old woman was shot three times.

Mrs. Nita Sculthorpe's condition is described as critical by hospital officials who give her a 50-50 chance of survival. She was shot in the chest, abdomen and right arm with a .22 calibre rifle.

Police say Georgy entered the woman's home carrying the rifle. Sculthorpe, a former boarder, a basement apartment, and "without warning" put the gun to her chest and fired three times.

Georgy was said to have then turned in lane several blocks away where he shot himself in the chest. He is in good condition in hospital.

Police said Mrs. Sculthorpe was not living with her husband. They added that Georgy had been keeping company with her but she had told him she wanted nothing more to do with him.

U.N. Chief Marks His First Anniversary

Marking his first anniversary "on the job" in New York, Dag Hammarskjold, secretary general of the United Nations, told a U.S. National Press club luncheon audience in Washington that the hydrogen bomb has made a "permanently peaceful world" possible for the first time in history. "If," he continued, "the H-bomb leads the governments and the peoples to abandon forever the course of total war we have been following in recent decades, that would be a result for which history would forever honor the scientists who found the secret, and the rest of us who had made enough to see the point."—Central Press Canadian.

EASTER DRESSES SLASHED

NEW YORK (AP) — About 12 young women, parading on Fifth avenue in their Easter finery Sunday, had their dresses slashed from behind with a razor blade. Police arrested Joaquin Gonzales, 27, for questioning. He denied wielding the razor but told police "I have no use for women—they cheat and they lie."

Associated Press Widens Coverage

NEW YORK (AP) — The Associated Press produced during the last year "the most ambitious series of enterprise stories in AP history" in an ever broadening effort "to meet the news," the board of directors said today.

The board, noting that the AP now serves a record 6,791 newspaper, radio and television members and subscribers throughout the world, said in its annual report:

"From an organization waiting for the news to happen, the AP, broadening out carefully over a period of years, now goes to meet the news—wherever it may be; then goes behind and beyond it for greatest possible clarity, balance and understanding."

The report was read at the annual business meeting of members of The Associated Press, worldwide news-gathering co-operative. The board of directors said "nothing is more significant in the increasing value and usefulness of the service" than stories that explain, interpret and background the news.

Sex-Changing Operation Done In Illegal Way

COPENHAGEN (AP) — Copenhagen police say they are investigating to determine whether charges should be brought against the Danish doctor who performed an operation last year that initialed the transformation of an American ex-soldier into a woman.

The American, formerly Charles Charlotte McLeod, 23, arrived in New York Saturday after a year's treatment by Danish doctors.

A police spokesman said Charlotte was questioned by police before she left here. She had told newspaper men in Denmark that she had the initial operation performed by a quack on a kitchen table.

The police spokesman said that doctors who operated on the young American has been found and that although the operation was illegal no charges have been brought thus far.

"Actually," the police spokesman said, "it is doubtful if the doctor will be brought to court. Danish lawmakers have evidently not envisaged that this kind of operation would ever be performed illegally, and the maximum punishment could be no more than a fine."

TELEPHONE PHONIES

The modern telephone was born of inspiration, developed by genius, perfected by skill, perseverance and art, and is maintained as a communications marvel with devotion and pride.

Very little wrong with it is the fellow at the other end of the line.

Perhaps no other great invention has ever been so misused as the telephone. Mechanically it is unsurpassed, with the possible exception of television which has the same principles. And yet this gem that can command more wonders than Aladdin ever knew, is hardly ever used in the proper manner.

Everyone is familiar with the abuses others wreak on the telephone. Mumblers, whisperers, shouters abound in legion. Indeed, the fellow, aside from oneself, who knows how to use the telephone properly, is a pretty scarce article. It is doubtful whether one in ten has had a telephone conversation in which that is as pleasant as the one which you and I carry on all the time with all callers. It is this imbalance of courtesy on the telephone that provokes even the mildest of us almost every day.

The telephone is such a simple thing to use that this constant discourtesy looms as one of the nation's most persistent bad habits. And there seems to be little or no attempt at improvement. It is a shame.

The telephone has been developed to the point where it is almost mechanically infallible. The modern phone has combined the transmitter and receiver into a single, easy-to-grasp holder in a form that practically guarantees that when the earpiece is in position the mouthpiece will be in the mouth. Alas, clever people have befoiled the inventors because we are sure some of the people we talk with hold the speaker behind their backs, or over their heads.

The very perfection of the piece seems to frighten certain timid souls we know who prefer to talk over or under the speaker. We know that this is because all we hear at our end is a series of sighs or grunts that fade away into a gentle hiss. Certain others prefer what might be described as "the reverent whisper" method in which all their message is short gasps.

This conversation comes out at our end like the voice of one running away into a fog. The strain of trying to catch their last words sometimes has us nearly across the desk trying to get the receiver closer to our ear.

Of course, none of this is necessary. All that is needed is the ingredient of courtesy. Courtesy in the telephone sense is amazing what an improvement it makes to the party with ability to hear at the other end of the line, but after all the telephone has been designed to be used in that fashion. Any other technique is bound to diminish the efficiency of the telephone.

It is doubtful, however, that even such a simple correction in the bad habits of telephone users will be taken to heart. What's that? You don't think so? Oh, you do think so? You're not sure?

For goodness sakes, man, speak—normally that is, and straight ahead into that little speaker.

BUT DO WE NEED TO BE WARNED?

Dr. Albert Schweitzer has voiced a plea that individual people "speak out" about the danger in which the world is placed by the hydrogen bomb.

"If they all raised their voices, each one of them feeling himself impelled to tell the terrible truth, they would be listened to, for then humanity would understand that the issues were grave."

So says the world-famed medical missionary and scholar. If it were wrong he would needed, such a plan as he proposes would seem most likely to provide it. And if it were urging to speak the scientists required, then Dr. Schweitzer, as a scientist in the field of medicine, would be among the men to whom they would be most likely to listen.

Unfortunately, however, there is little reason to believe that the world does not recognize its danger.

What makes the peoples of the world lethargic, what makes them resigned, is not the magnitude of the peril nor failure to recognize the imminence, but rather this very recognition of this dire danger.

The common man may raise his voice lustily against injustices in his home community, in his province or in his land, even against perils to the peace of the world. But time has taught him the sad lesson that his protests, while they may not be entirely lacking in effectiveness, are powerless to cope with success. He does not expect any easy victory over the terror of the hydrogen bomb—and he fears that here is one crusade in which eventual victory cannot be won after temporary defeats.

If he cannot persuade his town council to erase some iniquity in assessments, if he fails to have his nation eliminate trade discrimination, if his past efforts to arouse his fellow-man to the evils of war have failed—what chance has he today to defuse the hydrogen bomb?

He thinks he has no chance—and so he waits for the day when he is torn apart instantaneously, or fried by radiation, or wasted by the slow dying of the life-giving qualities of his blood.

All men, always, have lived under the sentence of death. The sentence has not changed. But the date and the method of execution may have been. The future holds that secret, as if has always held it, for all men.

HONOR

Nothing matters only tak:
That the gift you made was fair.

Goals of glory you may miss,
Honors you may fail to wear,
But if you have done your best,
You have met the real test.

Not in victory alone
Is the worth of mortal told.
God has never made it known
That he sent us here for gold.
We must dare for what is right,
But we need not win the fight.

Nothing matters save that we Shall not sell our souls for gain;
Shall not, for the victory,
On our honor place a stain.
Better is it not to win
Than to triumph, black with sin.

Take the failure if you must,
Think no more about the prize.
If your battle has been just
You have conquered in His eyes.
You shall rest in peace at night
If you've made an honest fight.

OFF THE RECORD

"I don't care if you are my husband . . . some around to the back door!"

LOOKING BACKWARDS

GLEANINGS FROM OUR FYLES OF BYGONE YEARS

20 YEARS AGO

APRIL 19, 1934.

David Ernest Reid, one of the well-known and influential residents of Hastings County and a native of West Huntingdon township, where he was born 81 years ago, died early Sunday morning the 15th. inst. at his home in Rochester, N.Y., where he had resided for about 35 years. He was internationally known as the inventor of non-inflammable motion picture film and was regarded as one of the leading figures in the field of pharmacology in Canada and the United States. At the time of his death he was head of the staff of chemists of the Eastman Kodak Company in Rochester. The late Mr. Reid was a son of Mr. and Mrs. John Reid of West Huntingdon. He attended the country school and later graduated from Stirling High School. Eventually he graduated with honors from Toronto University as a chemist; his apprenticeship being served in a Toronto drug store. Immediately he went to Rochester, N.Y., where he founded a company of manufacturing chemists devoted principally to the manufacture of flowing plastics. Mrs. George Eastman, president of the Eastman Kodak Company, was attracted by the young chemist's skill in the school of pharmacy and indicted him to enter the chemistry department of the Kodak company. Mr. Reid, on taking this position, was commissioned to experiment in search of the long sought for method of producing a non-inflammable film. After months of patient work he finally succeeded. On the morning of the conclusion of the experiments which led to the new discovery, Dr. Reid, as he became commonly known, was agreed by surprise to find in his morning mail a cheque in the sum of $10,000 from Mr. Eastman as a bonus for his excellent work in creating the film for the trade. He was then retained as head of the chemical department of the Kodak Company. He is survived by his wife and two sons, James and David, both at home, also by two brothers, Morley Reid of Shanghai, China, and Armour Reid of Belleville. Mr. Reid frequently visited the scenes of his boyhood days in West Huntingdon. He was a personal friend of Mr. J. Owen Herity of this city.

THE PACKSACK

By GREGORY CLARK

Our familiar waitress told the four of us at lunch what a wonderful kind man the restaurant owner was.

Another waitress was slowly going crazy with trouble at home: a resident mother-in-law, a drunkard husband and a ten year old boy who was already on the books of the Juvenile Court. He ended the restaurant owner did? What a great many employers would do. He sympathized. He went and straightened the whole situation out. Usually a bust fires a girl who can't pay attention to her work because of trouble at home.

The owner brings a cup of coffee over and sits with us after we have eaten, for a few minutes. We congratulated him on the goodwill he apparently had established with his help. We referred to what Jessica had told us.

"Aw, that!" said our friend, "That isn't good will, that's good business. I don't want my employees bringing their troubles to work. You would be surprised how many man hours and woman hours are wasted every day in this city in brooding over private worries. Clerks in stores, guys sitting at desks apparently intent on their ledgers, salesmen going from office to office on their calls: all wasting their employers' time mooning over personal difficulties. I'm not a charity worker particularly how many employers take time off and even spend a little money to straighten out the private lives of their employees. That is, of course, if the employee is any good. There are some people who think they're a perfect right to bring their private woes to work with them. They're the ones who are most indignant if an employer enquires into their private affairs.

"In the case of this girl I helped, she's one of the best workers I ever had, and I'd hate to lose her. I noticed she was getting careless and I was scared to be somewhere else all the time. So I had a word with her. She told me the setup at home. I called that night and visited them. I told them, the husband, the mother-in-law and the little boy, just exactly what they were stealing a good waitress from me. . .

I spoke only for myself. To self-ish people, it was the perfect approach. They were angry at first. But when I left they knew that I was too distracted to work for me, and I would probably be too distracted to work for anybody, they could do it. The mother-in-law came to live with a daughter: the husband is much improved in temper: and the small boy has for the first time a sense of responsibility for somebody's job.

"Business is business," said the restaurant owner, with a wink.

Jessica brought him a fresh pot of coffee.

When Wagner Was 'On Run'

O'Leaden, London, Eng.)
(By Geo. Brown in John

How many Wagnerites, familiar with the details of his romantic career, know that for years Wagner was "on the run" from the German state criminal investigation department, and that there was a reward for his apprehension?

It is usually forgotten that Wagner was a revolutionary; that he was the main instigator of the Dresden rising of 1840; that, the rising crushed, fled the country and for long years thereafter remained a "wanted man."

Who can think of Napoleon as a slim, somewhat undersized lad, plodding from town to town in Paris canvassing for orders? Yet that is what the "great" Rossini, at all events, did in the days of his dire poverty.

Beethoven, who have perhaps less shame about such things than we, have been at pains to suppress this period of Napoleon's career. The emperor's book canvass' experiences, as told in his own hand of some 200 subscribers is still preserved in Paris.

Mozart, we all know, was infant prodigy. Less well known is his circumstances that Schubert, who died at 33 sighing "I came to, but I have never lived," was a mediocre in his student years.

In the 1870's there was the principal of the Royal Choir school of Vienna passed judgement upon the students. One of the prizes for was Franz Schubert, not at all. It was another Franz who won the contest, who was marked out as the youth destined for immortality! The man who reported this was Anton Bruckner.

How do you think of Beethoven's deafness as a majestic figure, a creator of immortal music. That is true, too, but he was a man before, but what of the man?

His biographer tells us small greatness. He abandoned the pathetic, crabbed, suspicious old bachelor. He left many letters behind him, we know the story of the coffee beans, the quarrel with his landlady, the famous of peculation. He wrote:

"Friday is the only day when the wife's cleaning-woman is not here, that it is the only day that there is no manservant near. I am not sure that a hundred years ago she would have been burned."

Beethoven loved to spend a penny if it can be saved. But not because his is a miser. He saves in order to give—to give to his worthless, spongers. He loved coffee beans. He reasons thus (and records the reasoning). Two coffee beans are the right number to make a cup of coffee. Sixty beans are the portion which engages the mind of the composer of the great fifth symphony is this: How many coffee beans are necessary to yield a cup of coffee?

This is Odd, We Import Cod

(Saint John Telegraph-Journal)

Included in the cargo of a ship arriving at Saint John from the Mediterranean port of Oran was an experimental consignment of 30,000 pounds of salted cod fish destined for Toronto. The shipment was forwarded from the port by the Canada Steamship Lines.

Here is evidently another example of the spirit of initiative of the United Kingdom in seeking new ways to earn dollars, but also of the lengths to which the salt cod fish is forcing the wide Atlantic to be plied in order to supply a codfish-producing country like Canada is as paradoxical as carrying coals to Newcastle.

It joins a long list of other anomalies produced in the day's news in recent years, such as the Jaya cultivation of rice in the Far East in the U.S., British importing coal, from the U.S., timber-rich Canada, importing wood from Quebec, a farming country like this buying butter from New Zealand, the Japs manufacturing miniature Indian totem poles for sale to tourists in British Columbia, and now, agricultural Russia dickering for wheat from Canada.

Criminals 'Just Nasty'

(Winnipeg Free Press)

Those who ascribe all manner of high flown reasons to crime, will find little to their liking in the views of Sir David Hyde, Home Secretary of the United Kingdom.

It is Sir David's opinion that far too much is said about "complexes". Criminals, as a rule, he finds to be "just bad and nasty."

He believes that there are four reasons why crime is twice as prevalent in the United Kingdom today than before the war:

1. Lack of parental control.
2. The increasing problem of broken homes.
3. False values given out and promulgated by certain films and comic papers.
4. The lessening of the power of religion in the ordinary affairs of life.

Sir David said:

"There used to be a feeling in regard to the criminal, unimportant aspects of life that when the God went to work most terrifically free from ribofavin caused the criminal while rule in the cataracts were prevented or cured. But no one has established that this applies to human beings.

Dr. Brady

vite means preservation of the characteristics of youth.

These are the words of the noted nutrition authority, Prof. K. V. McCollum, but the word vite is Latin, coined with the co-operation of two of his colleagues.

Dr. McCollum ascribed riboflavin (formerly called vitamin G) and vitamin B12) most essentially the preservation of the characteristics of youth. Other investigators have found that an optimal daily ration of riboflavin (that is, considerably more than the normal or adequate ration) results in more rapid and better vigor, postponement of the signs of senility and enhancement of mental well-being, at least in animals.

Signs of senility.

On the whole I'd rather not describe the signs here. Instead let's talk about riboflavin.

Dr. Paul L. Day, University of Arkansas, found that diet exclusively free from riboflavin caused cataracts in white rats in which the cataracts were prevented or cured. But no one has established that this applies to human beings.

Cracking and miscerion at the corners of the mouth (cheilosis), sore lower lip showing increased transverse markings; red, itching, burning eyes and inability to see in dim light; magenta tongue; fatty degeneration of the skin in the folds from sides of nose to angles of mouth and across nose and cheeks; fine scaly desquamation of the skin of the hands and other parts of the body, these are common manifestations of riboflavin deficiency.

Best food sources of riboflavin is milk, whole, skim milk, evaporated milk, dried milk, cheese, and other milk products.

People most likely to suffer from riboflavin deficiency are food faddists, persons with chronic ailments (milk "contra-forming," "constipating," "fattening") and wierdies who adhere too faithfully to dietary regimens prescribed or recommended for obesity, high blood pressure, peptic ulcer, allergy, arthritis or what do you mean?

The daily consumption of not less than a pint (two large glasses) of milk is best way to keep a good complexion. If you don't drink milk just look your self every day then at least take the available pills of riboflavin, calcium, etc. to supplement your inadequate diet.

Almost many poor souls owe their premature wrinkles to ill advised attempts to reduce in a hurry.

Murderers Of The Soul

(Hamilton Spectator)

Three Canadian senators, one of them a physician, have called for the death penalty for narcotics peddling. To the public mind, accustomed to associating capital punishment only with the taking of life, this may seem a drastic, cruel proposal. Yet there is a case to be made for it.

The pitiful wreck that is the addict has had his mind and soul killed by narcotics (and it is perhaps worth pointing out that one most closely concerned with the subject, notably the R.C.M.P., always say "narcotics"—they consider the habit much too grave to make light of by talking about "dope").

The killing of the human mind and soul is surely as fatal, if not as motive but profit—is as heinous as the killing of the body—perhaps more heinous, for it is killing by slow, agonizing degrees. Is the murder? It seems to us that it is.

Painting By Numbers

(Brockville Recorder and Times)

More and more persons seem to be taking up the hobby of oil painting. As a form of relaxation, they claim it cannot be beaten. But after watching the concentration on the faces of those at such a picture we have doubts about the "relaxation" part. It looks like hard work, looks like an awful lot of work to go through in order to forget your troubles for a few days.

We don't doubt that oil painting is a most fascinating, if amateur artists of our acquaintance, an ever increasing number, are to be believed. But there is a variety of ways. There are those who attend classes and learning the proper way to "paint what they see" on canvas. Others prefer to sketch themselves and produce some very commendable results. Then there are those who, by the aid of numbered outlines, or as copies from Christmas cards, and so forth, produce works of their oil painting from the increasing popular "numbers" sets.

As far as one can see, painting by numbers is a complete success, no matter how it is done. Those who paint on the numbered canvas seem to produce the right numbers denoting the shade or paint to be used. Those who paint from a certain even more than do those who paint free hand. To have a set of all the paints required and apply the various shades of paint correctly is a real accomplishment in its fiercest form. In spite of all this intricate work we know of several people who have completed at least half a dozen of these "numbers" pictures and one person in particular who spent more on a frame for one picture than the cost of the original cost of the equipment!

Whether painting by numbers relaxation or not, we can certainly see how the mind could be absorbed on what is appearing on the canvas that it could shut out all other thought on any other subject. We imagine that this would be one way to become completely lost" in one's work. And therein, perhaps, is the relaxation which is sought.

DO HAVE MORE RIBOFLAVIN.

Cracking and miscerion at the corners of the mouth (cheilosis), sore lower lip showing increased transverse markings; red, itching, burning eyes and inability to see in dim light; magenta tongue; fatty degeneration of the skin in the folds from sides of nose to angles of mouth and across nose and cheeks; fine scaly desquamation of the skin of the hands and other parts of the body, these are common manifestations of riboflavin deficiency.

Best food sources of riboflavin is milk, whole, skim milk, evaporated milk, dried milk, cheese, and other milk products.

Hair-Pulling Among Allies

(Chicago Daily News)

Ernie Hill, commenting from London on the long hair affected by many Englishmen, started a mild debate. The British, he said, aren't at the slim end of the hair trim and consider our crew cut an abomination fit only for military men.

Chicago women, polled at a luncheon, retorted that they like their men the way they are, although they would not object to ask the men how they feel. They let their barbers say it for them with clippers.

We are glad of Anglo-American amity we must point out that Englishmen have a plausible reason, other than mere dandyism, for letting their hair grow. They need to wear much heavier clothing in their unheated homes and offices.

Besides, a little may mean the difference between health and pneumonia. "It is cheaper than a fur cap and looks little, if any, worse.

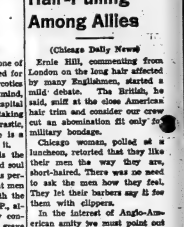
MAKING OTHER PEOPLE GOOD

It always amuses me to see some people trying to "make over" some one else. It has always been a wish with me that I could make myself over, and that each day of my life I am busy adding to myself to the knowledge and happiness of others, but I would not, could not, make them in my image. I would lose a possible friend if I tried it.



People are themselves. They want "no prompting, please." Nothing is more interesting and exciting as the personality of a human being. Any attempt on our part to change that personality, or to amend it, is sure to end in failure. Think of the boredom we would have if we could make one another good, in life, and while we can know about it?

We are the sole authors of our own good. No "ghost writer" can share in it. Every man's book is forever saying nice things about others. People love him. It is the secret of his undying popularity.

STRENGTH FOR THE DAY

SENSE OF GUILT

A great deal is being written today in the field of psychology about the burden of guilt. Usually guilt is referred to as an unnecessary burden. We are told very often that the chief evil-arising from a sinful act of iniquity that it leaves an inner burdensome feeling of guilt.

Now of course the sinner ought to be burdened with a sense of guilt if he is guilty. There are thousands of people who do evil deeds every day and who are not burdened with the least sense of guilt in so doing. One would hesitate to call such people normal, because normal people usually have a sense of guilt when they commit a wrong act.

The whole attempt today to convince us that the feeling of guilt is a burden no one should carry, misses the mark utterly because it is essentially immoral. If we are guilty of evil, we deserve to be afflicted with a poignant sense of guilt. To be sure there is a neurotic sense of guilt which comes from imaginary evils or from a morbid dwelling upon actual evils. But where evil has occurred, a sense of guilt follows in the case of a healthy personality.

The cure for a sense of guilt is not the thing which Christian faith offers, namely, forgiveness. The cure for the aching off of a sense of guilt but the forgiveness of the sin which caused it.

VISITS OLD SCHOOL

Mrs. Percy MacMullen, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Hoard, Mrs. E. Moody, and Mr. Don Bell, were guests Wednesday evening at Williams public school, S.S. No. 4, Rawdon. It was the writer's first visit in 25 years to the little red school house where she had received her public school education. At that time, the walls were drab and dreary, and there was nothing to brighten the structure as it was supposed to be simply a place to learn. What a marked difference in 1954—an oil furnace, cheery drapes at the windows, lots of electric lights, which include reflectors for the front blackboards, cheery pictures on the walls, samples of art, current news pictures, various items written permanently on the blackboards, the walls decorated in pastel colors. A piano and a radio, various articles made by the children, two life-like alligators, bouquets of artificial flowers and several other ornaments.

The children's note books were on display, all arranged on a large table. Lots of books and library space with a reading table, a globe prominently displaying the world at a glance; surely a wonderful improvement over the old days with such a dreary atmosphere.

$250,000 Fire Loss Reported At Uranium City

URANIUM CITY, Sask. (CP)—Damage is estimated at nearly $250,000 in a fire which razed the Hudson's Bay stores and a warehouse Saturday in the centre of this northern mining city.

No one was injured.

Firemen concentred their efforts on two nearby cafes and another warehouse, to which the flames, fanned by high winds in near-zero weather, spread intermittently during the blaze.

The 11-man volunteer fire brigade, helped by a bucket squad, dodged exploding ammunition from the stores as they worked.

UNEXPECTED ARRIVAL

Mrs. Mike Cifra of Wawanesa, Man., thought she was merely suffering from stomach flu and said the arrival of her first child, Judith Anne, was a complete surprise to her, her husband and her doctor. She finished her evening shift at the telephone company and said she was going to call the doctor first thing in the morning about her "stomach flu." However, the four-pound, 13-ounce baby was born before the doctor could arrive.(CP Photo).

Something else that "makes the man" (and does even more for him!)

"Clothes make the man", says the old adage. And certainly a trim appearance can do much to help a man make a good impression on others.

But today more and more men are learning about another way to enhance their standing with certain people. That is, to own life insurance.

Take employers, for instance. To them, a man's ownership of life insurance suggests that he is foresighted, thrifty, realistic. Above all, it reflects willingness to accept responsibility — an attitude that impresses every employer.

In fact, anyone who learns that a man owns life insurance regards him with added respect. It represents one of the most important assets any man can have — an asset held by nearly all successful men in every walk of life.

Yet perhaps the most important effect of owning life insurance is on the policyholder himself. It gives him a sense of achievement. For in no other way can he create such a valuable estate for so little in so short a time. And this, in turn, adds to his own self-confidence.

So life insurance can do more than provide financial security for your family and yourself in later years. It also influences people in ways that help win success!

P.S. FROM YOUR LIFE INSURANCE MAN

"Invested life insurance dollars earn interest that makes it possible for you and your family to enjoy the benefits of life insurance at such low cost. If you have any questions about how to make life insurance fit your own special needs, give me a call. I'll be glad to help you!"

Christian Principles on Alcohol Problem Discussed at W.C.T.U.

The April meeting of the Women's Christian Temperance Union was held at the "Y" with the president, Mrs. E. Farnsworth presiding.

A welcome was extended to all and a short Easter meditation given. Christ's resurrection was a glorious triumph over death. Death is swallowed up in the victory of the resurrection. Christ through death and lighted the pathway. He took from death its sting.

After the resurrection Christ appeared many times to His disciples and thus established His rule on earth, in the hearts of men. One learns evils do not go down with a crashing blow. It is the good that undermines the evil and in time the evil collapses of its own weight.

The devotional lesson was prepared by Mrs. Selburn Westover and read by Mrs. W. B. Vandervoort and was an inspiring message on daily duty.

STUDY OF ALCOHOL

The study was taken by Miss M. Barnum, "Some Christian Principles to Guide Us Concerning Drink," a study taken from the New Testament on 1. stewardship; 2. the body; 3. influence; 4. the law; 5. stain for the sake of others.

Under the influence of alcohol, shows a loss of physical skill and ability, a befuddling of the mind which diminishes judgment and leads people who drink "put an enemy in their mouth to steal away their brains."

Also a slackening of moral power and judgment and made into the "ill meat-maketh my brother to stumble, I will eat no flesh while I evermore." The eating of meat that had been offered to idols was a problem to some, but God has put the use of liquor is a problem today. Alcohol literally is not at all absolute thing. If one lives in a society, their liberty is hedged around with laws and given all sides, from how to drive a car, to how to behave, to prevent being a communicable disease.

One of the highest motives of which man is capable is self-limitations for the sake of another's well-being.

Seventeen pairs of children's socks were sent to Dr. Barnardo and Susan Korea, in relief work. Donations were given to Tweed eastern area of Belleville and Sidney in the campaign against liquor licences.

TELEVISION

The clip sheet was given by Miss Clazie on "Television." Canada bought 2,000,000 television sets in 1953 one-third of which were purchased in Toronto. Educational possibilities are great. Harold E. Stassen, president of Pennsylvania University, says, "The potentialities of education in television are greater than any greater in attraction than any other form of communication. Every effort should be exerted to make possible and profitable a good educational television programming."

Dr. Harry N. Wright, of New York City College, said television would be a basic agency of education for the future. He added that reservation of educational channels was of fundamental importance. To let private commercial users, dominate TV would probably have an unfortunate effect upon culture."

The big television transmitting stations serving 17,000,000 owners of TV sets, are not generally providing much educational programs because being financed by advertising revenue, their appeals are largely commercial without much educational idea. Without advertisements form a great asset.

Some philanthropic organizations that have taken an active role in educational TV, are the Ford Foundation which has made substantial contribution to noncommercial TV, and at the same time has indicated a desire to work with educational broadcasters and the Sloan Foundation which began yesterday a series of educational programs over the radio television network of the U.S.

There is a federal communications commission, over a 7-day period which received almost 1,000 complaints advertising of alcoholic beverages; 235; immorality obscenity or profanity 221; false or misleading advertising 107; lotteries and give-away schemes 107.

Lesser complaints, he said, were received on crime and horror programs, cigarette advertising, news commentatory fortune telling and attacks on religious faiths.

Thirty-six requests were received for more educational programs and classical music.

A survey of the television habits of 1,000 Chicago public and high school pupils in the Chicago area, showed that they were watching the screen from 14 to 21 hours a week.

ADVICE to the LOVELORN

By BEATRICE FAIRFAX

"MY HUSBAND KEEPS A SECRET HOLD ON THE PURSE STRINGS"

My husband is the sort of man who thinks when he has paid the rent and supplied the money for each week's food, he has done all that ought to be asked of him," writes a wife who is struggling with the familiar problem of the husband who keeps a strangle hold on the family purse strings.

"His idea is," she goes on to say—and, oh what a familiar idea it is to many wives—"that because he earns the money, he not only has the sole right to say how it should be spent, but to keep every cent of it in his own hands, doling out the pennies as he sees fit.

"Perhaps one week he will give me five or ten dollars over and above the food money, this to be used for clothes for myself and the children, for shoes, for medicines for children or for any other expenses that may crop up. The next week he may not consider that I need any extra money at all, so I get nothing. Never, never do I have any little sum that is mine to do with as I wish.

"My husband makes a good salary, and I certainly would enjoy having a few dollars in my purse to use as I please. I feel sure that if I had, it would be a saving in the end, since I could buy materials to make many of the children's and my own clothes, as well as things like curtains, for instance, for the house. But I can't save any out of what my husband's ways with money."

And so we come to the suggestion I invariably make to any wife who finds herself in this sort of plight, which is, that if all possible, she should try to devise some way of earning a little money herself, even if no more than few dollars to keep in hand and spend as she chooses.

Husbands who like to keep a tight rein on the family purse strings do so partly, of course, out of pure selfishness, but largely because they enjoy the feeling it gives them of being completely the master of the house. For a wife to prove that she, too, is able to earn money, in even a small way, would give this delusion of grandeur a much needed jolt that might go far toward improving things.

Even when they are tied down by children and housekeeping, a great many women have found it possible to earn something. Some of them find part-time jobs in their towns; others do some sort of work at home. From the second group, more than a few women have been so successful as homecanners that the projects they started in a small way eventually grew into well paying businesses.

I have a list of books dealing with various aspects of earning at home, most of which contain the success stories of women who have done this. Other books on the line give step-by-step suggestions on how to set up some enterprise.

I earnestly recommend that the wife of the letter, as well as any others who have trouble with stingy husbands, send me a stamped self-addressed envelope for a copy of this book list and, after careful reading of some of these books, set about putting some of the ideas into effect. I am quite sure that, with initiative and perseverance, any of them can do just as well as the women whose stories they will read.

Beauty

By HELEN JAMIESON

NOSES, IMPERTINENT AND OTHERWISE

The Perfect Beauty Routine
Includes Care of The Nose

If girls could select their noses as they can choose their frocks most of them would not accept the models nature gives them. To hear the average girl in the teen-age talk, you would come to the conclusion that all noses are too long or too short, too round or too pointed, too snubby or too humpy. But few noses are really ugly. And most of them confirm to one's other features.

Consider how important are the functions of the human nose. It warms and filters the air before it is taken into the lungs. It catches atmospheric dust that might cause trouble in the respiratory organs. It gives pleasure when it sniffs the delicious odors that come from the kitchen and when it comes in contact with perfume.

If its shape tries the soul, however, a plastic surgeon can do a remodeling job. Specialists in the medical profession do this work, realizing that such distressing features interfere with a woman's happiness and make her self-conscious.

Noses have surface troubles. If the pores are coarse blackheads may be present. Such a condition calls for two daily soaps, and when washing, the nose being worked into the flesh lightly with the fingertips. After rinsing and drying, the soda solution should be applied—one teaspoonful of baking soda dissolved in a cup of water. Slap it on with a cotton ball.

The "shiny" nose is a pet peeve with some girls. But that is a grievance that should be treated from within. It is caused by overactive sepaceous glands which will function normally when there is less fat in diet. Cream, butter, fried foods and pastries must be avoided for a time, after which small portions can be taken.

Some Holiday Plans And Some Answers To Readers

By Mary Moore

On the day that this is scheduled for release Pete and I will be pounding the highway back from near Chicago—for we are going to visit my friend Garry over the Easter week-end.

Obviously for Mary to get off the leash for that length of time I have to double up and write extra copy ahead of time.

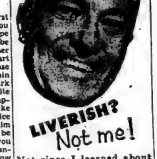
However I will come home loaded with new food ideas for you, for Garry is a skillful cook who outdoes herself when I am visiting.

The reasons for the trip are threefold. No. 1 is obvious—we want a little holiday. No. 2: Pete is more than a little sweet on Dora Jean — Garry's gorgeous little 17-year-old daughter. The 3 of mothers are watching starry-eyed from the sidelines.

So it will be two weeks from now before I can give you any news of our trip or how the romance progressed, and I have made a resolution to cut the stack of mail on my desk down to reasonable size before I leave. So today's is an extra answer column.

NOTE:

Please remember to put St stamp on your self-addressed envelope enclosed with your letters to me.



QUESTION:

I turn to your page very first thing each night . . . could you give me a bran muffin recipe with honey and could they be made with other flour rather than white. I would like to start baking with other flours—please tell me names of whole grain flour. Where is dark flour. Where is white flour bought. Have you a white cake made with honey, also applesauce cake and banana cake made with honey and a spice cake. We have turned to skim milk powder now. Could it be used in above cakes? Do you have a recipe for mashed bananas, honey and coconut. How do you cook beef now. Is it soaked first. . . . Does angel food mix have a lot of sugar in it—Mrs. J. R.

ANSWER:

Write to Michigan State College, Extension Division, East Lansing, Michigan, for bulletin entitled "Honey Flavor Harmonies" No. 218. It contains the honey recipes you are seeking. I have mailed you what information I have on millet meal. Angel food cake mix contains a great deal of sugar. Go to the flour and feed store for the unbleached, unbolted dark flours you mention. However you cannot substitute all flours for white flour. The way to test is to use your regular recipe—but substitute 1-2 cup soy flour or buckwheat flour or whole wheat flour or millet or sunflower seed meal for 1-2 cup of the flour in the original recipe. See if you like the texture and flavor of the result. If so increase the amount of the special flour until you have added an optimum amount. You can't do what I have just suggested in yeast mixtures, because wheat flour contains gluten which gives yeast mixtures their elastic quality and it cannot be arbitrarily replaced.

I have a vague recollection of the mashed banana, honey and cocoanut mixture you refer to. If I were trying it I would mash a few bananas, add the honey and work it into the banana, then add cocoanut until it is stiff enough to shape into balls. Let the balls stand at room temperature (as was proper to dry and harden on the outside. I cook beef liver, by having it about 1-4 inch thick, dipping it in flour, sprinkling with salt and pepper and very quickly pan-frying it in butter until it is barely set. Do not overcook liver or it will be tough. Serve as soon as cooked. Brown and unpolished rice may be bought in the large chain stores.

Not since I learned about Kruschen! I don't find it any too soon, either. My job was getting too much for me, and when I got home at night, I was surly as a bear with my family. A chap at work put me on to Kruschen and now I wouldn't be without it. "Just a little in my morning coffee when needed sets me up for the day. Of course, Kruschen is a gentle laxative and diuretic too. It goes to work fast without any fizzing or bubbling. Get a package today and start enjoying life again!

NOTES OF INVITATION TO A WEDDING

Dear Mrs. Beechman:

1. Will you please give me suggestions about writing informal wedding invitations?

2. Should the family be mentioned in the body of the invitation, or when one mentions "you" in the letter, does that include the family too?

3. How should these notes of invitation be addressed?

J.K.

1. Here is a customary form for the note of invitation:

Dear Margaret,

Rosemary and Peter Write are to be married in (state where) on Saturday afternoon, May 15th, at four o'clock. John and I hope so much that you and Philip and Anita will come to the ceremony, and to our house afterward to greet the bride and bridegroom.

Sincerely,

Note(s): These invitations should be written by the bride's mother, who is to be hostess of the wedding (or whoever is to be hostess). Or the bride-to-be, or her sister may write these notes in behalf of the mother: "Mother has asked me to write to tell you that she hopes you and Philip and Anita will be able to come to——."

Note (b): If you want to make double sure that it receive a reply, word your request somewhat like this: "Please tell us you'll be with us."

2. A most important question. . . . and the answer is very important. In these notes of invitation it is absolutely necessary to mention exactly who is being invited. "You" means only the persons to whom you are writing. "You and Philip" invites wife and husband. "You and Philip and Anita" invites just those three. If you don't mention any other names it means that these are the only ones you are inviting. Don't be vague. (The reason I'm so emphatic about this is that my mail shows that so often parents are not at all sure whether or not they are "supposed" to take it for granted that their children are invited, when the children aren't even mentioned.)

3. When you are inviting Mr. and Mrs., or Mr. and Mrs. and their child or children, address the invitation to "Mrs."

A WONDER DRUG HELPED CHANGE THIS . . .

Handy for everything from recipes to rubber bands, the old fashioned spike-file could be a very depressing thing.

Very often, especially after a prolonged illness, it was piled high with doctors' bills, receipts for a variety of medicines, nurses' bills, special treatments, hospital charges . . . charges for many things.

Today, because of antibiotic wonder drugs, many illnesses are no longer prolonged, nor are the expenses.

And the charge for the miracle drug is reasonable.

It is only because truly staggering sums have been spent in research and development by the leading pharmaceutical houses that we can buy today's wonder drugs at all. And buy them, moreover, at prices that are very reasonable when compared to what grandfather had to pay for treatments—many of which are no longer necessary!

YOU CAN DEPEND ON YOUR NEIGHBOURHOOD DRUGGIST

You will always be sure of reasonable prices at your neighbourhood druggist's.

He is highly-trained in the profession of pharmacy, a friendly man . . . and you can depend on him as surely as you can depend on the wonder drugs he stocks. See him soon for whatever you need.

Little Benny's Note Book

I was talking and arguing with Leroy Shooster and Puds Simkins, and Mr. Zellner went past on her way home from the market, saying, I'll give one of you boys a dime if you'll get a mouse for me. It got caught in a trap, thank goodness, but I don't dare to touch it, she said.

And she kept on going and I said, I'll go and do it, she looked at me ferst.

Like heck, she did'nt say which one, no matter where she looked, Puds said, and Lucky Leroy said, There's only fair way, we'll toss up this cent, heads or tales. I'm willing to make it the best out of 3 tosses, he said.

I guess you are, with your luck, I said, and Puds said, Sure, you'd guess rite every time even if we made it the best of ten.

Which he probably would, and I said, I tell you, we have a race to decide, up to the corner and back.

Me being the best runner in the block except Skinny Martin, and him not being there, and Puds and Lucky Leroy both claimed they didn't feel much like running, and Puds said, There's only one way left, we'll wrestle for it.

No sir, nothing doing, like heck, me and Lucky said.

Meaning on account of Puds being so fat it's impossible to keep from rolling long enough to get him on his back and the result was we made a compromize, all going together and me ringing Mrs. Zellmer's bell and telling her Puds and Lucky Leroy were my 2 helpers, and we bought a chocklit zanzibar with the dime and divided it even.

Proving there's probably work enough for everybody.

The guests were welcomed by the older pupils and the school room was artistically decorated with various articles, including bouquets of artificial flowers, which the children had made, also two life-like alligators were seated atop the piano.

Gladys Palmer presided over a brief program and graciously read a welcome to all, after which the children, under the direction of the music teacher, Mrs. E. Moody, Belleville, delighted with songs and exercises, in groupings of juniors and seniors.

There were also piano selections, recitations and a reading exercise by Grade I. Raye Davidd gave an interesting address on "Conservation."

He also gave interesting details of work carried on at this time in India, Germany, Sweden, Denmark and other countries. In some it is unlawful to cut down a tree unless another is planted in its place.

Canada needs to conserve, and in that way increase productivity. The speaker stressed the value of farm ponds, contour ploughing and recreational areas. He presented a film and sound picture entitled "The Heritage We Guard," which was most interesting and educational.

Lyle Couch read a message of thanks to Mr. Bell on behalf of teacher and pupils, expressing thanks for his address and for coming to this meeting.

The party was planned by their daughter, Helen, Mrs. George Curry, of Belleville, and was a decided success.

The living room was artistically decorated with streamers and bells. The dining table was centred with a tiered fruit cake decorated in keeping with the occasion and flanked by double candlelabra with white tapers.

Mrs. Hay received her guests in a mauve nylon frock with corsage of yellow roses and the groom sported a white carnation on his lapel.

Several flash pictures were taken during the evening climaxing with the cake ceremony.

On April 14th, 1909 at high noon, Martha, daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. David Crippen, Cordova, became the bride of John, son of Mr. and Mrs. Andrew Hay, of Stirling R.R. 3. The ceremony was performed by Rev. H. Secomb at the Methodist parsonage, Marmora.

They resided in that district for 13 years, and in 1922 moved to the old homestead in Rawdon township where they have resided ever since.

Mr. and Mrs. Hay are members of Mount Pleasant United Church and Mrs. Hay is a member of the local Women's Missionary Society.

They have two sons, Lester, Mount Pleasant, and Carl of Fenelle; two daughters, (Helen) Mrs. George Curry, Bellevelle, and (Gladys) Mrs. Delbert Mitchell, Warkworth, and five grandchildren.

GUESTS PRESENT

Guests were present for this special anniversary party from Fenelle, Warkworth, Marmora and Belleville.

Rev. R. R. Bonsteel B.A., B.D., was master of ceremonies for a short program.

Mrs. Thomas Sarles led the group in assembly singing which included "When You and I Were Young Maggie", and "Seeing Martha Home." Mrs. Percy MacMullen recited "A Poem of Other Days" and Mr. John Mulberon delighted with two humorous songs. Mr. Victor Crippen, Marmora, contributed several violin selections; Mrs. Kenneth Weaver read a poem "Martha's Patchwork Quilt". Messrs. Harvey Couch and Victor Crippen gave harmonica and banjo music.

ADDRESS READ

Mr. Ross Hoard read an address of appreciation on behalf of the neighbors and friends who had been invited and Messrs. Herbert Smith and Grant Hubble made the presentation of an electric tri-lite floor lamp. The address was signed by Helen Hubble, Nellie Smith and Ferne Weaver.

Mr. and Mrs. Hay then opened the large array of parcels from relatives and these included electric tea kettle, television floral lamp, linen table cloth, cups and saucers and cake plates, gold satin cushion and a large assortment of other gifts.

Their daughter, Helen Curry, recited thanks to everyone for their kindness to her father and mother, and extended an invitation for future visits.

The cake cutting ceremony followed with Gladys Mitchell having a part with her parents.

The cake and peppermint patties were made by their daughter in Belleville. The group served delectable refreshments topped off with a variety of tarts.

BRIEF ADDRESSES

Messrs. George Weaver and Earl McAdam spoke briefly extending congratulations and best wishes to Mr. and Mrs. Hay.

Following a social half hour the group departed homewards after personally expressing their good wishes for future happiness.

French Troops Fight Furiously To Hold Vietminh Assault Forces Stabbing at Fortress

HANOI (AP)—The French fought furiously today to hold back Vietminh assault troops stabbing toward the centre of Dien Bien Phu's fortifications from the northwest.

The rebels were in a newly mounting position after week-end fighting widened their break in the northwestern rim of the fortress' defence system. They captured a second outpost Sunday and filtered back at night into trenches on the main Dien Bien Phu airstrip.

Vietminh pressure also was reported increasing against the southernmost strongpoint of the French-held plain.

Bagneux-wielding French infantrymen had driven the Vietminh from air field entrenchments for a few hours Sunday. But the latest information is re-established in battle-scarred ruins of a hilltop overlooking the airstrip.

The army's new 280-millimetre cannon was within the "corporal" missile or the "honest John" rocket bombardment rocket fires either atomic or conventional explosives, is an example.

The 11-inch gun has a maximum range of about 30 miles. Under present organization, the gun is attached to "heavy artillery." That means that control of batteries of the gun would be with the headquarters of a corps (a corps usually is composed of two or three army divisions). The control does not go back to a higher headquarters, such as a field army command, where co-ordination of tactical bomber and fighter-bomber aircraft of the air force and navy is maintained.

Yet the range of the 280 mm. gun and the guided missile, and especially of the guided missile, reaches out far more obliquely to either side of the normal fighting front of a corps.

This tactical see in this rigidity of corps control both potential inefficiency and danger, contending that:

If a corps headquarters can decide to strike a target which is scheduled for or indeed already may have been taken care of by bombing planes sent by a higher headquarters.

2. Without co-ordination, planes heading for a target may fly into the path of fire from a gun-carried, attacks or rockets.

Corps manoeuvres will involve ground forces equal to an army corps.

Operating on average terrain and under average condition, the exercise will provide an opportunity for the army to prove its claim that its 280 mm. cannon can hit an enemy accurately under conditions which ground the air force's tactical bombers—in darkness or storm.

Powerful New Weapons Creating Serious Problems

WASHINGTON (AP) — New weapons, atomic cannon, guided missiles, rockets, are giving the U.S. Army fire power undreamed of not many years ago but they also are creating serious problems in the already intricate business of running an orderly, efficient battle.

These are among the problems to be worked on in manoeuvres, involving 100,000 army and air force men, starting this week in the Carolinas. They are the first big-scale exercises involving the new and simulated use of virtually all new weapons.

Deciding what weapons to shoot at what target has been a source of argument even with conventional artillery and aircraft. The advent on the battlefield of "artillery" that can range out from 20 miles to 30 miles and has a much greater demolition radius is compounding the problem.

The army's new 280-millimetre cannon, within the "corporal" missile or the "honest John" rocket bombardment rocket fires either atomic or conventional explosives, is an example.

The 11-inch gun has a maximum range of about 30 miles. Under present organization, the gun is attached to "heavy artillery." That means that control of batteries of the gun would be with the headquarters of a corps (a corps usually is composed of two or three army divisions). Operating on average terrain and under average condition, the exercise will provide an opportunity for the army to prove its claim that its 280 mm. cannon can hit an enemy accurately under conditions which ground the air force's tactical bombers—in darkness or storm.

Western Europe Spending Huge Sums on Air Power

LONDON (AP)—Western Europe is spending more money on air power than ever before in peacetime.

Allied strategists believe that it war comes the first blinding phase will be fought out between giant atomic air fleets.

The western European nations are building protective umbrellas of jet fighters, but the theory is some bombers would get through. One statesman such as Prime Minister Churchill frankly are preparing to fight if necessary through crippling devastation.

To deter attack, Britain's Royal Air Force is creating a powerful counter-punch, a spanking new fleet of atomic jet bombers.

The West European countries plan this year to spend more than one fourth of their defence budgets—about $2,000,000,000 — into their air forces.

British spending on air power this year will include hundreds of millions for the development of supersonic, middle-firing fighter planes and atomic weapons to be carried by the new Valiant, Victor and Vulcan medium jet bombers. The Vallants already are coming off the production lines and atomic bombs are stored for their use.

France and the other allies on the continent are adapting their growing air power primarily to support the ground formations and for interception. This calls for plenty of fighters and light bombers.

The French Air Force, which will be expanded from 20 to 38 wings in 1954 and then to 51 wings with 1,000 frontline aircraft the following year, gets 34 per cent of the defence budget.

Neutral Sweden, whose fighter squadrons rank in West Europe only behind those of the RAF, has earmarked 34 per cent of her record peacetime budget estimate, of $200,788,000 to air power.

Nixon's Indo-China Speech Brings Variety of Comments

By ED SIMON
Canadian Press Staff Writer

NEW-YORK (CP) — If Vice-President Nixon was looking for expressions of opinion when he made his "off-the-record" suggestion that U.S. troops may have to move in on the Reds in Indo-China, he certainly wasn't disappointed.

Some of the responses were favorable. Some were opposed. But some of the statements that hit print following Nixon's appearance before the American Society of Newspaper Editors Friday could be called hikwarm.

The Chicago Tribune's Col. Robert R. McCormick said Nixon "talks like a gibbering idiot." Senator Estes Kefauver (Dem., Tenn.), runner up for his party's presidential nomination in 1952, was "disturbed" over the administration's foreign policy.

But Senator Ralph Flanders (Rep., Vt.), unlike many of Nixon's Republican colleagues, said he favors sending U.S. combat forces to Indo-China if it is found to be the only way of halting Communist expansion in Southeast Asia.

UNPOPULAR VIEW

Flanders conceded that this is an unpopular view at present but added he is confident that the public and congress will eventually reach the same opinion.

He was limited support from representatives John Vorys (Rep., O.) and Melvin Price (Dem. Ill.), who agreed in a radio-television debate Sunday that the U.S. may have to become more deeply involved in Indo-China.

But both urged that the government consider all other possibilities before committing the U. S. to an all-out war.

The newspaper men themselves were unhappy over the way Nixon's address was made public.

Appearing "off the record" before the ASNE, Nixon replied to a hypothetical question that U. S. troops may have to be used in Indo-China in "the unlikely event" that other means fail to hold the country against the Communists.

PREVIOUS AGREEMENT

Competent sources said it had been agreed beforehand that Nixon's talk could be used in news stories but that the identity of the speaker should remain anonymous.

The London Times soon dug up the information that Nixon was the only high government official to address the editors Friday. Then a Representative Clare Hoffman (Rep. Mich.) denounced the statement and identified the vice-president as its author.

McCormick called H "ridiculous to say that anything was off the record that's said before 700 people or even five people." Mark F. Ethridge of the Louisville Courier-Journal and Times called it "very risky and dangerous for mas so high" to express such a proposal "by indirection."

Two Ethiopians Refused Entry By Officials

HALIFAX (CP)—Two Ethiopians who swabbed a ship's deck across 6,000 miles of ocean to get to Canada were held in custody here Sunday by immigration officials who refused them entry and said they had to go right back.

The pair, Youssef Abrag, 34, and Tzegai Mahari, 22, arrived without passports aboard the Dutch cargo-passenger vessel Soestdijk.

Officials lodged the pair in the Halifax detention barracks and let them contemplate another 4,000 miles of deck-swabbing on the return trip.

A port physician said Youssef's hot-weather constitution had fallen victim to a slight case of pleurisy on the frigid North Atlantic but he'd be fit as a fiddle in no time.

There appeared to be confusion as to whether Youssef and Co., were stowaways. Youssef, who clutched a fat, beer bottle to the place where his pleurity hurt, claimed loudly that the skipper told them they could work their passage.

Tzegai sat hopefully on the other bunk and beamed to make up for his total lack of English.

The immigration department said flatly they were stowaways. But the pair were going to get the stowaway treatment, which is the gate.

South Koreans Will Attend Geneva Parley Next Week, As Rhee Given U.S. Pledges

By BILL SHINN

SEOUL (AP)—President Syngman Rhee announced today that South Korea will attend the Geneva conference opening next week. But he warned it is "a final time-consuming attempt" to unite Korea by peaceful means.

Rhee didn't say what his government would do if the conference fails. But there was a thinly-veiled threat in his statement that "we obviously cannot continue to sit idly by while the Communists exterminate or exile our people to the north and make a Red Chinese province out of half our country."

Rhee, the 79-year-old president said "clear and encouraging" assurances from the United States "enable us to go to Geneva with confidence and considerable hope." Rhee didn't elaborate on the assurances. But in New York You Chang Yang, Korean ambassador to the United States, said his country had been assured the United States will aid in greatly increasing Korea's army and that a prime objective of the conference will be to re-unite all of Korea and eliminate Red Chinese troops from that country.

SAYS HE MADE PROMISE

A highly-placed Korean source said the assurances were contained in a letter from President Eisenhower delivered to Rhee Sunday by U.S. ambassador Ellis O. Briggs.

Foreign Minister Pyun Yung Tai, head of the ROK delegation to Geneva, said in Seoul he had two primary objectives—"unification of Korea and "removal of the Chinese Communist aggressors from Korea."

Pyun said South Korea would not tolerate a buffer zone that would cut Korea in half. "Any buffer zone," he said, "must be north of the Yalu river." The Yalu is the boundary between Korea and Manchuria.

Cattle Buyer Facing Charge Of Murder

TORONTO (CP)—A one-legged cattle buyer was charged with murder Saturday after an emergency operation failed to save the life of another disabled man, a 36-year-old war veteran, who was stabbed in the kitchen of a west Toronto home.

Harold Shaw of Toronto was taken to hospital with a deep stomach wound and died 14 hours later. William Lunness, 54, was charged on the murder charge.

Police said Shaw, a handsome man, called at the Lunness home to see Mrs. Margaret Jackson, 29, the accused man's daughter. After a while Lunness told him to leave but Shaw refused.

Police said Lunness threatened to get a door to telephone police and that Shaw received the objective of the conference will be to re-unite all of Korea and eliminate Red Chinese troops from that country.

MURDER CHARGE LAID

VANCOUVER (CP) — Fred Butler, 43, was charged with murder during the week-end in connection with the death of a man who tried to gate-crash a party in the Butler home in West Point Grey. RCMP charged Butler with the death of James Iverson, 38, a Vancouver truck driver, whom police said was struck over the head with an air rifle.

Woman Swiped At by Big Buck in Park

HAMILTON (CP) — A Hamilton woman will think twice before befriending animals at the side of highways.

Miss Willis Furroe stopped her car in Algonquin park Sunday when a dozen deer emerged timidly from the bush. She walked to the animals armed with chocolate bars.

A buck six his fill, then raised himself on hind legs and swiped at the woman with both front paws. A forest ranger treated her for a black eye and a deep cut on her forehead.

Pope Appeals For Ban on Use Of H-Bomb

VATICAN CITY (AP)—The Pope appealed in an Easter Sunday broadcast for an international ban on using atom and hydrogen bombs except for self-defence.

The 78-year-old head of the Roman Catholic Church said he would try tirelessly to bring about such a ban "through mutual agreement."

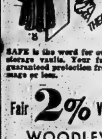
Broadcasting from his Vatican apartment, the Pope told the world that new "destructive arms of unprecedented violence" had brought "the fear of a third world conflict and a dreadful future" to the people.

He urged the rulers of nations to turn their new knowledge of atomic energy "exclusively to the purposes of peace."

The Pope lumped with "bombs and H-bombs other mass destruction threats such as germ and chemical warfare.

Floating Body Of Crew Member Found Saturday

JUNEAU, Alaska (CP) — The floating body of an unidentified crew member of the wrecked Vancouver tug Chelan was found Saturday by a fishing vessel, but the fate of the other 39 men aboard remained a mystery.



Coast guard headquarters here said the fish boat Adam recovered the unidentified body from the frigid waters of the inland passage near the entrance to Port Malmesbury.

This was about 15 miles from the spot where the 165-foot Chelan and its 14-barge load of ore concentrates went down in a storm Thursday night.

DESPAIR FOR FIVE

TOKYO (AP) — Japanese physicians apparently see no hope of recovery for five of the 23 Japanese fishermen affected by radioactive dust from the March 1 hydrogen bomb test in the Pacific. The Japanese Academy of Blood Studies said Saturday nothing can be done but watch the five, "for there is no adequate cure for them."

STIRLING

President Rebekah Assembly, E. Bothwell, Pays Official Visit

STIRLING — Laurel Rebekah Lodge, No. 311, Stirling, entertained Belleville District No. 4, in Stirling community hall, on Tuesday evening, with 250 visitors and a few brothers in attendance.

The occasion was the official visit of Sister Emma Bothwell, Ottawa, president Rebekah Assembly of Ontario, to this district. It was also the official visit of Sister Edna Fox, District Deputy President, of Belleville, District No. 4, to her own lodge, that of Laurel, No. 311. Other distinguished visitors were: Sister Isobel Carr, Toronto, a past president of the assembly, and Sister Edith Oberhaltzer, Port Rowan, color bearer of the assembly.

DISTRICT LODGES

A large number of members from the five lodges in the district: Belleville, Tweed, Madoc, Thomasburg and Stirling, were augmented with about 25 visitors from other points. This included Lennoxville, Quebec; Saskatoon, Sask.; Campbellford, Peterborough, Hazelton, Port Rowan, Ancaster, and other points.

Each lodge of the district had a part in the proceedings. The officers of Laurel Rebekah Lodge, No. 211, Stirling, under the direction of the noble grand, Sister Neva Vandervoort, were in charge of the opening exercises and business.

The degree captain and members of Tweed lodge, conferred the Rebekah degree on three sisters and one brother of Belleville.

The Grayling ad hoc chorus in memory of Sister Christine Lang, past president of the Rebekah assembly, was assisted by officers of Quintena Lodge, No. 139, Belleville.

Crescent Rebekah Lodge, No. 139, Thomasburg, was in charge of the closing ceremonies.

GUEST SPEAKER

The assembly president, Sister Bothwell, brought a special message from "International Rebekah," and then gave a vivid picture of her travels across Ontario. She gave a glowing account of the Work of the Order" and mentioned the worthwhile work of various lodges in providing hospital beds, wheel chairs, crutches and material aid through the C.P. and W.I.

She gave a vivid picture of "The Harris Honor" and all that it means to the elderly folk. Sister Bothwell was proud of the work of the Order from them. Still there is that great challenge to each lodge to provide a blood bank.

Brief addresses were given by Sisters Carr and Oberhaltzer, followed by an official message from the D.D.P., Sister Edna Fox.

PRESENTATIONS

Three members of Oakdale Lodge, No. 134, Madoc, Sisters Lavina Farrell, Nina Embury and Eliza Peck, were in charge of the presentations and address to the assembly president, on behalf of the lodges in Belleville District, No. 4.

Sister Bothwell was the recipient of a variegated silk umbrella and matching purse and a pair of pastel pink hemstitched bed sheets. She gratefully thanked everyone for their kindness to her.

Sister Dora Coulter and Sister Laura Brown were in charge of an address and presentation to the past president of the R.A. Sister Isabel Carr, who received a cup and saucer on behalf of Laurel Lodge, No. 311.

Sister Ethel Mumby and Sister Fannie Kane presented an address and a cup and saucer to the assembly color bearers, Sister Oberhaltzer, on behalf of Laurel Lodge.

Sister Alice Munroe and Sister Alice Macklin presented an address and a china pedestal pitcher with the D.D.P. Sister Edna Fox on behalf of Laurel lodge.

At the close of duties, Sister Isabel Hessman, refreshment convener, and her committee, served appetizing refreshments and all enjoyed a social half hour.

The noble grand and her committee were highly complimented on the fine evening.

The assembly president expressed thanks to Tweed for their exemplary work in conferring the degree and to the other lodges for their part in this special event.

SLAIN

Frank Battaglia, 39, former resident of Oakville, Ont., was found slain in Montreal less than 24 hours after he had been freed on a murder charge connected with what police termed a gangland slaying. He and James Rogers, 21, were acquitted of charges of causing of killing Charles (The Kid) Wagner in April, 1953. Police said Battaglia's killing was a result of gangland vengeance and added that marks on his neck indicated he had been hanged or strangled with a rope. (CP Photo).

MARMORA

Marmora Bows Out of Picture; Loses to Lucan

MARMORA — Lucan Irish Six hockey team, finalists with Marmora in the O.H.A. Intermediate "C" series, furnished the big attraction in the Dr. Hamilton Crawford arena here on Friday evening as they did with a two-game lead in the finals and trimming their third game by 4-3 to become champions and first holders of the Ken McMillan trophy.

Rowett, Lucan centre, opened the scoring for the visitors at 3.23 in the first on an assist from Gaudette. Stretton scored two minutes later with Rowett and Gaudette giving assists. Marmora failed to score in the first two periods, finding the burly Barnes in the Lucan net right on the toes.

In the second the trio of Revington brothers brought the Lucan score to three goals, F. Revington doing the scoring. Marmora was unlucky in not netting in this stanza, particularly at the time two opposing players were in the penalty box at the same time. However, they constituted a real threat in the third. Trumble got their first goal at 1.21 on Lavender's assist, only for F. Revington to retaliate a minute later on G. Revington's pass. But shortly after they beat Barnes the second time, Maynes scoring unassisted. Killian was taken out of the Marmora net in the last minute of play and from a melee in front of the Lucan net, Jones put the puck past Barnes on Mantle's assist. They tried hard to equalize but the bell sounded with Lucan being winners.

The teams:

Marmora — Goal, Killian; defence, Gray, Leonard; centre, Magner; wings, Lavender, Trumble; alternates, Jones, Brooks, Mantle, Loveless, D. Smith, Darrah.

Lucan—Goal, Barnes; defence, W. Smith, Gallagher; centre, Rowett; wings, Stretton, Gaudette; alternates, L. Revington, F. Revington, G. Revington; Mc-Alpine, Stevenson, MacTavish.

About 1000 viewed the game, which was handled by W. Holway, Belleville, and H. Payne, Peterborough.

FICTON

Quinte District Rebekahs Observe 40th Anniversary of Picton Lodge

FICTON — The Oddfellows' hall was the scene of a triple observance Tuesday night. It was a get-together of Quinte District No. 8 of the Rebekah Lodges, the official visit to the local lodge by District Deputy President, Muriel LeHeup, and the 40th anniversary of Mookpelah Rebekah Lodge.

Members of the Picton, Cobourg, Brighton, Trenton and Kingston lodges, numbering some 178 spent a memorable evening as the local lodge had arranged an unusually entertaining program.

In observance of the local lodge's anniversary Trenton lodge presented a hammered aluminum tray, which was accepted by Noble Grand Mary Coulter.

At the evening session lodge was opened by Colonaire; the business conducted by Picton and the closing by Brighton.

HONORED GUESTS

Among the honored guests were Ruby Hobart, of Cobourg, who will be District Deputy President following Grand Lodge in June, succeeding Mrs. LeHeup, of Picton, and Lady Wilson, vice-grand of Cobourg, and Past Patriarch Militant of Ontario.

Two charter members of Picton lodge present were: Mrs. Florence Reid and Mrs. Milton Gilmore, both of whom were presented with long-stemmed roses.

D.D. President Mrs. LeHeup was presented with an oil painting from the district. Mrs. Rita Francis made the presentation in behalf of her installation staff and guard of honor, Mrs. LeHeup was presented with a Rebekah compact, by Mrs. Cynthia Kemsley. Mrs. LeHeup presented gifts to her staff.

OUTSTANDING YEAR

Reports presented by the different lodges indicated an outstanding year with increases in membership, many good causes aided, and especially through the C.P.T. committees.

Following lodge there was a program with Russell Gardiner as master of ceremonies. Trenton presented a colorful parade of Easter hats and brought along an hilarious Easter bunny.

The program opened with a grand parade, each member selecting a partner wearing a similar emblem. Clowns Arthur MacDonald, Wrex Hicks and Russ Gardiner were leaders and they performed mirth-provoking stunts and played many games.

Included were an egg catching contest in which some proved not to be hard boiled; a marshmallow throwing contest with a man's mouth as the target; a balloon breaking contest; putting slips on pillows while wearing boxing gloves; a tester game in which contestants risked a water ducking; a pie contest, eaten with forks tied together, and a cotton ball carrying contest, while blindfolded. The mimicking clowns added to the fun.

BIRTHDAY CAKE

Then came the social hour when all gathered around tables according to the month in which their birthdays fell. These tables were masterfully decorated.

At the head table were the Noble Grands of the various lodges, the charter members and several guests. This table was done in Rebekah colors of pink and green with tall tapers on each side of the birthday cake, which was in the form of an open book—a remembrance book — suitably inscribed and decorated —a gift of N.G. Mrs. Coulter.

DECORATION THEMES

The tables for each month of the year carried out the themes with cloths, napkins and centrepieces, and were laden with delectable refreshments.

January featured a new year infant and celebration in pink and green. February saw red and white with a vase of Valentine hearts. March, St. Patrick's month, featured green and white and included a hat; shillegah and shamrocks.

April, in mauve and yellow, featured Easter with bunnies and eggs. May saw paper figures holding gay streamers from a Maypole. June was a symphony in pink and silver rosebuds entwined in the silver centre and the whole in silver holders. July carried out the patriotic motif as well as July 1st holiday, with a man in a boat fishing, and other craft on the bay.

August, the summer month, featured watermelon and muskmelon. September, a miniature tree loaded with tiny apples, a tractor pulling a toy wagon filled with apples and red apples on each yellow napkin. October, in black and yellow, had the traditional pumpkins and cats. November, Thanksgiving, had a turkey centre and cut-outs. December, a gay, lighted Christmas tree.

Streamers, flowers, silver tea services and other motifs helped transform each table into a thing of beauty.

The Mookpelah Rebekahs were highly commended on the innovations they had introduced at this get-together, and the visitors expressed the thought that it had been the best they had ever attended.

Rednersville

REDNERSVILLE— There was a good attendance at the Rednersville Mission Band Easter meeting on Wednesday in the church hall. Joan Dawson presided and Ruth Dempsey acted as secretary.

The second year seal for Band standards was presented by Mrs. A. Mews. Easter songs and readings were given by several members and a piano solo by Daryl Ward. A game and an Easter egg treat closed the session.

Several ladies attended the W.A. recent rally at Salem. Mrs. McKay and Mrs. M. Roraback gave a piano duet and Mrs. T. F. Townsend was guest speaker.

The choir members of the United Church repeated "The Singing School" at Consecon on Friday evening.

The cantata "Sunrise Over Calvary" will be sung on Sunday afternoon in the Rednersville church.

NORTH BAY — The mighty thunder of R.C.A.F. jet fighters rose in this northern city from a station stabled against the rugged country that is Canada's "Gateway to the North."

The sleek planes, streamlined like "silver bullets", flash into the air in a "fly in all weather" program that is part of Canada's northern defences.

Thanks to Flight Lieut. "Bill" Brown, former manager of the Georgia Sales, in Belleville, and now officer in charge of engineering in this northern station, we were afforded the privilege of an inspection of this RCAF station, apart from the delegates of the Ontario Amateur Softball Association.

We stood on the tarmac close to a hangar and watched the pilots take off. It was strictly routine, but these boys who daunts a 640-miles-per-hour streak are not fooling. Some of Canada's top jet pilots are here and among the flight personnel are some aces from the Royal Air Force.

We were told that two of these "flying chappies from over 'ome," can do tricks, legitimate, that is, with a jet plane that is out of this world.

One of these hails from North Bay, this RCAF station is composite. It is a community within itself. There is a large expansion project under way. Quarters are being provided for enlisted men, non's and officers. It is a growing place with its 7,000 personnel.

It is purely a jet station. One of the few propeller 'jobs' is a new "Otter" craft, that has accommodation for 13 people, and is used in a rescue capacity.

Duty squadrons stand poised for action at all times. As long "as they can see the end of the runway and there is a 400-foot-ceiling," they fly regardless of weather.

A break from routine flying, if it can be called that, is the "scramble." Located on the North American defence route, the station sends up its jet squadrons to intercept an unidentified plane and escort it down to the station of radar. Incoming squadrons or aircraft from Europe are dubbed as the "enemy" regardless of nationality and as such are "targets for the night or day." The station's pilots can be in the air and in action in an unbelievably short period of time.

New hangars are under construction. There are very few "barracks" for, as was mentioned, "this is a working station." The men believe in "three cheers" for their officers and their officers in "three cheers" for their men. Everything is done as if everything depended on the job at hand. There are not a few World War II veterans here, as their ribbons testify.

Back Devine and this department were guests of Flight Lieut. Brown in the spacious officers' mess for luncheon. There we met Flt. Lieut. Ray Murphy, a station medical officer, who is a graduate of Belfast University, where he honored in surgery. A short fella and a fine chap. We were taken on an automobile tour of the station after seeing some of its "innards" and the experience was a revelation.

Science is a wonderful thing. When one recalls that 100 years ago the pioneer grampappies took four days to haul a load of wheat from Bancroft to Belleville, and four days back again, and compare that with the 72 minutes it took for this department to fly from Belleville to North Bay (air mileage 300), it makes one wonder what is in store for people, 100 years from now.

Below was a speckled area of ice-locked lakes and brown terrain. We saw no snow. Smoke ribboned behind what looked like a caterpillar, but really was a train. Then in no time Lake Nipissing and North Bay.

Then came a novel experience. The Beechcraft dropped from 5,000 to 1,500 feet preparatory to landing. And we dropped candy-bab into as neat a cluster of air-pockets as would wish to meet. For five minutes or so we felt exactly like a dice before it leaves the container. We buffeted and bumped, but it was part of the flight, and expert piloting brought all and sundry down to North Bay terra firma.

Back to the OASA convention for a moment. It is already a known fact that Belleville is again represented on the association by executive member Don Lee, former president of the Belleville and District Softball League. It is worthy of note that Lee was elected, not appointed, in his first candidacy for election. It is seldom, if ever, that a candidate is elected in his first bid for office. It is a feather in the Belleville cap, also that of Don, that he was honored with election.

'Tis a small world. You run into somebody from Belleville no matter where you go. Up here we met Don Hogan, in fact we had quite a chat with the Trappers' hockey star and he told us that he would very much like to play hockey in Belleville next year. Then there was Ted Hall, of the CNR, formerly of this city, and "Nipper" Matthews, brother of Cliff, of the city hall. We missed Frank Lee, brother of Eddie, who was already on his way to Belleville.

LATER!

Back home to the "Pamela bell" again. Hockey still lingers and tonight the Marmora Millionaires, eliminated in their bid for OHA Intermediate "C" honors, clash tonight with the Point Anne team in the fifth game of their Trent Valley finals series. Both teams have two wins to their credit and tonight's tilt will be an important one.

Like a bolt from the blue came word to us in North Bay that Oshawa had dropped out of OBL competition. This is a serious blow to OBL hopes and it is doubtful the other three clubs will want to play a three-team loop. Something will likely be done about it at the executive meeting here tomorrow night.

Cincinnati, Tigers, Phillies At the Head of the Class; Favorites Lose Over Holiday

By JACK HAND
Associated Press Sports Writer

The Yanks and Dodgers, struggling at .500, definitely do not look like runaway pennant winners on their form for the first week of the new season. Lefthanders baffle the Yanks and Sal Maglie has cast his old spell over the Brooklyns.

Cincinnati and Detroit, generally picked to bounce around the second division, and the much-maligned Philadelphia Phillies are also right up there at the head of the class.

Cincinnati might bear watching. There is a strong suspicion that the Reds were sold short in the pre-season rundown. Philadelphia, too, has reversed its sorry Florida showing on the strong pitching of Robin Roberts, Curt Simmons and Murry Dickson.

GREENGRASS GALLOPING

Jim Greengrass, Cincinnati left fielder, has 12 runs batted in and a .511 average for the first five games. He was sold short in the pre-season rundown. Philadelphia, too, has reversed its sorry Florida showing on the strong pitching of Robin Roberts, Curt Simmons and Murry Dickson.

Maglie's old charm worked at Ebbets Field where he is unbeaten in nine starts as the ace route for New York's 6-3 triumph over the Dodgers before 34,000. Monte Irvin drove in four runs with a homer and two singles. Willie Mays also honored for New York and Duke Snider and Gil Hodges for the champions.

ALSTON HELPS RASCHI WIN

A three-run pinch homer by Tom Alston off the first pitch Chicago's Jim Brosnan threw to him helped St. Louis Cardinals finally enter the win circle, 6-4 over Chicago.

Vic Raschi, with relief, was the winner, the second game was stopped by darkness after two innings.

Two spring training phenoms failed in their American League debuts. The Yanks' Bob Cerv was beaten by Washington's Maury McDermott, 4-3. And Boston's Tom Brewer, who had a string of scoreless innings in Florida, was chased by Philadelphia as the Athletics won the first game from the Red Sox behind reliever Bob Trice, 6-4.

Jackie Jensen's 13th-inning homer gave Red Sox reliever Ellis Kinder his first victory, 5-4.

Steve Gromek cooped his second straight for Detroit over Bal-timore's Don Larsen, with Walt Dropo and Harvey Kuenn doing the heavy hitting.

PIERCE AIDED BY HITTERS

Jim Rivera, Minnie Minoso and Ferris Fain hit home runs that made Nellie Fox's 11th inning pitching stand up for a 6-5 Chicago edge over Cleveland in a game cut to six innings by rain. The second game was postponed.

The holiday crowds were disappointing, only 148,411 for the full program with the largest turnout at Milwaukee.

That Greengrass boy really had himself a day at Milwaukee, driving in four runs in the first game with a homer and a single and two more in the second with a double and single.

Mickey Mantle hit a 470-foot triple off the centrefield bleacher wall at Yanks' Stadium that sent the world champs looking for the tape measure.

Red-Hot Marlies Trim TeePees To Square Junior A Finals

TORONTO (CP)—Cold starters in the Ontario Hockey Association Junior A finals, Toronto Marlboros retained their new-found hot streak with a 5-1 victory over St. Catharines TeePees here Sunday.

The victory, third in a row for the Dukes, tied the best-of-seven series 3-3 and forced a seventh game in St. Catharines Tuesday. The winner will advance into the eastern Canada Memorial Cup finals against Quebec Frontenacs.

Dukes were hard hit when John Albani, their sharp five-foot, five-inch netminder, was injured four minutes from the end of the game. He may not be ready for Tuesday's clash.

Albani was struck at the corner of the left eye by a hard drive from Hugh Barlow. Bob Senior replaced him. Although doctors said the injury isn't serious, the blow puffed the netminder's eye so badly that he couldn't see through it.

Sports Roundup

By GAYLE TALBOT

NEW YORK (AP) — Samuel Jackson Hood has long been known as a man with tremendous respect for a dollar, and many of his friends would have tried to give him a few lessons on the just-completed Masters tournament if they had only been blessed with somewhat Sammy had on his mind.

As it was, Sam and his publishers knew that great stacks of "Natural Gold," the steamer's personal gift to golfing immortals had been run off the presses and were only awaiting Sam's one-stroke playoff victory over Ben Hogan to be rushed into the mails.

The only weakness in the plan in Sam's sales talk is that he admits—hey, Sammy boy, don't take a golfing lesson in his life. One is free to infer, too, that he was always a poor hitting golf balls to have read anything on the subject. However, by the time the reader finds this out he's already spent his quarter.

The latest thing in amateur tennis tournaments is to be unveiled here next Monday night when Tony Trabert, the United States champion, plays the No. 3 star, Vic Seixas, in the opening match of a round-robin series.

The following Monday night, Art Larsen, No. 3 in the national ranking, is scheduled to meet Gardnar Mulloy, No. 4. Both Seixas and Mulloy recently overseas appearances to play in the series, which will be opened by the Italian Tennis Association and is an operetta effort to revive their body to stir up interest in the amateur game.

Only a few weeks ago members of the Brooklyn Dodgers press corps were writing poetry about the unhappy situation of a little Italian lad named Sandy Amoros, who was wearing himself out trying to get into the Dodgers' veteran outfield.

Their efforts, all amusing and set to popular tunes, noted that Sandy was knocking down all the fences in Florida and was without much doubt the greatest thing to come along since Ty Cobb, but that opening day he would find himself back in Montreal.

Now the boys are beginning to wonder if their humor might have been misplaced, because not only still is around, but he begins to look like the hottest rookie in the league. Dan Dodson, who had been shopping for a left-handed pinch-hitter all winter, granted waivers on Country Slaughter because they believed Amoros was the better bet.

Variety of Sporting Things In Vicinity of Vancouver

By DON MATHESON
Canadian Press Staff Writer

VANCOUVER (CP) — Sceptics elsewhere may scoff at Vancouver sports reports with the Chamber of Commerce "Pacific Paradise" thrown in.

But to Sam Sport, a fellow with muscles, his inclination for the great outdoors and a workout, and not much money or time, the immediate vicinity is a definite sporting paradise.

Air astonishing variety of sporting things to do are situated within range of a 15 cent trolleybus ticket or a brief spin in the family car.

APRIL OUTING

Take a day off in April and prepare for a Cook's tour of all within reach. Remember, everything in this sample is within a half-hour of the centre of this city of 350,000.

Kids, fishing rod, tennis racquet, lifebelt, golf clubs, baseball or softball bat, and sweater over the shoulder please.

Twenty minutes from downtown, across the harbor in North Vancouver, are two all first-class golf courses, a Canadian ski championships at Grouse mountain are being held and a speed circle.

Down again, after a schuss or two, to the Capilano and Second Narrows golf and the Lions Gate suspension bridge spanning the harbor entrance. Through a heavy residential and shopping area runs the Capilano river. There's steelhead fishing, so inspires the rod. Sportsmen fathers are known to have taken a successful gamble and caught supper on the way home from work.

Tennis, anyone? Asphalt courts, public, free, in Stanley park, at the south end of the Lions Gate. The park is 1,000 acres, the world's greatest forest entirely inside a city, with man's puny works and playgrounds carved from the cornerstone.

HARBOR SAILING

After tennis, strap on the lifebelt and cool off with a sailboat spin around the harbor from the nearby dock.

On dry land again, 30 minutes or so further south, are eight golf courses within a 20-mile circle.

After three-quitting the 18th, how about softball or baseball for one of hundreds of commercial or community league teams? Or, soccer if you're a similar selection of teams?

The shot-gun? Still further south, a Lulu Island gun club for skeet shooting. In the end of February, a 30-mile trip would provide a skill session with black brant, ducks and geese.

Too tired for any other activity now? Bridgeman's and the Crystal pool, or bowling, let's watch some hockey or basketball playoffs.

Briton Favored In Boston Race

BOSTON (AP) — Britain's herasided Jimmy Peters was favored today as a strong international field of 178, including 11 Canadian road racers, lined up for the 58th annual running of the Boston marathon from suburban Hopkinton to Boston Garden.

The 34-year-old optician from London was the favorite off his brilliant record of 2:20.42 set in 1951.

Some 500,000 spectators are expected to line the race. The weather forecast was favorable—cool, quiet and overcast.

Foreign stars have dominated this event since 1945—when John A. Kelley of the United States led the pack. Gerry Cote of St. Hyacinthe, Que., won in 1946. Cote is not entered this year.

Runners in the Canadian contingent include George Rolland, Paul Ojanen, Jerry Cullen and Peter Gould, all of Toronto, and Andrew Nicol, a member of the RCN stu-dent in Ontario.

Basilio Wins Over Langlois

SYRACUSE, N.Y. (AP)—Carmen Basilio of Syracuse won a unanimous decision over Paris Langlois of France in a 10-round middleweight fight Saturday night. Basilio weighed 161, Langlois 159½.

There were no knockdowns. Langlois was warned repeatedly for holding and shoving and referee Al Berle took the eighth round away from him for unfair tactics.

Rich Ferguson Sets Record

LAWRENCE, Kan. (CP) — Rich Ferguson of Toronto, Iowa University distance runner, set a meet record of 9:20.4 in the 2,000-metre steeplechase at the Kansas relays Saturday. Ferguson, defending champion, easily shattered the old mark of 9:27 set by Tommy Deckard of Indiana in 1937.

Wes Santee of Kansas ran the mile in 4:03.1—second fastest ever run by an American—in winning that event. Santee holds the American mile record of 4:02.4.

Quebec Aces Edge Senators In Finals Opener

QUEBEC (CP)—Chubby Ellyett Buddy Boone added a sudden-death overtime goal for two third-period markers Sunday to give Quebec Aces a 4-3 victory over Ottawa Senators and the first game of their best-of-nine Quebec Hockey League finals.

Ray Powell notched the other goal for the winners. Jackie Gliesebrecht counted twice for Ottawa and Dusty Blair got a single.

Goalie Ray Frederick was a standout for the Senators, knocking down 32 shots.

The next two games are scheduled for Ottawa tonight and Wednesday.

ROYALS OUSTED

The Senators won their way into the finals by downing Montreal Royals 4-1 in Ottawa Saturday, taking the semi-final series 4-2 in the process.

Gerry Foley scored two goals, including the winner, and Bill (Red) Johnson got the other. Dickie Gray scored for Montreal.

Habs Restrained By 'Higher Ups' Says Stewart

DETROIT (AP)—Only one member of Montreal Canadiens — forward Gaye Stewart—congratulated Detroit Red Wings after they won the Stanley Cup hockey finals Friday night.

A former teammate of many of the Red Wings, Stewart attended the game after Detroit's 3-1 victory and said:

"I guess I should apologize for some of our fellows. They felt like I did and wanted to come out on the ice and shake Red Kelly's hand. But we were restrained from doing that by higher ups."

Stewart was traded by Detroit four years ago to New York Rangers for Edgar Laprade, whose dramatic goal in the "sudden death" period won the Red Wings their sixth Stanley Cup.

Detroit coaches noted the fact that none of the Canadiens, except Stewart, offered formal congratulations.

Walls May Meet Beshore

EDMONTON (CP)—The Edmonton boxing commission has given Promoter Shaky Barry permission to resume negotiations for a match between American heavyweight champion Earl Walls and Freddy Beshore of Los Angeles.

Barry said the Edmonton commission probably would not lift its suspension of Beshore "but it will be considered at the next meeting of the commission" by meeting Beshore in Edmonton sometime before May 7.

HOLD TRYOUT

TORONTO (CP)—Starting today, Toronto Maple Leafs of the National Hockey League will hold a week-long tryout school for 30 of Ontario's more promising young players, ranging from 14 to 19 years of age.

HORSE SENSE BRIDGE

By SAM GORDON
The Kibitzer

A normal bid asks partner for a normal answer. The replies from partners are interpreted according to the normal meanings of his bids; not something that is unusual or artificial.

An unusual bid asks partner for a first reply that is a special signal; a convention; a bid with an artificial meaning. Only after the convention reply does the bidding return to normalcy.

An opening bid of one is a normal bid. A bid of more than one is abnormal. It asks partner for a convention reply; an immediate response with an unnatural meaning of some kind.

As an example, an opening bid of two no-trump says: "Partner, I have almost but not quite enough for a game in no-trump. To make a game in no-trump I need at least one high card in your hand."

It also says: "If you have no help for me in your hand you may pass. If you have as much as a queen or higher in any suit, make a bid of some kind and we will go to game in no-trump."

♠9 8 5 3
♥Q 10 6 4
♣K 5 4

WEST
♥J 9 5 3
♦Q 10 9 8
♣J 10 9 8

EAST
♦7 5 4 2

SOUTH
♠10 6 4 2
♥A K
♦A K
♣A Q 3 2

The correct opening bid by south is a club. East must accordingly start with an opening bid or two no-trump. This was a special bid that asked for a special response from partner.

North would not be forced to bid if he did not have as much as a queen. But with two high cards there was enough for a response of three no-trump and the bidding ended there.

The opening lead from west was the club jack; top of his sequence. The top of a sequence lead is a preferred lead. It is more desirable than a small card from a long suit or any card from a short suit.

It looks as if declarer can take eight tricks. But a play that south can use will assure him a total of nine. There is nothing opponents can do to stop him. Look sharp and you will see it.

Movie Column

By BOB THOMAS

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — Today Richard Widmark checks out of his contract at 20th Century-Fox to try his wings as a free-lance actor.

Widmark leaves on an upswing of a sour note, but he isn't bitter about it. His last picture at the studio was "Broken Lance," and he expects to get the billing as under Spencer Tracy, Jean Peters and Robert Wagner. He commented:

"I suppose I could raise a big fuss about the role and the billing, but what good would it do me? It doesn't mean that much.

"Let's just seem kind of silly to me for a studio to spend seven years in building up a name, and then toss it away in the last picture."

Dick should worry. Since the word got around that he wasn't signing again at the studio, he has been up to his elbows in scripts. The first one he has chosen is "A Prize of Gold" for an independent company. He'll transport his family to England, and the film will be made there and in Germany. He has no immediate plans after that.

KNOWN AS TOUGH GUY

"But I intend to concentrate on movies for the next two years," he remarked. "I am going to try for good scripts, and if I can get them and really good pictures behind me, then I'll perhaps go back to the stage. The important thing is to consolidate my position in pictures. I like making movies."

"The audiences expect to see me as a rough-tough guy," he observed. "When I play a nice fellow, they're a little disappointed; they don't know what to make of it.

"Whatever I do will have the element of toughness they expect. But I don't intend to continue being the guy who says 'Follow me, men.' And I certainly don't intend to go back to giggling killers."

It was just such a part that first brought him fame in "Kiss of Death," in which he shot old lady to her death by toppling her wheelchair down a flight of stairs.

AT THE CAPITOL — Popular Addie Mundy gains new screen stature cast in the role of a United States Cavalry officer in Universal-International's Technicolor "Column South," also starring Jean Peters, Arthur Kennedy, Ray Collins and Frank Faylen. Lee Sholem directed from a screen program "The World in His Arms" in Technicolor, starring Gregory Peck and Ann Blyth. Both films are now showing at the Capitol Theatre with matinees daily at 2.00 p.m. all this week.

Pall of Dust

TORONTO (CP)—A fine pall of dust fell on Toronto Sunday just in time for the various Easter parades.

On the city's fringes, the restricted visibility appeared to be the result of clouds. In downtown areas, it seemed to be a by-product of factory smoke.

The weather man said it was neither. It was dust from North Dakota.

The weather office said strong winds lashed across the north-central United States and sent loose specks of topsoil high into the air.

AT THE BELLE — Robert Taylor and Ann Blyth open their honeymoon on a Saturday whaling expedition with Taylor's feuding brother, Stewart Granger, coming close to breaking up the young marriage. The scene is from M.G.M.'s action-filled Technicolor drama "All the Brothers Were Valiant." It opens today at the Belle Theatre.

AT THE McCARTHY—Fugitive lovers in the Canadian wilderness hunted woman Shelley Winters and Northwest Mountie Alan Ladd are the dramatic and romantic centre of interest in Universal-International's Technicolor production of "Saskatchewan", which was filmed in its entirety in Canada's Rockies, and is now playing at the Odeon McCarthy Theatre.

Your Individual Horoscope

BY FRANCES DRAKE

Look in the section in which your birthday comes and find what your outlook is, according to the stars.

FOR TUESDAY, APRIL 20, 1954

March 21 to April 20 (Aries) — Be calm: do not waste time remembering unpleasant things; never recall the happy ones. By dwelling on the brighter side of mental day, the one can have more of it. Prayer brings contentment.

April 21 to May 20 (Taurus) — Be individual in your approach; take the initiative where it could benefit your activities. Expect good results and you will help to insure them. Be reasonably energetic, a thinker.

May 21 to June 21 (Gemini) — Fairly stimulating rays. Observe openings and act; don't just wait for things to come to you. Be active in truly charitable interests; give some special attention to those under your care.

June 22 to July 23 (Cancer) — Watch business and financial matters carefully; give them budget extra scrutiny. Awaken to advantages around you which are too often allowed to pass unnoticed. Some contentment and fortune.

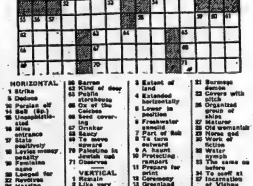
July 24 to August 22 (Leo) — Avoid truly lasting benefits, especially in matters close to your home, children, family. And no matter what you have not got, realize that what you do have is much more than many others have.

August 23 to September 22 (Virgo)—Take time to think things over before you rush in to study details carefully. Extra thought and analysis of current problems needed, then fine improvements. No rash chance-taking!

September 24 to October 23 (Libra)—You may have to put the brakes on ambitions a bit. Mind that you keep your promises; there are some irritating circumstances that could upset your disposition.

October 24 to November 22 (Scorpio)—Excellent vibrations for you wide-awake ones. However you cannot run matters, can set in your own way and slow yourself up if not watchful. Moderation in all things for true gains.

November 23 to December 22 (Sagittarius)—A rather non-commital day. It isn't alone what we do that gets us our assets, it is also how we do it. Also, don't give yourself a margin for shrinkage.



December 23 to January 21 (Capricorn)—A moderately routine day. Take care of matters that affect personal affairs, home; heed community's welfare. Have respect for opposition; make logical decisions.

January 22 to February 20 (Aquarius) — Enthusiasm is a "must" if you would gain the benefits possible today. Be alert to the fact that others are reaching for the same goals as you.

February 21 to March 20 (Pisces)—Configurations indicate that you can get much for which you strive by earnest endeavor. And no matter how small the gain, don't shrug it off. It can be augmented with continued good effort.

YOU BORN TODAY: Venus, goddess of love and Mars, god of aggression, were prominent in the heavens when you entered this life. They represent powerful influences and should be carefully nurtured. Go forth in the knowledge that you can do great good. Do not be too impulsive, over-enthusiastic. You like the good things of life, appreciate the arts, poetry and making money; can be an interesting conversationalist, make friends easily. Overcome tendencies to cynicism, hasty decisions, thoughtlessness where danger is concerned. Live right.

Birthdate: Dinah M. Craik Eng. novelist; Napoleon III, Fr. emperor.

Guided Missile Range Extended By 3,500 Miles

WASHINGTON (AP) — The United States Air Force plans to extend its 1,000-mile-long guided-missile range in the Atlantic ocean by 2,500 miles.

The total range now stretches from Florida to Puerto Rico. The projected extension would carry it to tiny Ascension island, in the south Atlantic midway between Brazil and Africa.

The proposed extension was disclosed during air force secret budget testimony before a congressional appropriations sub-committee, made public Monday night.

A censored text of a speech by Defence Secretary Charles Wilson also was released, quoting him as saying the U. S., while vulnerable, is "relatively secure" from atomic attack and that "the Russians have been much more afraid of us than we are of them."

Pacific Defence Line Might Fold If Vietminh Win

WASHINGTON (AP) — Senator Styles Bridges (Rep.-N. H.) said Monday night the joint chiefs of staff favor the United States could not hold a defence line from Hawaii to the Aleutian islands if the Communists should overrun Southeast Asia.

Bridges, chairman of the Senate appropriations committee, said in a speech prepared for the Daughters of the American Revolution that "we have made our decision" to attempt to hold Indo-China. The fact is, he said, for America's allies to "stand up and be counted" in the face of virtually "victorious division of the free world."

Nixon Denies Indo-China 'Trial Balloon'

NEW YORK (AP)—The New York Times says today that Vice-President Richard Nixon of the United States makes a point that he did not go to last Friday's meeting of the American Society of Newspaper Editors in Washington to launch a trial balloon on an interventionist policy on Indo-China.

A Washington dispatch to the Times by James Reston says Nixon is disturbed about some of the reaction to his controversial speech on possible U.S. armed intervention in the Indo-China war.

Reston says that friends that Nixon makes include these:

1. He did not clear his notes in advance with anybody and especially told his audience that only two men were authorized to speak for official U.S. foreign policy—President Eisenhower and State Secretary Dulles.

2. He talked in the belief that his remarks would not be attributed to anybody. His mistake, as he now sees it, was in allowing the reporters to talk him into "attributing the speech to a "high administration official."

3. He thinks the editors and publishers failed to produce any flow of public information if they insist that all "talks" or speeches by government officials to newspaper people be attributed.

THE WEATHER

TORONTO, (CP) — Synopsis: The cool weather will persist over Ontario and the very warm air over southeastern- United States has moved as far north as of the lower lakes for the past two days. Cloud and rain extend northward from this berdering line to cover all of southern Ontario. In central and northern regions, skies are clear. This morning's weather map indicates April showers will be common throughout southern Ontario for the next two days while sunshine will be general in northern regions.

OTTAWA (CP)—Queen Mother Elizabeth will pay a short visit to Ottawa in mid-November following a trip to Washington where she will be guest of President and Mrs. Eisenhower.

The Queen Mother, who capitvated Canadians with her gracious personality when she last visited this country in 1939 with the late King George VI, will arrive in Ottawa from Washington Friday, Nov. 12.

Government House announced today that she will be the guest of Governor-General Vincent Massey and will be in the Ottawa area for a few days before returning to the United Kingdom. It is expected that she will leave for home Sunday, Nov. 16.

The announcement said it is not expected that she will have time to visit other Canadian cities. Developments in the course of the Ottawa visit have not been formulated and will be announced later.

The Queen Mother is expected to be the fourth member of the Royal Family to visit Canada this year. Another royal visitor will be Emperor Haile Selassie of Ethiopia who will pay a one-day state visit to Ottawa June 3.

On Visit Overseas

The Duke of Edinburgh, now in the Far East with the Queen, plans to fly from Fiji July 28 for a three-week, cross-country air trip. He will visit the Royal Canadian Mounted Police Games in Vancouver and get a first-hand look at Canada's expanding northern developments.

The Duchess of Kent, widow of the Duke of Kent who was killed in a plane crash in Scotland in 1942, will visit Canada this summer with her 17-year-old daughter, Princess Alexandra. The duchess has been invited to open the Canadian National Exhibition in Toronto Aug. 27.

The Queen Mother is expected to arrive in New York by ship early in November. She will spend about 10 days in Washington and Ottawa before the Canadian visit.

The 53-year-old mother of Queen Elizabeth toured Canada in 1939 with her husband.

YMCA at White River Is Damaged by Blaze

WHITE RIVER (CP)—Fire of unknown origin Monday night destroyed the three-storey YMCA building here, razing it down to the foundation.

Rangers from the White River forest protection district department of lands and forests rushed several portable pumps to the scene while the local volunteer fire department fire engine was pressed into service. Water was pumped from Dog Lake to put out the fire.

Firemen were forced to be heavy with considerable damage to the lower floors from smoke and water.

Pearson in London

LONDON (CP)—L. B. Pearson, Canadian external affairs minister, arrived here by air today en route to Geneva for conference of international meetings.

Asked by reporters whether he took a favorable view of the prospect for the Geneva meeting, Pearson replied: "I never go to a conference without hope."

Security Officials Satisfied Mrs. Petrov Not 'Soviet' Plant

CANBERRA (AP) — Australian security officials are convinced one of the main reasons Mrs. Evdokia Petrov decided to seek asylum was that she believed her action could not further endanger her husband in Russia.

They believe she realized she was returning to Russia with an uncertain fate that her relatives inevitably would have suffered with her. Security men believe she expected to be asked why she had not informed on her husband.

Other facts which emerge after long cabinet discussions on the Petrov affair and its political ramifications are:

1. Security officials have reported they are satisfied Mrs. Petrov was not a Soviet "plant" aimed at discovering her husband's activities.

2. The Commonwealth government does not yet know whether she will co-operate by giving evidence before a royal commission. So far discussions have been confined to the question of her asylum.

3. Mrs. Petrov is still resting at Darwin. The government has not decided how or when she will be brought south but as soon as possible she will be taken to her husband.

4. She still is a highly terrified woman as a result of the strain she has undergone in the last fortnight and fears for her family in Russia.

It is believed she has a mother and three sisters.

School Problems Fully Discussed At Convention

Child's Fear of School Sometimes Instilled

TORONTO (CP)—Every teacher is faced with the problem of a child running home from his first day at school, an educationist said Monday.

Dr. Stanley Montgomery, director of the suburban East York and Leaside child guidance clinic, said that is why it is important to have a favorable classroom climate in the first few weeks of kindergarten.

Dr. Montgomery was one of many speakers at separate meetings in the first day of the 85th annual convention of the Ontario Education Association. The convention ends April 22.

Dr. Montgomery told a luncheon meeting of school inspectors that in some cases a fear of school had been instilled by an adult or an older child. It was necessary to have such children relearn the pattern of the school.

TEAMWORK ESSENTIAL

Dr. Ruth E. Grout, professor at the University of Minnesota, told the physical education and school health section that teamwork is essential in school physical programs.

Parental leaders of the community should be sought, she said, and these include anyone from the mayor down to the bartender who is recognized by the community as a leader.

Dr. Delbert Oberteuffer of the University of Ohio, said the boy or man being is meant to lead an active life and it is the opportunity for physical education teachers to pass on skills and abilities.

He addressed 200 physical education teachers. He said he had noticed in Canada that sport is a part of the fabric of life.

Publishers Convene to Study Their Problems

NEW YORK (AP) — Newspaper publishers from throughout the United States and Canada gathered here today to discuss developments within their field and to try to find answers to mutual problems.

The decline in the purchasing dollar, particularly on smaller papers, is expected to be a complication from other news media; and circulation problems are two of both challenges were prime topics as the American Newspaper Publishers Association opened its 83th annual convention.

More than 1,000 persons are attending the meeting, which will close Thursday following an address by President Eisenhower.

David B. Lindsay Jr. of the Sandusky (Ohio) Register-Star-News, chairman of the panel for Monday under ANPA direction, said the members "must, with limited staffs and limited incomes, search for new ways to serve readers, for service to their communities and at the same time contend with increasing competition for the advertiser's dollar and the reader's time."

PROFITS NARROWING

Richard W. Slocum, vice-president of the ANPA, told the discussion panel for newspapers between 20,000 and 50,000 circulation:

"One subject of paramount concern to all executives . . . it the question of the gradually narrowing margin between the cost of operation and revenue."

Pock-Marked Windshields Baffle Canadian Motorists

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

The case of the pock-marked windshields is continuing to baffle Canadian motorists and scientists alike.

As reports of the mysterious windshield blemishes spread from British Columbia to Alberta and leaphopped into Ontario, the B.C. attorney-general's department was reported preparing to throw the full scientific weight of the B.C. research council into the mystery. First reports of the pock-marks came from west United States three weeks ago.

Adding to the mystery, described by police chief Walter Mulligan of Vancouver as "95 per cent mass hysteria," was the sudden shattering of two pairs of eye glasses in Vancouver Monday.

Chief Mulligan's hysteria theory was supported by Dr. Gordon Shrum, head of the University of B.C.'s physics department who examined samples of windshield dust gathered over to him by Vancouver police for testing.

FIRST-HAND EVIDENCE

Dr. Shrum said he could find no trace of radio-activity and no trace of anything else one would not particularly expect to find scarring tiags taken from a windshield. However, he had no comment for publication when, later in the day he found the tiny pits all over the windshield of his own late-model automobile.

Chief Mulligan said it was his belief "that mass hysteria is playing a big part in all these rumors." He added:

"This is the time of year when dust, sand and bits of gravel begin to be thrown at cars from the car ahead. These particles naturally scratch windshields to some extent."

His comment failed to impress members of his own traffic force who reported seeing pit-marks appear on their windshields last week-end while a grayish-ash was noticed falling on the city.

Large numbers of motorists in B.C. and in the Pacific northwest United States have blamed the ash for small pock-marks, described as ranging from the size of a pin-head to a 10-cent piece, appearing on their windshields.

RADIOLARIANS TO BLAME?

At Victoria, biologist Paul H. D. Parizeau said the ash might be caused by radiolarians, tiny single-celled animals that live in countless billions in the oceans of the world. He said any tremendous upheaval such as that caused by recent H-bomb blasts in the Pacific would blow the radiolarians into the stratosphere where they would harden and fall to earth as ash.

However, he did not mention the pock-marking phenomenon itself and gave no explanation of how radiolarians might damage glass.

First Alberta reports of the glass-pitted phenomena came from three Edmonton motorists and a Calgary man Monday. The same day Elwyn Logan, 35, of Windsor, Ont., stopped laughing at West Coast reports of glass pitting when his new windshield became pitted as he crossed the Ambassador bridge to Detroit.

Victoria police, who have been besieged by complaints from irate motorists and used car dealers, said the attorney general's department will have the B.C. research council investigate the reports.

Family Burial Crypt Broken Into by Vandals

TORONTO (CP)—A family burial crypt in Mount Pleasant cemetery has been broken open and one of the coffins disturbed and desecrated, police said Monday.

Police said they believe somebody was searching for valuables thought to have been in the coffin. It was the first such case in the city's history.

Chief constable John Chisholm refused to identify the family vault. Police will examine it today.

The broken vault was discovered by a cemetery employee. A heavy padlock and chain at the vault door was smashed. Marble slabs in the crypt were pried loose.

DAMAGE EXCEEDS TAKE

HAMILTON (CP)—Thieves left a theatre in disgust Saturday night after hacking vainly at an office safe with a pickax. They left a note: "Better luck next time." Police said the work, apparently done by amateurs, damaged the safe but failed to get into it.

Casey Opposes Armistice In Indo-China

LONDON (Reuters)—Australian External Affairs Minister R. G. Casey said on arrival here Monday that an armistice in Indo-China "would mean the almost immediate loss of the whole of Indo-China to the Communists."

Casey, who is here for talks with Foreign Secretary Eden, State Secretary Dulles and French Foreign Minister Bidault, added that "the retention of Southeast Asia in general and Indo-China in particular in non-Communist hands is of great importance to Europe."

Recover Boy's Body

WINDSOR, Ont. (CP) — The body of Roger Featherington, 8, of nearby Puce, was recovered early today from Puce creek, after several hours of dragging by provincial police and Tecumseh firemen. The lad left his home on a fishing trip Monday morning. His lunch pail and fishing pole later were found in the creek, and dragging commenced.

PRINCE WELCOMED ABOARD

Five-year-old Prince Charles has all the bearing of a seasoned traveller here as he is welcomed aboard the royal yacht Britannia by Captain J. Dalgliah for what is the young prince's first voyage. Looking on is his grandmother, Queen Mother Elizabeth. Prince Charles and Princess Anne are on their way for a family reunion with Queen Elizabeth and the Duke of Edinburgh at Tobruk, Libya. The prince insisted on walking across the gangway by himself, grasping firmly the gleaming brass of the rail.

Thirteen Babies, Smoke-Choked, Die After Fire

Toll Mounts Steadily After Hospital Blaze

READING, England (Reuters)— Only two babies survived today of the 15 newborn infants dragged from a blazing maternity ward here Easter Sunday, and they are dangerously ill in oxygen tents.

Three more babies died today after doctors had worked all night on the smoke-sechked little victims. All of whom had been rescued from the burning nursery by nurse Freda Hollyer.

One child died during the fire, and hour by hour Monday the death toll mounted. By midnight 10 of the infants—most of them only a few days old—were dead.

"YARD" INVESTIGATING

Scientists from Scotland Yard have been called in to help check the cause of the tragic fire, which swept up from the boiler room immediately under the nursery.

The surviving babies are mentally by pneumonia, caused by smoke in their lungs. Injections of penicillin and cortisone are being given them.

Mothers of the dead babies are reported to be "as well as can be expected." Some fathers of the survivors have been allowed to see their children.

Romania Follows New Red Pattern Of Split Control

VIENNA (AP) — Communist Romania appears to be following the Premier Gheorghe Gheorghiu-Dej has resigned as general secretary of the Romanian Communist party, but the action was in line with a similar division of governmental and party responsibilities already carried out in the Soviet Union, Hungary and Poland.

The announcement, broadcast by Radio Bucharest and heard in this Austrian capital, said the top party post had been taken over by Gheorghe Apostol, who gave up his post as deputy premier and minister of agriculture to take on the new duties.

Radio Bucharest said the shift was ordered by the party's central committee.

MOSCOW RULING

The pattern for separation of the top government and party posts in the Communist bloc was laid down in Moscow following the death of Stalin last year. The Russian dictator had been both premier and secretary-general of the Soviets Party, and in the shakeup after his death Georgi Malenkov became the government chief and Nikita S. Khrushchev subsequently took over as party chief.

Subsequently Hungarian Matyas Rakosi gave up his premiership but kept on as party boss, and in 1 member of his party politburo. Last month Bolesław Bierut turned the premier's post in Poland over to Josef Cyrankiewicz and himself became president of the republic.

The two posts have been separate in Czechoslovakia since the death of President Klement Gottwald. He was succeeded in the presidency by Premier Antonin Zapotocky. Viliam Siroky became premier, and Antonin Novotny eventually was named first secretary of the party central committee.

Duke States Knowledge Dangerous If We Do Not Produce Wise People

KANDY, Ceylon (AP)—The Duke of Edinburgh, opening Ceylon's new university at suburban Peradeniya today, told a huge crowd that accumulation of knowledge is dangerous "unless we produce men and women with the wisdom to know how to use it."

With Queen Elizabeth beside him wearing a deep jade dress with matching winged hat, the duke said:

"The free atmosphere of a university is preserved and enhanced by the self-restraint and self-discipline urgently needed to expose fallacies and uncontrolled emotion as the greatest enemies of knowledge and wisdom.

"Science can be turned to useful as well as destructive purposes, and discoveries of those who study it should be beheld as a duty to enlighten and improve—or hood-wink and destroy.

"The power for both is immense and growing. If our civilization it to survive, men and women of the highest integrity and moral strength is to control that power."

The conference of the 40,000,000 rupee ($350,000) university was laid by the Duke of Gloucester six years ago.

The Queen appeared fresh and rested despite two hours spent watching the "Raja Perahera," procession which lasted until well after midnight.

The royal couple sail from Ceylon Wednesday for home.

Russian Woman Rescued by Police From Armed Reds

Joins Ex-Diplomat Husband As Refugee from Reston

DARWIN, Australia (AP) — Mrs. Vladimir Petrov today joined her ex-diplomat husband as a refugee from Soviet Communism after Australian police jerked loaded pistols away from two Russian escorts ushering her back to Moscow.

The 35-year-old woman's last-minute switch to the Free World followed a fantastic tug-of-war in which the police wrestled wildly to disarm two of her Russian guards as her Europe-bound plane stopped here after the first leg of its flight from Sydney. The gunstoting Russians had tried to prevent local officials from talking to Mrs. Petrov.

Eight hours earlier some 1,500 persons at Sydney fought with police in a vain effort to prevent her from being dragged aboard the British Overseas Airways Corporation Constellation by the Soviet embassy second secretary and the two armed Russian diplomatic couriers who were sent to Australia to escort her home.

While Russians in the crowd said they heard her screaming: "I do not want to go, save me!" Mrs. Petrov was said by Australian authorities to have started to tell the Russian girl that both her husband had been kidnapped and killed. She had told reporters at an embassy press conference last week that she thought he had been murdered.

FINAL DECISION

She made her final decision to stay after a pre-arranged telephone talk with Darwin barrister Ian Hill with her 45-year-old husband since he fled early this month with Red espionage data during the visit of a third secretary and MVD (secret police) chief at the Soviet embassy in Canberra.

The riotous episodes surrounding Mrs. Petrov's flight promise serious diplomatic repercussions between Australia and the Kremlin. Soviet ambassador Nicolai Generalov immediately lodged a formal protest at the Australian foreign ministry, charging "armed assault against diplomatic couriers and detention of a Soviet official, to wit: Mrs. Petrov."

Prime Minister Robert C. Menzies called a cabinet meeting to discuss the possibility that the Russians might retaliate against the small Australian embassy staff in Moscow.

Angry Russians Reach Singapore

SINGAPORE (Reuters) — Three angry Russians landed here this afternoon on an airliner from Australia on their way to Moscow to report the case of Mrs. Evdokia Petrov "kidnapped" by Australian police early today at Darwin.

The Russians, embassy official from Canberra and two couriers, shouldered their way through reporters to the airport control and hurried to a hotel. They will leave by plane Wednesday, one hour after the failure of their mission.

They refused to make any comment, but were obviously angry.

Reporters pressed F. V. Kislitchenko, second secretary of the Russian embassy in Canberra, about reports that he might also ask asylum in the west.

Kislitchin, whose wife and one child are still in Canberra, refused to answer. But he appeared extremely distressed.

At the Raffles Hotel, the three Russians shut themselves up in a hotel room, while reporters hammered on the door.

Mrs. Petrov Said Drugged By Red Guards

SYDNEY, Australia (Reuters)— A Russian-born anti - Communist said today that Mrs. Evdokya Petrov was drugged when she was put aboard a plane for a trip back to Russia that ended when Aus' tralian police rescued her at Darwin from her Soviet guards.

N. P. Harkoff, leader of a group of White Russians here, said his supporters had rushed Mrs. Petrov's guards at the plane before it took off from Sydney after they heard her call for help in Russian. The wife of the Soviet embassy secretary who fled to asylum in Australia last week apparently had chosen carrier to go back behind the Iron Curtain.

Harkoff said that during the airport struggle "Mrs. Petrov was so obviously drugged that she couldn't respond to the opportunity as well as we had expected."

Soldier Suffers Broken Back In Accident,

Five young soldiers on their way back to camp at Camp Borden after spending Easter leave at their homes in Nova Scotia had their return trip broken when their car, travelling today when their car went off the highway west of Marysville, overturned across a ditch and plowed over 300 feet through a fence and into an open field.

One of the soldiers, Pte. Donald Vincent Burke, 25, suffered a broken back, while the driver of the car, Earl Black, of Lone Branch, suffered severe facial lacerations. Both men were taken to Belleville hospital by Thompson's ambulance.

The car was westbound when at the end of the straight stretch of road west of Marysville, the vehicle failed to negotiate a curve and plowed through the ditch and out into the field. Passengers were rudely bounced about as the car crossed the ditch and struck some bumps in the field. The vehicle was badly damaged, but four of the six occupants escaped with a shaking up.

Provincial Constable Al Macleod said that the driver, not being familiar with the highway, was apparently a contributing cause for the accident. The driver of the car was the only man not in the service.

Predicts Great Future For Butler Artists

Cara and Gregg Butler, children of Mr. and Mrs. E. Ormonde Butler, who are the guest artists at the Rotary-Centennial concert and also recital being held in the Collegiate auditorium on April 28, are two young Canadian pianists whose development will be watched with much interest.

That is the opinion of Miss Mona Bates, internationally famous pianist and teacher, under whose tutelage the talented young stars have reached their present high status in the realm of music.

Sister and brother teams, who are equally at home in solo and ensemble work, are rare, says Miss Bates.

"In their case, the combination of the necessary requisites in the artistic field, is quite unique. With unusual talent—intelligence —personality—character, and the capacity for work, which has given them equipment beyond their years, a bright future can be confidently suggested for them."

Miss Bates is widely recognized as one of the most brilliant artists this country has produced. Her many appearances in recital and with orchestras in the leading musical centres of the world have been an unbroken series of triumphs.

During the war she founded and conducted her now famous ten-piece band. With this remarkable ensemble she has raised over $50,000 for the Red Cross and other charitable organizations.

With a charm and integrity commensurate with her great ability she has an unchallenged position as one of the great women of Canada.

Easter Message Given Rotarians By Brig. Dickson

"Use Easter Seals," the slogan for the 1954 Belleville and District Children's committee was used as the title for an interesting, and brief message delivered to the weekly luncheon meeting of the club Monday morning by Brigadier A. Dickson of the Salvation Army.

Brigadier Dickson, elaborating on each word in the slogan, stated that Easter, "is a symbol of hope and conviction that no one need be without something inspirational about it.

"There is the thought of death at Easter," said Brig. Dickson, "but death is not a despondency at any time. At Easter we are convinced that there has been a victory over death and there could be a resurrection. This resurrection brings with it the sure conviction of hope and the conviction that no one need be despondency."

The speaker pointed out that the seal of the first Easter was the sealing up of the tomb and that Christ, by His resurrection, broke the seals of despair and despondency and left in its place a certainty of hope that could not be. Brig. Dickson stated that the word "use" usually implies a privy purpose in mind. Using to be used and that the use of anything has its purpose. The price, explained the speaker, requires the assumption of some responsibility or obligation.

He urged Rotarians to assume their responsibilities in the execution of club projects and to look to the future with optimism.

He concluded his address by stating that the unseen hand of God will bear us, the peoples of the world and their hopes despite the appearance of the A-bomb and the H-bomb.

The speaker was introduced by Rev. Ralph Middleton and the thanks of the club were expressed by Bill Morrison.

Jack Deacon reported on the progress of the ticket committee in relation to the forthcoming duo piano concert of Cara and Gregg Butler.

Harry Ackerman introduced the guests and Harold Mott, president over the meeting.

Tries to Swim Moira on Bet, Leonard Wood Nearly Drowns

Acting on a bet that he could swim the fast flowing Moira river almost proved fatal for 17-year-old Leonard Wood of Cannifton Road on Sunday afternoon. The lad attempted to swim the river across a regid section and the fast current swept him 200 yards downstream before he was pulled ashore.

The teen-aged lad donned his bathing suit and struck out across the river, but the current caught him and he was swept downstream against a concrete bridge abutment. Ernest Brooks, Moira street, plunged in fully clothed after him and with the assistance of others brought the semi-conscious lad ashore.

Today the lad is suffering no ill effects from his adventure but has decided to wait until the river subsides before doing any more swimming. Leonard is the adopted son of Mr. and Mrs. Clifford Wood, R.R. 8, Belleville.

Says Indo-China Peace Talks Are Being Held

NEW YORK (AP) — An NBC reporter in Tokyo said today that had been informed "highly secret meetings" are on between French officials and Ho Chi Minh in Saigon in an effort to work out peace in Indo-China.

James Robinson, the radio correspondent, said he had been given the information by a senior member of the native anti-Communist government in Viet Nam.

He added that other "competent" officials had told him that two months ago French Defence Minister Rene Plevin met Communist representatives and an aircraft carrier off Saigon and proposed a peace settlement.

ANAF Veterans Volunteer Blood Donations to Bank

What is said to be a precedent in city organization annals for "blood" assistance to members, and to humanity in general, is seen in recent action taken by the Army, Navy, Air Force Veterans in Canada Branch No. 201; Belleville.

President Henry Drury said today that 140 members have thus far volunteered to give blood donations to the bank of the Belleville General Hospital, for use in members and families should the emergency arise.

The blood will also be available to hospital patients in general if necessary with amounts credited to the ANAF and replaced in due course.

"The number of blood donor volunteers is expected to swell to 200 within the next few days," the president said.

All arrangements are being typed at the rate of 20 per week. They are standing by for emergency calls at all times.

Names of the volunteers are inscribed on a handsome board in the spacious club-rooms of the branch on Front Street. The board, some four-and-one-half feet square, is placed in a gold-limited frame with a blend of red, white and blue. Topping the board is a semi-circular arch, which is painted an aircraft, a tank and a destroyer, symbolic of the armed services. The ANAF crest is placed below.

As a donor gives his blood a silver star is placed against his name. Those giving three donations will receive a gold star.

Members of the branch were addressed a short time ago by Dr. Hans Lucke, Belleville General Hospital, physician, on the importance of blood in the case of accident and disease.

"All those of the members has been wonderful, and is a distinct credit to them and the branch to which they belong," president Drury said. "They are now assured that plenty of blood will be available should they or their families need it."

Record of Kinsmen as Service Club Outlined at Meeting

The record of Kinsmen as a service club, its expansion and the public service it has provided since its inauguration in Hamilton just over 30 years ago, was outlined at an inter-club meeting of district Kinsmen clubs held Monday evening at the Hotel Quinte.

Club members from Picton, Trenton, Campbellford, Tweed and Kingston were guests of the Belleville club for the inter-club night and heard "Hal" Rogers, Kinsmen founder, tell heart touching stories of the welfare work Kinsmen had done down through the years.

"Friendship was a big selling point for Kinsmen clubs during the early days—and it still is—but if friendship is all that you are getting out of it, then you better get out," the Kin founder told the meeting.

"Service is now the club's purpose and it is because of that purpose that Kin has grown and will continue to grow forever."

CHALLENGE OFFERED

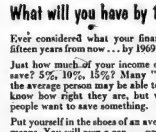
Many individual club projects had been carried out prior to 1939, but World War II offered a challenge and proved a testing point for Kinsmen. As a young man's service Fund, which saw the membership of Kin was lost to the war. At the same time it gained double the membership from men outside the service, who were anxious to serve.

Mr. Rogers referred to the millions of magazines collected, sorted and shipped to service personnel overseas; to the Milk for Britain Fund, which saw more than two and a half million dollars collected to buy milk for kiddies in Britain during the war years, and to other projects associated with the war effort.

"It was a challenge fulfilled through the co-operation of the people of Canada," he said.

Mr. Rogers said he was proud to be one of the founders of Kinsmen and was glad that the original club of just six members had grown to world institution of over 10,000 members. The welfare work of Kinsmen was known the world over.

TRIBUTE PAID



Tribute to the late Barney C. Slater, one of the co-founders of Kin and former manager of the Dominion Bank here, was paid by Mr. Rogers, following his introduction by Mr. Slater's son, Jim. "I am happy to meet the son of one of my co-founders," he said. "Barney's death was a loss to Kinsmen and to Canada."

Deputy Governor for Zone 1 of Kinsmen district No. 6 Clifford Holmes, of Kingston, was master of ceremonies for the evening's program, and introduced head table guests, including Mayor of Belleville district clubs.

Deputy Governor Bruce Harvey of Ottawa, told his listeners that Kinsmen in district 6 had reason to be proud of service given. He referred specifically to the two Montreal clubs, which has raised over $200,000 which had been contributed to a campaign to fight cerebral palsy "Kin is a young man's club dedicated to service," he said.

Four new members of the Belleville Kinsmen, Ken Boyce, Ron McNeil, and Howie Walsh, were inducted by "Banty" Banville, secretary of Kin from national since 1933. Kinsmen pins were presented by the founder "Hal" Rogers.

Entertainment for the evening was provided by Doug Aselstine, Belleville pantomime artist, Jack Emmett, McFarlin, piano playing duo from Trenton, and Ralph Clarke, Kingston, comedian humorous personality. Thanks to the speakey were expressed by Sam Gentile, Picton club president.

What will you have by 1969...?

Ever considered what your financial position will be fifteen years from now . . . by 1969?

Just how much of your income do you think you can save? 5%, 10%, 15%? Many "budgeteers" say that the average person may be able to save 10%. We don't know how right they are, but we do feel that most people want to save something.

Put yourself in the shoes of an average man of moderate means. You will own a car . . . probably a recent model . . . your home will be well furnished, and you may be paying off a mortgage. But once you've done this, you may feel that you can save at least $500 a year and still live comfortably.

Now, what will you have by 1969?

By just "saving" $500 a year, putting it in the cookie jar . . . you will have $7,500. By putting it into a savings account at 2% you'll have over $8,500.

But suppose instead you invest your $500 a year in "blue chip" securities at an average yield of 4% . . . a conservative return under present conditions : : : you may be surprised to know that your $7,500 of savings will grow by over $2,900 : : : and you'll have over $10,400 by 1969. Quite a difference, isn't it.

But to get started on such a programme requires more than just picking securities out of a hat and buying five hundred dollars worth each year. It means having a personalized programme drawn up for you. It means a programme designed to fill your wants and meet your requirements. It means a periodic security checkup to maintain quality and balance. It's a specialized job for somebody . . . somebody with experience. That's where we come in.

Perhaps you'd like to have a chat with us : : : you will be welcome in any of our offices either personally or by mail.

Inch and Half Of Rain Falls Since Thursday

Into each life a little rain must fall—and everything but little has been a lot and the 1½ has been consistent as far as residents of Belleville are concerned.

Records at the filtration plant here reveal that an inch and a half of rain has fallen during the past five days. And not a day has passed without April living up to her reputation for showers. Heaviest rainfall, was on Good Friday, when .31 inches of rain pelted down. On Saturday the rainfall was only .02 inches, a similar amount fell on Sunday, and on Monday the drizzle was reduced to .01 inches. But on Tuesday the skies opened again. By 8 a.m. .61 inches had fallen and then, just when many Belleville residents were going to work the downpour started. Another .34 inches fell before the skies started to clear around 10 o'clock. Skies were still overcast at noon, but the rainfall for the two hours amounted to .84 inches, not quite equal to Good Friday's output, but still high, bringing the total rainfall for five days to exactly an inch and a half.

BARTENDER KILLS GUNMEN

MARSEILLES (Reuters) — Two notorious Marseilles gangsters were shot dead and a third fatally injured last night when a young bartender foiled an armed holdup attempt. Three men had the manager of the bar at pistol point, when his bartender brother seized two heavy cane revolvers from behind the counter and opened fire.

Merchants Will Hold 3-Day Sale Of Super Values

The Retail Merchants section of the Belleville Chamber of Commerce decided to hold a three-day program of Belleville Super Values on May 27, 28, and 29, at a meeting held this morning.

Howard Weber, Weber, Ltd., has been named chairman of the committee to promote this super value program. The committee hopes to have about 70 local merchants participating in the program with each one holding a special sale of a different item.

The three days of super values will be advertised heavily in the Ontario Intelligencer, on radio station CJBQ, and through the promotional facilities of the Chamber of Commerce.

WILL CONDUCT CAMPAIGN

A membership campaign for the Belleville Chamber of Commerce has been announced by the Chamber.

The campaign canvass, which will commence May 1st, is being preceded by an advertising campaign to acquaint prospective members with the purposes of the Chamber and its program of activities.

The campaign committee, under the chairmanship of Bill Wills of Wills Hardware, will contact 150 prospective new members with literature before the canvass commences. The Chamber hopes to add 100 new members to its present membership of 375.

RINGING IN A CHANGE

The inexorable triumph of science is rapidly bringing nearer the fateful day when eavesdropping on the rural party line will be no more. This coherer in the national system is currently being written in experiments near custom is currently being written in experiments near Americus, Georgia, by the Bell Telephone Company. Bell Telephone Laboratory engineers are trying out a plan to transistorize rural telephone systems. Such a plan, if successful, would permit the carrying of several calls on a rural line simultaneously without scrambling or mixup. This is the same plan now in use on transmission of long distance telephone calls. Inexpensive transistors made of germanium crystals that act like vacuum tubes but consume less and have a lifetime longer than most of the instruments in which they are used—will make such a conversion of the rural party line economically possible.

This is all very well for the Bell Telephone Laboratory engineers who have been surpassing their normal duty engineers who have been surpassing their normal duty quota of electrical marvels for several years, but tampering with the rural party line is more than just a mechanical adventure. It is a blow at a basic community institution; one might even say a way of life.

The transistor will never been anything yet devised to equal the rural telephone line as a means of rapid, all-inclusive communication. The jungle telegraph, Indian smoke signals, the village bell and the town crier all had their day but had to give way to the ease, convenience and general social atmosphere engendered by the rural party line. The savage in the darkest Africa listening to the throbbing of tom-toms knew that every other savage for miles had the news too. But the tom-tom offered no ready means of holding a conference on such news as does the rural telephone line. Smoke signals not only told the Indian how many cavalry officers were riding through Twin Forks, it also told cavalry scouts how many Indians were gathering to meet the wagon train at Deadman's Gulch. The rural telephone line, at capacity service, could broadcast to approximately the same number of persons as make up a cavalry regiment, but dispenses with the necessity of hunting fire wood or the embarrassment of sleeping that night in a smoky blanket.

The village notice board had to be read and the town crier, after a day's penalty of busy shouting, "All's Well" at 3.00 a.m. that he had little time for chit chat.

All these disadvantages were eliminated by the rural telephone line. The party line subscribers, with access to all information if discretion was properly employed, knew everything worth knowing in the lives and activities of the other subscribers and in the incoming news from the outer world just as soon as a local call was placed. Subscribers to a rural party line took on their phones not as instruments for the imperial invasion of their privacy but rather as a lifeline to the hearts of their friends and neighbors who are instantly available to share their sympathy and joy, their sorrows. The heartbeat of a rural area beats in the ears of receivers on the party line in all kinds of weather and through all kinds of trials.

The engineers are undoubtedly doing their best according to their lights in seeking to enclose rural subscribers in a transistorized privacy. But the engineers should be warned that such a step would, in fact, decrease, rather than increase, the efficiency of the telephone system in rural areas. Privacy is fine. But on a rural party line one call suffices to tell all the neighbors about a new baby, a church social, a visit to the city, or to carry on a meeting of the board of trade. The rural line also is an invaluable source of entertainment as bashful young swains struggle manfully to be non-committal and at the same time keep their conversations with their fair friends private.

Eavesdropping may be doomed by the transistor. But so is a good portion of the good life and good times of living on a rural party line.

OF PLOWS AND TOMATOES

The editor of the Philadelphia Inquirer, having perused a report on a UNESCO study headed by Dr. Margaret Mead, concludes that money and science alone won't suffice to help underprivileged areas of the world live. "A third essential factor is—time," says the Inquirer.

Bases for this observation are certain experiences which western technical assistance experts have had in India and Burma. In India attempts to make farmers substitute iron plows for wooden ones have failed. The reason "A farmer inherits a contract with a specific carpenter to keep his plow in good working order. The carpenter's family belongs to the farmer's social set. Introduction of the steel plow disrupts this relationship and in some quarters is violently resisted."

Time certainly is needed to cure that situation.

But the Burmese farmers appear to have based their opposition to change on a firmer foundation.

Experts showed the Burmese how to plow deep. "But deep plowing broke up the hard pan of clay that held the water up in the rice fields. Wise farmers will time cure their displeasure? One may doubt it. And, perhaps, time will acquaint them with the writings of Louis Bromfield, noted American author and conservationist, who has tested and publicized a new heresy which regards all plowing, shallow as well as deep, as a factor in soil erosion. Perhaps time will show that the Burmese farmers are right and the western experts wrong.

As for the second instance in which western tastes met opposition in Burma, it is to be sincerely hoped that time brings no changes. "The natives were taught to grow tomatoes. Did they take to them? No, they did not like the flavor and refused to eat them."

After all, is it really necessary for the underprivileged peoples of the world to cultivate a taste for tomatoes if they are to enjoy "the better life?" It will be a sorry day for the world when mankind has meals of tomatoes, pork chops and apple pie on every table, in Shanghai and in Istanbul as well as in Toronto, in Karachi and in Smolensk as well as in New York, in Belfast and in Reuzen, in Nairobi and in Honolulu, in Buenos Aires and in Petsamo as well as on his own home table.

TOO PARTICULAR

The withdrawal of a painting from an English art exhibit because the artist painted it with her feet seems to be really stretching a point. From some examples of modernistic paintings, it is a marvel that the judges can tell whether they were drawn with feet, hands or noses.—(Brockville Recorder and Times).

LOOKING BACKWARDS

GLEANINGS FROM OUR FYLES OF BYGONE YEARS

30 YEARS AGO

APRIL 30, 1924.

A pair of loons, that have been an attraction for employees and visitors at the Belleville pumping station for several years, have returned to that old location and have taken up residence in the Bay of Quinte just south of the plant. Additional evidence that the birds became so tame that they ventured close to shore in search of perch and other small fish.

Members of the Y's Men's Club recently visited the filtration plant and were shown how the water is purified by manager E. T. Austin.

Mr. and Mrs. H. H. Martin and Mr. and Mrs. Morse Robb of this city are spending some time in Washington, D.C.

His Honor Judge G. R. Deroche addressed the members of the Rotary Club at Napanee on Tuesday; his subject was the life of Napoleon Bonaparte.

Mr. and Mrs. Norman Whytock, Mr. and Mrs. Walter Whytock of Madoc were visitors in town yesterday.

20 YEARS AGO

APRIL 30, 1924.

Mr. and Mrs. Quinette of Montreal spent Easter here with their son, Mr. George Quinette, Bridge Street east.

It is expected that the local tax rate for this year will be 25 mills, the same as last year.

At a recent meeting of the Catholic Women's League here the following officers were elected: President, Miss Helena Lynch; first vice president, Miss Anna Hunter; second vice president, Miss E. Deannard; third vice president, Mrs. J. Taylor; recording secretary, Mrs. A. B. Collins; corresponding secretary, Miss Mabel Hall; treasurer, Mrs. Frank Fitzpatrick.

Miss Estelli Manley is spending the Easter vacation here with her parents.

10 YEARS AGO

APRIL 30, 1914.

Mr. J. A. Campion returned to the city after spending the winter in the Old Country.

Mr. J. Waller Evans, C.E., was appointed city engineer by the city council last evening at a salary of $150 per month. There were thirty applicants for the position.

The congregation of the Baptist Church here has accepted with deep thanks the offer of Mr. Andrew Carnegie to donate the sum of $1,000 towards the purchase of an organ for the church. It is hoped to have the organ installed during this summer. Many subscriptions have been received from members of the congregation and friends. The committee in charge of the matter is composed of Messrs. Albert Blackburn, W. B. Riggs, P. C. MacLaurin and C. A. Hart.

50 YEARS AGO

APRIL 30, 1864.

The city of Toronto faces to day an estimated fire loss of seventeen million dollars and sets its wholesale district an area of awful ruin. At three o'clock this morning, after the flames had had practically unhindered sway for seven hours, they had eaten up block after block of the finest wholesale houses in the country and was still unconquered. The fire commenced in the Currie premises on Bay Street. The fire was under control almost eight o'clock this morning. Close to 7,000 people will be out of employment by the fire.

It has been decided not to hold the Old Boys' Reunion this summer; the time is too short — next year, perhaps.

Sobriety Tests Not Reliable

(Brockville Recorder and Times).

We have always been inclined to doubt the total reliability of the various physical tests given by police authorities to determine whether or not a person is drunk. We are thinking of such tests as walking a chalk line or picking up coins from the floor. Now we find backing for this doubt in recent discoveries in the medical Association, after two years of research on the subject.

The public will be glad that some people lacking good physical coordination cannot pass such tests even when stone-cold sober. Others who possess an unusually high degree of physical co-ordination can pass such tests after the consumption of excessive amounts of alcohol. Such tests wrongly assume too great a degree of uniformity among individuals in reaction to alcohol.

'Tis for them that kingdoms fall.

Why do factory chimneys smoke?
Why do soldiers parade and die?
Why do painted jesters joke?
Why are steeples towering high?
Why is everything we know,
Love and hate and doubt and fear,
Patterned under many a blow,
Courage, when disaster's near?
Back of every dream there lies
Little children's laughing eyes.

Think Serenity Cancer Defence

(St. Catharines Standard)

Medical research workers in Houston, Texas, Chicago and the London Free Press, are exploring the thesis that a happy, calm, and serene mind may be a defence against cancer. The theory is that stress, fear, anxiety, hunger, and frustration does, with some persons, result in variations in the body production of hormones. Under these strains the hormones glandes work abnormally.

Whether malignancy is stimulated by neurogenic stress and tension will have to be proved. But the principle in general is certainly affected. Happy is the man who can go his ways calm and serene, and does a man achieve serenity? This is another question. Call it the psychiatrist and the man of religion. Serenity is one of the rarest of human attributes, and one of the most necessary.

Age of Earth Re-Estimated

(New York Times).

Astronomers and geologists used to snarl at each other's theories on the age of the earth. Physicists, like Lord Kelvin, said that the earth could not be older than the sun, and that the sun could not be older than some hundreds of thousands of years — this because the sun was literally covered at the sun contracted at a rate that could be calculated. Geologists demanded not only millions of years but hundreds of millions.

When radio-activity was discovered the debaters cooled off, for the physicists found that it took radio-active uranium more than four and a half billion years to turn into lead — a good clock. Since the rocks still contain measurable amounts of uranium it followed that the age of the earth must be measured in billions of years. But the rocks testified to about 2.5 billion years.

Good as all this was, it was not good enough for the physicists. They wanted to know the earth. And for the good reason that the lead into which uranium decays is a lighter element than lead. It has an atomic weight of 207, but uranium's weight is 238 in helium weight of 206. The two leads can be separated by weight.

As million years pass, lead 207 will increase in amount because it is formed from the particular form of uranium decaying. That form has 235 in its atomic weight. But lead 206 is the end product of U-238, the much more common form. The more lead 206 there is in proportion to lead 207 the older is the rock. By measuring the two proportions the physicists arrived at their figure of 2.5 billion years for the age of the earth, a figure that they stretched to 3 billion years in allowing for everything of which they could think.

Physicists of the University of Chicago have done some more delicate weighing of the two different kinds of lead. They combined the lead and the uranium in leads in meteorites with those in terrestrial rocks and found that in the latter case, as that no allowance had to be made for unknown impurities. Therefore the comparison was no easy task because meteorites are more than a million atoms in either a meteorite or a rock is one of the two kinds of lead.

It turns out that the earth must be at least seven years old, a result reassuring to astronomers. But when were the elements themselves formed? A tentative answer is half a billion years earlier — another that comes out of the investigation.

Initial Blunders

(Hamilton Spectator)

Our colleagues of the Peterborough Examiner remarked the other day of the official initials of the Initials of the United Farmers of Ontario for use as identification on the Agricultural Flying Object. They might have added that the plaintiff in the case is, in fact, the bane of all Canadian parties.

To the very amusement of Canadians involved in the late war it was the habit to be adopted by the Americans as short for Civilians Conscripted for Service.

Long ago, the United Farmers of Alberta found their initials a handicap in the days of the movie company.

On the other hand, both the Progressive Conservatives and the Social Crediters are themselves open to charges of plagiarism—the Police Constable and South Carolina got there first.

As for "Lib"— why, Liberace naturally.

Letter to the Editor

Critical of Council's Handling of Parking

Editor,
Ontario Intelligencer.

Re Parking Space

In this important matter the City Council seems to be more concerned with collecting the money and nonchalant thereafrom, than with the problem of accommodating the public. In fact it gets more and more the impression.

It seems to me that since the public want to use their cars for shopping and business, an effort ought to be made to encourage them.

As regards business people parking all day long, I can't see why we should take exception to this. They are also taxpayers. Many of them have to use their cars at intervals running here there and all the time done without having a car stationed somewhere close by. In the horse and buggy days we gladly made provision for them with watering troughs drinking fountains. Why should we object to cars? Our present day parking meters, roads, sewers, etc., so we provide what our customers want. It is the function of the civic body to facilitate as much as possible the carrying on of the civic government. In large cities where important points are neglected, large and expensive buildings have been erected to accommodate cars and business people pay so much a month for a space which is kept open for their cars at all times. If people want to trade with us we must help them, then let us welcome them. How are we going to drive and pay these enormous taxes? But if we have to run out every half hour or hour and put another nickel in the machine, we will either have to spend a great deal of business further out or get nervous prostration. The saving put in some elsewhere, don't think it can't happen here.

England Had Window Tax

(Woodstock Sentinel-Review)

Fresh air and sunlight were taxed in this country ireland. The government collected from all households with six or more windows. This burdensome window tax wasn't repealed until 1851.

There as an annual tax of $3 on the family carriage and one of arms. The Puritans paid a weekly meal tax, giving up the price of meat for the seven meat days to Oliver Cromwell.

Under the Romans, every woman and child in France was subject to the gabelle—a tax regulated at the rate of seven pounds of salt a year whether they used it or not.

There was a Roman tax on dying, enforced by prohibition of burial in the city proper. The Emperor Constantine taxed his subjects also for the privilege of giving him presents.

Peter the Great of Russia, taxed all men who wore beards. Barbers, stationed at the gates of Moscow, removed the beard by shaving all non-payers. The Russians also paid tax on sealing wax, tallow, horse collars, leather boots, hats, beds, milk, fish, birds, mushrooms and cucumbers.

In the 17th century Turkey, after a pasha had visited and dined with a peasant family, he would leave behind a "tooth money", a tax to compensate him for wear and tear on his teeth.

Personal Health Talks

By DR. WM. BRADY

ON TURNING UP ONE'S TOES.

Old timers may remember that I examined Governor Cox of Ohio when he was candidate for the presidency and Senator Harding of Ohio when he was a candidate, and gave a report on them both on this column.

Gov. Cox was in excellent physical condition and he knew it. He went through the functional tests as though he enjoyed it. He could only give him an A in my report.

Dr. Brady

Sen. Harding proved hard to interview. Before he would even answer questions he exacted a promise that I would print nothing without obtaining his written consent. He was in splendid physical condition and he knew it. I told him that I would not commit myself. I doubted the Senator would live to serve out a term as president. But I couldn't prove it.

Today some one sent me a newspaper clipping about a forthcoming book in which the changes in President Eisenhower's health during the years of his public service will be interpreted as indicative of his physical and mental fitness or decline. This may be interesting but such diagnosis by handwriting is not to be taken seriously. It seemed likely enough from pictures of President Roosevelt at Yalta that the man was in very bad physical condition—I thought then, as I have thought ever since the Harding administration, that a candidate for the presidency should have to meet a reasonable standard of health, and a chief executive in office should be required to maintain reasonable physical health, as officers in the army are, required to, from year to year, or else retire.

Senator Harding had a lovable personality and as for Franklin D. Roosevelt: I loved and admired him as much as I did his cousin Ted.

But I don't care who the man may be or how much anybody or everybody loves him, when he passes his physiological (not chronological) peak his judgment in matters of importance becomes less and less reliable and for this reason he should be retired before something regrettable happens.

If army officers retire almost automatically at the age of 64 and business corporations arbitrarily reject applicants past forty, why should we have an ailing man president over the welfare of our country?

STRENGTH FOR THE DAY

DR. EARL L. DOUGLASS

NATURE OF REPENTANCE

In conversation with a person about spiritual matters I was surprised when he broke up as to what constitutes repentance.

"Repentance is easy," said this person. "Anybody can do that. One can go through life sinning, and if at the last moment he is sorry for his sins are wiped out."

This person of course, did not understand nature of repentance. Some people think that repentance is just a matter of feeling sorry, and then after that it is presumed that one may commit the same kind of sins over again and every time the words, "I'm sorry," are uttered, the slate is wiped clean.

No branch of the Christian Church teaches any such doctrine. Repentance is a matter of such profound significance that it really constitutes a profound spiritual experience. It means a change one's mind. It means the sincere determination to break with his sins and thereafter to regard it with hatred and loathing. It is a matter of fact, no one ever repents without the help of the Holy Spirit since a gift just as salvation is a gift, but the capacity to repent is given to everyone who wants it sincerely to use it.

What the truly penitent sinner really repents of is not just one sin but the whole mass of iniquity which fills the heart of the sinner. All spiritual life begins in repentance.

THE PACKSACK

By GREGORY CLARK

In the matter of courtesy, we can apparently overdo it with elderly women. Times have changed. Just the other day I revealed, to my wife, one of the big stores yesterday, I offered a tired old lady about to slip in on her side of it. She dove through just a trifle fast. As I stepped in, I took hold of the bar and set my posterior against the rear panel to close the door down.

The old lady nipped in. She gave me an indignant glance. And with a strength that struck me as astonishing, she gave the door a shove that sent me practically sprawling out my side. I looked back. She was still in her seat, unpinning, and had emerged very nimbly out the other door. She was looking back, at me. First, she glared. Then in response to my astonished expression, she relaxively grinned. Since it is the newspaperman's function to investigate all phenomena, I stepped back into the revolving door and came out to her, hitting me on full force.

"Sorry," said she, contritely. "You mad about something?" I enquired.

"Yes I am! "she stated emphatically, shifting her parcels in her arms." I came down town shopping this morning and every body has been treating me as if I were a helpless old woman!"

She stared at me a moment. In challenge. I held my face steadily in the reflection of my self-satisfaction.

"I'm darn bus driver," she said, "got up out of his seat to help me onto the bus. A middle-aged woman offered to give me her seat. I went first to the glove counter. And what does the girl do? She hurries and gets a chair for me to sit on. I'm not a cripple, I'm a woman. Everybody hopping around, making room for me, taking my elbow — I'm going to start a revolution the door for me!"

"It was going too fast for me," I submitted.

She gave me a sly smile.

"I felt fine when I got up this morning," she said. "Haven't felt better for years. Then everybody treats me like an old woman. . . . I'm not old."

She tottered off across the intersection, against the red light, full of battle, defying the years.

CAMPBELLFORD

Maximum Salary Raised $200 By School Board

CAMPBELLFORD — The April meeting of Campbellford Public School Board was held in the Primary School with Dr. W. W. Baker presiding and all members but one present.

Mr. Rothwell reported that he and Mr. Hopping had chosen crests for the Field Day in May. They also had been promised plaques from the Legion and several of the service clubs and expressed their appreciation for these gifts.

The chairman of the property committee, Mr. Dennis, reported on a favorable demonstration of a heavy duty vacuum cleaner by the Dustbane Co. It was decided to purchase this machine at a price of $149.50.

The price of 25 cents per day per pupil was set for all out-of-district pupils attending Campbellford public school, dating from March 22, 1954.

SALARY CHANGES

The request for several changes in the salary schedule from 11 members of the public school staff was thoughtfully considered and although all requests could not be met, the maximum salary was raised $200. The board also expressed its warm appreciation and sincere thanks to the staff for their fine efforts in the work of the school.

Three representatives from Insurance agencies, Mr. Paul O'Sullivan, Mr. A. Mason and Mr. Arthur Collette, spoke for their companies, presenting offers for the insurance of Campbellford public schools. The insurance committee is making a study of these offers and will report its recommendations at a special meeting of the board.

A letter from the inspector, Mr. C. W. Young, pointed out an error in the report of the March Public School Board meeting.

The secretary reported a legislative grant would be given to cover part of the expense in the purchase of all public school supplies. This grant is not a legislative grant but a per pupil grant based on the average daily attendance.

The board sanctioned the "Safety Patrol" for a trial period as directed by Mr. Ross and in cooperation with Mr. Rothwell.

Mr. Forrest Dennis reported on the meeting of the Ontario Urban and Rural School Trustees' Association held in Kingston last month at which he was the school's representative.

H-S Assoc. Hears Talk On 'Safety Patrols'

CAMPBELLFORD — Traffic officer Don Mackay of the Peterborough Police Department spoke to the Campbellford Home and School Association held in the kindergarten room of the public school on Wednesday night. Mr. Mackay explained the organization and the operation of the new "safety patrols" which are soon to be set up in Campbellford.

During the past few weeks, a great deal of preliminary work has been done, and the students have been selected to act as patrol officers at five intersections in the town. William Rothwell, principal of the Campbellford public school, Constable Don Mackay and chief constable George Rose have been instrumental in getting the patrols organized. Chief Rose introduced Mr. Mackay to the meeting. The patrols will start after the Easter holidays.

NEW FILM PROJECTOR.

Bert Whitfield, Grade VII teacher, demonstrated the new film strip projector the school recently purchased, and showed an interesting film on "The life and habits of the Canadian beaver."

A large number of parents was on hand for the meeting, and Mr. Rothwell's class was winner of the attendance banner for having the most parents present.

Dr. W. W. Baker, chairman of the Public School Board, presented the crests to the members of the school hockey team, who won the hockey championship in their class this year.

It was decided to ask Charles Weir of the Department of Education to attend the next meeting, to be held in May, to discuss the possibility of holding educational classes for the parents this coming winter.

Grosser Taken To Montreal

MONTREAL (CP) — Abraham Grosser, who said he would be "bumped off within 24 hours" if he went back to Toronto, arrived here Monday night in custody of provincial police to answer charges of receiving stolen bonds.

Grosser, alias William Philip Legros, was arrested in Albany, N.Y., for illegal entry and served a 60-day jail term. When the U.S. immigration service began deportation proceedings, Toronto and Quebec police put in claims on him, both on charges of receiving stolen bonds.

Originally he was to be turned over to Toronto police.

A U.S. federal judge turned down Grosser's request, but the Canadian immigration office later informed U.S. officials that it did not matter where the suspect was returned.

Toronto police have protested the U.S. decision sending Grosser back to Quebec

Daylight Saving Time Creates Big Problem in West Canada

By WILF CHOLETT
Canadian Press Staff Writer

REGINA (CP) — An imaginary line drawn smack through the middle of Saskatchewan will assume the cold reality of steel Sunday, slicing apart interdependent farm and rural groups.

The line, drawn centuries ago, is the third meridian, cutting the province into two time zones. It creates a gigantic municipal problem with advent of daylight saving time.

The extra hour of sunlight is a blessing to the town or city-dweller. But to the farmer who lives sun-to-sun, it's a downright nuisance.

Next week and continuing until late in September, little islands of time spring up east of the third meridian.

Some communities switch to fast time. Others which cater to farmers keep it slow.

LEGAL STANDARD

Some centres accept mountain time—the only legal standard. Others, particularly those on the eastern border, won't have anything but central or Manitoba time.

The result is continuing confusion which becomes a hopeless jumble with daylight saving.

And the railways which help set the pace of time in Saskatchewan don't help matters.

The Canadian Pacific Railway changes time at Broadview, 67 miles inside the Manitoba border. Canadian National Railways switches at Watrous, 150 miles northwest of Broadview.

It's possible in one town north of Regina to arrive on one line at 5 p.m. and leave on the other an hour before getting there.

No other province has the same problem. It's a source of bitter controversy.

BOYCOTT TOWN

The town of Shellbrook 25 miles west of Prince Albert decided it liked fast time. The farmers didn't and boycotted the town's merchants. Shellbrook soon was back on slow time.

Saskatchewan in summer has four possible times. Fortunately, there are only three. Manitoba border communities banded together in deciding to keep central time without variation.

It wasn't always like this. The Second World War and increased travel changed things.

During war years, war time, one hour faster and equivalent to perpetual daylight saving, prevailed to conserve electricity and fuel. Urban folk liked it.

FARMERS OPPOSED

The farmer was solidly against it. But he accepted it, only to find when the War Measures Act was repealed and war time tossed out that many communities through persistive legislation could exercise a local option and decree fast time in summer.

He claims now that his children meet their school bus in darkness and in summer don't get their proper sleep. He has to adjust his working hours to his livestock which live by the sun.

A legislative committee on time hashed over these problems at the last session of the legislature and came up with an answer. After studying a raft of briefs, members "without finding it possible to arrive at any specific conclusions" voted to hand the question over to municipalities.

A questionnaire mailed to municipalities asks which of three times they want and if they are willing to set an alternative. The committee, formed two years ago, will study new submissions at the next session of the legislature and make another report.

Canadian Experts Welcome Plan For Atomic Talks

CHALK RIVER, Ont. (CP) — Scientists at the federal government's atomic energy centre here Monday night welcomed a proposed conference of leading scientists of the world to discuss peaceful uses of atomic energy.

No official word of the conference plans announced Monday night in Los Angeles by Lewis L. Strauss, chairman of the United States Atomic Energy Commission, had been heard here, but should the conference materialize, it was felt Canadians would be present. Our scientists believed the conference would be particularly interesting to Canada because her atomic research has been concentrated on peaceful uses of atomic energy.

U.S. SPENDING HOLDS UP

WASHINGTON (AP) — Despite an increase in unemployment, people in the United States are spending nearly as much as they did last year, the United States commerce department said today. But they are buying fewer automobiles and other durable goods, and are spending more for personal services, such as medical care and education, the department said in its monthly survey of current business.

W.M.S. EASTER SERVICE

Centenary W.M.S. had charge of the splendid devotional period held at the recent Tabernacle W.M.S. Easter service.

CANADIAN farmers know the struggle, at some time, of hauling the sap to the sugar house — especially if there has been an early thaw. We were interested in hearing how one farmer, who used aluminum tubing for sugaring operation, also used it as a spring pipeline to carry the sap from his trees to the sugar house some distance away.

Light, strong, easily handled aluminum has a way of stimulating people's ingenuity in their search for short cuts that will save them time and money. Today more than a thousand different Canadian firms are manufacturing articles made from aluminum supplied by the Aluminum Company of Canada, Ltd.)

Princess Alexandra Returns From Paris Finishing School

By MURIEL NARRAWAY
Canadian Press Staff Writer

LONDON (CP)—A tall, pretty young British princess has returned from a Paris finishing school to begin her share in royal responsibilities. In keeping with the times, her first big assignment is a trip to Canada.

The princess is Alexandra of Kent, who with her mother will spend three weeks in eastern Canada in August and September. At 17, the princess is complying with royal tradition by "coming out."

"It merely means that she will be seen in public at dances, in theatre parties and at public functions," explained Philip Hay, private secretary to the slim, elegant Duchess of Kent.

HAPPY CHILDHOOD

In fact, it involves much more than that. The princess who not so long ago confessed to difficulty with mathematics, the 20-year-old daughter of the Duke and Duchess of Gloucester, has been appointed Alexandra's lady-in-waiting. Now, suitably groomed, she will accompany and shoulder the public burden expected of British royalty. Princess Alexandra is the niece and a Girl Guide inspection to indoctrinate girl first.

The 47-year-old Duchess of Kent —witty, artistic and intelligent—is considered popular by royal standards. Yet she was a firm favorite with the late Queen Mary, always a stickler for royal tradition. Her clothes sense and personality are expected to have been a prime influence with Princess Margaret, one of her prominent admirers.

Her family—the young Duke of Kent, Alexandra and Prince Michael—have had the most carefree and of necessity the most conventional upbringing of any children close to the throne. When the Duke of Kent, grandson of King George V, was killed on active service in a 1942 air crash, he left most of his money in trust to his eldest son.

The duchess is perhaps the least wealthy member of British royalty, yet she has long been known as one of the world's best-dressed women. She appears to have passed along her clothes flair and physical attributes to her daughter, who is said to have a strikingly facial resemblance to her father.

FIRST VISIT

The visit to Canada will be the first for both. The Canadian invitation means the second trip as a royal envoy for the tall duchess who went to Malaya and the Far East in 1952 with her eldest son, Prince Edward.

Alexandra with her mother goes to Northern Ireland May 7 for a few days' official visit.

Director Sets Down Findings In New Book

By DOROTHY ROE

Common sense and frank discussion have done much to rehabilitate the Island of Montreal's mothers, says Sara B. Edlin, for 40 years director of a home for these sometime outcasts.

A kindly, bright-eyed little woman with a vast understanding of human problems, Mrs. Edlin has set down her findings in a new book, "Mothers Need Mothers: Is Our Society," soon to be published.

Foreword is by Ken Edlin author.

"When I first arrived to take over management of the Lakeview Home for Girls on the Island in 1916 most of the expectant mothers there were young immigrant girls who had come over from the old country to seek jobs in New York. They had been lured from the lower strata of society, from wealthy and upper-class homes as well as from poor city-stricken families. So we cannot place the blame for their plight on either ignorance or poverty. Most of the girls have had the advantage of some education in the schools, many have excellent backgrounds and college educations.

RESENT DISCIPLINE

"I have come to the firm conclusion that in almost every case the illegitimate baby is the child unwanted by a faulty relationship with a boy friend. In most instances the girls feel they have been slighted for a more attractive girl or more pleasing type of sister. In some cases they resent parental discipline and the fact that the rules laid down by their mothers and fathers are old-fashioned."

Most of the unmarried mothers do not keep their babies, says Mrs. Edlin, and under the present social structure she believes this is best for the future of both mother and child. She explains:

"If the child is offered for adoption, it grows up in a normal family structure and has an even chance with other children. But the mother, without the child, usually marries and establishes a new life for herself.

It is unusual for a unwed mother to marry the father of her child, says Mrs. Edlin. Often she doesn't want to marry him, even if he is willing.

GOOD MANNERS

By MRS. BEECKMAN

HOW TO INTRODUCE HER FATHER

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

1. In about a month, I am expecting a visit from my father, who is divorced and remarried. He has re-married. He is a Captain in the Navy, and a doctor, a medical doctor. How should I introduce him to my friends—as "Captain—" or "Doctor—" or as just "Mr..." He is soon to retire from active service, but will probably still be in uniform. (There is a possibility that, on this long trip he is taking, he may be in "civies.")

2. And how may I properly introduce his wife, so that people will know that she is not my mother? L.

1. According to usual procedure you would introduce your father as "Captain Robbins." However, if you think there might be a possibility that, since he is about to retire from service, he might prefer to be introduced as "Doctor Robbins", you should ask which he prefers. Certainly you would not introduce him as "Mr."

2. Introduce your father's wife like this, for example: "Mrs. Summers, this is my stepmother, Mrs. Robbins."

PATTERNS IN TABLE-SETTING

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

Please give us your advice on these comments, often heard.

1. Many people say that the fork should always be placed at the left of the plate—that the fork should never be placed at the right of the plate, at any time. Some say that, even if a knife is not necessary, one should place a knife at the right of the plate.

2. When I am serving only dessert at a meeting of a bridge club, what is the proper placing of the fork?

3. When the salad is served with the main course—not as a course by itself—is it proper to place the salad fork on the inside or outside? Hostess

1. The rule is that, for the main course of a seated meal, a knife should be placed, even if it is not necessary as far as the menu is concerned. The knife is, of course, placed at the right of the plate. The fork should not be placed at the left of the plate, even if a fork is necessary to the menu. (the order-description is, of course, the little oyster fork.) It is pleasantly obvious, when you place a knife at the right, as well as the fork on the left, that this places you off the individual place-setting, gives it a proper and effective balance.

2. When only dessert is served, the double-silver-service should be used. . . the fork at the left of the plate, the spoon at the right of the plate. This again gives the effective balance of the individual setting. Also the guests who wish to use the double service may do so, those who wish to use only one utensil may use either the fork or spoon.

3. The salad fork would be placed nearest the plate, on the left. To the left of this would be the dinner fork (outermost) fork, since this fork would be used first.

WHY NOT HAVE AN HONEST TALK TO EXPLAIN A MISUNDERSTANDING?

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

I have a problem which has made me very unhappy, and I would appreciate an open reply from you. The problem: Last Christmastime I invited a young widow to spend the holidays at our home. I was under the impression that she had definitely accepted this invitation, and made plans accordingly. A week before the holidays I had lunch with her. At the time she made the following statement: "I don't know what to do at Christmas time, whether to stay here or go to visit relatives of mine in another state."

I was stunned, as I was absolutely certain she had accepted my invitation and knew of our plans for her. On second thought, however, I presumed that she was politely asking for a way out—that as the holidays approached she drew nearer in spirit to those close and dear to her and more and more reluctant to accept my invitation, which would take her away from them. Under the circumstances it was understandable, if disappointing, and I replied that I thought it would be nicer for her to visit her relatives. I tried very hard not to let her see my personal reaction of disappointment. It of course made its impression on our household. So we were all looking forward to having her with us. However, the circumstance being what they were, I found it easy to explain.

Imagine my feelings, Mrs. Beeckman, when later I found out, indirectly, and quite directly, that I had spoiled her Christmas as she had expected to be with us and had counted on it for some time, 'but due to that 'fateful' luncheon during which I urged her to go elsewhere, she had no alternative. She was very critical of my "rudeness." I am still unhappy about this Christmas circumstance, both for her and for ourhousehold, but as much as I examine the details of the situation I am still at a loss to know how I should have handled it. Please tell me where I failed and what course would have led

"Baby Doll's" Favorites

By Mary Moore

It was our privilege to meet and have dinner with an American minister who is a real character. That's how she describes herself. The minister comes first, the woman second.' She married a minister too, but after she had been in the ministry for a few years, she had to train herself to be a dedicated homemaker so she is a minister, which is very dedicated.

She is 6 feet tall, weighs about 180 pounds . Remarkably graceful too. Her husband is 6 feet, 2 inches tall and weighs 250 pounds and relishing her cooking. She calls him her little baby doll.

These dishes that she makes for her "baby doll" likes the best are her Orange Rolls, Rich Cocoa, Potato and Egg Casserole and Orange Molds. Since he does not mind this nickname at all—in fact rather likes it in his huge way —she said I could call them Baby Doll's Favorites.

ORANGE ROLLS (A yeast roll)

In 1-2 cup lukewarm water soak 1 package of granular yeast with 1 teaspoon sugar for 10 minutes then stir it. In large mixing bowl mix together 1-2 cup warm milk, 1-4 cup sugar, 1 teaspoon salt and 1-4 cup soft shortening. When mixed heat into this the soaked yeast and 1 egg and beat well. Stir in 3 1-2 cups sifted bread flour. Scrape dough down from sides of bowl, cover it and stand in warm place in room out of draft and let rise until double in bulk. Turn dough over, folding edges to centre, to a happier understanding.

Grateful Reader

I can understand you reaction to what your friend said, and I can understand why you say what you did say. But it is not so easy to understand why she said what she said. You letter reveals that you are a kind and generous person, perhaps tenderly sensitive to the reactions and desires of other people. Perhaps your friend has the same sensitive understanding of you, but shows you finer and truer and honest sense of the responsibility of friendship. However, I judge that your friend may have been going through unhappy days at the time of Christmas and probably was testing you (however mistakenly) to see if it really could be possible that anyone could be so kind and generous as to want her alone to be part of a real home at a time so difficult for anyone who has so recently passed through sad and sorrowful days.

She was apparently desperately, and very appealingly, seeking reassurance of your welcome. . . you were trying to understand, trying to say what you thought she wanted to have you say. Neither said the words that would have righted the situation, and so also the impasse.

But why, why, why haven't you two friends, with so much humanity in common, brought about a meeting and so brought about an understanding? This is a situation so easy to explain. Please do this, and please at once. It doesn't make sense not to lift the cloud from a friendship-situation. . . and with honest and straight-forward explanation, let the sun shine on a happy renewal of friendly days and friendly ways!

WHO PAYS

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

I have been asked to be a bridesmaid at a wedding. My problem is: Who is to pay for the gown I am to wear?

H.

Each attendant pays for her own costume. . .every detail of which is chosen by the bride-to-be. The only accessory supplied by the bride-to-be is the attendant's bouquet.

"MIXED MARRIAGE" IN THE RECTORY

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

My fiance is Catholic. I am Protestant. We are to be married in the rectory. Would it be proper for me to wear a ballerina-length gown? And to have two attendants?

J.

The usual procedure for the marriage in the rectory is a very simple occasion, with the bride wearing a day dress, street-length, or a dressmaker suit, and the bride and groom each having only one attendant.

However, you may, if you wish . . . and particularly if there is to be a reception or other post-ceremony festivity. . .wear a ballerina-length dress. My suggestion would be that you have only one attendant. However, if you wish to have two, you should ask whom this (or have your fiance ask) of the friend who is to perform the ceremony.

Beauty

By HELEN JAMIESON

EYE GLASSES

Do you suspect that your eyes are not as keen as they used to be? Do you have trouble reading the names in the telephone book or threading a needle? Don't do any sobbing about it. Authorities on vision say that seven women among ten need specs, and about three in the seven are wearing them. You know why? Vanity is the root of this evil. They think they will look older. But they won't because most men who fit glasses have become beauty specialists. Today's eyewear styles are modeled to complement the appearance of those who find they need them.

Designers of frames and lenses have made a study of facial features and contours. They put round lenses on thin faces to suggest curves. With a highly-arched bridge the short nose appears longer. Cutaway lenses are used when the nose is broad.

If you delay getting glasses when necessary you may find yourself beset with forehead wrinkles and little creases around the eyes. Fatigue, nervousness and headache may stem from faulty vision. These disorders suggest the presence of birthdays, often disappear when tired eyes get relief through glasses.

When you get your glasses take proper care of them. Never clean them lens side down as they may become scratched. Tossing them into your handbag is another thing that should not be done. Those little cases that fit glasses may soon become worthless if they come in contact with the various articles that you tote around—change purse, doorkeys, compacts, mirror and what have you.

At any optical shop you will find beautiful, inexpensive cases in which to tuck your specs at all times. They make dandy gifts for birthday gifts to friends whose vision is not normal and who must resort to eyewear.

You may need several different styles of glasses—a practical model with heavy frame for sport's wear, possibly a rimless one for dressy occasions.

ADVICE to the LOVELORN

By BEATRICE FAIRFAX

SHE'LL NEVER REGRET BEING "A NICE GIRL"

Here comes that problem again of the boy who writes to persuade a girl into doing something she knows is not right.

This time the problem concerns a young woman of 18 and a young man, 19.

"It must have been 'love at first sight' for both of us when we met about three months ago," the young woman writes, "because he asked me for a date for the next night after I met him, and after that we were always together every weekend.

"Last weekend, though, he didn't behave himself. I refused to give in to him and he got mad and took me home. He said he liked me a lot, and that if I liked him as much as he liked me, I would do as he wanted me to. When he left me that night I was sure I would be back to see if I had changed my mind, but he hasn't been back since.

"It seems as though sooner or later I have split up with 'every' boy I go out with just because of this same thing, and sometimes I get so upset I don't care if I live or die. I'm a nice girl, and I want to stay that way, but it looks as though I will never be able to keep a boy friend if I do."

To Helen, who signs this letter, I would say this:

The kind of boy friend who would break up with you because you don't want to do what you know is wrong is not the kind of boy friend you want to keep anyhow. The sooner this type of boy shows you the kind he is, the better.

I know it's very flattering to go through an experience like this, and if, as you say, you have had the same thing happen a number of times, it's no wonder you are discouraged and upset. I'm quite sure, though that one of these days a whole lot more than just what he has the same standards and principles that you have, and then you are going to be very glad that you stuck to them.

And always remember this: In ninety-nine out of a hundred cases in which a girl does allow herself to be persuaded into an affair with a boy, the friendship breaks up in the end anyhow. All that really has happened to you is that the breakup came before, instead of after you made a mistake that you would certainly deeply regret afterward, which is all to the good, don't you think?

Keep on being "a nice girl" and don't let anyone ever talk you into being anything else, in addition, be a cheerful, happy young woman who is always ready for the right kind of good times, who makes all the new friends possible, among both girls and boys, and who takes part in whatever activities as she has time for.

You will do all this, you're not going to have any trouble finding boy friends, and you'll soon learn to tell the difference between the ones to avoid, and the ones who are the kind you can depend on to be friends worth having. Armed with your knowledge, you won't make the mistake of setting your heart on the wrong young man and having him break it for you.

Vietminh Hold 2,000 Villages, Terrorize at Least Another 2,000

Drawing upon the term of events at Geneva, next week, Indo-China may be barely seconds the grasp of international communism. That was reported by William L. Ryan Monday in the first of a series of articles Today Ryan discusses the strength of Vietminh military forces which spearhead the Communist campaign. Ryan learned these facts before he then returned to Singapore to write his findings of these anomalies.

By WILLIAM L. RYAN

SINGAPORE (AP)—A cluster of Tonkinese peasants watched stolidly as our jeep drove by. Their faces were inscrutable under their big, round, straw hats.

"These people," said a French officer, "are neutral. Maybe they are not. One never knows."

"Who are the Vietminh? Where are they? Who knows? They are everywhere."

HEAVILY GUARDED

That is why, in the Tonkin delta area of north Indo-China, everything that might possibly be damaged by sabotage is heavily guarded and constantly and watched by armed guards.

The French admit that inside Hanoi, capital of Tonkin, there are at least two armed battalions of Vietminh in hiding, ready to rise when and if the signal is given.

The French nominally control all the delta area, an expanse of swampy ricefields and dense forests surrounding 5,400 villages and harboring 7,000,000 persons. But Gen. Rene Cogny, French commander in north Indo-China, an outstanding and colorful officer, says the Vietminh in this area has 20 battalions of regular troops, 15 "regional" battalions, 100 "district" companies and about 50,000 guerrillas.

VILLAGERS TERRORIZED

They hold more than 2,000 villages in the delta and terrorize at least another 2,000.

The Vietminh has forces scattered all through Viet Nam, though almost none in the neighboring associated states of Laos and Cambodia. Saigon, a comfortable modern city which you'd hardly guess from a glance is the nerve centre of a nation at war, often experiences stab-"attacks" attacks on its outskirts, particularly in the heavily Chinese area of Cholon. An "attempt" attack is simply a foray to show the Vietminh are still around.

"The Viet is a damn good soldier," a tough French parachute troop noncom said. "He can march harder and longer than any soldier in the world and on less food."

Total mobilization has been enforced in the areas controlled by the Vietminh. The army is organized in a sort of ladder. At the top are the regulars, the main striking arm. These are the best trained and best equipped. There are seven divisions of regulars in all, or about 110,000 men.

Local defence is the next rung of the ladder, the provincial or regional troops used both in Communist-held and non -Communist areas. These also are regulars, but they are not so well trained and equipped. They are stationed in their corps areas as a corps of defence. They provide help in offensive actions when the regulars reach their areas and are available because they know their country well. The regionals also form a pool from which the Vietminh make up losses among the regulars.

FORCED TO WORK

Next down the ladder, district companies consist chiefly of irregulars. They have charge of the corps of boys, women and old men impressed into labor battalions. This group forms a pool for regional troops.

A never-ending process of conscription, training and shifting keeps the Vietminh ranks from being depleted by heavy losses inflicted in battle.

Some French authorities say the Vietminh has reached the maximum number it can recruit in this way."

The Vietminh are having other troubles. They have a problem of supply. Heavy weapons and supplies for the Dien Bien Phu assault have been coming by trucks. Moslow trucks shipped down from Russia through China. But soon the rains will be coming, the steady pelting monsoon rains of Southeast Asia. Already it has been raining in the northwest. In a few weeks the rains will become torrents and will cut roads much better than air attack could.

CHURCH TREASURER ROBBED

EVANSVILLE, Ind. (AP) — A gunman robbed the treasurer of First Baptist church of $2,900 as the church steps Sunday night while an Easter baptismal service was going on inside.

RUSSIAN WOMAN

It was revealed at Canberra that Mrs. Petrov and a cipher clerk in the Soviet embassy, handling the secret coded messages to and from the Kremlin. If she decides to follow her husband in revealing what she knows about the inner workings of that embassy, she may be as important as he is, helping to track down Soviet espionage in Australia.

SAYS RING REVEALED

A royal commission with increased legal powers already has been authorized to sift the mass of documents Petrov turned over. Menzies said that data revealed a large Soviet spy network in the country. Other sources said at least 30 Australians were implicated.

Menzies told reporters of the events leading up to Mrs. Petrov's flight to freedom, and said it could "be seen Australia behaved with scrupulous care and regard for international protocol."

The Russians at Darwin claimed the action against the couriers violated their diplomatic immunity. But legal experts said Australian air travel laws forbid passengers to carry firearms. They said that although a country cannot take punitive action against diplomats of another country, it can take measures to prevent law violations.

Once disarmed, the couriers were left alone. They and the embassy second secretary, F. V. Kislitsin, went on to Europe with the BOAC airliner.

The Australian government announced that it will throw the same cloak of secrecy over Mrs. Petrov as it did over her husband, and there will be no interviews with reporters.

CHANCE TO DECIDE

Following surpicions that Mrs. Petrov might not be a willing returnee to her homeland, Menzies set into motion the machinery to make sure she would have a chance to say if she wanted to go on.

As she was hustled aboard the plane at Sydney, Menzies ordered Reginald Leydin, northern territory government secretary at Darwin, to be ready for her arrival and to ask her whether she wanted to go on.

When the plane landed here, security agents and a dozen police men went aboard. As Leydin approached to talk to Mrs. Petrov, the two couriers, who already had used strong-arm methods during the trip to keep other passengers and the crew from talking to her, interrupted them.

Police grappled with the couriers. V. Karpinsky and F. Zharkov, two of the Russians thrust his hand in his pocket. A nearby policeman grabbed his wrist and discovered that he loaded pistol in the pocket. The other courier carried a similar weapon in a shoulder holster. Zharkov struggled fiercely with police before he was disarmed. One police sergeant came out of the tussle with blood on his shirt.

"SEEMED TOO SCARED"

The stewardess aboard the plane told reporters after talking to Mrs. Petrov: "She obviously wants to stay in Australia, but seemed too scared to do anything."

While Mrs. Petrov, weeping frequently, talked for 45 minutes with Leydin in the Darwin airport, Kislitsin protested bitterly.

To Leydin he said: "I am astounded at the action of the Australian authorities. Our diplomatic immunity has been disregarded and I intend to report it to my embassy."

Kislitsin protested strongly against permitting Mrs. Petrov to talk privately with her husband on the telephone. Leydin conceded, and she held the conversation in a crowded customs office, with Kislitsin, Australian police, reporters and others crowded around. Afterward, Mrs. Petrov told Leydin she wished to stay in Australia.

SCHOOL PROBLEMS

Dr. J. G. Althouse, chief director department of education, told the Secondary School Headmasters' Association to do less lamenting about quality of students and more positive work to improve them.

WOULD ABOLISH VOCATIONAL

A suggestion to abolish all vocational and commercial schools in favor of straight secondary schools was given by D. A. Lambert, superintendent of production at Ford of Canada's Oakville plant. He was speaking to the Ontario Industrial Council.

He said the plan would be possible if industry would revert to a system of apprenticeship training. The loss of skills by indifference to apprenticeship threatened to undermine the industrial future of Canada.

A four-way Catholic educational conference also began Monday. It included sessions for the Ontario English Catholic Teachers' Association, the Ontario Separate School Trustees' Association and the Federation of Catholic Parent-Teacher Associations.

Speakers at the Catholic educators general meeting in an attempt to destroy "death-watch beetles" coming into the timbers.

MARMORA

District Churches Well Attended At Easter Services

MARMORA—Marmora's places of worship had their services well attended on Sunday, with the various congregations entering most heartily into the joyous spirit of Easter. Rev. W. P. Healey, who was spending his first Easter in the parish of the Sacred Heart, officiated at the 9 a.m. and 9.30 a.m. masses at Holy Name church, the altar was adorned with snapdragons in commemoration of the festival.

Extra seating accommodation had to be provided at St. Paul's Anglican Church for the Choral Eucharist at 11 a.m., at which Canon J. M. Brownlie was celebrant.

Here the altar was decorated with Easter lilies, the gift of W. J. Cornell in memory of his parents, and chancel steps and windows with snapdragon and other blooms.

EASTER ANTHEM

The choir sang the Easter Anthem, "Christ our passover is sacrificed for us", as the gradual between the collect and the epistle for the day. Mrs. Robert Shotford rendered "The Holy City".

The reader, Easter Message centred on the Gospel story of the seven disciples meeting Jesus at the Sea of Tiberius following His resurrection.

Before the service opened, teachers and scholars of the Sunday School marched from the Parish Hall to the Church, bearing their Easter mite boxes for presentation there. Evensong was of an appropriate Easter character, and at St. Andrew's United church, morning worship was marked with the joyousness of Easter.

With Barbara Mahlejohn at the organ the choir led in the hearty singing of Easter hymns and in addition rendered the anthem by Calvin Simper, "King of Kings."

Rev. K. J. Crawford, B.A., B.D., who officiated, gave an impressive Easter message.

Flowers were in memoriam of Frank Bennett and Lois Bedore, the latter gift being in the form of a Cross.

Bright Easter services were also held in the Free Methodist and Pentecostal churches.

Careless Pilots At Fighter Base Have Extra Duty

NORTH LUFFENHAM, England (CP)—Careless pilots at this RCAF jet fighter base in Rutland get the commanding officer's goat—literally.

Duchess, a small, white goat of serene nature and enormous appetite, is ceremoniously presented at the end of each month to the squadron with the highest accident record. For four weeks the squadron is charged with her care and feeding.

The station commander, Group Capt. J. D. Somerville of Toronto, devised the scheme for keeping Luffenham's three squadrons on their extra caution to avoid receiving "the highly derogatory order of the goat."

A basic rule is that Duchess must be grazed outside the quarters of the offending squadron's commanding officer.

One of Duchess' recent hosts complained:

"I can't get any work done. Every time I look up I see that blankety-blank goat outside the window, going 'Baa.'"

Major Leagues Leap From Barrier In Closest Start In Many Seasons

CHIPS OFF THE SPORTS BLOCK

By GEO. H. CARVER, Sports Editor

EVEN AGAIN!

George Jacklin, who hails from that part of Northern Ontario, where they use hockey sets for playpens, sticks for rattles and pucks for teething rings, were the hero's hale as far as Point Anne is concerned after the Ox Pelsteers 7-6 victory over the Marmora Millionaires here last night. It was a nip and tuck battle all the way with the Marmorians leading 3-1 at the end of the first, Point Anne in the van 4-3 at the end of the second and a dog-eat-dog fray in the final heat. The goals were clustered tighter than a bunch of grapes in this heat and the game had five minutes to go when Jacklin cut loose with what proved to be winning cash. Nearly 2,100 saw a hard-fought tussle with the hockey-garbed Millionaires battling desperately to grab that all-important win on "foreign" ice. The teams go back at it again tomorrow night in Marmora, with the grand finale set for Memorial Arena on Friday night should the Millionaires square the series.

SOFTBALL GALS COMING!

The distaff side of softball will show its beauty and ability here in the first week of June when the Toronto Nortown Ladies' Softball team plays an exhibition game with an all-star aggregation of Belleville's "handsomest" males. Belleville District Softball League president Gord. Stewart and secretary Jim O'Brien arranged the details over the week-end and while the exact place and date is not definite as yet, the star ladies' squad will be here during the week mentioned.

The fortevens are reputed to be one of Toronto's star girls' squads. They finished in the quarter finals of the North American Ladies' Softball Championships last season, and that, brothers, is no small feat in itself.

TAKE A BOW, GENTLEMEN!

The Ontario Minor Hockey Association inserted another feather of achievement in an already well decorated hat the other day at the executive meeting held in Toronto.

If there was a flush of pride on the amiable "mugs" of president Mike Weichel, secretary Jack Christie, Dour Patterson and other members of the association "brain trust" it was justified.

For they wrapped up a season that saw many records topple and fall into the discard, and heard reports that clearly revealed the 1953-54 season was a red-letter one in the annals of the organization.

It was revealed that nearly 19,000 hockey-minded youngsters were registered under the aegis of the OMHA, an increase of well over 2,000 from the previous year. Teams entered for group play amounted to 327 with those entered from local leagues numbering 855, an increase of 285 teams over the previous season.

"Lower Canada" is slowly but surely making itself felt in the OMHA. True, we in this neck of the woods did not produce any champions, but a couple of fine runners-up testify to the fact. These were Kingston in the Juvenile "A" series which bowed to the perennial champions from St. Catharines, and the Stirling Legion, which went down to honorable defeat before the fiery Kincardine Juvenile "C" titlists.

Incidentally, Stirling can lay claim to some kind of a record since the Kincardine-Stirling game, played here, drew the largest gate in the history of the OMHA, with the exception of the North-South Juvenile "A" finals for the Victory Trophy.

Peterborough, Cannington and Oshawa also had teams in the runners-up positions in various classifications.

It might not be a bad idea for somebody in this part of the province to indoss Frexy Mike Weichel down these away for a season or two. It probably is coincidence but we noted in looking over the list of champions, that Elmire, the honorable Mignel's home ballwick, produced two championship squads. And they tell us a third team in Intermediate bracket is highly favored to cop an OHA title.

According to reports the OMHA is thinking of invading the hinterland of near-Eastern Ontario next September for the exec. concave. It has been suggested and it is quite likely the combb will be held there, that Peneion Falls would be an ideal nesting place for the far-flying birds of the OMHA. Better smile when you come down thisaway pedlaners, because you are about to witness some of the hideouts of those hombres Sam Carver and Tweed Curry, not to mention Stirling Patterson, as "Doc" Hipwell is wont to name the spots.

Speaking of minor hockey, some 600 puck-chasing moppets are looking forward to the annual get-together of the Belleville Minor Hockey Association, "an affiliate of the OMHA, in the ..... on April 23. Presentation of trophies, grants, etc., will be made and the youngsters will meet, hear and see Jimmy Thomson, starry defenceman of the Toronto Maple Leafs. A big night for all concerned.

Yanks, 'Bums', Fail to Match Runaway Race of Last Year; Tigers Top American League

By REN PHLEGAR
Associated Press Sports Writer

The major league pennant races are away to one of the closest starts in recent seasons.

No team has jumped off to a winning streak. No team has fallen far behind.

Compared with the standings have undergone considerable juggling, particularly in the American League.

Detroit is leading the American by half a game over Washington. A year ago the Tigers were last, four games behind the old St. Louis Browns. And Washington was seventh. Cincinnati, co-leader with Philadelphia in the National, was seventh last year at the end of the first week while the Phils were tied for third.

Neither Brooklyn nor New York Yankees, favorites to choice to repeat their 1953 triumphs, have been able to match their first-week pace of last season.

LEADERS LOSE

The leaders all lost Monday. Detroit was toppled by Chicago White Sox 5-1. Cincinnati bowed to St. Louis 6-3 and the Phillies were clubbed by Brooklyn, 8-7.

In other action the Yankees split a pair with the Boston Red Sox, losing 2-1 in the morning and winning 5-0 in the afternoon on a brilliant seven-hitter by Jim McDonald. Washington shaded Philadelphia 4-3 and Baltimore edged Cleveland's ninth-inning home run. Pittsburgh beat New York Giants 7-5. Baltimore and Milwaukee in the American League and Milwaukee and Chicago in the National League weren't scheduled.

McDonald's performance against the Red Sox was the best of his career. He walked five but struck out four and the only safety he allowed was a second-inning single by reddy Boston Maguire. Mickey Mantle struck out four times in the morning contest, batting left-handed for the first time run right-handed, his first of the season, in the afternoon.

Jackie Robinson was the hitting star in Brooklyn's triumph over the Phillies. He broke a 5-5 tie with a home run in the seventh inning and finished his night with a four-for-four performance.

Successful pinch hitters for Stan Musial and Ray Jablonski in the sixth inning helped Harvey Haddix win his first game for St. Louis, though he needed help in the ninth.

YESTERDAY'S STARS

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Pitching—Jim McDonald, New York Yankees, allowed only one hit, a single, in his best major league performance, beating Boston 5-0.

league, but this is the first time they have had a big-classification minor league club to cheer.

The club is largely an unknown quantity.

Clint Hartung, once with New York Giants, and pitcher Saul Rogovin, who was with Chicago White Sox last year, shape up as two of the standing Cubans who represent the entire country rather than just Havana.

Marlies Meet Frontenacs Wednesday Providing They Trip Teepees Today

TORONTO (CP)—The Canadian Amateur Hockey Association has stated that the Ontario Hockey Association Junior B champions start the eastern Canada Memorial Cup final in Quebec Wednesday night.

Quebec Frontenacs, one of the eastern Canada finalists, have been ready to play for several days but the series couldn't start because the OHA hasn't declared a champion.

Toronto Marlboros and St. Catharines TeePees are tied 3-3 in their best-of-seven OHA final. The seventh game is in St. Catharines today.

Marlboros have agreed to start the eastern final against the Frontenacs in Quebec City Wednesday if they win today. But it is reported the TeePees will demand more time if they win.

MAY CRIMP PLANS

Another crimp in the plans is that the OHA might not decide a winner today. The plants are to have one 10-minute overtime period if the TeePees and Marlboros are tied after regulation time. If they are still tied after the overtime, an eighth game will be played in Toronto Wednesday.

W. B. (Baldy) George of Kemptville, Ont., CAHA president, said TeePees would not be compelled to open the series in Quebec Wednesday if they defeat Marlboros today. He said if the TeePees insist on more time the first two games in Quebec will be played Friday and Saturday.

If Marlboros win today for the eastern final will start in Quebec Wednesday with the second game there Friday.

The Calvert SPORTS COLUMN

by Elmer Ferguson

Nostalgic veterans of the sports world, which is well populated with such folk, frequently lament that in no sport do the moderns equal those of another era, for physical ruggedness, durability, and such indestructible qualities.

The modern streamlined hockey with its fast player-changes is frequently cited as a case to prove the point, and the absence of the old 60-minute player is mourned in floods of tears. The platoon system of football is criticized and sometimes a forced retirement. Even the horses, moan these relics of another sports age, don't run so fast as formerly.

But most of all, these folk point to modern boxing, with its limited rounds, as a sport that has grown soft. They lament the days of fights-to-the-finish, of ferocity, violence, when contestants showed the durability by withstand punishment. And, if that is true, we're very glad indeed that things have changed.

After Battling Nelson, the shell of a once-great athlete with the durchility traditional of those rugged days of sport, died in complete poverty, we dug into some ancient files to refresh our memory of the Durable Dane's major battles, particularly his long and vicious fight with Ad. Wolgast for the lightweight crown which Nelson then held.

And in our search we came across a newspaper account of the fight, which reported that it was one of the most gruesome, horrendous, heart-breaking, vicious battles of all time and although Wolgast won he would never be the same again.

Nelson, as the story proved, proved a punching bag for the young German from Cadillac, Mich. "Nelson took a merciless pounding and after the fight his body and face showed he had undergone a terrible ordeal." Nelson was declared loser by knockout in the 40th round. He was still on his feet, but blinded by his own blood, streaming down his face.

And truly enough, as the writer forecast, Wolgast was never quite the same afterwards. He is now spending his declining days in an insane asylum, living in the hazy memories of his great days, and training for the "fight of tomorrow" that his punch-wrecked brain envisions.

That was a fight, so we take it, typical of the era for which nostalgic fistic veterans sometimes mourn. Doubtless there were fights of great courage in those days, but not more so than athletes of great courage in these days, but not more so than today in the fields of limited rounds, where the accent is on skill and speed, if less on the durability.

Pt. Anne Again Leads Valley Finals With 7-6 Victory Over Marmora Club

(By GARRY ALEXANDER)

Paced by the fast-footed line of Jacklin-Strahan-Coulombe, Point Anne Comentmen emerged on the winning end of a hot game last night in the Belleville Memorial Arena to take a 2-2 lead in games over Marmora in the best-of-seven Trent Valley League hockey finals.

It was a see-saw battle all the way with first one team and then the other out front. George Jacklin polished the winner at 13:20 of the third session after the Millionaires had scored three quick ones early in the period to lead 6-5 at the six minute mark.

The Ox Pointers got off on the right foot when Don Goyer beat Killian for the initial goal of the game at 1:42, the puck just trickling over the line after being passed around the net by Mulholland and the Goyer boys.

Marmora fought hard during the next thirteen minutes but were unable to take advantage of several good opportunities. It was then three times the visitors were in the clear but Killian survived all the shots before getting their shot away. Ray Darrah proved to be the spoiler at 14:42 and at 17.31 when he stole a puck near his own blueline and caught the surprise shot by Bates to tie the score. It took only nine seconds for Marmora to regain the lead, Goyer to Gyves to Mulholland, Smith slamming this one, into the solo effort.

The Millionaires made it 3-1 early in the third frame when Lavender found himself on the receiving end of a pass by Earle Leonard, all alone with Don Bates.

Pete Green got that one back less than a minute later when he let loose a screened shot from inside the Marmora blue line and for the next fifteen minutes the two teams played a fast-moving even game.

Darrah drew a hooking penalty at 15.32 and before he got back the score was tied on a screened goal by Gerry Goyer. John Green started the play in his own defence, feeding the puck to Goyer who in turn laid it on Tim Williams' stick and the latter passed on to Pete Green who let the shot fly. Jacklin was the man to beat. Williams sped netward and slapped the puck in to Goyer in the goal mouth. Pat Gilmour put his team ahead for the dying minutes of the period with a long drive that flashed under the screen while each team played a man short.

Billy Strahan made it 5-3 in the Canemmen's favor at 1.24 of the third period when he took Gilmour's pass and drove hard to split the defense before shooting to the far corner past Gyves before the Marmora crew within reach on a screened shot at 9.26.

Brooks and Jones then came through with a pair of fast ones and the Millionaires were returned around, with Marmora in the lead for the first time as a masterpiece as he picked up speed, went around Pete Green and poked the puck under the net before flipping it in.

Bill Strahan added his second goal of the period in the same minute to put the issue beyond doubt when he took Jacklin's pass at the 1.07 fans settled back for overtime. Green rippled a hard drive through the defense after taking passes from his linemates, but the well earned goal.

Strahan had two goals and one assist for the night while Jacklin and Gilmour scored once and helped on two others to share honors total points up to nine. The Marmora goals were evenly divided with no one getting more than one. Mantle and Leonard each assisted.

Six minor penalties were handed out with both teams getting four of them.

The next game will be played in Marmora on Wednesday night with a win for the Pointers bringing them the title. Otherwise, Marmora take that game, the seventh and deciding battle will be played in Belleville on Friday evening.

The teams:

Marmora:- Killian, Gray, Leonard, Maynes, K. Trumble, Lavender, Jones, Brooks, Rands, Robbotton, Darrah, Brown, Smith, Loveless, E. Trumble, Young.

Pt. Anne:- Green, Green, Mulholland, Gilmour, Strahan, Jacklin, Strahan, Stewart, Goyer, Williams, G. Goyer, Hunter, M. Bradshaw, L. Maracle, P. Maracle, C. Twa.

Jap Puckists Good Players Says Thistles

By BRUCE LEVETT
Canadian Press Staff Writer

VANCOUVER (CP) — The Kenora Thistles arrived back in Canada Monday with praise for the Japanese players they met during their hockey tour of Japan.

It was no praise for the Thistles, who lost eight while playing a tough schedule of 10 games in 12 nights. They won all 16-goal exactly by a 23-1 margin and the closest 4-3 affair.

"Those Japanese players are small and fast skaters," said Manager Robertson, one of four brothers on the team. "Give them a year or two and they'll be ready for world championship competition."

All four Robertsons work for the Canadian-Pacific Railway. Murray is left-winger, and tied with Ray Westland as top-scorer on the Thistles, is a yard foreman.

Ken (Sugar), captain, is a caseman; Don (Spike), coach is a yard conductor and Stan, a defenceman, is a Morse operator.

Score By Elasmen

"The Japanese coaches did a lot of slashing during the first game," Murray said. "But we picked it up from a New York (Big Ten) Red-Key, who toured Japan a year ago. We didn't bodycheck at all for the first eight games, but finally settled a meeting of coaches."

Spike took up the tale:

"We told them to cut out the slashing or we would start bodychecking. They told us to go ahead."

So, in the 12th game of their 10-game tour, the Thistles began bouncing the lighter Japanes players into the corners.

That 10th game was certainly a nice, polite game. "Good hockey," Murray said.

He said the Japanese were playing hockey of intermediate B calibre.

Goalies, Canadian intermediate A champs for 1953-53, made the tour under the auspices of the Japanese Figure Skating Club and the Canadian Amateur Hockey Association.

Only casualty or the trip came in the final game, seven minutes before the Kenora club was officially through with the season. Defenceman Bedo Leydier took a puck in the mouth resulting in a shattered gash and the loss of several teeth.

Stampeders Oust Edmonton Flyers

CALGARY (CP)—Edmonton Flyers let slip their Western Hockey League title Monday night when they dropped a deciding contest to Calgary Stampeders.

Stampeders now will open a best-of-seven Dominion hockey final round Thursday night in Edmonton.

Official attendance was 8,905, a record for WHL matches in Calgary.

Sid Finney led Stampeders with a sparkling three-goal splurge in the second period. Fat Lundy got one in the first and another in the second and the others came from Steve Black, Frank Ashworth and defenceman Quackenbush.

12 Pt. Anne, Strahan (Jacklin) 6.52
13 Pt. Anne, Jacklin (Strahan, Gilmour) 15.20
Penalties—None.

Finnish Star Beats Briton In Marathon

BOSTON (AP)—Finland's Veikko Karvonen, a runner with a long memory, retained happily today as center squaring accounts with Britain's Jimmy Peters.

The 27-year-old Finnish mail clerk defeated Peters, Britain's only unofficial world record for the 26-mile, 385-yard marathon grind—by 900 yards Monday while waging the 58th Boston marathon.

Only once before, Karvonen finished second to the 35-year-old London optician's assistant as Peters set his world mark of 2:18:34.3 right in the Finn's home town of Turku. Karvonen suffered a humiliating loss as he trailed Peters in that test by more than a mile.

REVERSE ROLE

On Monday, Karvonen raced stride for stride with Peters through most of the distance, then moved in front for good on the torturous stretch of "heartbreak hill," some eight miles from home.

The winning time of 2:20:39 wasn't as swift as his 2:19:19 effort here in 1953, when the runners had a brisk tail wind.

More than 500,000 persons lined the course to cheer the competitors.

Finland added luster to its racing honors as Erkki Puolakka, a 28-year-old paper mill foreman, and winner of the Viipuri cross-country championship, won the Canadian-American 10-mile run in 51:06.2, good enough for third in 2:22:25.

The chief hope for an American victory, 25-year-old collegian John J. Kelley of Boston University, was seventh behind the Finns and the genuine runners.

Best of the Canadian entries was Toronto's George Norman, who was 14th. Andrew Nicol, a navy man from Ontario, was 29th.

ROOKIE DRAFTED

DETROIT (AP)—Frank Bolling, 22-year-old Georgia second baseman drafted by Detroit Tigers, was instructed by his draft board Monday to take a physical examination Friday in Detroit. He is married and an expectant father.

Wolves Within Single Point Of East. Senior Hockey Title

SUDBURY (CP) — Sudbury Wolves drew within one point of winning the Eastern Canada Senior hockey championship when they defeated Matane Jiel Hocks 3-2 Monday night.

The victory gave the Wolves a 3-1 lead in the best-of-seven finals. One game is tied and a victory or a tie for the Wolves here Wednesday would send them into the Ed Chynoweth Cup.

Last night's game, watched by an estimated 4,000 fans, was not decided until eight minutes from the end. Matane took a 1-0 lead early in the game but Sudbury bounced back for a 2-1 margin before the first period was over. Matane tied it in the second but the Wolves scored again for a 3-2 lead going into the third.

Before the third period was three minutes old Ted Hockey had deadlocked the score again. But the Wolves fired the winner at 12:26 and sailed it away 22 seconds from the end.

Sudbury Peter McClellan, Yogi Kraiger, Ed Harrison and Gordie Heale were the Sudbury snipers. Matane marksmen were Ste. Marie, Gilbert and Bartlett.

ONLY NINE PENALTIES

Only nine penalties were called during the rough-and-tumble night game—all in the first two periods. Sudbury drew five of the penalties and Matane took advantage of one of them for a goal. The Wolves scored their first goal while they themselves were at a manpower disadvantage.

A screened shot by Stan Mantle from inside the enemy blue line at 1:53 of the first period gave the Red Rocks their only lead of the game. Tomluk took a pass from Andy Millette and scored on a backhander to tie the score at 7:35.

The Wolves went ahead midway through the second period when Kraiger split the Matane defence, faked Goderich Lions goalie out of position and lifted the puck into the top corner.

Gilbert tied the score in the second period while Ed Harrison was off for tripping. It came on passes from Leger and Brault after a faceoff inside the Sudbury blue line. Kraiger's blue-line shot caromed off Leduc at 10:06 to send the Wolves ahead 3-2.

In the third period the Red Rocks again got a temporary life when Bartlett, tripping at centre ice, took a long pass from Leduc inside the Matane zone and broke away to score.

Harrison won the game 12 minutes later when he broke up the ice with King. Only one Matane player, Gerry Gosselin was benched a pass to Harrison inside the Matane line and Harrison fired the Wolves' fifth goal after pulling Pallie out of position.

Sudbury outshot the scoring when his shot went into the empty Matane net at 19:38.

Tommy Gorman Charges Que. Aces With Attempt to Hurt Ottawa Players

By ERCIL SMITH
Canadian Press Staff Writer

OTTAWA (CP) — Quebec Aces were charged with attempting to cause injuries to Ottawa players Monday night after the Senators routed the visitors 4-1 to even their Eastern Canada Senior Hockey League finals at one game each.

Coach Tommy Gorman, owner of the Senators, made the charges to Punch Imlach, general-manager of the Aces, in the press room at the Auditorium following the game. Gorman said Imlach's remarks were based on the use of defenceman Bill Burgess in the final period.

Gorman said the team that will throw a player like Burgess out just to injure opposing players "is crazy."

"Burgess charged Bobby Copp four-times in the final period and threw him to the ice. He was used to cause injury. It's a rough battle you want, we'll give it to you."

TO LOOK AT TROPHY

Imlach was in the press room to look at the new Duke of Edinburgh Trophy which has been on display. The trophy will be awarded to the winner of the Eastern West hockey series between the QHL champions and the Western Hockey League titlists.

Burgess, who started the season with the Montreal Royals in Quebec, was used only in the final period of the game, a bruising battle throughout.

The third game of the series will be in Quebec City Wednesday night, with the fourth in Quebec Saturday night. Aces took the opener in Quebec Sunday 4-3 in overtime.

Gorman also put a proposition up to the Quebec officials following the game. He said the Senators would allow the Aces to pick up any player in organized hockey if they would agree to Senators using defenceman Hugh Bolton, Ottawa goalie, in the final game and ended with Toronto Maple Leafs of the National Hockey League. Gorman said Aces could use Jean Beliveau or Maurice Richard of Montreal Canadiens, or anyone else they could get.

The Senators scored three times in the second period to bolster the one-goal lead they gained in the first period. The Aces struck for their lone goal early in the second.

Phil Maloney, Ottawa goalie, Bill Hudson and Gerry Foley counted for the Senators and Adam Brown scored for Quebec.

Oshawa To Play All Games In Simcoe

SIMCOE (CP)—All games in the Ontario Hockey Association senior D finals between Simcoe Gunners and Oshawa Truckmen will be played here, starting tomorrow night, Gunners officials said Monday night.

The Simcoe team has been idle since last Tuesday when it won over Woodstock Athletics in four straight games in the semi-finals. Oshawa has been using ice in Kingston and Bowmanville since its own arena was destroyed by fire last fall. Truckmen won their semi-final series with Stouffville Clippers 4-2.

Peewee Star Gets 15 Goals

GODERICH (CP)—Fifteen goals, 13 of them unassisted, made Frank Dalton the star of the first day of the Young Canada Week PeeWee hockey tournament here.

Dalton, from Grand Bend, Ont., led Monday's play in the group D championship of the tournament with a 23-0 victory over Ripley. Other starters in the contest for peewee hockey players are expected to take part in the week-long play.

Stewart Denies Making Statement On 'Handshaking'

MONTREAL (CP) — The furore over the absence of handshaking from Detroit Red Wings and the Stanley Cup champion Detroit Red Wings blew hot and cold Monday.

Gaye Stewart, Montreal left-winger and member of Detroit sports columnist as saying his team-mates were "getting too much higher up" from shaking hands with the Wings. Stewart denied it from his East Keiz, Ont., home and Marshall Dann, sports columnist for the Detroit Free Press who reported the statement, said he would take Stewart's word for it.

"The report of Stewart's statement was obtained from a reliable and extremely accurate source," Dann said Monday. "But if Stewart has denied it, I will give him all the benefit of the doubt."

Stewart, called up by Canadiens from Buffalo of the American Hockey League and one-time member of the Wings, went to the Detroit victory party after last Friday's 3-2 overtime triumph that gave the Wings the cup.

Stewart was quoted as having told Dann: "They're not apologetic for some of our fellows. They felt it's a free country. Look at the guys on the ice and shake hands all round. But we were restrained here."

SAYS "BOILING MAD"

Stewart telephoned Canadiens' publicity director Frank Selke at the Montreal Forum Monday to say he was misquoted. Selke said he read the statement and that "it wasn't at all correct."

Stewart told the Forum he stayed only a few minutes, saw only a few of the players there and only two newspaper men, Bob Blackburn of the Montreal Gazette and Milt Dunnell of the Toronto Star.

Coach Dick Irvin of Canadiens said that "no one could be more personal developments in the older league.

If present plans go through, hockey fans soon will be privileged to watch their favorite nights of work over the national hookups. Only on Tuesday and Sunday will they be able to catch up on their sleep.

The thought that five shows per week will be piped into the living room of hockey fans who can keep from talking politics long enough does not appear to have occurred to the sponsors. Nor that their audience is in a mood to be selective.

In order to fill their commitments, promoters are flattering has-beens such as Jake Lamotta. Worse still, followers of promising kids are permitting them to get their brains scrambled by name fighters. Some day, the audience will be fed up.

Until then, we suggest it will bring back wrestling, and maybe it wouldn't be a bad idea. At least, nobody gets hurt.

No Radical Changes In Puck Agreement

TORONTO (CP)—A meeting between Canadian Amateur Hockey Association president Mervyn (Red) Dutton and Commissioner Hal Sr. Smythe, National Hockey League president, has been held here Monday. No radical changes in the CAHA's agreement with the NHL were expected.

The CAHA was represented by its negotiating committee which included W. R. (Baldy) George of Kemptville, Ont., and Dr. (Doc) Doug Grimston of New Westminster, B.C., Al Pickard of Regina, Sask., secretary-treasurer, Frank Sargeant of Port Arthur; George Dudley of Sudbury, Ont., secretary-manager of the CAHA, and W. A. (Bill) Hewitt of Toronto.

Proposals and recommendations that had previously been discussed by the three reviewers at Toronto will be further taken up at the CAHA's annual meeting.

Yankee Infield Causing 'Ole Case' To Mumble in His Greying Beard

By: GAYLE TALBOT

NEW YORK (AP)—It will not take long for the news to get around the American League that Phil Rizzuto, the veteran New York Yankee shortstop, does not appear to be getting the jump on the ball that he did in other years. He's early yet, but manager Casey Stengel is said to be not a bit worrying.

All Casey's rivals have been waiting to hear for several years now is a report that little Phil has begun to feel his 35 summers and has slowed up a step. In their opinion, Rizzuto has been the key man in the Yankees' string of world championships.

Phil caused shakings of the head in exhibition games in Florida this spring. He was supposed to be working himself into shape gradually, as is a veteran's privilege, but now the boys are beginning to wonder.

Hector is Gerry Coleman making Stengel happy at second base. Feeling in that area, the Korean veteran put in far too much time in preliminary baseball camps last February and was tired and tried before he even reported to St. Petersburg. Look at the dough he's charging might be in for a long summer.

Cincinnati Redlegs, on the other hand, started out to do exactly what their new manager, Birdie Tebbetts, said he would—wear out a lot of National League pitchers. If Jim Greengrass, the Redlegs' aerial ace last year, continues to terrify opposing throwers as they did in the second week, they're not going to be welcome anywhere.

It's too early to tell what Tebbetts has put together a pitching staff that will stand up through the long season, but Bob Purkey, when he's right, can be a most effective starter. Ken Raffensberger and Milt Dunnell of the Toronto Star.

Coach Dick Irvin of Canadiens said that "no one could be more personal developments in the older league.

If present plans go through, hockey fans soon will be privileged to watch their favorite nights of work over the national hookups. Only on Tuesday and Sunday will they be able to catch up on their sleep.

BABE GETS TESTS

BEAUMONT, Tex. (AP)—Colfer Babe Zaharias underwent blood and x-ray tests, Monday to determine her condition one year after an operation for cancer. Results of the tests will be reviewed by W. E. Ramsey, Houston physician, and Dr. Robert Moore, who performed the surgery tests last April. Dr. Tatum described the present tests as routine.

Ed. Schamerhorn KO's Opponent In 3rd Round

Eddie Schamerhorn, promising young Belleville fighter, was one of the two Canadians to score victories in the Toronto Lions' Club international boxing tournament held in Maple Leaf Gardens last night.

Eddie knocked out Charlie Hoffman, Detroit, in the third round of a scheduled five rounder to win the Star Trophy and The Fred Sleeth Trophy.

American golden gloves boxers formed the opposition to Canadians in the ten-bout card. The other Canadian to win was Tommy Hendrick of London, who scored a TKO over his American opponent.

Schamerhorn is trained and managed by Mark Storms, well known in fight circles of the city and district.

By SAM GORDON
The Bridge Expert

Innocents abroad in bridge can easily wreck another hand. The very cards that look good may be bad for that pair. You can see a sample of this in the deal shown here:

♠ 10 8 5 3
♥ Q 10 6 4
♣ K 5 4

WEST
♥ 9 5 3
♦ K J 10 9 8
♣ J 10 9 3

EAST
♠ Q J
♥ 8 7 2
♦ 7 6 4 2

SOUTH
♠ A K 9 6 4 2
♥ A K
♦ A K J
♣ Q 3 2

South was declarer at three notrump and the opening lead from the jack of clubs. Declarer can peel eight solid tricks right off the top. What he needs is a ninth trick.

If opponents' spades are divided three-two he can look for that ninth trick in the fourth round of that suit. So, he lets the first trick run to his south queen and leads a spade.

When east wins the first spade, suppose he switches to a return of a diamond. South's king will win and another spade will be taken by east. But what will west let go of, on this second spade?

If west gives up a heart, dummy can get two heart tricks after south's ace and king are cashed. If west gives up a club, south will be able to get a fourth club trick for sure.

So, let us assume west gives up a diamond east returns another diamond when he takes the second spade. South wins the second diamond with the ace and cashes two top hearts and two more top clubs.

Now, all south has to do is let west cash a club and a diamond. He will then have nothing left but two hearts. Whichever he leads will let dummy take two heart tricks and the contract is made.

However, when east gets his first spade trick it is not likely that he will switch at once to a diamond. While in, he will no doubt cash the rest of his top spades.

If he does this, west is squeezed to a pulp. Declarer can just about write his own ticket for a ninth trick in diamonds or hearts or clubs. It is a suicide squeeze. It's murder.

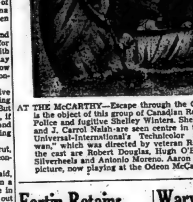
AT THE CAPITOL—Universal-International's "Column South" starring The World Is His Arena" starring Ann Blyth and Gregory Peck, has a rugged story of San Francisco and Alaska in the 1850's. Also on the program is "Rose Bowl Story," The World Is Red," starring James Bill Roderick and Antoinette Quinn. On the same program in Technicolor "Cosmos South" starring Audie Murphy and Joan Evans. Both hits are now showing at the Capitol and will be continued daily all this week starting at 2:00 p.m.

Little Benny's Note Book

Pop was smoking comfortable with his slippers on, and ma said, Maud Ellen came over this afternoon and tried to make me promise to bring you over there about 9 o'clock for a rubber or 2 of bridge, but I told her there was very little chance.

If you want to know how much chance there is in round numbers, there's absolutely none, pop said. I've already had my quota of bridge this week, he said, and ma said, You only played once, when the Kidburns were here.

That's the quota, pop said, and ma said, I realize once a week for bridge is a proverbial habit with you, but if you started to play twice a week, how do you know you wouldn't find it just as congenial a habit?



I don't know, and I expect to live many more years without finding out, pop said, and ma said, Really, William, I meem honestly, if you limit your life with rules and regulations like that, the next thing you know you'll be a nut.

There's nothing like a good rut, pop said, and ma said, Well, I congradulate you, William.

I congradulate myself, pop said, and ma said, You're one man in a hundred, Pa Harris Hinkle wrote in his collum today that 99 men out of a hundred blow their wives in neg-them into doing what they dont want to do, but you didn't let ma nag you into playing bridge tonite, so that makes you a man in a hundderd, she said.

You win, my dear, pop said. It's still a woman's world, let's go, he said.

And he changed his slippers to his shoes and they went to the Hewses house.

AT THE BELLE—Stewart Granger, rumored to have died, proves very much alive as he embraces Robert Taylor's young wife, Ann Blyth after coming aboard Taylor's whaling ship in the tropics. The scene is from M-G-M's tremendous Technicolor romance "All The Brothers Were Valiant" in filmization of Ben Ames Williams' adventure story of two seafaring feuding brothers who prove their valor in a thrilling ship's mutiny. The film filmed largely in Jamaica in the British West Indies, is showing today, Wednesday and Thursday, at the Belle Theatre.

AT THE McCARTHY—Escape through the Canadian Rocky streams is the object of this group of Canadian Royal Mounted Police Follies and fugitive Shelley Winters. Alan Ladd and J. Carrol Naish are seen centre in this exciting scene from Universal-International's Technicolor picture "Saskatchewan," which was directed by veteran Raoul Walsh. Featured in the cast are Robert Douglas, Hugh O'Brien, Robert Loug, Jay Silverheels and Antonio Moreno. Aaron Rosenberg produced the picture, now playing at the Odeon McCarthy Theatre.

Fortin Retains Weler Title Over Brisebois

MONTREAL (CP) — Canadian welterweight champion Claude Fortin retained his title Monday night by fighting to a draw with Montrealer Rocky Brisebois in a 12-round title bout before some 1,000 fans at Mont St. Louis Auditorium.

Brisebois weighed 145½ pounds while Fortin tipped the scale at 145¾.

The unusual decision was announced after two of the three judges scored the fight even despite a Montreal athletic commission rule that requires a champion ship fights cannot end in a draw. Judge Leo Germain and Dexter Green scored five rounds for each fighter and called two even. The other judge, Rene Quinet, had Brisebois the winner eight rounds to four. The decision was based on a judges' majority ruling, not on a total rounds-won basis.

Brisebois lost the title to Fortin on a disputed split decision two months ago and many fans believed that he had won Monday night's bout. Fortin seemed to have the edge in the first five rounds of the televised bout but Brisebois came back strong and the champion came close to being knocked out at the finish. There were no knockdowns.

Warwicks Ride Roughshod Over 'Peg Marcons

KELOWNA, B.C. (CP) — The Warwick brothers, Grant, Bill and Dick, rode roughshod over Winnipeg Marcons here Monday night to lead Penticton Vees to a one-sided 7-1 victory in the third game of the western Canada Allan Cup finals.

Penticton won the best-of-seven series 1-1. Winnipeg topped the second game 3-2. The first ended in a 4-4 stalemate. The next game will switch to Vernon, B.C., for the fourth contest Wednesday.

V's dominated play from the opening whistle and were never in danger of defeat. They led 2-0 at the end of the first, added three more in the second and ran the count to seven straight goals before playing coach Odie Lowe scored Winnipeg's lone goal late in the final period.

Penticton's first western Canada champs dressed only 11 men for the contest but the potent Warwick trio almost took care of Marcoons singlehanded. The Warwick brothers netted five of the seven Penticton goals and assisted on a sixth with Bill and Dick getting two apiece and Grant a singleton. Kevin Conway and Jack McIntyre tallied the others.

St. Kitts' Bisons Square Series

SAULT STE. MARIE, Ont. (CP) — St. Catharines Blazos Monday night evened their All-Ontario Juvenile playoffs with Sault Ste. Marie Dorans when they carved out a 4-2 verdict in the second game of the best-of-five series.

Dorans gained a 6-5 decision in the opener Saturday night.

In Monday night's contest, witnessed by 2,200 fans, Dorans scored three goals in the third period to carve out their margin of victory.

St. Catharines goal scorers were Malt Thompson, Mitch Hoekstra, Eddie Plata and Pete Salikin. Doc markmen were Al Coletti and Joe Tucci.

CHICAGO (AP) — The biggest tournament prize in sports history—$20,000 in cash and a $25,000 exhibition contract—will go to the winner of George Gray's "World Championship of Golf" in the Tam O'Shanter meet this summer.

Promoter May, president of Tam O'Shanter, announced Monday that purse distribution has been boosted to $205,000 from $125,000 for his multiple tournaments Aug. 5-15.

Gray's purse is climaxed the last four days by the "World, Championship" which paid the winner $25,000 last year.

This cash payoff has been doubled for 1954 and a contract for 50 exhibitions at $1,000 each.

HOUSTON (AP) — Attia

BANGKOK, Thailand (AP)—Australia's Jimmy Carruthers, the world featherweight champion, and Thai challenger Chamrern Songkitrat plunged into heavy training Monday for their 15-round championship fight May 2.

The fight gives every evidence of being a sellout. The stadium seats 30,000 and 27,000 is expected to be 3,780,000 ticals ($275,000)—the richest bout in the history of Southeast Asia. The fighters will divide what is left of two million ticals ($95,000) after the stadium rent has been paid.

DEMARCO WINS AWARD

NEW YORK (CP)—Paddy DeMarco, who upset Jimmy Carter to win the junior welterweight boxing championship, Monday was named winner of the March award in the Hickok Pro Athlete of the Year poll.

Demarco received 44 first place votes from sports writers and sportscasters and a total of 160 points. Tommy (Hurricane) Jackson, 22-year-old New York Negro who vaulted to the heavyweight division's top ranks by stopping Dan Bucceroni, was second with 107 points.

Madoc Band Presents Concert In High School

MADOC — Madoc Band presented another band concert on Friday evening in the high school auditorium with a fair representation of citizens from the village and community.

John Bullett was chairman and his comments on the various numbers added much interest and enjoyment during the evening.

Under the direction of bandmaster Bill Aylesworth the band played several numbers which were thoroughly enjoyed by the audience. Bandmaster Monjeleul, of the Bancroft band, conducted the band through the Vol. Boggy' march in a spirited manner.

Guests taking part in the program were the Boys' High School quartet; Messrs. Jim Howes, Clifford Derry, Bill Wagar, and Bob Walker, under the direction of Mr. B. Wigle.

Rupert and James Howse contributed piano duets which were appreciated.

The purpose of the band concerts is to raise money to purchase new uniforms and the treasurer, Harry Miller, has received several donations and many more will be gratefully received by the bandsmen.

DRIVE-IN THEATRE
"Million Dollar Mermaid"

Esther Williams here is very appropriately cast in the central role of this musical biography of Annette Kellerman, Australian born beauty who won fame and fortune throughout the world at the turn of the century for her swimming feats. The film traces her rise to fame, from Sydney, to London, Boston, the New York Hippodrome and Hollywood, where she published the one-piece bathing suit. Victure Mature, portrays her true-love who also was her manager. Walter Pidgeon plays her father. Musical numbers and water ballets highlight the film, also "The Prowler."

Your Individual Horoscope

BY FRANCES DRAKE

Look in the section in which your birthday comes and find what your outlook is, according to the stars.

FOR WEDNESDAY, APRIL 21, 1954

March 21 to April 20 (Aries) — Scrutinize outlook with a view to possible emergencies. You can concentrate on essentials and still take time for new and unexpected matters. Some fresh benefits after 4 p.m.

April 21 to May 20 (Taurus) — Right principles permit you more choice, toss up your attitude—regardless of how others act. Be firm in avoidance of questionable schemes; undue interference in your activities.

May 21 to June 21 (Gemini) — Happy events possible—maybe in romance, marriage; in other personal affairs you could build great satisfaction. Be appreciative of all benefits and favors.

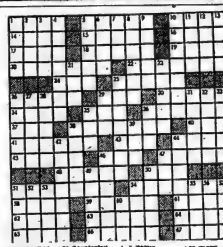
June 22 to July 22 (Cancer) — With Mercury last and a rightly conciliatory attitude at home and in business you can expect many happy moments. Avoid being over-sensitive; it blurs reason, prevents broader understanding.

July 24 to August 22 (Leo) — Vibrant influences now should bring your ambitions to considerable fruition. The sort of day when it would be wise to pursue many everyday gains to insure greater success.

August 23 to September 22 (Virgo)—Today's vibrations favor your natural talents and give you a wider scope for general activities. Interests closely knitted to family, loved ones should have a high percentage of success.

September 24 to October 23 (Libra)—Building, manufacturing of sold handling essentials, community and social welfare activities can advance with careful, studious revisions. Your perception, intuition should help now.

October 24 to November 22 (Scorpio)—No indefinite rules now! Conform to those laid down by due authority. Not many hindrances today so you can have a good day if you would. Well-managed efforts can bring gains.

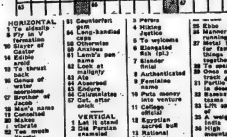


November 23 to December 22 (Sagittarius)—Limitations, if any, will be most likely in financial matters. These should be astutely handled. Sum up your obligations, sound your capacities, then work forward.

December 23 to January 21 (Capricorn) — Though we often favor the flourish of life, remember it's the substantial things that count. You can have both, but appreciate first things first.

January 22 to February 20 (Aquarius)—Don't be too exacting. You love liberty; work to protect it. Don't demand your own way, but it can be had by gentle persuasion. Stand by decisions you know are best.

February 21 to March 20 (Pisces)—Use your discernment to good advantage this mixed day. Be alert to outside influences and don't permit the wrong ones to sway you. Use care in signing.



YOU BORN TODAY have a pleasing manner and personality; fine moral aspirations and ambitions. Your natal planet Venus governs the artistic, the gentler things in life. Men and women of this birthday love nature's beauty, children, animals, music, the fine arts. You can be obdurate and persistent, but are also natural peacemakers, able assistants, cooperative co-workers or straightforward leaders. You may have to keep a strict watch on a tendency to live luxuriously, perhaps beyond income; also be careful with whom you make friends. Birthdate of: Hippolyte A. Taine, noted Fr. critic, historian.

Striped Bass Newest Addition For Que. Anglers

By ROMEO MAGERA
Canadian Press Staff Writer

QUEBEC (CP)—Striped bass, a sleek, silvery fish with several narrow black stripes running the lengthwise, is the newest addition to game fish in Quebec province.

Fished commercially for years by fishermen along a 150-mile stretch of the St. Lawrence river, the local variety of the American striped bass was almost unknown to sport-fishing enthusiasts until two years ago.

The Quebec game and fisheries branch, interested in stripped bass fishing as a sport, and curious anglers soon found the striper as good a fighter as his cousins, the mail-mouth and large-mouth species.

THEY COME BIG

It is not uncommon to hook one a 15-pounder. Last season, during a contest sponsored by the Hunters and Fishermen's Association of Levis, across the St. Lawrence from Quebec City, the biggest fish was taken. The association is one of the clubs working with the provincial department in promoting striped bass angling.

Sturdy equipment is necessary and surf-casting rods and saltwater reels, with automatic gears, are proving popular.

Described as "elegant in shape as salmon," striped bass or "saubeers are known as "bar," pronounced like the English word
"bore." The fish make delicious eating, roasted in butter or boiled and served with a cream sauce.

They are strictly St. Lawrence river habitants and are caught between Riviere du Loup, 120 miles northeast of this provincial capital, and Lake St. Peter, 70 miles southwest.

They spawn every spring at the mouths of St. Lawrence river tributaries but are not likely to be irate inland from the big waterway. They thrive in fast, tidal waters such as run in the river.

The striped bass season is June
1 to Nov. 30. Although there is no limit on the bag, there is a minimum legal size of 12 inches.

POACHERS PENALIZED

Commercially, fish markets are co-operating with game and fisheries department to see that regulations are observed and the fish protected from poachers.

In Montreal recently two men were arrested for illegal possession of, and attempting to sell, 1,000 pounds of the bass out of season.
Stiff penalties were imposed.

Before legislation was passed two years ago to protect the fish, farmers were free to take them year-round, fish markets, as a result, were flooded with the bass, many of them undersized.

Striped bass fishing is at its best between July and October when speckled trout—the aristocrat Quebec waters—is preparing to spawn. The bass are then in low and fast then and strippers are in abundance along islands down river from Quebec City.

Oliver Predicts General Election Before Snow Falls

ST. THOMAS (CP) — Farquhar
Oliver, Ontario Liberal leader
Monday night predicted an Ontario general election before the snow falls next winter.

Speaking at an organizational meeting of the Elgin Liberal Association, he said: "I have a sneaking idea it (the Ontario government) will face the electorate storm and seek to get the verdict of the people before all the cars are brought out in full."

He said the Ontario highways department has estimated expenditures of $150,000,000 and the people have a right to be sure the money will only be used on roads."

The meeting elected A. V. Coulter, former warden of Elgin county as president of the association. He succeeds Robert McEwen, mayor of Aylmer.

Truck Hits Tree

HAMILTON (CP) — Transport driver Roy Burnie, 29, of Toronto was critically injured when his empty diesel semi-transport crashed head-on into a tree on the boulevard of the Queen Elizabeth way just west of Fischer's Corners, early this morning.

St. Joseph's Hospital doctors said he had suffered severe head and internal injuries.

Can Take Perfect Pictures At Terrific Speed

OTTAWA (CP)—The modern jet aircraft, travelling at more than 600 miles an hour, can take pictures from 400 feet showing the grain of wood on a wharf or the headlines on a newspaper lying on the ground.

So the RCAF's photographic development branch here has to scramble to build better cameras to keep military photographic reconnaissance abreast of the speeding air age.

Sqdn. Ldr. Wayne Pearce, 39, who heads the branch, says that while cameras and lenses are now the methods of aerial photography are as old as the panoramic cameras for which groups used to pose in 1900. In those days, the big trick was to "shoot the picture twice by standing on the extreme right of the group and then running around the back to the left side.

DETAILED PICTURE

Top devices, the slit camera and continuous strip film, borrowed from the panoramic camera and with many other tactical improvements, make it possible to take a continuous detailed picture of the ground.

At high level, however, the photo plane requires a larger camera and much more equipment. To do a good job up there, the technicians figure on a lens weighing 150 pounds. Together with the camera works and gadgets, total weight may be as much as 1,000 pounds.

The camera must be kept at constant temperature because in such photography, where the distance from lens to film is as much as 60 inches, variations in temperature can ruin a picture and distort the whole film.

At the rate things are going, today, says Sqdn. Ldr. Pearce, higher speeds and heat of friction will require a large refrigerator to keep the pilot, aircraft and camera cool enough to function.

'Actors' Church' Will Be Torn Down for Store

LONDON (Reuters)—St. Peter's, the little "Actors' Church" in the heart of London, soon will be torn down to become a jewelry store catering to the fashionable ladies of Mayfair and Chelsea.

For 96 years the church of Great Windmill Street, where painted women paced the night, has brought spiritual solace to actors, actresses and nightclub entertainers.

But a jewelry firm has bought the property—and cut Piccadilly circus—for £150,000, ending a 25-year-fight by the congregation to keep it open.

The Easter sermon Sunday night was Vicar Clarence Hoyle's farеwell, and he called it "The Last Curtain."

SHOW PEOPLE WEEP

More than 600 veteran show people stood in line for an hour to get in and many wept openly as Canon May said bitterly:

"Surely there is need for a hallowed house in an area where there are so many houses that are not hallowed."

Th vicar, who himself holds a union card in Actor's Equity, sprinkled his sermon with the language of the theatre business.

"I have had a 25-year-run here," he said "Thank you, dear people—
it has been such fun."

Actress Flora Robson, famed for her characterization in movies, read

Planes Parachute Fresh Supplies To French Force

By LARRY ALLEN

HANOI (AP) — The thousands of valiant defenders of the French
Union Dien-Bien-Phu fortress of Communist-encircling terrain today received fresh strength from the skies.

United States-supplied Dakotas and Flying Boxcars, some piloted by U.S. civilians, swooped in low through curtains of fire from rebel artillery and anti-aircraft batteries to parachute tons of ammunition, food, and war material of all types into the besieged bastion.

NEAR MAIN BARRIERS

Constantly pressing in on the Y-shaped French chain of defence, the legions of Communist Ho Chi Minh by today had ringed the shrunken fortifications with trenches and dugouts 1,000 yards or less from the fortress' main barriers.

The rebels during the week-end captured two more French outposts on the northern flank of the Y to further ring in the garrison.

Spring Rotation Canadian Brigade Nearly Complete

IN KOREA (CP)—The spring rotation of the 25th Canadian Infantry Battalion, involving more than 8,000 troops, is nearly complete.

During Easter week-end the 4th Battalion, Canadian Guards, replaced the 3rd Battalion, Royal 22nd Regiment, in the Canadian sector along the truce zone.

Late last month, the 2nd Battalion, Queen's Own Rifles of Canada, succeeded the 3rd Battalion, Royal Canadian Regiment. The 2nd Battalion, Black Watch, replaced the 3rd Battalion, Princess Patricia's Canadian Light Infantry, last November and is not due home until this fall.

Other elements arriving in Korea with the guards were No. 2 Transport Company, Royal Canadian Army Service Corps; 3rd Field Ambulance, Royal Canadian Army Medical Corps; 42nd Infantry Workshop, Royal Canadian Electrical and Mechanical Engineers.

Still to come in two more ships are the 3rd Regiment, Royal Canadian Horse Artillery—its advance party arrived with the guards—and "D" Squadron, Royal Canadian Dragoon.

Report Russian Trawlers on Banks Not Confirmed

ST. JOHN'S, Nfld. (CP)—Capt. T. A. Atwood, naval commander of the Newfoundland area, said Monday a report that two Russian trawlers are fishing on the Grand banks "will be investigated" but he said the reports have not yet been confirmed.

Two Spanish trawlers which arrived here during the week-end for supplies said they fished close to the Russian trawlers Odessa and Sevastapol for about two weeks. This is believed to be the first time in history Russians have fished the banks.

The captain and a crew member of the Spanish ship Tfon said Monday they fished within two miles of the Russian ships for 15 days. The skipper, who has been fishing the banks for 25 years, said it was the first time he has seen Russians there. He said Portuguese, Canadian and British trawlers all saw the Russian ships.

The two Soviet ships have not made any contact with land since they arrived on the banks.

Gamma Globulin Now Available In Quantity

WASHINGTON (AP) — Gamma globulin, one of the two weapons aimed at preventing polio, will be available for about 1,700,000 American children this summer—almost twice as many as last year. But it will be distributed under a different system.

The U.S. public health service is asking state health officers to use the blood-derived material in this way only:

1. For group inoculations ranging from youngsters in an apartment house where polio may have struck, up to those in a whole community where an epidemic might occur.

2. In communities already selected for trial of another possible anti-polio medicine—the vaccine sponsored by the National Foundation for Infantile Paralysis—gamma globulin should be employed "only where in the opinion of the state and territorial health officer it will not affect the validity of the vaccine field trial."

This second requirement does not bar the use of gamma globulin for measles or infectious hepatitis or in "unusual circumstances," officials said.

Eisenhower Plans World Parley On Uses of Atom

LOS ANGELES (AP)—President Eisenhower plans an international conference of scientists to explore "the benign and peaceful uses of atomic energy," Lewis L. Strauss, chairman of the United States Atomic Energy Commission, disclosed Monday night.

Addressing the Los Angeles world affairs council, he said it is the president's intention to ask a national American scientific organization to call the meeting later this year.

No specific date was mentioned for the meeting, which would be the first of its kind in the nuclear age.

The AEC chairman's announcement came during his discussion of Eisenhower's Dec. 8 speech, in which the president called upon the world's atomic powers to set up an international agency to develop peaceful atomic pursuits.

Those participating, said Eisenhower, "must, of course," include the Soviet Union. Strauss, amplifying this point during a question period, said the countries participating must include, under the president's plan, the Big Three powers in the atomic energy area —the U.S., Britain and Russia.

"The United States proposal," said Strauss, "is not just another move in the chess game of world politics nor is it primarily a disarmament formula. It does not endanger the atomic weapons secrets of any nation that now has or may possess such secrets. It does not involve suddenly placing trust where yesterday trust could not be reposed."

Rooms on the top floor of one wing in the 300-room Grosvenor, which adjoins the big rail terminal at Victoria, were badly damaged. The hotel was packed with Easter tourists, but no one was hurt.

Says U.S. Copied Reds' Technique To Make H-Bombs

LONG BEACH, Calif. (AP) — Representative Craig Hosmer (Rep.-Calif.) said Monday that American H-bombs recently tested in the Pacific were developed by methods previously considered unworkable by U. S. scientists but later developed successfully by Russian scientists.

"Our 1952 H-bomb needed an entire building to house it," said Hosmer, in a press release. "Meanwhile the Russians, using Italian and German physicists captured after World War II, built and exploded a smaller H-bomb deliverable as a war weapon.

"They used entirely different scientific principles which our scientists had discarded as unworkable.

"Analysis of the Red H-bomb debris (radio-active cloud) was our first positive indication that the discarded principle was good after all. We then proceeded immediately to build our H-bomb along these new simplified lines and are now testing them in the Pacific."

Whooping Cranes On Way North

CLEARWATER, Man. (CP)—Richard Gilbert, pioneer resident of this southern Manitoba town, Monday reported seeing six whooping cranes, apparently some of the world's 34, flying north last week in their annual migration.

Mr. Gilbert said he saw the rare birds one mile north of town flying in an uneven "V"—four on one side of the leader, one on the other.

The world's only flock of whooping cranes was reported last week to have left Aurtwell, Texas, in the annual migration to breeding grounds in the far north.

U.S. Planes Ferry French Troops To Indo-China

Paratroopers Are on Way To Aid Dien Bien Phu Force

Mrs E. Petrov Laughs Happily In Safe Haven

DARWIN, Australia (CP) — Mrs. Evdokiya Petrov laughed and joked today in the grounds of this northern Australian Government House, less than 48 hours after Russian guards had hustled her onto a plane at Sydney, a frightened woman with eyes red from crying.

Her guards now are en route back to Moscow after the wife of the defecting chief of Soviet secret police in Australia was a snatched to safety by Australian police at the airport here Tuesday.

The Canberra embassy, meanwhile came through with its expected charge — that Vladimir Petrov had stolen "large sums" of embassy funds by forgery. This charge had been awaited ever since the Australian government announced last week that Petrov had fled the embassy with a mass of documents exposing a Russian spy ring in Australia.

In a note to the Australian government, the embassy said Petrov's story of a widespread Soviet spy plot was without foundation, and the charges and "alleged documents he had given Australian authorities might be forgeries.

MEMBER EXPECTED MOVE

Prime Minister Menzies said in a statement later that his government will ask for particulars of the alleged thefts.

"I shall be keenly awaiting the charges of theft and forgery, these being entirely to the interest of the Gouzenko case in Canada," he said. "It only remains to be said that the (Soviet) embassy should have to wait so long for its instructions."

(Similar charges were made by the Soviet Union when the Gouzenko code clerk in the Soviet embassy at Ottawa, fled under much the same circumstances as Petrov and took with him documents which led to the Canadian spy trials of 1946.)

"The Australian people won't be slow to appreciate that this allegation that Petrov is a criminal and absconded embezzler contradicts the first story that he was kidnapped by Australian authorities," Menzies added.

"I can assure the public that Petrov and his wife left of their own free will and that we will not be deterred by what has now become a purely conventional Soviet allegation from applying both the circumstances and the facts which will be disclosed by Petrov's documents."

It was learned meanwhile that a Soviet embassy attache and a Tass news agency correspondent in Canberra have been ordered to return home.

GRANTED ASYLUM

Petrov turned himself over to the Australian government early in April and was granted political asylum. Parliament subsequently set a royal commission to investigate his story of espionage. Before the large part of data he brought with him from the embassy, but Prime Minister Robert G. Menzies said security officials are convinced his account is authentic.

Petrov's 35-year-old wife chose freedom too after days of Russian-inspired shade as to her husband's safety, and will be reunited with him at a secret rendezvous some 2,000 miles from here in southern Australia. An Australian Air Force plane stood by today to fly her to her husband's closely guarded hideout.

Mrs. Petrov slept soundly in a luxurious guest room of Government House Tuesday night while heavy police patrols stood guard around the grounds.

THE WEATHER

TORONTO, (CP) — Synopsis: Very warm air with temperatures near 90 has just swept on the Great Lakes and may edge into southern regions tonight. However a fresh cold air mass is on its way from the eastern Prairies and will enter Ontario Thursday morning. Ahead of the advancing cold air, showers and thundershowers are expected to be general.

By CHARLES G. LANE

PARIS (AP)—The United States Air Force is ferrying French paratroopers to Indo-China for later dropping into Dien Bien Phu.

This was confirmed today here and in Washington. Charles Wilson, U. S. secretary of defence, said the 8,500-mile operation "is in the interests of United States policy and in conformity with our existing military assistance program." He added it was undertaken at the request of the French government.

The parachute troops are being flown from France to Indo-China in C-124 Globemasters. The Douglas planes belong to the air force tactical command. They will return to bases in the United States, the air force said.

The troops are to be landed in the non-combat areas. Planes piloted by French airmen or American civilians will shuttle them to the besieged fortress at Dien Bien Phu in northwest Indo-China.

The troops — believed to number at least 3,000 — were flown from Orly airport in Paris today. At last word, they had not yet reached their destination.

It was learned that the U. S. Air Force will use planes to fly the troops from North Africa to Indo-China, although American sources here refused to say why Indo-China operation a "one shot" affair.

Officials would not say how many troops are being ferried, but Rene de Chevigne, French army secretary, addressed the 7th battalion of French commando parachutists Sunday and told them they were leaving immediately by plane. This without the month's leave usually granted before overseas service.

"You leave in exceptional circumstances," Chevigne told the troops, "which have forced us to call on you for sacrifices.

"I add our comrades at Dien Bien Phu we are putting into the battle all our forces.

"You yourself may have the glory of fighting at Dien Bien Phu."

U. S. SUPPLYING PLANES

The U. S. already is supplying the French with fighters, attack bombers and transport planes for use in Indo-China. And the transport planes carrying supplies to Dien Bien Phu, but U. S. air force officials have not taken part in flying operations in the combat zone.

On Sunday, 25 speedy U. S. Curtiss C-46 and C-119 transports were transferred from the American carrier Saipan to a French air base on the Red River delta. The American pilots returned immediately to their bases.

The U. S. also has been sending $1,000,000,000 worth of military and economic assistance to the French and Viet Namese

Queen Is Showered With Orchids As She Celebrates Her 28th Birthday

COLOMBO, Ceylon (AP) — The Queen today celebrated her 28th birthday on the homeward leg of her Commonwealth tour, surrounded by orchids and messages from all parts of the world. Her governor-general, the governor-general's residence was a mass of flowers, mostly orchids, and orchids presented by the people of Ceylon.

Birthday telegrams and letters poured in. There were cards from Prince Charles and Princess Anne and special messages from Queen Mother Elizabeth and other members of the Royal Family.

Government House prepared a birthday luncheon party.

The Ceylon cabinet gave her a silver tray with a traditional moonstone design, like the one which was prompted by an action in 1951 and fined $50 Tuesday for slashing a seat with a penknife in Toronto's new subway, causing $33 damage. A witness said 15 seats have been slashed since the subway went into operation 20 days ago.

OTTAWA GIRL BEWILDERED BY INTEREST SHOWN

Claims She Spied For FBI on Fellow Student

OTTAWA (CP)—Daphne Price is slightly bewildered.

The 19-year-old Ottawa-born girl found herself sought by reporters and photographers Tuesday after an affidavit signed by her was published in a Detroit newspaper stating that she spied on some fellow students while a coed at the University of Michigan.

She told reporters at a press conference that all that she is sorry for her spying now. Later in an interview, she said she could not understand why the authorities should have aroused so much interest. She was just "too tired" to say any more.

Miss Price, a small high-strung girl with shoulder-length brown hair, said she made reports to the FBI on Edward R. Shaffer of Pittsburgh, a graduate student, said to be a Red.

Shaffer, whose name also was signed to the published affidavit, has been subpoenaed to appear in May before the sub-committee of the House of Representatives un-American activities committee. It will investigate reports of Communist activities at Michigan educational institutions and labor unions.

REPORTED TO FBI

The blue-eyed daughter of Percival Price, professor of geography at the University in Ann Arbor, Mich., former Ottawan herself, said she reported to the FBI by telephone and at meetings with agents there. She is emphatic that she did not work for the FBI and received no money for her information.

Canada Reliable Ally Says U.S. Defence Expert

WASHINGTON (CP) — John Hanna, assistant U. S. defence secretary, Tuesday urged Americans to remember that between the United States and Russia lies only Canada—"but thank God, Canada is there!"

"I am afraid a great many Americans are not adequately aware how fortunate we are to have on the northern frontier on the side in which the danger lies only six minutes away by plane—absolutely," Hanna said.

The American official who also is a director of the Canada-United States joint defence board said: "I am a recognizer of the transport planes carrying supplies to Dien Bien Phu, but U. S. air force officials have not taken part in flying operations in the combat zone."

TWO NEW THEATRES

Two new theatres of the cause of the pitiless war are announced today in British Columbia, where the blemishes were first noticed in Canada following similar reports in the Pacific northwest United States.

Capt. Eric Lillie, veteran B.C. fisherman who said he had been studying similar cases for some months, said he believed chemicals used in asphalt roads were responsible. He said dust containing the chemicals was thrown up and hit the windshields, causing the pitting.

He said he had found similar pittings on windows of houses built adjacent to asphalt-surfaced highways.

A Victoria man, who didn't want his name disclosed, blamed particles called space mice by writers of scientific fiction. He said the space mice are pictured as capable of pitting highly polished glass as if it had been sandblasted.

Dr. Gordon Shrum, head of the University of Britian Columbia whose own automobile windshield is pitmarked, derided such theories as "fantastic nonsense and ridiculous."

Dr. Shrum, who examined many pock-marked windshields at the request of the Vancouver police, said he found all cases to be the result of "mechanical fractures" of glass. He also said the marks were old.

HAYS NO MYSTERY

His findings were corroborated by the Pittsburgh Plate Glass Co., which said it had examined 150 screen-hit by so-called pock-marks and found all were victims of road conditions and no scientific mystery.

"The glass firm, one of the largest in the United States, said tiring sand, cinders, gravel or the materials used to de-ice snow-covered roads could and very probably did cause the pit or crush marks which dot the cars examined."

But scores of Canadian motorists in almost every Canadian province remained unimpressed. They appeared more inclined to agree with a Vancouver car dealer that the blemishes were caused by "acts of God" or unknown factors.

The dealer said he checked all windshields of fur vehicles Monday when discovered new marks Tuesday.

The pits ranged from a pinpoint

Proposal Set Aside Until Annual Meeting

HAMILTON (CP) — The Porcupine branch of the Ontario Public School Teachers' Federation has urged the department of education Tuesday to make its annual conference compulsory if requested by a teacher. The proposal was set aside until the annual meeting in December.

More than 100 delegates, representing 4,700 public school teachers in Ontario, are attending the two-day provincial gathering here.

Robert Ship, Porcupine branch delegate, said the recommendation was prompted by an action in 1951 and fined $50 Tuesday for slashing a seat with a penknife in Toronto's new subway, causing $33 damage. A witness said 15 seats have been slashed since the subway went into operation 20 days ago.

SLASHED SUBWAY SEATS

TORONTO (CP)—Cyril Farrow, 54, was sentenced to 30 days in jail and fined $50 Tuesday for slashing a seat with a penknife in Toronto's new subway, causing $33 damage. A witness said 15 seats have been slashed since the subway went into operation 20 days ago.

Skeptical Scientists Scoff As Windshield Reports Mount

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Scientists scoffed and motorists fumed today at the mysterious Dominion-wide blight of pock-marked windshields.

The phenomena, first reported on the Pacific coast some three weeks ago, spread to the Atlantic coast Tuesday when a half-dozen Halifax motorists discovered their windshields peppered with mysterious indentations.

The Halifax motorists reported the same pinhead-sized marks reported earlier in British Columbia, the three Prairie provinces, Ontario and Quebec.

Maritime scientists, like those of the other provinces where the blemishes were reported, were unable to offer a concrete explanation for the glass pitting that most of their colleagues have put down largely to "mass hysteria."

Geophysicist Dr. Jonathan E. Blanchard, and physicist Dr. Ernest W. Grigoll of Dalhousie University said they found pockmarks on all windows of cars on which they examined. They declined to hazard a spot explanation but agreed that the marks are "definitely not the result of chemical action."

Regina and Winnipeg also reported their first cases of windshield pock-marking Tuesday.

TWO NEW THEORIES

The Canadian official who also is a director of the Canada-United States joint defence board said: "I am afraid a great many Americans are not adequately aware how fortunate we are to have on the northern frontier on the side in which the danger lies only six minutes away by plane—absolutely," Hanna said.

The American official who also is a director of the Canada-United States joint defence board said: "I am afraid a great many Americans are not adequately aware how fortunate we are to have on the northern frontier on the side in which the danger lies only six minutes away by plane—absolutely," Hanna said.

Hanna told of the air raid warning system across northern Canada which would be set in motion in defence.

"To have the benefit of an early warning of attack we must place our picket posts well to the north, within Canadian territory.

"Happily, the Canadians understand this thing; they see that the defence of our two countries is not just operated as a close partnership. They appreciate fully that for both of us, the only defence is a continental defence."

Says Queen Plans Royal Dwellings In Many Lands

LONDON (CP) — The Weekly News, a British newspaper which devotes considerable space to royal activities, says today the 'Queen is bringing back from her round-the-world tour a plan for a permanent royal residence in every Commonwealth country.

The Weekly News describes this as "the most startling royal plan since King Edward VII made the first great Empire tour to Canada a half century." Edward VII visited Canada and the United States in 1860. He was then Lord Prince of Wales.

The Weekly News says the Queen's plan includes provision for residences in Canada, New Zealand, South Africa and the Central African Federation. It was based, the paper said, on an informal proposal by the Australian government concerning a royal residence in Down under.

The question of royal residence outside Britain, with its result of increasingly frequent royal visits to Commonwealth countries, has been raised from time to time in British newspapers.

LARGEST LABOR BODIES COMPLAIN TO FEDERAL GOVT.

Say Hearings Given Red-Dominated Unions

By JOHN LABLANC
Canadian Press Staff Writer

OTTAWA (CP) — Canada's two largest labor groups have complained to the Federal government against some of its ministers giving hearings to Communist-dominated unions.

The protests were made, it was learned today, by the presidents of the 380,000-member Trades and Labor Congress of Canada and the 370,000-member Canadian Congress of Labor.

Presidents Percy Bengough of the TLC and A. R. Mosher of the CCL recently signed a joint letter to Prime Minister St. Laurent and other cabinet members asking them to explain why they have been receiving delegations from Red-led unions after encouraging the two congresses to kick such unions out of their ranks.

They complained particularly about ministers in recent weeks sitting in with representatives of the United Electrical Workers (Ind.) and the International Union of Mine, Mill and Smelter Workers (Ind.), both expelled from the CIO and the CCL because of Red influence.

North Bay Crash Of Jet Fighter Kills Two Men

NORTH BAY (CP)—An air force CF-100 jet fighter crashed and exploded in landing on a training flight here Tuesday night, killing its pilot and navigator.

The twin-engine jet overshot the main runway at the RCAF base, bounced on the rocky field and burst into flames.

Victims of the crash were identified as Pilot Officer Stanley Hall, of Tuft's Cove, N. S., and navigator Joseph Marcelle Turpin, 23, of Sturgeon Falls, Ont., whose parents live in Ottawa.

Flight Lt. Mark Hall, was returning from a two-hour flight when it crashed. Witnesses said the aircraft began a normal landing but that the pilot apparently misjudged his position approaching the runway.

Wreckage was scattered within a 500-yard area.

European Tour Will Be Taken By Evangelist

A spokesman for his London crusade said that Graham planned to visit Paris on May 30, Helsinki, Finland, June 6, Stockholm, Sweden, June 19-20, Copenhagen, Denmark, June 21 and Berlin June 27.

Graham, whose three-month London crusade has drawn a total of a giant rally May 22, has already preached to 741,000 Britons.

Deseronto Factory Gutted by Blaze; Loss Near $100,000

Fireman Taken to Hospital Suffering Bruises, Shock

DESERONTO (Special) — Fire razing through a steel-known landmark of this bayside village gutted the top three floors of the five-storey structure housing the Redi-Heat Company around ten o'clock last night. The loss which included machinery and a large stock of materials was estimated at between $75,000 and $100,000.

Frank Tinney, member of the Deseronto Fire Brigade, was injured by falling masonry and was rushed to Belleville General Hospital suffering from bruises and shock.

The Redi-Heat Company, owned and operated by Mr. Big Wesman for the past 30 years was located in the sole remaining building of the once powerful Rathbun Company, lumber and mill organization that operated here several years ago. It is located on the waterfront here. The Redi-Heat Company is manufacturer of small electrical appliances.

The fire is said to have started shortly after nine o'clock and was discovered by a resident named Bailey, who immediately turned in an alarm.

DISCOUNT STORY.

Police and fire department officials discounted a story that a stranger was seen to drive up to the building shortly before the fire was discovered. They also denied that there was an alleged explosion.

The Deseronto Volunteer Fire Brigade rushed to the blaze after sending out an S.O.S. to Napanee. The brigade of that town need to the scene and it was due to the fine work and efforts of both departments that the entire building was not destroyed by the flames.

The fire is said to have started in a lacquer room on the second floor. The flames raced upwards through the three storeys to the roof and shot some 100 feet into the air. A false ceiling in the lacquer room hindered firemen's efforts to confine the blaze.

Firemen Tinney was injured while on a ladder standing against the burning building when masonry above him, started to collapse. He was struck on the head and shoulders by falling bricks. A Napanee fireman Arthur Chief, who was standing nearby, swung to safety by turning beneath the ladder and clinging to it as he descended to receive hospital by White's ambulance.

Provincial police officers were loud in their praise of the work of the Deseronto Fire Brigade under Chief A. J. H. McVicker and the Napanee department under Chief C. H. White.

Chief McVicker said this morning that he did not know where would be an investigation by the fire marshal's department. Dr. C. G. McVicker, mayor of Deseronto, paid tribute to the work of the two fire departments and said it was through their efforts that buildings in the vicinity of the blaze were not also razed or damaged by flames.

Especially the whole village was at the scene of the fire with many out-of-town people present immediately. By the glow in the sky.

The village council which was in session at the time postponed the setting of the tax rate and congratulated the firemen on the firefighters.

The Deseronto branch of the Red Cross set up headquarters in the Metcalf Canning Company's building and served coffee and sandwiches to the firemen.

The Wesman book over the old building some thirty years ago after living in Belleville for a short time. He normally employed between 25 and 35 people.

Marilyn, Shapely Blonde Ghost, Causing Family Plenty of Trouble

DUDLEY, England (Reuters)—Ed Westwood says that Marilyn, a shapely blonde ghost who wears lipstick, is chasing him and his family out of their new home.

She put on a siege five months ago when the Westwoods lived in a 90-year-old house and decided to be a tavern called the Jolly Collier. Marilyn, they say, made her first public appearance.

"No," said the committee chairman. "I don't classify ghosts as a reasonable excuse for wanting to move."

Marilyn, shapely blonde ghost, was at the scene of the fire with many out-of-town people present immediately. By the glow in the sky.

General Appeals For Fruit Juices For Wounded Men

By LARRY ALLEN

HANOI (AP)—Brig.-Gen. Christian de Castries sent out an urgent appeal today for milk and fruit juices to be dropped to the growing ranks of wounded trapped inside the Communist-ringed French Indo-China fortress of Dien Bien Phu.

The commander of the beleaguered fortress addressed his appeal to the French and Viet Namese people of Hanoi.

The French have been unable since March 25 to get a plane in to evacuate the hundreds of wounded inside the fortress because of the constant pounding of the airstrip by mortar and artillery fire from the Vietminh besiegers. That was 12 days after the Vietminh launched their first all-out assault by suicidal waves of Vietminh troops to seize the fortress.

Since then, supply planes still drop the supplies—guns, ammunition, food and medical supplies—and reinforcements needed to maintain the French Union forces fighting against Communist-led rebels.

The Vietminh have ignored repeated appeals by the French to stop firing long enough to permit evacuation of the wounded.

De Castries in his appeal said his hurt men are asking constantly for fruit juices and condensed milk. An appeal today from a Hanoi newspaper met with no response.

The French high command in Hanoi said in its morning communique that the fortress had gone through another "quiet night" and that the big attack which the Vietminh still had not launched an expected new mass attack.

YOUTH COMMITTED TO MENTAL HOSPITAL

Gottfield Blust, 21-year-old German immigrant who was fished from the Moira River near the C.P.R. bridge, Friday night, has been committed to the Ontario Hospital at Kingston. The youth was ordered charged with attempted suicide but after observation was committed to the Kingston mental institution.

Prankster Learns The Hard Way

Would-be pranksters who persist in their efforts to startle unsuspecting pedestrians with block buster fire crackers will just have to learn the hard way that it is not exactly the right thing to do.

At least one 19-year-old Brighton street youth is quite liable to find that tossing fire crackers can be a costly sport.

Yesterday a traffic patrol officer happened along Station street just as a youth tossed a fire cracker torpedo behind some very small children on the sidewalk. The youth was charged with disorderly conduct and on conviction faces a fine and costs of $4.50.

PC Member Tells Methods Used For Election

The story of how an ordinary citizen, with no political pretensions, ended up as a member of parliament largely through the application of sound advertising and selling principles, was related to members of the Sales and Advertising Club of Belleville at the club's last meeting of the year in the Shrine Club, Tuesday night.

The speaker was told by Bill Hamilton M.P. (P.C. Notre Dame de Grace) the only Conservative elected in the federal election from the 21 ridings on Montreal Island since 1935.

Mr. Hamilton, at the time of his nomination was general manager of the Advertising and Sales club of Montreal and executive director of the Federal Council of Advertising and Sales Clubs. His only previous political experience was a city councillor on an appointment by the Montreal Board of Trade.

The speaker noted that he was persuaded to stand for public office by a "salesman who wouldn't take no for an answer." He described the three natural steps of his campaign from the organization of campaign workers to the planning of campaign policy.

TIMETABLE NOT ALTERED

He stressed that once the campaign timetable, lists of responsibilities, organizational charts and the actual mechanics of election had been drawn up, that no major changes were made even to the extent of dropping from the organization individuals, whose personal plans "clashed with overall strategy.

He described the training program employed by his campaign committees to acquaint poll workers, canvassers and headquarters workers with their jobs. He emphasized the importance in his campaign of maximum utilization of all forms of advertising, direct mail to voters, display advertising, personal contact, newspaper columns, pictures and display advertisements and radio advertising. Sales promotion was used to the fullest extent.

Workers were organized to call on every one of the 35,000 voters in his riding at least twice.

SPECIAL EFFORT MADE

A special effort was made to see that the worker who contacted the voter was on duty at the voters' polling booth on the day of the election.

Canvassers employed during the campaign included a door-to-door introduction of the candidate to the voter and a handshaking program at all bus and street car stops in the riding.

His hard work paid off for Mr. Hamilton on election day when his riding, which had given his opponent a majority of 16,500 in the previous election, sent him to Ottawa with a majority of 2,500.

Mr. Hamilton concluded his address by stating that much of his success in his election campaign was due to the application of sound advertising technique and good sales promotion.

Bees Are Creatures of Awe, Wonderment Kiwanians Told

The social, economic, moral, political, military, and philosophical importance of bees was the subject of an address on "that creature of awe and wonderment, the bee" delivered by Dr. Howard Rowe (Vital) of the Ontario agricultural laboratory at the weekly luncheon meeting of the Kiwanis club held in Kiwanis Centre Tuesday noon.

The speaker pointed out that bees, being, while one of the oldest forms of agriculture, he has failed to appreciate the bee and that over the centuries man has learned to utilize bees to the best advantage by letting them follow the dictates of their own instincts.

The speaker stated that 20,000 colonies of bees were kept in Athens in time of Persian and that there are references to bees in the ancient writings of Egyptians, Moslems, Mohammedans, Greeks and Egyptians. So great was the respect of the ancient for the bee that bees were used to discomfit enemies in war, as cenotaphs before battle and even votes in the election of kings, as judges in the house of parliament and those who were bad if bees stung them and good if untouched, and as the royal seal of Spain, while the selection of a mate—a stung mate was never desired.

"The North-American variety of honey bee", the speaker said, "is the gentlest in the world, an Italian origin which flourishes in Canada because of its immunity to diseases that kill off its cousins. It was brought to North America by early settlers. Efforts, vhyled to handle the bee, were decorated with eagle feathers. Dr. Rowe had successfully rob a honey tree as having the sting of a bees but was considered to be a mark of conspicuous courage.

METHODS EMPLOYED

Dr. Rowe told Kiwanians of the methods employed by bees in gathering nectar, making honey and conveying honey to wax. He included domestic details of life in the hive and outlined some of the economic importance of bees as the best known pollinating agents for a variety of flowers, plants and forage crops.

The honey bee, half an inch in length and one quarter of an inch high, lives with from 40,000 to 80,000 others in a colony "governed by the strict rules of a communal society," said Dr. Rowe. He described colony life and the separate duties and activities of members, dressed as the queen bee. He also outlined the work schedule of the mandalin bee from birth to its aimless wanderings in the hive on the first day of its life through the highly specialized activities of cleaning and feeding the queen and the bees, building and honey making, to its far flung activities as a nectar gatherer at distances of up to eight miles from the hive.

Dr. Rowe stated that nectar collected from plants by bees is 80 per cent water and includes the plant sugar, sucrose. To produce honey from nectar the bee changes the sucrose to dextrose and levulose by means of digestive enzymes and reduces the watercontent of nectar to only 17 per cent. Making honey is a co-operative endeavor, according to Dr. Rowe.

FAN THEIR WINGS

Nectar gatherers, on returning to the hive, regurgitate the nectar and by spreading their mouth parts expose the nectar to the air in a thin film for rapid evaporation. Evaporation is speeded up still more by the bees' own air conditioning system in which rows of bees produce a cooling air moving air in the hive by fanning their wings.

He stated that it takes 37,000 flights to produce a pound of honey —a total flight distance of from 50,000 to 300,000 miles—and that it takes about 60 pounds of honey per year to maintain a hive of average size. It takes from five to 10 pounds of honey to make a pound of wax.

Dr. Rowe used diagrams to explain to his audience the complicated sign language and directional devices employed by bees to tell other bees the location of nectar-containing flowers.

He concluded his address by stating that the value of the bee as a pollinating agent could be estimated.

Plant Wild Oats, Harvest Sorrow

That Biblical injunction "As ye sow, so shall ye reap" may well be termed an authoritative admonition specifically directed to Ontario farmers, says the Crop's Branch of the Ontario Department of Agriculture. Officials of the Branch warn that the farmer who carelessly sows wild oats (Avena Fatua) will surely reap a harvest of sorrow.

In the place of plump nutritious grain the farmer who sows wild oats will garner hairy chaffy kernels, long awned and twisted," says C. H. Kingsbury, Fieldman. "When going mournfully at kernels of wild oats he will notice a sucker mouth effect at the base. It is a reminder that only suckers sow such seed."

The Crops Branch points out that the best control measure is to sow Registered or Certified seed. Use of such seed guarantees freedom from such weeds. It is emphasized that once present wild oat seed can remain in the soil for many years.

Once land is infested the farmer must play against time to prevent the seed from maturing. Summer fallowing with frequent cultivation will work the seeds to the surface where they can germinate and be killed. Winter wheat can follow.

Where the infestation is heavy on good crop land, the soil should be worked in the fall and early spring and diced to destroy the seedlings. Follow this treatment with crops and if necessary, repeat a second year in keeping the crop head, advises the Crops Branch. Flow deep at the end of the first and second year and then follow with early barley seeded down and cut early or pasture off. It is also pointed out that a long-term pasture of five or more years' duration will also greatly reduce the amount of living wild oat seed in the soil.

Spraying with maleic hydrazide from aircraft just when wild oat blossoms are open prevents the formation of seed but this control is not applicable to Ontario conditions.

100 Taken Off Unemployment Roll in District

Following a peak of about 1,770 reached in late March, the unemployment picture in the Belleville area has improved slightly during the past two weeks, it was reported today by an official of the local employment service.

The number out of work in Belleville and in the area served by the local office is now about 1,660, or a little over 100 less than in the peak period.

The opening of construction work is credited with taking the 100 workers off the unemployed list. Workers in the Tweed and Madoc areas were given employment with the Raynor Construction Company, which has a highway contract on No. 7 highway out of Tweed. Residential construction in the Belleville area has also taken up some slack.

Resumption of log hauling to the sawmills will also see many bush workers back on payrolls. Due to soft road conditions and half loading, log hauling has ended until road conditions are suitable.

TORONTO STOCKS

TORONTO (CP) — Forenoon stock market movements were small and irregular today.

Utilities were the weakest industrials with Mexican Light common down 25 cents to lead. Papers were mixed and only slightly changed and steels were a little stronger.

Western oil movements were in pennies and almost unaccompanied by any significant volume.

Base metals were the most active mining issues with only a few three-than-16-cent changes. Seniors slipped a little and juniors and Manitouwadges issues were steady and mixed. Gold were quiet although a wide list of issues moved slowly and uranums were steady despite opening strength. Rathbun-area base metals edged forward but trading was light.

Mayor Burtt Casts Deciding Vote in Issue With Parks Board

TRENTON (Special) — Mayor Burtt cast his first deciding vote of the year last night when council split over a motion to guarantee the Trenton Parks Board against the possibilities of an expropriation lawsuit. The resolution moved by councillor James MacDonald and seconded by councillor Reg. Armstrong was supported by councillors Claude Graham, Armstrong and MacDonald. Councillors Gerald Weaver, N. J. McNair and R. Smithrim cast "nay" ballots. Mayor Burtt also voted "nay."

Town council devoted long hours to Parks Board request and reports again last night. Result of one drawn-out discussion was Mayor Burtt and three of his councillors turned thumbs down on a suggestion Parks secretary O. G. Alyea submitted. Dr. J. W. Farley, chairman of the Board of Parks Management, took responsibility for a letter signed by dectetary Alyea in which the secretary pointed out the Parks Board would like to have council give the board a written guarantee there will be no expropriation lawsuit launched against lands set aside for parks. Dr. Farley cited his reason for the request.

PLANS TO SPEND $15,000.

"Next week, the parks chairman disclosed, "a government engineer from Ottawa is expected to come to town to look over land on the waterfront where the federal government has already spent $130,000 and plans to spend another $15,000 this summer." He calculated from information he received that the engineer would not oppose the further spending if the Parks Board had no guarantee that the property would not be cut off by expropriation. Dr. Farley said he would hate to see the town lose the grant. He felt $15,000 was a lot to ask the taxpayers to put up. He figured the people would wait a long time before the town would supplement the government appropriation. He left the decision with council to figure out the best thing to do.

Councillor Graham wanted to see the air cleared between council and the parks board. Councillor Gerald Weaver held the same view. They indicated they were tired of the bickering back and forth.

TAKES POSITIVE STAND

Councillor McNair took a positive stand in the argument. He said there would never have been the agitation had the piece of parks property north of the Fraser Park well been held the same as the town's other land. He suggested that the parks secretary hand it back. Councillor Armstrong indicated he was growing weary of the battle of letters and words.

Councillor Smithrim, against the town deeding land to the parks board, asked: "Has somebody been threatening the town was going to expropriate parks property?" Mayor Burtt explained that he did mention he was going to expropriate in the best of an argument earlier.

The subject changed to an outline of a plan Mr. Smithrim suggested would end all controversy between council and the parks board. He pointed out that his idea was not fully developed, but seemed quite feasible. He proposed that all parks property remain in the name of the town; a by-law be drafted and sanctioned, designating various lands as parks property; then present the by-law to the people and when it was approved parks land could not be interfered with unless the people voted for the change. He preferred that the voting on the by-law take place at the annual election in December, thereby saving the ratepayers the expense of a separate plebiscite.

TAKES RESPONSIBILITY

Mayor Burtt took full responsibility for sparking the see-saw arguments between council and the parks directors. He repeated his view on the action of the 1953 council deeding certain lands to parks secretary O. G. Alyea, who in turn deeded them to the parks board in perpetuity. He gave some ground when he assured the parks board and Dr. Farley he was perfectly satisfied if the council wanted to go on record to guarantee the parks board that council intended taking no expropriation litigation against any of the property known as parks property.

He stiffened again when he learned that the parks piece that has been the bone of contention for many months has to be covered by the guarantee.

Councillor Graham enquired: "If this guarantee was put through tonight would it interfere with councillor Burtt's position?"

Answered Councillor Smithrim: "I think all parks lands would have to come back to the town. That is the thing that has to be worked out."

Councillor James MacDonald attempted to straighten out his mayor's belief that the deed to parks secretary Alyea was rushed through at the close of the 1953 council's term. "The transaction was not rushed in three minutes a week, or a month. It took three years," he revealed. Mayor Burtt held that if he had all the say in council he would proceed with responsible action.

DRIVES HARD BARGAIN

Councillor McNair indicated he would drive a hard bargain. "If that piece of property was returned to the parks board in its original status I will support a motion authorizing the guarantee," he said. "It is my opinion that council had no intention of expropriating any other property. "Council's only intention all along has been to clear the title," he said. "Let's be men, not babies," he urged. "Don't let $15,000 scare us out!"

When the discussion swung back to Councillor Smithrim, the lawyer member of council, asked Dr. Farley to clarify whether the parks board expected the piece north of Fraser Park wall to be covered by the guarantee.

Dr. Farley's blank reply was: "All parks property. "If you can do it to one piece you can do it to all of them," he submitted.

Councillor Smithrim, who netted that the survey of expropriation, because there was some other way out, also refused to support the guarantee under the conditions proposed by the parks board chairman.

Christ Church Men's Club Plans May Tea

The regular weekly meeting of Christ Church Men's club met last night with 32 members present, and the president, Ron Lane, presided.

Mr. Varley and Mr. Lennox, who were absent due to illness, sent their respects.

The date of the invitation to St. Thomas' Men's Club had to be changed to May 4th, due to previous commitments of their hall. It was decided to return to Christ Church parish hall afterwards for an important business meeting regarding the tea which was the next order of business.

During the discussion of the tea, which was set for May 8th, Mr. Fuzzen delegated persons to act as waitresses, and kitchen help. He also listed the dignitaries from local, provincial and federal governments, who had agreed to act as pourers.

It was decided, by motion, to hold a work night next week immediately after the business meeting. The men were asked to attend in work clothing to help sort and roll garments accumulated during the last few weeky making. It ready to be sold. The work will be at J. Wright's, who asked that the club stay for refreshments afterwards.

The meeting was then adjourned for various games, after which refreshments were served.

ARE CARS AND ROADS SAFER TODAY?

The slaughter season has started.

Easter, the first holiday week-end of 1954, saw well over a score killed on highways in Eastern Canada.

The count is almost certain to be higher for some of the week-ends during the next six months.

Experts blame most of these deaths on errors by drivers. Cars and roads are being steadily improved, but there has been no corresponding improvement in the capabilities of the men and women who drive, they declare.

This is true—but might it not be only half the truth?

Automobile manufacturers and highways engineers have greatly improved their products—but is it so certain that all these improvements reduce the accident hazard?

Consider modern cars first. They have been improved in many ways—but the most striking development since the end of the war has been the steady increase in the power of the engines which propel them. These cars can go faster. And one of the safety slogans which we hear constantly is that "speed kills."

Of course, there have been other improvements. A thirty windshield can reduce visibility fifty per cent. The safety-minded car is a device which will squirt water on the windshield and wash it clean. Blinding headlights cause many accidents at night. An electronic eye will automatically dim headlights when it picks up the beam from the lights of an approaching car. Drivers lose control of their cars. Power-steering has been developed to improve the car. Power-steering has been developed to improve the driver's grip on the control of his vehicle. The Ontario Government has passed a law making it obligatory to signal right-hand turns, as well as left-hand turns. Equipment is available to make signalling easy.

All these devices should make modern cars safer. But most of them are "optional equipment," something for which the buyer must pay extra. About the only improvement of importance regarding which the purchaser has no option is that additional horsepower. That power can save lives—but it can also take them if improperly used.

Windowwashers, electronic-eyes for dimming headlights, power-steering and signalling devices are not devices which can be improperly used to the jeopardy of the occupants of the car on which they are installed or to other users of the highway.

Now let us look at the improvements made to our highways. Engineers have made roads much safer—if motorists do not improperly use these improvements in the same manner in which they improperly use the increased power of car engines. Banked curves, adequate signs and, especially, four-lane divided highways all tempt the driver to use the extra power under the hood of his car.

There is an additional driving hazard in such countries as Canada and the United States, lands of vast distances. The average motor trip on this continent must be many times the usual distance driven by motorists in such small countries as Britain, Holland or Denmark. Distance, as well as speed, is a killer. Here again, improvements made by highways engineers may be increasing, rather than diminishing, the hazards of driving in our geography. The long distances to be travelled, of course, increase the temptation to speed. They tire the driver. But there is also an additional effect. It is the hypnotic effect produced by mile after mile of driving at the same speed. The present tendency to by-pass communities may possibly be a factor in the relatively high accident rate on these through highways. Fewer cars slowing down every few miles and alertly watching for vehicular or pedestrian traffic while passing through communities is probably beneficial.

BIG GOVERNMENT

Word from Washington is that the Eisenhower administration is running into unexpected trouble in keeping high posts filled with experienced businessmen.

The trouble stems from indications that Charles E. Wilson and the General Motors stock when he became U.S. Secretary of Defence. Other leaders in industry are loathe to face a similar necessity of divesting themselves of the stock in companies which they have built.

The reasoning behind this rule, of course, was that a government official should not be financially interested in firms which do business with the government.

It is a striking commentary on the size of government when its purchases are so huge that it is difficult to discover an outstanding businessman whose firm does not depend largely on government purchases that it cannot afford to forego this business.

BETTER — OR SMARTER?

Magistrates in Wigan, Lancashire, decided to visit the sins of the sons on the fathers. They insisted that fathers attend hearings when children faced charges in juvenile court.

The ruling went into effect two years ago. Convictions, which numbered 288 in 1948, were down to 191 in 1952 and plummeted to a mere 75 last year.

Obvious deduction is that fathers, when they were inconvenienced by the sins of their sons, took effective action to halt this sinning.

Unless, of course, the fathers, horrified with what the younger generation did when about keeping out of the toils of the law, taught their offspring more efficient methods of evading the bobbies.

JOY TIME

Winter's been a grim, old cuss,
Full of grief and gloom,
But 'twill leave no scars on us
When the lilies bloom.

Winter was a dreary time,
Hard for all to bear,
But the ramblers start to climb
And we've ceased to care.

See them budding by the fence,
And the roses, too!
Now the peonies commence
Scarcely breaking through.

We'll forget the sleet and snow
And those days of doubt
When the summer breezes blow
Blossoms all about.

Miss Rose McKibbon spent the week-end in Hamilton.

Dr. and Mrs. J. B. Collip spent the week-end here with his mother at her home on Charles Street.

Mrs. Regina Porritt, Tweed, District Deputy Grand Matron, paid an official visit to the Belleville Chapter No. 55, Order of the Eastern Star last evening. Close to 200 were present including members from chapters in Napanee, Picton, Wellington, Tweed, Amelisburg and Trenton. Miss Irene Halliday, Worthy Matron of the Chapter, presided. Members of Mrs. Porritt's group were the guests for the evening.

Mr. Charles J. Symons has a litter of about five puppies in his pen on Sinclair Street. This is the first batch of sheep dog puppies born in Belleville. How many are in the litter will not be known for some time as they will remain in the coop until carried out by the mother fox.

Fox puppies are hard to raise and no one will get more pets for at least three weeks as the parent foxes are very nervous and unable to disturb them would interfere with the prospect of successfully raising the puppies.

Mr. Charles W. Hall has returned home after spending the winter in the South.

Social Climb Hazardous

(Windsor Star)

The world is full of ambitious social climbers. And they aren't peculiar to the higher levels of society, or to those who think they belong in the higher levels. In all categories of society there are individuals who want to crash the level on which they live.

But it appears a frustrating pursuit, even when successful. Attainment of social ambitions doesn't automatically mean happiness or satisfaction. High society imposes its own penalties.

This is evident in England where the ebb tide of debutantes has made its appearance. This should bring elation to the young misses and pride to their mothers. But the issue, so to speak, becomes objects for human birds of prey.

The mothers have formed their own "black list" of men their daughters should avoid. The young ladies are somewhat restricted for their own protection. There are men whose intentions, it seems, are not entirely honorable.

True, their intentions may be directed toward matrimony, but that's just what makes the mothers wary. Having attained social rank themselves they don't wish their daughters to get beneath them to unscrupulous adventurers who would marry only for wealth or prestige.

We cannot help wondering, however, what the attitude of these mothers would be if their debutante daughters set their caps for a man still higher up in the social strata, say with many millions, titles and huge estates replete with cavities. That might seem all right to them, but they don't want it to be the burden of one of their men using their daughters to improve their own position in the world.

Man Is Too Imaginative

(Brockville Recorder and Times)

How easy it is for conjecture and the imaginative minds of men to envision highly improbable circumstances when a fresh source of energy is suddenly put in place in this universe.

The latest rash of rumors to come before the public view was the case of "blue pixies" in Detroit and Windsor.

One suggestion was the pixies were Communists sent by the last March. Final diagnosis, elm tree buds soaked with melted high wind and sudden ingredients in paint.

Evidently some hoaxers in Detroit and Iowa took on a new color scheme recently when they began painting with small blue specks which were attributed to a recent rainfall. Imagine thoughts and ideas which might have raced through the minds of five minds of residents when this unique sight was witnessed.

To say the least the hydrogen bomb received a good tongue-lashing and all sorts of weird explanations were advanced.

Through the years major scares have been caused through freaks of nature or man-made hoaxes. Remember the notorious Orson Wells' "Men from Mars" program, the flying saucer rage, or the "end of the world" scares of certain amount of skepticism is a healthy characteristic these days.

Universal Complaint

(Halifax Chronicle-Herald)

Ever since mankind gained the power of speech, it seems, his commonest remark has been, "Things are not what they were in our young days." This forms the burden of one of the earliest recorded Egyptian wisdom books, and each succeeding generation of aging and passing maturity has shaken a regretful head and said much the same thing.

Sees Canada's Policy Based on Expediency

Editor,
Ontario Intelligencer.

I read with interest your editorial on Taxation in Saturday's edition. You would seem to be in accord with Government's attaches greater importance to devising hidden or painless taxes than to attempting any control or limitation of the steadily increasing burden of taxation. Indirectly, it is this type of political psychology which rules the entire Canadian scene. No policy is considered on the basis of whether it is good or bad—only on the basis of its popularity or political acceptance.

For example, consider our foreign policy — not that we have any unless you concede that unwilling conformance to the will of the leadership is a policy. In any democracy, involvement in a foreign war is the most unpopular course if national self preservation is at stake. In Canada, the bulwark of the conscription issue with its shades of "conscription if necessary but not necessarily conscription" produces immediate nightmares to any politician who would make a decision even remotely related to any possibility that it can never be regained; success in Indo-China will encourage the spread of Communism through south east Asia; Communist control of all Asia will threaten drive Japan, the last independent Pacific power, into the Communist camp; ultimately, the U.S.A. will stand alone, hence to hell with it; Communistic encroachment in Indo-China now, than it will be in all of Asia and Indonesia later.

Thus Mr. Eisenhower and Mr.

"Saycraze." Japanese word meaning—Since it must be so.

Since it must be so that we must part awhile
Grieve not dear heart, or, fret my weary spirit
To such a love as ours, there is no ending
Our paths will come together again, in God's Good Time.

Hold on to courage, you will travel after
What does it matter who we are.
Strength will be given you to battle alone
Lose not your hope, hold on to your love.

Sent to you with appreciation for all the help that Canada has given us in England.

Miss H. E. Silgger,

Dulles have embarked on a policy which will not be popular but which they believe is right in the interests of freedom of their country. An unpopular war could well mean the end of the political careers of these men, even though later history proves them right.

Leaders of our own government do not exhibit the moral courage of their American counterparts. Whatever policy our leaders adopt in the Indo-China emergency, ultimate national welfare will be suppressed to political expediency. It is a reasonably safe guess that our foreign policy will continue as a free defence ride on American armaments—but no participation, no contribution, no co-operation until the popularity of the American course of action is assured.

Biggest Game Reserve

(National Geographic Society)

Civilization is creeping up on South Africa's Kruger Park. The world's largest game reserve and the government is now considering a 8,000-square-mile sanctuary to protect the animals from the ever-increasing farmlands and destroying hordes of tsetse flies. A $1,400,000 appropriation for park improvement has been earmarked and a section of the park is already under the southern boundary.

Established in 1898, Park's 5,000,000 acres, however, the estimated 1,000,000 animals which it shelters is rapidly outgrowing its roam freely.

On palm-dotted plains and dense thornbush veld are found all the famous beasts of Africa's big game: lions, elephants, leopards, buffaloes, giraffes, hippopotamus and all varieties of antelope. Rangers clear rivers swarm with crocodiles. More than 250 species of birdlife roost in the sycamore figs and fever trees.

Stretching for 210 miles along the northeastern Transvaal frontier, Kruger Park is the country's biggest tourist attraction. Almost 100,000 visitors toured the park in 1953.

Unlike animal residents, people are restricted to their movements within the sanctuary. Visitors may drive the 1,200 miles of roads but cannot leave their cars except at certain specified points. Speed is limited to 15 miles per hour to prevent upsetting herds so accustomed to automobiles that they virtually ignore them.

Visitors may traverse the park only by car, except they may leave its dozen rest camps after dusk. A force of 100 rangers patrols the reserve on foot and on horseback, guarding the safety of humans and the well-being of animals.

Kruger Park is open to visitors year-round. Prior to 1930, it was closed during the summer season, November to March, due to the malaise of malaria. Daily DDT spraying has really conquered the mosquito menace.

Spring and summer drought still remain a problem for park officials, however. Grasslands provide excellent winter grazing for the animals, but offer only bare subsistence in the dry season. Sometimes the migrate westward into the farmlands to find food and water.

Drilling of additional waterholes is replacing natural springs. It was planned under the park's new longrage development and maintance programme.

The huge game sanctuary is named for Paul Kruger, who facilated the project in 1898 when he was president of the independent Boer republic. Kruger feared hunting parties would decimate South African stocks of rich

SUGAR AND YOUR TEETH

I do not recall at the moment, and I haven't time to re-read Nutrition and Physical Degeneration to determine whether Dr. Price considered toothbrushing of any value — somehow I have an unconfortable suspicion that he gave a cracked about the rite, but I have. Dr. Price was a cut above such lowbrow behaviour. No matter whether he considered toothbrushing of value or not, the author of Nutrition and Physical Degeneration was, in my opinion, one of the great authorities of our time. I commend his studies and conclusions to the little men and women of dentistry.

Dr. Brady

I feel impelled to say here that the dictum of the brushers is that if fermentation of particles of sugar on or between the teeth by the bacilli (Acidophilus) in the mouth produces acid which eats away at the enamel of the tooth, it seems too ridiculous to discuss, and the attempt to exclude sugar absolutely, in order to prevent caries is contemptible.

If the fat bundles of propaganda supplied to the newspapers of the country by the American Dental Association reflect the prevailing opinion and practice of the dental profession, the sugar, candy, ice cream and cake people really call their dogs off my trail for a while and go after the dentists of the country. The dentists are urging—well, no, that's too strong a word — they are insinuating that sugar, either straight or in candy, ice cream, cake, pies, cookies, syrup, pop, is injurious to the teeth and should be "eliminated." If my teachings about the place of refined white sugar in the diet are not quite what the sugar institutes, bureaus or propaganda mills would like, this anti-sugar obsession of the dentists should infuriate them.

I regard sugar and the innumerable things sweetened with it as cheat food simply because sugar, though it yields quick energy in an emergency — mountain climbers, soldiers on forced march, distance swimmers, marathon runners—does not supply the vitamins and minerals which are so essential to maintain good nutrition, growth and functional efficiency of the heart and other muscles in the growing child or youth. You see, parents, teachers and nevertheless at the board of education, when a child or youth indulges in sugar, candy, cookies, pastry, soda pop or other cheat foods the child or youth just doesn't want real food such as milk, eggs, meat, fruit, vegetables, cheese, bread, butter and honey.

I believe, however, that a growing child who goes as hard as a normal youngster should, may profitably store away a big piece of pie, ice cream, candy or whatever sweets he or she prefers, as dessert, even though his or her mother or father may not get enough general exercise daily to warrant such indulgence.

That's all. Start shooting, everybody.

STRENGTH FOR THE DAY

DR. EARL I. DOUGLASS

CLEANING OF THE SOUL

Yesterday we spoke of the nature of repentance. We said that it is the repentant sinner when the sinner's repentance is sincere? God wants the repentant sinner to be behind Him. The dereliction is exacted from the sinner. God agrees to forget what up to that time He must, in justice, remember.

The second thing repentance applishes is cleansing. God washes the penitent sinner thoroughly from his iniquity. As someone has said, it is not like washing the hands with the washing clothes, for cleansing is not a matter of cleaning the surface but of removing the impurity from the fabric of our being. God's forgiveness makes the heart clean. Only can forgive our sins, but we can repent of them. Repentance is the first step toward the road of heavenly peace of mind.

Then with a clean heart in our hearts. God renews for the penitent sinner a right spirit within him. There is still a struggle in him all the time, but it has not been the struggle of the soul that is repentant of his sin, one finds that the whole setting of his thought life has come under the control now over impulses which formerly held him in bondage.

Repentance has accomplished for him three things. It has wrought in the heart of his transgression, the cleansing of his life, and the renewing of a right spirit within him.

TODAY'S TALK

By GEORGE MATTHEW ADAMS

TALK BETWEEN FRIENDS

We could live in a mansion, have more than enough money in the bank, but without friends to talk to, what would it all amount to? Stevenson said that the greatest asset in business is his world, and calls talk between two or more the most accessible and pleasant sure. It costs nothing to money. It is all profit.

We are met with friends of an evening, or at any time, we keep thinking back to what he has said, and so keep the warmth of friendship ever about us. It was this business of "good talk" that immortalized Dr. Johnson and Boswell echoes of delightful talk linger among the books and about the room as a spirit flitting, creeping into the tightly packed shelves of books, where all talk is said to hide.

We would be neither healthy nor happy if we had more money than friends. Money is a without stimulating talk between interesting people, and conversation. Working my way through college, I was once a night clerk in a hotel in the town I hated. The lobby was heated in the cold months by a big stove with a fender around it, where guests would sit and talk for hours. I often joined them and learned much by listening, and at times slipping a few comments. No matter where we meet people there is something new to be learned.

Again I quote from Stevenson who said: "Language is the most social art of man. Literature is but a effort to show off the vast cathedral of words." I like the friendly atmosphere of a hotel. The happy people are those whom you meet on the friendly casually. Something seems to have gone wrong with the silent world.

The best part of a meal with a friend is that friendly talk—or should be. The best of a journey is invited by strangers. Many a book is but a talk with a friend for a lifetime thereby!

Vexed Question

Apparently it is a vexed question of etiquette as to whether a host should ring the ring when she breaks off an engagement. If she is willing to assume responsibility for paying the account, there seems no objection.

THE PACKSACK

By GREGORY CLARK

Good organizers and promoters are becoming rare, and good administrators and managers are another. And rarely do the two talents belong in one man. Administration is the main ills born until he got tired of it and passed on to others. Which he would be the grand old man of the organization, and his secret master, pulling the strings. Nothing could have been more destructive to the smooth running management of an association consists of making all members of association feel associated, with some authority in its conduct. In less than a year after the removal of my good friend the promotor and organizer, the association was more than doubled membership.

Most of us are puzzled every time we hear the oft-repeated assertion that the Communist party in Russia is really very small in comparison with the population. Parties, as any politician knows, can get big. They can become so big as to get out of hand. It is the intention of most promoters and organizers to keep a party or an association small enough to be active in order within their control. But now and then some party grows so big it realizes its limitations. They exist in every community. They are born, they grow, they die. Some are born dead.

Elmer Sandercock Stresses Industrial Growth of District

The increasing industrial importance of the Belleville-Trenton area and its significance in the economy of Ontario, was stressed to the Ontario Legislature yesterday by W. Elmer Sandercock, MPP for Hastings West, when he entered into the debate following the presentation of the budget by Premier Leslie Frost.

The text of Mr. Sandercock's address during the morning session of April 6th, complimenting Premier Frost on his budget and with references to his own riding was as follows:

"I should like to join with the hon. member for Brucondale (Mr. Frost), Mr. Deputy Speaker, in congratulating the hon. Prime Minister on bringing down so satisfactory a budget. I am sure that in my riding it was very popular. The expenses that are in connection with his announcement of hospitals. Our hospital, like all others, was finding it a little hard to make both ends meet. His assistance brought it 'out of the red,' and all those concerned with its administration were very happy.

I represent, Mr. Deputy Speaker, a riding of which we are all very proud. We have many things of which to be proud, but we have a few problems as well. I would say the most pressing we have now is in connection with the completion of the by-pass road around Belleville and Trenton. We were very happy when the hon. Minister of Highways (Mr. Doucett) decided to begin work on a by-pass, and we are looking forward to its completion in the not too distant future. The traffic problem in our district is very acute. The City of Belleville and the Town of Trenton are 12 miles apart, and the road connecting them is almost entirely built up. In addition, one of the largest airfields in the Dominion of Canada lies in between Belleville and Trenton. During rush hours, the roads are cluttered with miles of traffic, and it is almost impossible, apparently—according to what I am told—for some of the men who work in factories in the area to get out. They have a half-hour lunch period in which to go home for their noon meal, and the traffic is so heavy that they are often late in getting back to work. We are looking forward to the completion of the by-pass, because it will take traffic off this road, and relieve this congestion.

I should like to express my appreciation, Mr. Deputy Speaker, of the type of road which is being built. In the rocky section of the riding, where the road runs through solid high rock, a great deal of credit is due the engineers and contractors who have carried out this work with such skill. They have done some remarkably good work, and great credit is due to all engaged in it.

Another question we face concerns accidents on the highways. In our district—and apparently it is the same all over the province—an alarming number of accidents have occurred at railroad crossings. We have had some very bad accidents at crossings in the riding I represent, and many of them occur at night. I think the Highways Department has done a marvellous job in protecting the main highways, but we have so many county and township roads which are not protected, though now-a-days they carry a great deal of traffic. The danger is especially great at night. On foggy and rainy nights, when a motorist is driving with a low beam and following the white line — where there is a white line—it is easy to "sneak up" to a railway crossing. A train can be crossing there, and the motorist may strike it before he has a chance to stop; his car. So many accidents have happened that way.

I have discussed this problem with the inspector of the provincial police, and he believes that effective use could be made of luminous paint, to help prevent these accidents on county and township roads. I believe, also, that the efforts of the Select Committee which has been set up to study this question, will do a great deal to ease this problem.

Belleville is a railroad town. I know almost all the railroad men, and they are all interested in the matter of protection which should be given to the public. I have often had the opportunity to ride to Belleville on the afternoon train. The distance is 115 miles, and they cover the distance in 1 hour and 56 minutes, and so are the cars come to a halt at the railroad crossings is, at times, a frightening experience. For the engineer it must be nerve-wracking, wondering whether the motor cars are going to stop in time or not. These railroad men at Belleville — most of them — have a most outstanding record of efficiency.

We have one man there who retired as an engineer last August after driving for 45 years up and down the main line. I would have had an accident. That is a record of which he is very proud, and I am sure citizens of this province should be proud of a man who can obtain a record of that kind.

Mr. Deputy Speaker, I would like also to thank the Department of Education in connection with their school construction program. In my own riding, since I have been a member of this House, some 12 or 15 schools have been built, and they are a credit to the people of the communities, and to the province.

I was interested about two weeks ago when I came into the Chamber and saw a great many children, to whom the hon. Minister of Education was speaking, and he asked how many expected to be school teachers, and in the group there were about 8 or 10 who held up their hands. I would certainly "go along" with him, in encouraging that group of people to study for that profession. I, with a number of others, would be delighted, I am sure, to have more teachers, and I was very pleased at the step the department took in increasing the pension plan, and I are sure also, the teachers themselves are very happy about it. In fact, I have had several come to see me over the week-end, and they are giving the hon. Minister of Education of this province credit for a very forward step.

Another department of which we are very proud, and which a number of hon. members have mentioned, is the Department of Welfare. I listened very attentively when the hon. Minister of Welfare was speaking, and I have heard him speak at various places, and I agreed with him, when he said he would advise the people to endeavour to help themselves, and not depend upon the government altogether. I think he is doing a wonderful piece of work in endeavoring to encourage organizations to co-operate with the Department of Welfare, such organizations as churches, lodges, service clubs, the Red Cross, and women's institutes, all of whom are doing a certain amount of welfare work. They are now, as they have been in the past, more welfare-minded, and such clubs as the Rotary, Kiwanis, Kinsmen, Lions, have done a great deal to assist the children, and are doing wonderful work in that connection.

As I have said, Mr. Speaker, the hon. Minister is encouraging these clubs to do this work, and I think he is making a great contribution in advocating the necessity of these associations and organizations assisting, instead of simply looking to the Department of Welfare for all assistance.

We have in the north the mining industry, which is going forward. We are very happy and proud of the development there, and of the building of the Bethlehem Steel Corporation, and I have been very much interested in its program, in the size of its operations, and the number of tons they expect to ship. When we look at the figures submitted by that company, we find they are really terrific. It is an open pit development, and the ore will be mined and processed there, raised to a higher grade, and shipped to Picton, where it will be loaded onto boats in pellet form, so it will lessen the danger of it freezing in winter.

To give you some idea of the magnitude of the operations, they expect to spend over $30 million before there is even one pound of ore shipped out.

In the Bancroft district, the uranium find there is a great boon to that district. I understand there are many claims being staked there, and the future looks very, very bright for mining uranium. Personally, I feel it is much better to see mine development where the ore is taken out of the ground, and only requires one hole to be dug in the ground, instead of having to keep cutting down trees, and losing the natural resources in other ways. Mining is something which is undertaken in the ground, and does not deplete the resources nor destroy the surface of the surrounding country.

Mr. Speaker, we have heard references made to a number of members in the House, one of whom is the hon. Leader of the Opposition. I, for one, cannot see my way clear to ridicule him, and I hope he will carry on as the provincial Leader of the Opposition for many years to come.

The two hon. members of the CCF Party are very fine gentlemen. I have known very well acquainted with both of them.

Mr. Speaker, I would like to congratulate you on the very efficient manner in which you conduct the affairs of this Legislature, and wish you well.

Fashion Flashes

Perhaps the prettiest suit this season is the model with short, fitted jacket and accordion-pleated, slim skirt. It turns up everywhere, in every fabric—from wool, through wool jersey, silk, synthetics and blends—and in every price range. Can't go wrong if you select this type, since it is a fresh, as crisp and as pretty as Spring itself.

WANTS ADVICE ABOUT A SHOWER

Dear Mrs. Beechman:

My son is to be married in a few months. I would like to give my future daughter-in-law a shower. However, my friends tell me that it is not proper for me to give her a shower. May I have your point of view about this, please?

My point of view is that you are very fortunate indeed to have friends who know what's what, and who are so straightforwardly friendly that they are willing to guide you as to what is correct. Remember about "Forewarned is forearmed"! Your friends are right . . . it is not correct for a member of the groom's family (or of the bride's family either) to give a bridal shower.

So often friends of the groom's mother or sister (or of the bride's mother or sister), who is determined to give a bridal shower, are unwilling to interfere in the plan even though they know it is not at all correct. . . but when the shower has been given there too often is unattractive criticism of the hostess. For example, "Why in the world should she have given a shower for her son's fiancee? It was just a 'come-on' for shower presents!"

Beauty

By HELEN JAMIESON

BEAUTY FADS ARE STIMULATING

What has become of the granite-faced die-hards who once frowned at the sight of a lipstick, went into a collapse if anybody mentioned a face lift? Today they are battling their way through crowds at cosmetic counters, getting their locks tinted, spending pleasant moments experimenting with the items in the make-up box. Their acidulated souls have sweetened and they look years younger. If women were to be deprived of beautifying privilege life would be less restful.

If you are an old-timer you can remember when the first bob put the world on its collective ear. Short hair was not considered respectable, but one of those days! The cynics said it was a craze, wouldn't last six months. How little they knew!

The effort to look pretty brings wonderful rewards. Going on cosmetic binges, spending an afternoon in a beauty shop, are delightful diversions. They make a woman forget a lot of things she doesn't want to think about. The business of anointing one's complexion with a fragrant cream every night puts one to bed in a happier frame of mind.

Good appearance has psychological effects. It helps poise and self respect. Physicians realize that how a woman looks has something to do with how she feels. They are willing to listen to waily about complexion defects and depressing reports of the bath room scales.

But, with all this flurry about being decorative, we are not losing sight of the fact that the temple of beauty is built on a foundation of health. Hence the need to live wisely, see that the body is properly nourished, have a certain amount of outdoor life and plenty of restful sleep. Yes, we are progressing.

The Temple of Beauty is Built on a Foundation of Health.

Special-Purpose Menu

By Mary Moore

In about the time it takes to say that I slit and emptied out a package of frozen limas, opened a can of corn niblets and cut four long smoked sausages in halves, I had the main course of our dinner in the oven.

I surprised myself when I noted that it occupied all of three minutes.

I had spent almost an hour earlier in the afternoon making a Coconut Cream Pie (because Pete had phoned unexpectedly to say he had an offer of a ride home and would be here in 2 1-2 hours-, so with the main course disposed of and in the oven, I had nothing to do but sit 'and fold my hands and listen to the symphony on the radio. Marianne and Herbie would make the salad and set the table. Pretty slick for the old girl.

So, if you want a quick main course after you have made a coconut cream pie here's your dish.

MENU;

Smoked Sausage and Succotash Casserole
Applesauce (Canned)
Lettuce and Tomato and Cucumber Salad—Olives
Coconaut Cream Pie Coffee

SMOKED SAUSAGE AND SUCCOTASH CASSEROLE

The smoked sausages were 69c per lb. and I can't remember how much the four of them cost, but I cut them in halves for this. One long sausage each makes a generous serving. Buy 1 package of frozen limas. I like the Ford-hook variety because they are so green and plump; and 1 12-oz. tin yellow corn niblets. In large casserole mix together the limas and corn. Sprinkle over them 2 tablespoon flour, then put sausage halves on top and pour over all 1 cup whole milk. Cover. Place in oven of 375 deg. Fahr for one hour.

The canned applesauce we can buy nowadays is a very superior product and far less expensive than making your own from apples that you pay anywhere from 69 to 89c per box or basket for—that is unless you have your own apples in storage. The apples were canned, of course, at the height of the season last fall, and that is why they are a good buy now.

COCOANUT CREAM PIE

(Filling for 9-inch pie plate)

First heat 2 2-3 cups whole milk. Mix together in top of double boiler 2-3 cup sugar, 1-2 teaspoon salt, 3 2-3 tablespoons cornstarch, 1 tablespoon flour. When these are thoroughly mixed, stir into them the 2 2-3 cups hot milk, then stir this over boiling water until thick. Cover and cook ten minutes, stirring twice. Remove from heat and stir a little of the mixture into three slightly beaten egg yolks; return this small amount to contents of double boiler and cook stirring two minutes. Remove from heat and add 1 tablespoon butter and 1 1-2 teaspoons vanilla. Add 3-4 cup moist shredded cocoanut. Pour into baked pie shell. While it is still hot cover with meringue made from beating three egg whites until stiff, then gradually beating in 6 tablespoons sugar until very stiff. Add 1-2 teaspoon vanilla. Be sure to spread this meringue over the filling and touching the pastry shell. Sprinkle top with cocoanut. Put in oven of 375 deg. Fahr. to cook meringue and delicately tinge the cocoanut toppling. Cool this pie at room temperature, then chill if you like.

"A FAITHFUL READER":

A Mrs. M. wrote asking for some new suggestions for sandwich fillings. I have room to give her two today:

NEW EGG SANDWICH FILLING

Six hard-cooked eggs are peeled and mashed then added to 1 4-oz. block of pimento processed cheese and enough mayonnaise to make of spreading consistency. This is also excellent for stuffing for celery. Keep covered and refrigerated in covered sealer.

TONGUE SANDWICH FILLING

Half of a leftover boiled fresh tongue is put through medium knife of grinder and then mixed with 2 tablespoons green garden relish, 1-4 cup thick French dressing and salt and pepper to taste.

ADVICE to the LOVELORN

By BEATRICE FAIRFAX

SHALL SHE MARRY AT 16?

Dear Miss Fairfax:

I am 15 years old and very much in love with a boy 19 who wants me to marry him as soon as I am 16.

Do you think we are too young? I know some marriages have worked out when the people married young.

M.G.

Yes, I definitely do think you are too young for marriage and I hope you'll be wise enough to wait awhile.

It's quite true that there have been instances in which boys and girls in their teens have married and, as the saying goes, "lived happily ever after." But such cases are extremely rare, compared to the number of teen-age marriages that break up after a pitifully short time.

The young person who is really growing mature will see the wisdom of waiting for marriage until she is sure she is ready to give up the freedom of adolescence and the carefree good times that go with it, and take on the responsibilities that go with marriage and homemaking. Whatever they may think under the pressure of a very special romance, very few teen-agers are ready for this, and if they do make the mistake of marrying, a very short time they begin to feel cheated of the fun they had before.

If you take my advice you will wait, and if you wait, I am sure that when you are older you will agree that the advice was good.

MARMORA

IODE Discusses Various Activities

MARMORA — Mrmora Chapter, I.O.D.E., held its monthly meeting in the Masonic Hall on Thursday evening under presidency of the regent, Mrs. J. R. Aitchison. After the opening prayer, the flag was brought forward by the standard bearer, Mrs. F. R. Wells.

Mrs. C. B. Whittemore, following the presentation of the treasurer's report, recommended the payment of bills." Miss M. Savage, convener for services at home and abroad, reported the need for quilts for Korea. Each member was requested to prepare woollen blocks 12 inches square. Mrs. R. G. Walsh, film convener, recommended that the members' ship fee be paid to the local film council.

Mrs. W. Tupper, wool convener, distributed material, requesting that spiral socks be made for Korea.

COMPREHENSIVE REPORT

Mrs. Charles Brady, local delegate to the annual provincial meeting, gave a comprehensive report of the same with interesting and new ideas for each executive member. As educational secretary, a special report on that subject will be presented by her at the next meeting.

Two new members, escorted by Mrs. J. M. Brownlie, membership convener, were then enrolled.

The regent thanked all members who had assisted with the wallpaper show.

The chapter accepted sponsorship of a piano recital by the pupils of Mrs. H. Hennie, which is to be given on a date in May. Plans were concluded for the evening of April 30 when Miss Norma Arkels, representing the Business and Professional Women's Clubs at the United Nations conference, will be guest speaker. Her topic, being of equal interest to women and men, the meeting will be an open one.

HOSPITAL EQUIPMENT

Purchase of equipment for the Belleville hospital was discussed, but action was deferred to a meeting with larger attendance. A bursary to send a student to Teachers' College was considered.

The annual "Empire Tea" is to be held May 21, with Mrs. G. Jarvis as convener.

Mrs. D. P. Marett was requested to write to Moffat Stove Co. for information regarding a cooking school.

Refreshments were served.

Only 200 yards from her bedroom window, she heard an artillery from fire a 21-gun salute honoring Queen Elizabeth's 28th birthday.

Mrs. Petrov, tearful and racked with fear when two Russian couriers tried to escort her back to Moscow, laughed happily as she strolled through the grounds with security guards. She smoked continually and joked with security officers who had flown to her side from Sydney.

MAY BE IN DANGER

The security officials fear that Mrs. Petrov, who was a cipher clerk at the Soviet embassy, may be in the same "real danger" as her husband, as elaborate precautions will be taken to keep their hideout secret.

The official said Russian agents may try to "kidnap" the Petrovs if their whereabouts are revealed. Both husband and wife are expected to provide explosive evidence on Soviet espionage to the royal commission.

Australian newspapers are meanwhile pressing the government to permit the couple to tell their story.

The Melbourne Herald spoke of propaganda risks incurred by not inviting the Petrovs to put their own story, separately or jointly, to the people.

A statement from Mrs. Petrov of what happened at the airport, where she made her last-minute decision to accept asylum in Australia, will have an important bearing on the Australian government's reply to the Soviet ambassador's protest Tuesday.

Soviet ambassador Nikolai Generalov claimed an "armed assault" was made on the two couriers, enjoying diplomatic immunity, when they were manhandled by Australian police to remove pistols from shoulder holsters.

The acting Australian external affairs minister, Sir Philip Mcbride, said the couriers took no active part in violence before their revolvers were seized.

LARGEST LABOR

The two unions sent delegations to Ottawa to call for action on unemployment. They met Labor Minister Gregg and a few other cabinet ministers.

MEET FULL CABINET

The two congresses, regarded as the chief spokesmen for Canadian labor before the government, met the full cabinet earlier to did the anti-Communist Canadian and Catholic Confederation of Labor, with 100,000 members, and the 40,000 -member Dominion joint legislative committee of the railway brotherhoods.

In taking a stand against cabinet ministers receiving officials of Red-run unions, the TLC and CCL noted that statements attributed to Mr. St. Laurent in the Far East recently indicated recognition of the Communist China regime eventually.

They asked if the government now is "recognizing" Red unions at home.

Mr. St. Laurent said Mr. Gregg would "...ly later. The labor minister now is in the Maritimes.

OTTAWA GIRL

Miss Price, a political science student at Carleton for almost three years and now a civil servant here, said she began associating with persons believed to have Communist leanings early last December. Robert Klinger, assistant councillor for foreign affairs, had advised her to take courses with three friends.

She said an article in the Michigan Daily, campus newspaper, about a year ago on left-wing activities at the university mentioned Shaffer "at great length." She added, however, that "if Shaffer is a Communist, he is a Red in the way a person is a Catholic or a Red. He has a different philosophy on life."

She had given general information to the FBI, but "I cannot say how many reports I made." She had declined, without mentioning the FBI, to tell Shaffer late in March that she had been interrogated on him and others.

FELT IT WRONG

She did so because I began to wonder if what I was going was morally right. I then felt it was the right thing to do as a friend." She declined to say whether she had been in love with Shaffer.

She and Shaffer had drawn up the affidavit and signed it before Notary Shaffer, she said, wanted the affidavit to show his friends in writing what she had done.

He had also wanted it for his protection, "so I could not be called up and used as a friendly witness" against him, and as assurance that she was telling the truth. "He felt I was naive and weak for what I had done."

People's Republic of China Crashes Diplomatic Big Time

By FRED HAMPSON

HONG KONG (AP)—The people's republic of China—the Communist gargantua of the East—crashes the diplomatic big time at Geneva next week as the very young government of a very old nation.

China was old when Greece was in her glory. But Peiping is a fallow five years.

The Chinese Reds praise Marx and Engels, Lenin and Stalin. But they also claim Sun Yat-Sen as their political ancestor. Sun led the revolution that overthrew the Manchus.

Sun's revolution started in 1911. Once it split into loose federations, the war-lords. That was where Chiang Kai-Shek came in. He headed Sun's armies and party, defeated the war lords and unified the country.

Chiang made use of the Communists while doing this. That's about the only solid link Mao Tse-Tung's regime has with Sun Yat-Sen.

But Sun is the great modern patroit to millions of Chinese. One of the first things the Reds did in 1949 was to put Sun's window, the eldest of the Soong sisters, in their government. Another Soong sister is Madame Chiang Kai-Shek.

REDS SLAUGHTERED

In 1927, after Chiang had slimed Sun and set up their first "liberated area." It was too exposed and by mid-1930 they had to get out.

What followed was the Long March. Some 20,000 started walking. About 5,000 of them survived 8,000 mountainous miles. The 5,000 finally settled in a very distant nook at the edge of inner Mongolia around the cave city of Yenan. A dozen years and a world war later the 5,000, grown to several millions, overran China.

The leader was Mao Tse-Tung, a fanatic, fat man. Mao, looked at China's 400,000,000 peasants, many working for landlords. Instead of attempting to strike at the chains link of the industrial proletariat, he promised to give land to the landless.

Once in power, Mao turned into a bloody prestidigeter of the classless creed. The 1951-52 purge of counter - revolutionaries, the slaughter of the landlords, the crackdown on private owners, along with lesser eliminations, resulted in political killings possibly up to 15,000,000.

A Chinese Red probably would say Peiping's greatest works were the purge of "the people's enemies," division of the land and the start of the five-year plan.

ROADS RESULT

A neutral observer in the Far East probably would give highest ratio to the reconstruction of roads and railroads and the start of flood and erosion control benefits that outlast politics.

People looking at China from America or Europe are most impressed by the armed strength created by the Reds.

The five-year plan is to build heavy industry and at the same time create a worker class. Every ounce of strength goes into it. Even so, Peiping had to cut back targets by 30 per cent only two months after it started the plan last year.

Russia is helping China build 141 key factories. The country is full of Russian technicians.

If communism were thrown out of China tomorrow, these lasting benefits would be left behind.

One is the railroads. The Japanese war and the civil war ripped up so many lines so thoroughly that in 1949 "not even an inch became one of the roadbeds. Rails and ties had disappeared. Yet the Reds built them back in a few months and operate them well.

They turned roads out as quickly and reduced China's chronic lack of troubles so that they could be safely used.

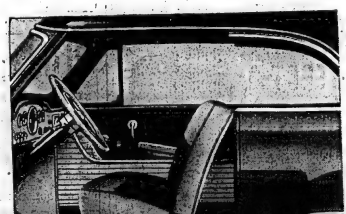
FLOOD CONTROL

Peiping' flood control work is another undeniable boon. No land suffers so much from floods. The Reds tackled the toughest rivers with self-confidence. They say they have tamed the vicious Hwai, between the Yangtze and the Yellow.

The Communists have possibly 10,000,000 men under some degree of arms. Most of them are the militia, a regional security troops and various specialized forces. The striking power—the people's liberation army—was estimated at the start of the Korean war at about 2,500,000 men divided into five field armies.

The case against marital infidelity

It's far more common than most of us like to believe, says Dr. A. Stone, eminent psychoanalyst . . . but it seldom brings lasting emotional satisfaction to either husband or wife.



In May Reader's Digest, Dr. Stone, a pioneer in the field of marriage education tells why unfaithfulness shatters personality; and what he's found is the major cause of adultery.

Be sure to read this enlightening article in May Reader's Digest. It's just one of 31 articles of lasting interest, condensed from leading magazines, plus 3 condensations of current books.

Ground Observer Corps in North Always Alert

NORTH BAY (CP) — The keeneyes of the RCAF's ground observer corps scan northern skies for friend or foe.

The civilian organization set up during the last year extends across northern Ontario and the northeastern section of Quebec, and reaches as far north as Hudson Bay.

Spotters record every plane they see. In the case of aircraft in formation, jet planes outside training areas, or multiple-engined aircraft, they telephone the RCAF filter centre in North Bay.

The filter centre relays the message to the central control station of the radar chain which spans the north country. It may also be sent to the RCAF base here to alert crews of CF-100 jet interceptors.

AIDS SEARCHERS

Besides standing guard against hostile planes, the ground observer corps has already saved taxpayers tens of thousands of dollars in air searches.

FO. William Scott, commanding the filter centre, says:

"When a plane is missing, we put in calls to members of the corps. In every case we have been able to trace aircraft from one observation post to the next and hence search areas have been tremendously narrowed."

When one CF-100 crashed, it was seen from several observation posts. Searchers pinpointed the crash where the observers' lines crossed. Although the plane fell in dense bush, a search party was able to go directly to the scene.

In another case, a woman observer in this district telephoned the filter centre when a CF-100 crashed before the pilot had landed by parachute.

Ground observer corps members include lumberjacks, miners, trappers, fur traders, clergymen, housewives, storekeepers, commercial fishermen, resort operators, Indian guides, police, firemen and forest rangers.

Northernmost member is George Papp, trader at Richmond gulf on Hudson bay. Eskimos help him keep watch.

Ralph Gauthier, a commercial fisherman, sometimes reports by radio-telephone from his fishing boat on Lake Superior. Louis Barrone of Little Current, on Manitoulin Island, has a ready-made observation post in his cabin atop a big swing bridge. Fire chief Sabin Thibeault, chief observer at Rouyn, has his lookout station atop the fire hall. At least one observer is an amateur radio operator.

Is 'Quite Happy' Battaglia Slain

MONTREAL (CP)—The Herald says Tuesday that the widow of Charles (The Kid) Wagner is "quite happy" that his man Friend, on a charge of murdering her husband was later the victim of what police have described as a gangland slaying.

Frank Battaglia of Oakville, Ont., was found slain Thursday less than 12 hours after he had been freed on a charge of murdering Wagner. Police believe Battaglia was lured, shot or strangled and then thrown into a weed-choked field in Montreal's east end.

Without disclosing her whereabouts, The Herald says that in a telephone interview Mrs. Wagner was asked how she feels about Battaglia's death.

She was quoted as replying:

"Perhaps it sounds awful to say this, but I'm quite happy about the whole thing."

MARMORA

Lucan Irish Six Presented With MacMillan Cup

MARMORA — Lucan Irish Six, who won the Intermediate "C" hockey championship at Marmora on Friday evening in the initial year of its sponsorship, received the new Rex McMillan cup as the first holders at the end of a thrilling game between the finalists. Lucan stayed over to play Saturday evening and emerged winners by the decisive score of 13-5.

Attending to make the presentation was Frank Buckland of Peterborough, incoming O.H.A. president and as Fred Revington the Lucan captain had returned home, the honor of accepting it fell to William Smith, the assistant captain. Smith singular to relate, was a resident of Marmora for three years, two decades ago when his father the late A. R. Smith was principal of the local high school. Mr. Buckland spoke to the spectators between the second and third periods testifying to the fine calibre of the teams which had entered the Intermediate "C" series this year and thanking them for so doing. He also had words of praise for the local arena and those who had made it possible for the village to be the sponsor.

Although nothing was at stake, the teams played up some grand hockey in a game devoid of penalties. Marmora opened the scoring as Martin put the puck past the bury Barnes on an assist from Jones at 2: In the first. Lucan soon retaliated: Stretton got their first goal on Rowett's pass and in less than a minute, Leroy Revington unassisted scored again. But Marmora took the lead again as Stubby Trumble helped first Lavender and then Leonard to hit the twine.

Then it was that the smart combination of the visitors began to pay dividends. They started rushes which the home defence could not stem. Before the first period had ended, Watson unassisted, Stretton on Rowett's assist and Stevenson assisted by Glen Revington added a goal apiece to make the score read Lucan 5, Marmora 3.

Another three goals was added to Lucan's lead in the second. Gaudette beat Killian with Rowett assisting. Stevenson put Glen Revington's pass to good account and Gaudette scored his second goal of the game on assists from Rowett and Stretton.

Scoring in the third was almost as prolific as in the first as speed of play was increased rather than lessened. W. Smith scored the one and only goal of the game as he neatly carried on a movement in which Stevenson and McTavish had part. Then Marmora came to life once more and Jones who hasn't missed scoring in many games registered on an assist from Martin. But for the third time in the game Lucan was to score three in a row. Wilson assisted by Glen MacTavish, Glen Revington unassisted and Rowett with an assists from Stretton and Gaudette were the marksmen. Marmora's last goal was by Trumble, the assist going to Maynes and then Lucan with ten seconds to go, got their thirteenth goal as Stretton and Gaudette assisted Rowett again to score.

Teams:

Marmora: Goal Killian; defence Gray, Leonard; centre Maynes; wings Lavender, Trumble; Alternates, Jones, Brooks, Martin, Loveless, D. Smith, Darrah, Brown and Nayler.

Lucan: Goal Barnes; defence Gallagher, W. Smith; centre, Rowett; wings Stretton, Gaudette; Alternates Leroy Revington, Glen Revington, Stevenson, McTavish, McAlpine, Kirkpatrick, Watson.

Referees: Herb Payne, and Bun Boughton, Peterborough.

Bright Students Should Be Separated from Dull In Public Schools Teachers Told

TORONTO (CP)—Sidney Smith, president of the University of Toronto, says bright students should be separated from the dull in public schools so that the bright ones can develop their minds to the fullest.

"The potentialities of the best brains are unlimited," he said Tuesday. "Yet those potentialities are not realized under a school system that underrates the importance and the capacities of the best brains."

Dr. Smith was speaking to the college and secondary school department of the Ontario Educational Association annual convention. His talk was one of a number given by prominent educators to groups of teachers in connection with the convention.

HIGH SEPARATE CLASSES

Dr. Smith said there should be separate classes for the brilliant, the average, and the dull.

"Very good brains are not common," he said. "Exercise will never bring them. They are born with."

A. R. Lucas, of Leaside, Ont., was elected president of the OEA.

Ontario's Education Minister Dunlop told another group that school children enjoy good hard work, though they don't always like it.

Hard work, interest and competition are musts for good education, he said in a talk to the Catholic education conference.

"Some so-called progressive educational principles will on no account be allowed to prosper," he said. "What as long as success in life depends largely on hard work, interest and competition, why try to take all that out of school?"

Ninety-one school associations should give far more attention to how children are educated, the Toronto Home and School Association annual meeting was told.

Dr. S. Laycock, former dean of education at the University of Saskatchewan, said that if home and school associations were doing an adequate job there would be less criticism of schools "because parents and the public would know that a lot of it wasn't true."

Mrs. R. M. Sherk of Toronto was elected president of the Ontario Federation of Home and School Associations. Other officers elected included Mrs. C. Bust, Windsor, Mrs. R. M. Bryce, Owen Sound, Mrs. Gordon Peterough, Mrs. J. Cropper, St. Catharines, and Mrs. G. C. Irvine, Niagara Falls.

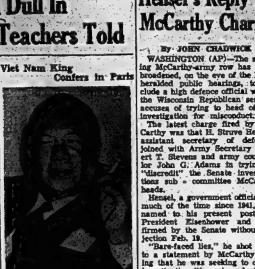
F. J. McDonald, inspector of schools for Ottawa district, said that if there were more education clinics like those held in Ottawa separate schools "we might do something to underwrite the great gap through which we fall."

He said in a talk to the Federation of Catholic Parent-Teacher Associations convention that in the Ottawa clinics teachers meet with parents and psychologists to study problems of children who are not making progress at school.

He urged parent-teacher associations to set up similar clinics in their schools, which he said are an "excellent way to teach children the value of cooperation."

Officers elected for the federation were: president, Patrick Mc-Manus, Windsor, vice - president, Fred Halloran, Hamilton; treasurer Mrs. R. McLarnon, Peterborough and secretary Mrs. Evelyn Turner, Ottawa.

POPULATION PROBLEM



H. C. Emerson of Lombardy, president of the rural and township school area section of the Ontario Educational Association, said in his annual report that the whole educational structure should be related more effectively than at present to the interest and needs of the rural community.

He said the income of rural dwellers was inadequate to support the schools, even with government grants, as efficiently as was done in urban centres.

"Migration from the rural areas has meant that much of the wealth of the country is transferred to the city, as these city dwellers become the heirs of the rural property left behind. The change in population is shaking the structure of rural society and is making new adjustments necessary."

V. S. Milburn, secretary-manager of the Ontario Federation of Agriculture, said during a panel discussion that the changing technologies of agriculture demand that the best brains should stay on the farm. He said there should be more teaching of conservation and agriculture, a more fair assessment division between rural and urban communities, and cheaper schools. He deplored lack of willingness among teachers to stay in rural schools.

Single-Trunk Indiana Twins Die Suddenly

WASHINGTON, Ind. (AP)—Indiana's single-trunk Hartley twins, who had survived an attack of pneumonia, died Tuesday of a respiratory ailment at the age of four months and eight days.

The fatal illness developed suddenly. While a temperature of 108 degrees the babies were rushed 13 miles from their home at Petersburg to the county hospital where they were born Dec. 12.

The hospital said both beads were blue when the twins were admitted. The weaker one died first, the other 15 minutes later.

The babies, children of Mr. and Mrs. Cecil Hartley, bore two names on a single birth certificate. The 44-year-old father gave the separate schools "we might do something to underwrite the great gap through which we fall."

He said in a talk to the Federation of Catholic Parent-Teacher Associations convention that in the Ottawa clinics teachers meet with parents and psychologists to study problems of children who are not making progress at school.

He urged parent-teacher associations to set up similar clinics in their schools, which he said are an "excellent way to teach children the value of cooperation."

'Bare-Faced Lies' Hensel's Reply To McCarthy Charge

BY JOHN CHADWICK

WASHINGTON (AP)—The swirling McCarthy-army row has been broadened, on the eve of the long-heralded public hearings, to include a high defence official whom the Wisconsin Republican senator accuses of trying to head off an investigation for misconduct.

The latest charge fired by McCarthy was that H. Struve Hensel, assistant secretary of defence, joined with Army Secretary Robert T. Stevens and army counsellor John G. Adams in trying to "discredit" the Senate investigations sub - committee McCarthy heads.

Hensel, a government official for much of the time since 1941, was named to his present post by President Eisenhower and confirmed by the Senate without objection Feb. 19.

"Bare-faced lies," he shot back in a statement by McCarthy saying that he was seeking to dodge Congressional "fair-play" and possibly for law violations." He accused the senator of an "established record for character assassinations."

GUARANTEES LAW SUIT

Hensel also challenged McCarthy to repeat his accusations in some forum where he could not hide the immunity which covered the Senate-protected witness McCarthy mittee. If McCarthy does that, Hensel said, "I will guarantee a law suit."

McCarthy, in Houston, Texas, for a speech late today, said "I wouldn't co-operate in any delay like that," and added:

"Hensel knows it would take years to do this in a trial. We will be ready to do it when the committee hears this case and the witnesses will be under oath. He can call any witnesses he wants to.

"After that's over — I can see no reason why I shouldn't repeat this attack — if at some future time he still wants a lawsuit — and I don't think he will — I see no reason why not . . ."

The McCarthy statement said his investigators had established that Hensel drew at least $56,526 in his last three years from a private ship supply firm operating with government priorities. Hensel then was a major stockholder.

"MALICIOUS AND DISHONEST"

Hensel replied: "The allegations that there has been anything illegal or even unethical in my financial or governmental history is both malicious and dishonest . . . Senator McCarthy knew he was lying . . ."

Against this background, the investigations sub-committee agreed on rules for its hearings on the controversy and announced they will start on schedule Thursday. Coverage is planned by major television networks.

The rules adopted by the subcommittee will permit McCarthy and army representatives to engage in direct cross-examination of witnesses. McCarthy had strongly urged this procedure.

Body of Drowned Hunter Found

Discovery of the body of Joseph Tanaca, Toronto hunter, brought to an end a four-day search in the bush area around Huntsville, Ont. Tanaca, who became separated from two companions last Friday while on a bear-hunting expedition, had fallen into a flooded creek. Broken glasses of his disbowed where he had tried to claw his way to safety. Here veteran guide Joe Cattercho steps from a helicopter, one of the many aircraft assigned to the search, as word was flashed by radio that the body had been found.—Central Press Canadian.

Soviet Govt. Announces Biggest Budget in History

By RICHARD KARSCHNER

MOSCOW (AP) — The Soviet government today announced for 1954 the biggest budget in its history. It includes 100,300,000,000 rubles, 17.8 per cent, for defence.

The Russians set an exchange rate of four rubles to the dollar. That would make the allotment for the armed forces $25,075,000,000.

[illegible] record budget and total revenue during the year at 371,900,000,000 rubles and expenditures at 362,700,000,000, providing an unspecified surplus of 9100,000,000 rubles.

Western observers in Moscow say it is difficult to understand the Soviet Union's defence appropriations. For one thing, the state owns and runs the entire economy, fixing its own prices on any equipment needed for the armed forces.

(Western observers also have long been convinced that much Soviet military spending is concealed under other budget categories.

Finance Minister Arseny G. Zverev presented the budget bill to the newly elected Supreme Soviet (parliament) at a session attended by Premier Malenkov and the leaders of his government and the Communist party.

OPENS FIRST SESSION

The new Soviet opened its first session Tuesday night. Approval of the budget is the main business of the meeting, expected to last the rest of this week. It has not been announced whether Malenkov or any other top official will make a policy speech to the parliament.

The 1954 defence appropriation was almost 15 per cent less than the 1953 allotment of 119,200,000,000 rubles. That previous expenditure had represented a decrease of 3,600,000,000 rubles from the 1952 outlay for the armed forces.

By contrast, the total revenues and expenditures represented a continuing rise. The 1954 estimated income is up 20,500,000,000 rubles from 1953's 343,300,000,000; 1954 expenditure is 32,200,000,000 rubles more than last year's 330,500,000,000.

In contrast to the decrease in the defence appropriation, such other major categories of spending as social services, education and insurance were increased. This was certain to be a large talking point in the Soviet Union's international policies.

Nine Injured As Police Cycle Hits Motor Car

TORONTO (CP) — Nine persons were injured Tuesday night when a police motorcycle collided with a car and bounced into a crowd on the sidewalk at a west-central intersection.

Witnesses said the scene resembled a battlefield at first as injured men, women and children lay on the sidewalk moaning. There were about 100 persons on the corner at the Bathurst and College street intersection at the time.

Constable Bob Duncan of the police traffic squad suffered concussion after his machine hit the group and bounced against a wall. Salvadoro Dicarlo, 31, received a broken leg. The others, including two children, suffered minor bruises and cuts.

Police said the motorcycle mounted the curb after colliding with a car driven by Sidney Roy, 22. Reynolds was charged with careless driving.

Democrats Praise Vigilance Of Free Press

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Democratic party's national committee has prepared a booklet to resent instances of "press vigilance." It said the booklet is a reminder of the "great role of newspapers in a free society when they operate as a truly free, no-party press."

In the May issue of its official publication, the Democratic Digest, the committee said that for once in the American press played the "decisive part in turning public sentiment against" the Bricker amendment, described as an "isolationist plot to tie the President's hands on the conduct of foreign affairs."

"Only the hard core right-wing publishers stayed with the Bricker forces, and for once the country had something like an equal division of press opinion," The Digest said, adding:

"The sanest thing seems to be happening in the Senate, under Senator Carthy."

SAYS INDEPENDENCE SHOWN

The committee, which frequently attacks what it calls the "one party press," summed up with this statement:

"In next fall's elections, it seems a safe bet that the newspapers of 19 will continue to back Republican candidates. But nowhere has the public is benefitting from individual bursts of intolerance and independence on the part of some of our most influential dailies."

The magazine said that three Washington newspapers — The Daily News, the Evening Star and Post—took the lead in "unmasking the political exploitation" behind the Eisenhower administration's security risk dismissals.

It said articles in the New York Tribune and in the New York Times were brilliant contributions of journalism, and that in the debate over the "new look" defence policy

'FACTS' SERIES PRAISED

A series in the Providence Journal on the "facts of life" in Korea was termed an outstanding example of newspaper initiative. The series dealt in the TV and radio program financed, The Digest said, by "H. L. Hunt, Texas oil multi millionaire and friend of Senator McCarthy."

The Digest said it was "the Detroit Free Press, rejuvenated by Publisher Lloyd Hara after nationwide attention to Attorney-General Brownell's dismissal of Harry Dexter White, and Attorney Charles Vigil of Colorado was fired by Brownell during Vigil's successful battle against crime and his job given to a "fraternity brother" of the attorney-general.

India More Anti-America Than at Any Time Within Memory But Americans Liked

By JAN FAWCETT

NEW DELHI (Reuters)—India now is more anti-American than at any time within memory.

India is angered by the recent American decision to grant arms aid to Pakistan. She is angered by Washington's persistent refusal to recognize the Communist regime in China.

The feeling here is described as anti-America rather than anti-American, as on the dividual basis Indians are just as friendly toward Americans as ever.

But they are opposed to almost every important aspect of present American foreign policy and there is a wide feeling here that the United States rather than Russia is the chief cause of a third world war.

U.S. BETTER KNOWN

Apart from the issue of Pakistan arms aid which has brought anti-America feeling to its present peak, the reason that the average Indian is generally more hostile towards American foreign policy than he is to the Russian, according to one highly placed Indian, is that he knows more about it.

"We know what America is thinking and doing and since we don't like a lot of it we are critical," he said. "In the case of Russia we know less and therefore there is less criticism."

Despite extensive counter-propaganda here, India reserves the United States practices racial discrimination.

In Delhi a few days ago I heard an American ask an Indian "Why can't I ever see any word criticizing Russia in the Indian press?"

The Indian replied: "American statesmen don't leave themselves as wide open as yours do."

PARTY AIDS PROPAGANDA

Thus Russia has to pay little attention to world criticism and can devote its propaganda to extending the influence of communism. Much of this work is made machine in the Communist party of India.

The United States can and does distribute books and films which are well circulated. But the Communist party has hundreds of meetings or symposiums prepared to spend their days hawking Communist literature which either given away or sold at a few pennies a copy.

One interested observer said that communism is selling better than Americanism in the villages because the villagers can more easily identify themselves with Russian peasants than with the American who in the view of the average Indian has always had just about everything he wants.

Among intellectual and public and political leaders, target of the major American propaganda effort, the result is more difficult to assess but the general view is that any of these people, given the choice, would prefer to live in America than in Russia.

Charge Three Boys Broke Into Crypt

TORONTO (CP)—Three 15-year-old boys were arrested Tuesday night and accused of breaking into a crypt and disturbing remains in a coffin at Mount Pleasant cemetery during the Easter week-end.

The three, all from Toronto, were charged under the Criminal Code dealing with indignity to human remains. They were scheduled to appear in juvenile court today.

Police said entrance to the vault had been gained by breaking a padlock and removing slabs of marble. The contents of one of six coffins had been removed and placed in a corner. The coffin had been put in the family burial vault in 1914.

'Maggie' Exception to Rule Women Not Allowed to Take Residence North of Imjin River

IN KOREA (CP)—Women are not allowed to take up residence north of the Imjin river in Korea where the 25th Canadian Infantry Brigade is encamped, but "Maggie" is an exception.

Not only is Maggie being harbored but upon her is lavished all the loving care any lady could desire. She wears a fine fur coat and is continually being pampered with such things as chocolate bars, orange, apples and peanuts.

Maggie, a Japanese national according to her registration papers, is a four-year-old monkey, weighing about 30 pounds. She was born and raised in Kobe, Japan, where a Canadian leave centre is located.

Before moving to Korea she resided with the Regami animal company—now she's the pride and joy of Pte. Joe Hasbey of West Bathurst, N.B., a member of the 2nd battalion, Royal 22nd Regiment.

Pte. Hasbey bought Maggie, and another young Canadian of the same family called Jiggs, during a leave at Kobe. Jiggs, a diminutive chimp, has since taken up residence farther south, at Seoul. Hasbey sold him to a member of the British Army mobile canteen.

Pert, red-nosed Maggie has a comfortable, one-room, ranch-style bungalow, complete with artistic stone foundation and rock garden. It is located on a shady slope near the quarters of her master, at "Charlie" company of the "Van Doos."

Before Maggie went to her new master, she understood the Japanese tongue only. But it took only about two days for Hasbey to get her to respond to his heavily-accented English. He plans to introduce her to French in the near future and make her a real linguist.

Maggie is the second pet that Pte. Hasbey has picked up since he went to Korea. He also has a dog named Brownie, a Korean version of the Canadian husky but much smaller. Maggie doesn't get along too well with Brownie. She pesters him incessantly.

Pte. Hasbey will be going home shortly and hopes to make Maggie a member of Canada's citizenry through all the trouble of getting her to Korea—medical examinations and such—he's not afraid of the complications he may encounter to get her into Canada.

Little Benny's Note Book

I was in my room painting up my new postage stamps and wishing I had collected them myself all over the world instead of swapping other fellows for them on the same block, and pop came in, saying, Have you a moment to spare?

Sir? Yes sir. What's a matter? I said, and pop said, I hate to interrupt your intellectual pursuits, but would you mind if I asked you a short question?

Sure, pop, what? I said, and he said. Well, you get around quite a lot, and it occurred to me that you might pick up some information in regard to the whereabouts of my hammer. Please correct me if I'm wrong, she said.

Oh G, sure, I'll get it for you, pop I said. Here it is, I said.

Meaning under my bed, and I reached under and got it, and pop said, Well well, I dont recall leaving it under your bed. It's queer what tricks our memories has on us. In fact I cant even remember being under there myself, he said.

Yes sir, I said, and pop said, There are 2 rules in this club. The first rule is, dont take my tools. The second one is, put them back again, he said.

Yes sir, I was going to put it back in your tool chest as soon as I nailed my lucky horseshoe as I nailed my lucky horseshoe over my door, I said, and pop said, it is worth nailing. What it's worth nailing promptly. Where is the horseshoe? he said.

I swapped it to Puds Simkins for 3 inner tubes, 1 axle, and pop said, You've got to give me air.

And he went to get some, taking his hammer with him.

Apprentice Training for a Bright Future

Combine thorough trades training, schooling, sound discipline, with understanding of the spirit of youth and you have the elements of the Canadian Army's Soldier Apprentice Plan for young men of 16.

The happy enthusiasm of the young men now enrolled as Soldier Apprentices is perhaps the best indication of how successful this plan has been. Many young men who graduate from this course may build good careers for themselves in the service of Canada. It is service which is vital to the continued well-being of this country.

The young men who are accepted for Soldier Apprentice training receive:

- thorough trades training in one of 16 trades.
- academic training — in such subjects as physics, chemistry, algebra, English.
- the general military training of the Canadian soldier.

Soldier Apprentices are eligible for all Army benefits, including 30 days annual leave. They receive half pay when 16 and on their 17th birthday they receive full pay.

To be eligible, the young man must have a minimum of Grade 8 education. There are added opportunities for those with higher qualifications. He must have attained his sixteenth but not his seventeenth birthday.

Courses begin in September but applications are now being received. Following interviews, the applicants may be accepted after June 1st and then sent home on leave until courses commence in the Fall.

To obtain an interesting booklet and full information on the Soldier Apprentice Plan, write, phone or visit the Army Information Recruiting Centre nearest your home.

Dien Bien Phu Battle Has More Political Objectives Than Military

By WILLIAM L. RYAN

SINGAPORE (AP)—For 48 days and nights French and loyal Indo-China troops have fought a battle which has more political objectives than military.

Dien Bien Phu, once not even on the map of northwest Indo-China, suddenly has become one of the best known names. When the Vietminh Communists attacked March 13, they brought home to the non-Communist world the gravity of the situation in southeast Asia.

It was to be a major military-political battle of the Indo-China war, now in its eighth year. The Communists desperately wanted to inflict a crushing blow. The French equally needed a victory if the political line were to be held.

But the French were in an unenviable position. They could lose the battle, but it was difficult to see how they could win a clear-cut decision, since they were holed up and immobile behind fortifications 180 miles from the nearest French base.

MUST WIN—COGNY

"We must win this one," said Gen. Rene Cogny, French commander in north Indo-China. He seemed to consider the battle would be won if the attack were repulsed.

So badly did the Communists want the fortress that Russian-made Molotov trucks brought in a steady stream of heavy weapons and munitions and possibly as many as 6,000 Chinese advisers and technicians were overseeing the Vietminh's transition from jungle warfare to mass attack.

Wiping out the fortress and its defenders would be a great military victory but the Communists are not exclusively concerned with that.

They hope to cause the fall of the French government, to be succeeded by one eager to negotiate and get out of Indo-China. The Communists also expect to make use the voice of Vietminh leader Ho Chi Minh heard at the Geneva conference opening May 8.

SEEK NEGOTIATED PEACE

The prize sought is a negotiated agreement which would leave the Vietminh, strongest political force in Indo-China, ready to step into the vacuum if French withdrew their troops.

Why did Gen. Henri Navarre, French commander-in-chief, choose such a spot to make a stand? It is a thin slice of red that is a waterlogged valley surrounded by commanding hills which permit fire to be poured down upon it. There is no place to fall back. It is a matter of stand or be massacred.

Dien Bien Phu had been a cluster of mud and straw hick peripheral poles. Last fall the French cleared away the villagers, cut down the trees and began building fortifications. The French were developing among the friendly, anti-Communist Thai tribesmen a type of warfare waged by the maquis (guerrillas) in France during the war.

The Vietminh sent its 316th Division to clean out the Thais. The French kept reinforcing Dien Bien Phu, building strong points and setting up barbed-wire barricades, until by Jan. 1 it was a formidable complex six by four miles, encircled by thickly forested hills.

PURPOSE TO GUARD LAOS

Navarre's supporters say the original strategic purpose was to bar a Vietminh drive into northern Laos. The Communists did send a division into northern Laos in January, by-passing Dien Bien Phu. That turned out to be a diversion.

Americans and even some French are fretting at what they consider static defence thinking.

"They go further back than a Maginot line complex," said one observer. "They see mto have a Verdun complex."

The enemy is suffering perhaps five times the casualties of the French at Dien Bien Phu. But French casualties in the 1½ years of war have been costly more in quality than in quantity. The enemy has lost 24,000 men, almost all non-coms and officers, and slightly 40,000 French Union troops including North Africans in the Foreign Legion and Viet Namese with the French Union forces.

Unemployment Hits Post-War Peak in March

OTTAWA (CP) — Canadian unemployment hit a post-war peak in March, it was learned Tuesday, but indications are it now is on the downgrade.

However, the number of jobless continues higher than at the same time last year.

Government figures to be announced in the next day or two, according to informants, will show that around 570,000 persons were looking for work through National Employment Service in late March.

This is a new high since the Second World War. The previous top was about 559,000 at Feb. 18. Before last winter's employment slump, the high was 454,000 in the dull spring of 1950 that preceded an upsurge of work touched off partly by the war in Korea.

The government does not regard the NES figures as indicating absolute unemployment, noting that many persons register for work with the service while just transferring from one job to another. However, they afford comparative statistics.

The government's view is that total unemployment figure is to be found somewhere between the NES total and considerably-lower figures issued simultaneously by the bureau of statistics, which conducts a monthly questionnaire of 30,000 households. No advance bureau figures were available.

Bringing Up Baby

Hints Collected by Mrs. Ann Taylor (Mother of 3)

A proud mother of 9 dreamed up this simple but sound idea to safeguard over-active high-chair sitters. To keep baby's high chair from tipping over, fasten an ordinary screw eye or hook on the back of the high chair and the eye on the door frame. This secures the chair, prevents that live wire from toppling over when your back is turned.

On the cuff. Little sweater cuffs have a way of stretching out of shape very quickly. One young mother writes to tell us an easy way to remedy this: just stitch around each cuff with elastic thread. Four rounds will do the trick.

Tots sprouting teeth often find the procedure troublesome. That's where Gerber's Teething Biscuits come in! For these smooth-surfaced, extra-hard biscuits provide soothing relief for tender gums . . . give baby the biting satisfaction he wants and needs. American League Pitching Tightens As National Bats Continue Spree

By Geo. H. Carver, Sports Editor

LOOKING AHEAD!

Kingston Goodyears, who had a good year at the box office, if not on the playoff trail, are amending their short season, speculating on next year. Latest word on the rumor is Kingston, according to a well informed spy, has it that the Goodies might dress Joe Levandoski and Lorne Ferguson for the 1954-55 canter. Levandoski, an old Kingstonian in the A.H.L., stumbles him to full time job in Beantown. Levandoski, who played baseball for the Pontiac in the Border League and then with the COBL entry, likes Kingston and feels he could establish himself there quite nicely with a side order of baseball by summer and hockey by winter.

However, the best is yet to be. Bill Cook, former NHL great with the New York Rangers and since recently a fabulously successful coach with the Cleveland Barons of AHL and a hockey personality mentor back in New York with the Rangers, is tested as next year's coach of the Goodyears. The background on this rumor is that Cook, after a lengthy career in hockey of old time, is preparing to retire to his Kingston home. Once safely retired in Kingston, Cook, so the story goes, will be offered the job of masterminding the Goodyears and the club will accept. Nothing of this kin as yet, heard or divulged by the keeper of the Kingston secrets, but it is a known fact that the Goodyears, with one of the most loyal hockey fandom anywhere, are anxious to see a major league set first and are taking all possible precautions to see that first place is theirs again next year. Sweet dreams, kiddies!

(Note: The following was written by a Dodger fan last fall after the demise of his heroic "Bums" at the hands of them Damn Yankees).

AN EPIC POEM, or, THE DODGERS LOST

"I've lived a hundred years or more," the aged wise man said,
"But now I fear that death is near, so gather round my bed.
Ere I depart I would impart some wisdom for the ages;
That is the final duty of all prophets, seers and sages.

"For this great truth, my children all, you one day will give thanks:
For lasting bliss, the key is this: Don't bet against the Yanks.
Oh, sentiment's not worth a cent, where Yankees are concerned.
Yea, never bet against the Yanks, you'll get your fingers burned.

"Bend closer, sons, my breath grows faint, and ponder well this truth:
All Yanks are hero apparent of DiMaggio and Ruth.
Men said they'd fall in '53, but they forgot this angle:
Never, never bet against the men of Casey Stengel.

"Oh, bravely did the Dodgers try—those keen, courageous fellows,
Those Furillos, Pee Wee Reese and Roy Campanellas.
They summoned Rees, and Snider, too, put Hodges in the line.
'Men left on bases,' read the score, 'The Dodgers, forty-nine.'

"We played like kings," the old man wept, forgetting seven eras,
"But wisdom always takes the side of Mantles, Reuers and Berras.
No matter how Meyer served them up, the Yankees fell upon 'er,
Oh, destiny cannot be downed, from Flatbush or Gowanus.

"In sum, my dying words must be," said this man old and wise,
"Never bet against the Yanks"—with that he closed his eyes.
But beating some, his children heard—oh, faint the whisper comes:
"Next year, my boys, next year, you'll see! Next year bet on them bums!"

Teepees Blast Marlboros 5-1 To Win Ontario Junior Crown

ST. CATHARINES (CP)—Eleven seasons of hoping came to a climax for the hockey fans of this city Tuesday night when St. Catharines TeePees won their first Ontario Hockey Association junior A championship.

In the 1953-54 season this city, now with a population of 38,146, entered a team in the OHA junior A loop. For four years the club was known as the Falcons and then the name was changed to the TeePees. Tuesday night added one-ninth of the city's population turned out to see their team defeat Toronto Marlboros 5-1 for the league championship.

A crowd of more than 4,200 watched Terry Gregg of Wingham, president of the OHA, present the John Ross Robertson Trophy to TeePee captain Brian Cullen after the game. The victory gave TeePees the best-of-seven final 4-3 and enabled them to advance into the Eastern Canada Memorial Cup final against Quebec Frontenacs.

FINAL BEGINS SATURDAY

W. B. (Baldy) George of Kemptville, Ont., president of the Canadian Amateur Hockey Association, announced last night that the Eastern final will start in Quebec City Saturday night. The CAHA has shown much anxiety over the start of the series because it is far behind schedule. The best-of-seven series originally scheduled to start by April 13 and the Frontenacs were ready to go. But the OHA couldn't decide a winner by the set time.

The TeePees, who succumbed to a three-game losing streak after taking the first three meetings with Marlboros, went after the deciding game from the opening whistle. They were holding a 1-0 lead with only 19 seconds old and Cullen added another two markers before the 14-minute mark of the first period.

Each team scored one goal in the second period and the TeePees rounded out the scoring with their final marker in the third period.

Pete Koval and Hugh Barlow each notched a goal and an assist for the winners. Brian Cullen, Don McLean and Hank Cleala added singles. Billy Harris fired the only Marlboro counter.

TWICE AS MANY SHOTS

The TeePees ran all over the Dukes pouring twice as many shots at Marlboro netminder Johny Albani as Toronto attackers could direct at Marv Edwards in the St. Catharines goal. St. Catharines outshot the Marlboros 30-15, holding edge in the shots on goal in every period.

Albani, who returned to the nets after suffering an injury in the sixth game Sunday, turned in a great performance. Coach Reg Hamilton was reluctant about starting Albani, whose left eye swelled up so badly after he was hit near the corner of it Sunday that he couldn't see through it. But the game little netminder stopped most shots that were labelled for goals.

Marlboros also missed rightwinger Gerry James who aggravated a hip injury in the first period and had to retire from the game.

ONLY MINOR PENALTIES

Each team took five of the 10 minor penalties handed out during the game and TeePees took advantage of one Toronto penalty to score. They also scored one goal while they themselves were shorthanded.

Brian Cullen slid a puck under Albani at the 16-second mark of the first period after the Toronto goalkeeper had made stops of both Barlow and Barry Cullen. Pete Koval relayed Don McLean's pass into the net at 13:34 to make it 2-0 and 16 seconds later McLean took Koval's pass in to increase the lead to 3-0. Marlboros never recovered from that blow.

Several brawls threatened throughout the game but none of them developed. In the third period Duke defencesman Jack Hoinda tried to get into the penalty box after Chester Warchol who had dazed him with an elbow but Toronto player Dave Jackson restrained his teammate.

TeePees expect to leave for Quebec City Thursday. They will depart by plane or train.

Athletics' Alex Kellner Tosses Second Straight One-Hitter; National Leaguers Clout 26

By Ben Pillegar
Associated Press Sports Writer

What did the National League sluggers learn in spring training that their American League friends apparently overlooked?

This is becoming a vital question after Tuesday's second straight one-hitter in the junior circuit while the National League was going its slug-happy way with another 26-hit doingsbrook.

Lefty Alex Kellner of Philadelphia Athletics tamed Washington Senators on one safety — Wayne Terwilliger's single with two out in the eighth inning as the A's won 7-0.

On Monday, Jim McDonald of New York Yankees, a righthander, knocked Boston with one hit.

SHELLAC CARDS

A big share of the National League fireworks has involved St. Louis Cardinals. The Redbirds absorbed a 19-2 shellacking at the hands of Cincinnati Redlegs Tuesday night and now have been battered for 50 runs in six games.

The battered bunch has been all one-sided. The Cardinals have averaged almost seven runs for each of the seven ballgames played.

The two contrasting contests Tuesday involved a pair of identical five-game schedule. Philadelphia Phillies whipped Brooklyn 6-3 and New York Giants defeated Milwaukee Braves 8-2 in the National League and Chicago White Sox beat Detroit 7-6 in the American. Milwaukee and Chicago Cubs in the National were rained out.

Kellner was breezing along toward the first no-hitter in Washington's Griffith Stadium since 1931 when Terwilliger, a .255 hitter, rapped one back through the middle.

NOT THAT LUCKY

"I didn't feel too bad," Kellner said, "Only figure a feller is lucky to pitch a no-hitter."

Fireballing Virgil Trucks picked up his first 1954 victory for the White Sox as he checked Detroit on six hits. The 12-hit Chicago attack included Minnie Minoso's second home run of the season and three safeties by Nellie Fox.

Wally Post, Gus Bell and Andy Seminick homered for the Redlegs. Seminick added two singles in four times up, driving in two runs.

Venerable Preacher Roe made his first appearance of the season for the Dodgers, but the Phillies never really let him get settled on the showers in less than five innings. The deciding blast was a mighty three run by Del Ennis with a man aboard. Little Murry Dickson picked up his second straight victory since joining the Phils.

valed a hip injury in the first period and had to retire from the game.

Each team took five of the 10 minor penalties handed out during the game and TeePees took advantage of one Toronto penalty to score. They also scored one goal while they themselves were shorthanded.

Oil Kings Blast Fort William 8-1 Take 3-1 Lead

EDMONTON (CP) — Edmonton Oil Kings made a strong bid Tuesday night to become the oil capitals first Memorial Cup finalist since 1939 when they outclassed Fort William Canadiens 8-1 to take a 3-1 lead in the best-of-seven western final.

Canadiens, a stumbling block in what would have been a long list of consecutive Edmonton victories, now have been outscored 23-3 in the series, with the fifth game scheduled here Thursday night.

Oil Kings had 35 games without defeat before falling to Canadiens 3-1 in the second game of the series at Fort William. They now are considered western Canada's strongest junior team since Port Arthur Bruins captured the cup in 1948.

Tuesday night, before 6,100 fans, they lived up to expectations. They spotted Canadiens an early first-period goal, then romped freely to victory with a series of close-in passing attacks while Canadiens were held to long range, testing goalie Al Jacobson only 26 times during the night for the Lake Head club's Lynn Davis.

ONLY GOAL

Walt Bradley scored Canadiens' only goal when he picked up the puck while Edmonton defencemen were having trouble clearing then drove in from only 37 seconds gone in the game.

Johnny Bucyk paced Edmonton with three goals while rookie Ron Tookey added a pair. Others came from Ray Kinasewich, Jerry Lucyk and Jackie Moxon.

Kings now ahead 11 to the second period while the hockey was still clean and fast.

In the third session, tempers flared. Ten major penalties for fighting, five by each club, were handed out by officials Pete Ulmanis, Edmonton and Andy Gurski of Brandon in the final six minutes.

Penticton May Back Out Of Western Finals

KELOWNA, B.C. (CP)—Crippled under-manned, and denied replacements, the Penticton V's may back out of the western Canada Allan Cup final with Winnipeg Maroons if they lose another man through injuries.

Playing-coach Grant Warwick made the prediction Tuesday while Dr. Mel Butler, president of the B.C. Amateur Hockey Association, asked that play-off dates be changed to give Penticton an extra day's rest.

Dr. Butler phoned Al Picard, western Canada CAHA representative, in Toronto asking that the fourth game scheduled for Wednesday in Vernon be played Thursday instead.

Able to ice only 11 men for Monday's game here which it won 7-1, Warwick said his club would pay the extra $100 necessary money to keep Maroons away from home an extra day.

Maroons lead Penticton 4-1 in the first game of the best-of-seven finals and won the second fray 3-2.

FIRE CHIEF RETIRES

WINDSOR (CP) — District fire chief James E. Hyslop retired Monday after 38 years of chasing fires for Windsor fire department. The chief, 65, served with the Chatham department for five years before coming here.

Sugar Kings Wither Maple Leafs 7-2 In International League Opener

By the Associated Press

Havana's Cuban Sugar Kings won but the Richmond Virginians lost as the International Baseball League opened its 1954 season Tuesday.

The two new cities of the oldest minor league drew capacity crowds. At Havana, before a gathering of 25,000 the Sugar Kings routed the Toronto Maple Leafs 7-2. The Virginians were nipped by the Rochester Red Wings 4-3 before 12,000 in Richmond.

A newcomer to Havana, Venezuelan righthander Emilio Cuccho, led the Sugar Kings at the plate as well as on the mound. He limited the Maple Leafs to eight hits and collected three hits in four times at bat.

The Cubans exploded for 15 hits against three Toronto pitchers with Angel Scull, Clint Hartung, Ray Noble and Vinlelo Garcia each collecting two hits.

SPOILED RETURN

Rochester spoiled Richmond's return to the class AAA league by scoring single runs in the eighth and ninth innings.

Richmond, a member of the International League back in 1915, took a one-run lead in the fifth inning on starting pitcher Dick Starr's two-run homer.

Righthelder Allie Clark tied the score 3-3 with a home run off reliefer Al Epperly in the eighth. The winning run was scored in the ninth when relief pitcher Tony Jacobs singled, moved to second on an infield out and scored on Allen Richter's single.

The second-day openers pit the Ottawa Athletics against the Buffalo Bisons at Buffalo and the Montreal Royals against the Syracuse Chiefs at Syracuse.

Mildmay Wins 'C' Title In Peewee Tourney

GODERICH (CP) — The second championship of the week-long Young Canada Week Pee Wee Hockey tournament was decided Tuesday night when Mildmay defeated Bridgeport for the C group title.

Grand Bend won the D-group championship Monday with a 23-0 win over Ripley. Grand Bend and Bridgeport are scheduled to play the first game of the grand championship series today.

The tournament drew a record 48 entries this year, mostly from western Ontario. Two distant teams, Kingston, Ont., and Winnipeg, are scheduled to play Thursday.

Each team is classed according to the size of its home town. Winners of each of the four divisions play off for the grand championship.

Western Ontario Athletic Association, one of the sponsors of the series, supplies referees for each game. Goderich Lions Club, also a sponsor, provides billets for out-of-town players and sets up meals.

GOOD APPETITES

Mrs. Albert Pruder, in charge of meals, said 325 boys and officials in two meals ate 31 pounds of beef, 75 loaves of bread, a bag of potatoes and about 25 gallons of chocolate milk.

She works from 8 a.m. to midnight without pay and finds it "fun."

In the B series, Seaforth and Port Elgin won two games. Seaforth defeated Clinton 13-0 and Wingham 3-2. Port Elgin won 3-0 over Port Dover and 9-1 over Palmerston.

SEEK BOGUS BOXER

CHICAGO (CP) — The Illinois athletic commission Tuesday cleared manager James Riley of Detroit of any intentional part in passing off a bogus boxer. It launched a search for the boner, believed a Canadian, who represented himself as Paul Holman of Alfeton, Mass.

The fighter was stopped in the second round by Dick Kerns of Milwaukee in Chicago April 6. The commission learned later that the Paul Holman, a promising welterweight, is in the U.S. army and may have been en route to Japan the night of the fight.

WINS STAKES

EPSOM, England (AP)—American-owned Ambler II emerged Tuesday a probable Epsom Derby favorite by winning the Blue Riband Trial stakes at Epsom. Ambler whipped five other starters in the one mile, 110-yard test for three-year-olds, finishing a half length in front of Just Reward.

CHARGE DISMISSED

NEW YORK (AP) — Magistrate Jack Nicoll Tuesday dismissed a charge of manslaughter against Jimmy Carter, former lightweight boxing champion, whose automobile struck and killed a man last Saturday during a rainstorm.

OWNED FAMED HORSES

DALLAS (AP) — Ben Whitaker, owner of several famous race horses, including My Request, Miss Request and Poker Chip, died Tuesday.

SELECT TEAM

MONTREAL (CP)—A team of 10 boxers and two coaches has been approved by the boxing committee of the Quebec branch, Amateur Athletic Union of Canada, to compete at the combined Canadian amateur boxing championships and British Empire Games boxing trials.

The announcement Tuesday by Dennis White, boxing committee chairman, said the team was selected at a meeting of amateur boxing coaches in Montreal. The combined Canadian championships and B.E. Games trials will be held at Varsity Arena, Toronto, May 13-15.

BABE OK

BEAUMONT, Tex. (AP)—Babe Zaharias' family doctor, Dr. W. E. Tatum, said Tuesday that blood tests show the famous golfer's condition is satisfactory a year after she was operated on for cancer.

RECORD GAMBLING

LONDON (AP) — Racegoers gambled a record £1,105,263 on the tots at England's horse race meetings Monday. The previous record was £1,072,855 in 1953—also on Easter Monday.

DERBY HOPE HURT

NEW YORK (AP) — A leading candidate for Kentucky Derby honors, Joseph Seagram's Elrod King, turned up with a foot injury Tuesday which will keep him out of the May 1 Louisville classic.

Injuries Spoil Matane's Chances Against Wolves

SUDBURY (CP) — Matane Red Rocks, already with their backs to the wall in the eastern Canada Allan Cup finals, may have to finish the series against Sudbury Wolves with only two defencemen.

The latest injury of the series came in the first period of Monday's game when Real Lafreniere, Matane rearguard, suffered an injured ankle. He was forced to retire from the game and the ankle was still badly swollen Tuesday.

Red Rocks have only two defencemen ready for the sixth game of the series here today—Roger Ste. Marie and Bernie Linoger. The Wolves lead the best-of-seven final 3-1 with one game tied. A tie today would send them into the Allan Cup finals against the western champions, either Winnipeg Maroons or Penticton V's.

Coach Gerry Flamondon said he asked the Canadian Amateur Hockey Association for permission to use a replacement for Lafreniere but his request was refused. Rules in the CAHA regulations covering the replacement of injured players except goalkeeper.

The injury plague hasn't missed the Wolves either. They lost centre Rob Beaudry who fractured his ankle in the third game at Matane last week but Cordie Neale has been doing a fine job of filling in.

Sudbury coach Max Silverman wouldn't make a prediction but he seemed confident that the Wolves will take the series.

"They have to beat us three times to win," Silverman said, "and I don't think they can do it."

Americans Have 'Too Many Cars Eat Too Much'

By WILL GRIMSLEY

NEW YORK (AP)—The reason Americans don't build faster cars in track endurance tests, says Britain's wiry Jim Peters, is that "they have too many automobiles and eat too much."

Jim outpersches austerity over plush living for distance-race champions, and he practises it.

The lean, 32-year-old Briton, who ran second to Veikko Karvonen of Finland in Monday's Boston marathon, stopped over in New York and discussed training methods Tuesday before flying home. The best American showing at Boston was seventh.

"I have a garage, but no automobile," Peters said. "Furthermore, I wouldn't have an automobile until I am through running.

"You Americans have too many automobiles and much too much to eat. You've never developed men of stamina and endurance that way. There is only one way to train—that is by running. If you can't run, walk."

RAN FASTEST MARATHON

Peters has run the fastest marathon on record, covering the fixed distance of 26 miles, 385 yards in two hours, 18 minutes, 40.3 seconds at London last June. It was 10.8 seconds faster than Czechoslovakia's mighty Emil Zatopek had run the distance.

"I run 120 miles a week for 51 weeks of the year," the Essex optician's helper explained. "The other week I take off—my wife insists on it. I do it in 11 miles an hour. In 15 workouts a week. But I'm really a piker. My fellow countryman, Gordon Pirie, runs 200 miles a week and that Emil Zatopek never stops."

Hockey League Owners Accept Draft Plan

NEW YORK (CP) — National Hockey League owners meeting here Tuesday decided to accept the proposed player draft plan as originally framed.

President Clarence Campbell was authorized to put the draft into effect in conjunction with other professional hockey leagues. Campbell was instructed to work out the inter-league arrangements.

The owners announced that the NHL annual meeting will be held June 17 in New York.

Under the draft plan, each NHL club can first name 30 players, including two goalies, to its "protected list." Those names must be declared by Aug. 31 of each year. The draft is held the second week in September.

Williams Starts Bat Practice

BOSTON (AP)—Ted Williams, says ahead of schedule as his broken collar bone continues its rapid healing, starts regular batting practice Tuesday after finding he can belt the ball out of the park.

The Boston Red Sox slugger started hitting a little Tuesday at Fenway Park, and before he was through he had deposited a pitch some 385 feet into the right-field bullpen.

Central Ontario Boxers' Tourney In Toronto

TORONTO (CP)—Top amateur boxers from central Ontario points will meet here Monday in an elimination tournament leading to Canadian representation in the British Empire Games in Vancouver next July.

Boxers from Toronto, Ottawa, Sudbury, Kirkland Lake and Sault Ste. Marie, winners of regional trials, will meet for the right to enter the Canadian championships and the B.E.G. trials to be held next month in Toronto.

Quebec League Officials Told 'To Bear Down'

MONTREAL (CP) — President George Slater of the Quebec Hockey League said Tuesday he is notifying referee-in-chief George Gravel to instruct referees to be more strict and "bear down at the start" in games of the current QHL final.

Slater said he had taken this action following the first two games of the best-of-nine final between Ottawa Senators and Quebec Aces. The Aces won the opener at home in overtime 4-3. Following the Senators' 4-1 win in Ottawa Monday night, owner Tom Gorman claimed the Aces were attempting to injure Ottawa players.

"We are not going to send a bunch of cripples out west to meet the winner of the Western Hockey League," said Slater.

Brian Kelly TKO's Manzo

MIAMI BEACH, Fla. (AP)—Brian Kelly, 140, Niagara Falls, Ont., scored a technical knockout over Libby Manzo, 139½, Elmhurst, L.I., in four rounds of a scheduled 10-rounder here Tuesday night.

The fight was stopped at the end of the third by Dr. Alex Robbins, boxing commission doctor, because of a severe cut over Manzo's left eye. Under boxing commission rules it is scored as a fourth round tko.

Manzo received the cut early in the second round of a fast fight that saw Manzo doing most of the leading and Kelly counter-punching. Both fighters used left hooks to advantage.

Guelph Signs Billy Flick

GUELPH (CP)—Billy Flick, who has four times been named a coach of Stratford Indians of the Ontario Hockey Association senior A league, signed contracts after final intercounty Baseball League contract with Guelph-Waterloo.

He was the league's batting last year. He was with Walpriol Tigers last year and had a batting average of .349.

SAULT STE. MARIE, Ont. (CP) Sault Ste. Marie Dorans defeated St. Catharines Bisons 6-4 Tuesday night for a 2-1 lead in the best-of-five series for the Ontario Hockey Association juvenile championship.

Fourth game of the series, which St. Catharines must win to stay in contention, will be played here Thursday night.

Jim Leclair, Tom Lahaye, Gene Ubriaco, Al Coletti, Johnny Longarina and Gary Barone scored for Dorans. Eddie Hoekstra, Pat McDonald, A. Thomson and Nick Resiche tallied for the losers.

The Sault team built up a 3-0 lead in the second period but through the third were hard pressed to stay in front.

TEMPTING STRETCH

RIDDLESDEN, England (CP)—A stretch of road in this Yorkshire district was dubbed "the golden mile" because of the number of speeding fines collected there. Now as a result of pleas by automobile clubs, police have lifted the 30-m.p.h. speed limit.

ROBIN HOOD BIKE CONTEST WINNER!

Master Raymond Boniface of 278 Coleman St., Belleville, is shown here with Ron Bertrand of CJBQ who has just presented him with the streamlined new English bicycle he won on the Robin Hood Bike Contest Radio Show.

Master Boniface answered the question asked on the show correctly, and included a box top from a Chocolate Cake Mix with his entry.

The Robin Hood Contest is easy to enter, and every boy and girl has a chance to win. Every week, a simple question is asked on the Robin Hood show. Contestants are asked to send in their answer, with their name and address, along with a guarantee certificate or box-top from any Robin Hood product. Send entries to: The Robin Hood Bicycle Contest, care of Radio Station CJBQ. Every week, a shiny new English bicycle will be given away to a lucky boy or girl with the correct answer.

The Robin Hood Show is heard weekly on Saturday morning at 10.30 over CJBQ.

The Kibitzer

You can never win an argument from a stubborn ox who calls himself a bridge player. But suppose you tried to prove to him what is a biddable suit. How would you go about it?

You could not prove it by some big book put out by an expert. In it you will find his personal opinion of what he says is a suit that is biddable. But no proof does he offer to clinch it.

Look at it sensibly. Each of four players in a bridge game is entitled to one fourth of what a pack contains. In each suit this means three of the 13 cards, among which is one of the four faces.

Thus, a player is entitled to a face and two other cards in each suit. If he is the first to mention the suit he says he has more than he is entitled to in that suit; that is, four cards with two faces.

The true basis for a biddable suit, therefore, is the queen and jack with two small, as-tar-ex-treme minimum. Anything less than that is simply the whim or opinion that is not substantiated by proof.

For the purpose of using longer suits as biddable, use two cards in place of any face. Thus, the true minimum basis of longer suits is five cards with one face or any six cards.

Players are they are who will bid a suit of four cards that may contain only one face, an ace king or queen or jack. When they do you now know they are not mathematically correct.

Look at your south hand shown here:

♠K J 8 5
♥A K 6
♦A 7
♣K 10 8 5

Note that your club suit is not biddable. Only one face in it. The spade suit is biddable. Among its four cards are two face cards.

You might like to bid the club suit despite the fact that it is not truly biddable. Nobody can stop you. But say you do it because you like it. Don't go around saying it is correct.

The goofiest goof can snicker at proof.

Movie Column

By BOB THOMAS

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — "If you notice the background music in a movie, then it's not a good score."

This old saw now can be relegated to the file of outdated cliches along with "What this country needs is a good 5-cent cigar."

It isn't true, says one of filmdom's most accomplished composers, David Raksin.

"I agree with William Wyler, who has told me that the music can amount to one-third of the effectiveness of a movie," he remarked. "Consciously or unconsciously, the movie fan is aware of the music in a picture, and the emotional experience is heightened by it. I have seen pictures that could have been much more successful with more music.

"On the other hand, there are scenes which are better without scoring. I can recall in 'Sunday' there was a shot of the horse rearing and making a great deal of noise. I pleaded with the producer, Robert Rossiter, that it did not need music.

MUSIC WENT UNNOTICED

"But he insisted and so I wrote the loudest piece of music I could. It was so loud and in keeping with the action that it wasn't noticed! That was the perfect tribute."

Raksin has just finished the score for "Apache," and he promises it will be as sexy as any heard in films. How does he do it? With an ancient instrument called the recorder.

"It's actually obsolete," said the composer, "but it's enjoying a comeback now. I play it myself."

FITTED INTO STORY

"I needed some kind of instrument for a love scene in the woods with Burt Lancaster and Jean Peters. The recorder was perfect. It has a very sexy sound with an outdoorsy quality. It is also the closest thing to the Indian zinke flute, so it fits right into the story, which concerns an unregenerate Indian."

"Too many of the producers are going back to the safe-and-sure standard scores," said the composer. "It's typical of the thinking of Hollywood today — going after the proven formula."

MISSIONARY DIES

PENANG, Malaya (Reuters)—The first Christian missionary attacked by terrorists in the six-year-old jungle war against the Reds died Tuesday in Penang hospital. Brother Symporien, 63, a native of France, was shot Monday by a terrorist gang who raided. Br. Frances Xavier's holiday bungalow in the hills outside Penang where he served as the assistant director.

Gives Ten Reasons For Resistance to Red China in U.N.

Henry Cabot Lodge, U.S. ambassador to the United Nations, is shown, as he addressed publishers and editors attending the 46th annual convention of the American Newspaper Publishers Association in New York. Mr. Lodge said that Red China is "unfit" for membership in the United Nations and listed 10 basic reasons for barring Peking from the world body. One of the 10 was "because it (Red China) continues to support aggression in Indo-China, by giving substantial aid and by furnishing advisers and technicians to the Viet Minh forces." — Central Press Canadian.

AT THE McCARTHY.

Movie star Robert Douglas, featured with co-Stars Alan Ladd and Shelley Winters in Universal-International's Technicolor adventure "Saskatchewan" now playing at the McCarthy Theatre, says he enjoys being mean on the screen.

Douglas has established his movie reputation portraying the more brutal side of life. And the meaner he gets, the more he works. He says he decided to spend his screen life being a rotter a number of years ago while working as a young actor on the London stage.

"It was a tough period in the theatre at that time," he says. "And the only three actors in London who were drinking their tea and getting their crumpets regularly were specialists in 'heavy' roles. Juvenile leads and drawing-room heroes seemed to have an eternally hungry look on their faces."

Douglas has colored the phrase "twirl-heavy" to describe his type of acting—specializing in those roles in which he seems on the surface to get away with it until the ending when the audience suddenly discovers he's "somewhat" of a cad.

"That's when they hate me," he says, "when I've taken advantage of them and fooled them."

Featured with Douglas, who plays a Royal Canadian Northwest Mounted Police officer in "Saskatchewan", are J. Carrol Naish, Hugh O'Brien, Richard Long, Jay Silverheels and Antonio Moreno. Raoul Walsh directed and Aaron Rosenberg produced the picture which was "shot" in its entirety in the Canadian Rockies.

DRIVE-IN THEATRE

"Million Dollar Mermaid"

Esther Williams here is very appropriately cast in the central role of this musical biography of Annette Kellerman, Australian born beauty who won fame and fortune throughout the world at the turn of the century for her swimming feats. The film traces her rise to fame, from Sydney, to London, Boston, the New York Hippodrome and Hollywood where she publicized the one-piece bathing suit. Victoria Mature portrays her true love who also was her manager. Walter Pidgeon plays her father. Musical numbers and water ballets highlight the film, also "The Prowler."

COSTLY SCHOOLS

LONDON (CP)—County council officials announced more than £3,600,000 will be spent on new secondary and primary schools in 1953-56.

Dulles Leaves For Last-Minute Strategy Talks

By MAX HARRELSON

PARIS (AP) — State Secretary Dulles of the United States flew toward Paris today for a meeting of the North Atlantic Treaty Organization and last-minute strategy talks on the coming Geneva Far East conference.

An informed U.S. source here said flatly that the U.S. will stand by its decision to oppose an expected Russian move to turn the Geneva meeting into a "Big Five" conference with Red China, even if such opposition breaks up the conference.

Leaving Washington Tuesday night, Dulles implied this would be his stand. He reiterated that U.S. participation at Geneva "does not imply our diplomatic recognition of Red China." The U.S. insists that the Peiping regime is an invited participant, not a full power instigator of the meeting starting April 26.

The U.S. diplomat said he is going to Geneva to seek an "honorable" peace in Indo-China and a free, united Korea."

Dulles planned to see Foreign Minister Bidault tonight at a private dinner. It is expected that Bidault will report on the Indo-China situation and how to deal with it at Geneva will be up to Washington.

BIG THREE MEETING

Foreign Secretary Eden arrives from London late Thursday, U.S. sources said. They said the Big Three will meet at least one Big Three meeting before the departure for Geneva of Dulles, Eden and Bidault.

A major procedural problem will be up for debate at Geneva with agree to let Moscow-backed Ho Chi Minh leader of the rebel Vietminh fighting the French in Indo-China, sit in at the Geneva conference as a full country. The U.S. is unechoed to be opposed to this, but not to the extent of breaking up the conference over it.

Police Recover Poison Liquor

COMMANDA, Ont. (CP)—RCMP said Tuesday night they are convinced they have recovered all of the missing Canadian liquor that almost killed a Toronto man last week.

Constable William Stroud said quantities of liquor found Monday night still could be loose in the city. But constable Stroud said the only poisonous liquor that could be involved has been given by Stadyck to William Makaryniuk, 32, before he left for Toronto recently.

Makaryniuk is recovering in a Toronto hospital. He was charged with having illicit spirits. Stadyck was charged under the Excise Act with possession of a still.

Pearson Lunches With Eden

LONDON (CP) — External Affairs Minister Pearson of Canada, accompanied by the Canadian high commissioner, Norman Robertson, lunched today with Foreign Secretary Eden at the latter's official residence.

It was the second engagement in a crowded schedule arranged out for Pearson, who arrived in London by air Tuesday on his way to Paris and Geneva for international conferences.

Pearson was among the guests at a Tuesday night dinner given by Robertson in Mayfair. Others attending included Eden and Field Marshal Earl Alexander, Britain's defence minister, and former governor-general of Canada.

Richard Casey, Australia's minister of foreign affairs, also attended. "We talked shop," Casey later told reporters.

Pearson planned to fly to Paris later Wednesday to confer with foreign ministers starting Friday —Pearson's 57th birthday.

CLOSED PANEL

The entire first day's session was given over to closed panel discussions on newspaper problems.

These general trends developed in the discussions:

The publishers foresaw little likelihood of any increase in the price of newspapers to the reader in the near future, but felt an eventual increase was inevitable.

General sentiment was against printing names of juveniles arrested for crimes, but some publishers reported an increasing disposition by law enforcement officers to have such names printed as a deterrent to curb an upswing in youthful lawbreaking.

On the question of letters to the editor, the general sentiment was to edit them only for reasons of space or to eliminate bad taste.

Country publishers said they sometimes were under pressure from local merchants to desist advertising from out of town merchants in a competitive position. Majority, but not unanimous, opinion was that such advertising should be accepted.

TORONTO (CP) — Mrs. Doris Martyn, 32, charged with murder in the death of one of her four children last October, pleaded guilty Tuesday to a charge of manslaughter and was remanded to April 23 for sentence.

Dancers Charge Actor Bit Them On the Thigh

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Two dancers have asked the courts to put the bite on Sonny Tufts for damages exceeding $20,000. Both charge the actor bit them on the thigh.

His latest accuser is Miss Marion Yon, 22, who filed a complaint Tuesday stating that her bite was made while aboard a yacht anchored off Balboa.

Miss Yon, wearing a bathing suit, said Tufts was drunk before he bit her right leg, she said. The result: a three-inch contusion, cost her $250 medical bill and $125 a week she said in demanding $25,000.

Last March 20 Tufts was similarly sued by Barbara Gray Akins for $25,000, in her case, the complaint said, the bite took place while she was reclining on a couch in Tufts' home.

Tufts was divorced in 1952.

75 Flee From Flames In Saint John Slums

SAINT JOHN, N. B. (CP) — Fire swept the north end today as fire raced through two east-end slum tenements.

There were no injuries as the fire jumped through the three-storey wooden structures on St. Patrick street, out of control for two hours. Both buildings were badly gutted.

Sixteen families lived in the buildings in the crowded housing area. For a time the spears of flame threatened a third building and these were evacuated as a safety measure.

There was no immediate estimate of damage.

EARLY OPENING

NIAGARA FALLS, Ont. (CP)—The famed Maid of the Mist steamboats will go into operation on the Niagara river earlier than usual this year. Prevailing fine weather spurred preparatory work on the boats and landings, which usually open some time in May.

Dying Woman Tells Judge About Abortion

MONTREAL (CP)—A Montreal judge Tuesday convened a preliminary hearing in an abortion case in the hospital room of a 39-year-old widow whom doctors said might not live 48 hours.

While Joseph A. Chartrand, 68-year-old laborer stood handcuffed at the foot of the bed, the wan dark-haired woman said Chartrand performed an illegal operation on her April 13 and 15 for $100.

The woman was admitted to hospital April 15.

Court clerk Paul-Emile Noel bent over her, placing his ear next to her face to hear her faint answers to questions put to her by the prosecution.

In the middle of the testimony a nurse attended the woman. A doctor was in the room throughout the hearing.

The preliminary hearing, not normally heard until one week after arraignment, was hurriedly called when doctors said the woman was in critical condition and might not survive.

Many Sponged Upon Relatives Of War Dead

TRINDALE, Ont. (CP) — Maj.-Gen. J. H. Roberts, former chief administrative officer of the imperial war graves commission, said Tuesday night Canadian relatives of war dead have been victimized by unscrupulous European.

"Some of our allies were sincere but too many managed to get in touch with next-of-kin and after explaining they were short of coffee, food or clothing, told a glowing story of what they were doing to a son's or father's grave," he told in an interview.

"These people were a constant headache to the commission," he said. "To many of them it was strictly a matter of personal gain."

He said, however, that there were many sincere French, Belgian, Dutch and German citizens who did tend veterans' graves under the official cemeteries authorities could assume operations after the war.

Admitted Red Was Top Aide At Los Alamos

Prof. David Hawkins of Boulder, Colo., has admitted Communist party membership until shortly before he went to work on the U.S. A-bomb project as top aide to Dr. J. Robert Oppenheimer at Los Alamos. Hawkins had access to virtually all the A-bomb secrets while at Los Alamos. As administrative chief there, he wrote the security regulations which imposed rigid restrictions on all personnel involved in the 1943 A-bomb development. The charges on which Oppenheimer is now facing a security probe before a special atomic energy commission panel include mention of Hawkins as one of five Communists the scientist was allegedly responsible for hiring. — Central Press Canadian.

Ontario Will 'Import' 500 British Teachers

TORONTO (CP) — Five hundred teachers from Britain are to come to Ontario next year to teach in primary schools, J. M. Watson, secretary of the Ontario School Trustees' and Ratepayers' Association, said Tuesday.

Mr. Watson said an Ontario government official now is in Britain "where he will screen and place teachers for positions in Ontario."

The Trustees' and Ratepayers' Association is meeting here in conjunction with the Ontario Educational Association convention.

General Motors Earned 585 Million Dollars Last Year

By DAVID J. WILKIE

DETROIT (AP)— Forty - six years ago William C. Durant merged Buick Motor Car Co. and Oldsmobile to create General Motors Co. The company, dealing exclusively in automobiles, earned $10,000,000 in its first year.

Last year General Motors Corp., its original two divisions grown to nearly two score, did a gross business of more than $10,000,000,000 and earned more than $585,000,000.

To most persons General Motors means automobiles. Last year it built approximately 46 per cent of all the motor vehicles produced in the United States. It turned out 2,219,440 Buick, Cadillac, Chevrolet, Oldsmobile and Pontiac cars and Chevrolet and GMC trucks.

But from its numerous other divisions came such things as ice boxes, automatic home heating equipment, clothes dryers, bicycle coaster brakes, electric mixers and dozens of other products.

Employment in GM plants last year averaged 551,000 persons. These workers received $2,626,302,048 in wages. Hourly-rated workers averaged $92.27 in weekly pay. The corporation paid $1,250,000,000 in taxes.

CANADIAN GM FORMED

When Durant brought Buick and Oldsmobile together in 1908 he was generally credited with an ambition to control all motor car production. In 1909 Oakland (now Pontiac Motors) and Cadillac joined GM. Shortly afterward General Motors Export Co. and GM's truck company were organized.

In 1913 General Motors of Canada was formed. In 1918 Chevrolet joined, following year Fisher Body was absorbed and the corporation organized Public Corp.

Today the corporation has 121 plants in 37 communities in 19 states. It has five plants in Canada and manufacturing operations in 17 other countries.

BURMESE SCORE SUCCESS

RANGOON (AP)—The Burmese Army has announced it has captured a key stronghold command-ing a supply route into southern Thailand from Karen rebels and their Chinese Nationalist guerrilla allies. The army said troops operating in the northern Moulmein coastal strip had seized the town of Myawadi as part of a drive launched early in April to clear the area of the rebel Burmese tribesmen and the Chinese.

'Bush Madness' Cause of Hunter Taking Life

HUNTSVILLE (CP) — Joseph Tanacs, 36-year-old hunter, apparently was struck by "bush madness" and committed suicide after wandering for two days and nights in rough country, searchers who found his body said Tuesday night.

Coroner Dr. J. D. Davies of Huntsville said Tanacs apparently shot himself in the temple after being lost in the bush since Friday. Tanacs' body was found early yesterday.

"There is no suggestion of foul play," the coroner said. "The trackers have searched the area intensively and there is no sign of foreign footprints anywhere near the area."

William Etherington, a conservation officer and one of the men who found the body, said:

"You could see where he had travelled by night from the way he stumbled, slipped and tripped over logs. He seemed to have been hit by bush madness and was thundering through thick underbrush in a way no clear - thinking man would."

Tanacs, a Hungarian immigrant who lived in Toronto, was first reported to have been drowned when he crashed through ice on a swamp near Huntsville, about 130 miles north of Toronto.

Millard Critical Of Gold Mining Probe Procedure

TORONTO (CP) — C. H. Millard, Canadian director of the United Steelworkers of America CIO-CCL, said today that the Ontario government is not keeping faith with the miners and the communities of northern Ontario in the appointment of a fact-finding committee to investigate economic conditions in the gold mining industry.

He said in a statement that the union has withheld comment since the committee was appointed March 22, until it was ascertained what procedures the committee would follow.

"We are now told that all meetings of the committee will be in private and all representations will be held in private.

"We regard these decisions as a direct contradiction of the terms of settlement of the strike signed by the Hon. Charles Daley, minister of Labor," he said.

Sidney Township Residents Vote To Remain 'Dry'

Reject Sale of Beer, Wine And Liquor With Meals

Violets Wither As Martha Raye Hunts Preacher

ARLINGTON, Va. (AP) — Widemouthed Martha Raye of TV-movie fame was arrested today clutching a bunch of bedraggled violets, wilted by a hectic day of scurrying about trying to find a spot for a quick wedding. A planned ceremony in Maryland was stymied by a law requiring a 48-hour waiting period.

Edward Thomas Begley, 30-year-old dancer on her television show, became the fifth husband of the shapely comedienne. It was his first marriage. Miss Raye gave her age as 37.

The double ring wedding was performed in the Arlington county courthouse by Dr. Arthur L. Maiden, counsellor of the juvenile bureau, a retired minister. Cliff Eastman, a talent scout, was the best man and his wife was the bride's attendant.

Residents of Sidney township voted decisively Wednesday against the sale of beer and wine with meals and against the sale of liquor under a dining room license, also for consumption with meals.

In a special plebiscite held in the township yesterday the two questions were carried out by the about 68 per cent of the voters who cast ballots. The vote was comparatively light with only about 21 per cent of the 4,854 eligible voters going to the polls.

The number of votes cast was 2,213 with 1,793 voting against the sale of beer and wine, and 1,776 voting against the sale of liquor with meals. Affirmative votes for the first question totalled 837 and for the second question 858. Spoiled ballots were particularly numerous with a total of 238 being recorded, 194 on the first question and 164 on the second.

BEVERAGE ROOMS NOT ISSUE

Beverage rooms were not an issue in yesterday's vote in the township, with only the sale of liquors with meals being decided. The vote was asked by R. E. Bernier, proprietor of the Dutch Mill Inn at Trenton.

The first question read: "Are you in favor of the sale of beer and wine only under a dining room license for consumption with meals on a licensed premises?"

The second question was: "Are you in favor of the sale of liquor under a dining lounge license for consumption with meals on a licensed premises?"

Tabulation of the votes in Sidney township will be found on Page 2.

Strategy Said Being Guided By Former Nazi

FLENSBURG, Germany (AP)— A former high Nazi SS (Elite Guard) commander is reported guiding Communist strategy in the battle of Dien Bien Phu, a German who fought for the French there Wednesday night.

Horst Lemke, who left Dien Bien Phu last month after five years as a French foreign legionnaire, said "everybody knows Ahmet his name. He is chief of staff for rebel General Giap. But nobody is certain who he is.

"He is known as Schroeder. They say he really is Field Marshal Schoerner. That could be true."

Field Marshal Ferdinand Schoerner earned a reputation for ruthlessness while he marched his army up from non-commissioned officer to top rank in World War I. He tried to carry on the fight in Czechoslovakia after the German surrender, fell into U. S. hands and was turned over to the Soviet army.

French Reported Trying to Slow Down Supplies

PARIS (AP)—The French high command is reported using artificial rainfall over North Viet Nam China to slow down Vietminh supplies to the battle zone around Dien Bien Phu.

The French figure the start of the annual monsoon downpours, due by the end of the month, will slow the delivery of Red China convoys from Communist China.

Non-Communist Saigon today quoted French military sources as saying: "Experiments to provoke artificial rain on Communist communications centres have been carried out by the French command in north Viet-nam. First results have been encouraging."

What was done was not disclosed. Presumably planes fed rain clouds with chemicals.

British Teacher Import Proposal Is Given Backing

Men Teachers' Group Backs Ontario Plan

HAMILTON (CP)—The Ontario Public School Men Teachers' Federation says it is all in favor of a government plan to bring in 500 teachers from Britain to alleviate the teacher shortage in the province.

The federation's provincial executive in a two-day session, said it recognized the teacher emergency and supported the government of education in its effort to meet the schools. However, it objected to the debasement of certificates for each type of training.

Federation members asked in a resolution that teachers from countries outside Canada not be granted a permanent certificate unless they are British subjects. The recommendation is to be presented to the Ontario Teachers' Federation for consideration later this week.

OPPOSE STRIKE ACTION

The Federation, which represents about 4,700 teachers in Ontario, dealt with several matters, in one resolution it went on record as being opposed to strike action under any circumstances. A move by some members to have the existing statement of policy regarding strike action withdrawn was defeated by a large majority.

D. W. Diebel of Hamilton said there was nothing wrong through out the federation on the different teachers' associations' attitude on strike action.

"Mass resignation involves the termination of contract at the proper time. Strike action involves the curtailment of services other than the time in the contract for negotiations. There is a great distinction between the two."

Secretary-treasurer Wm Davies said the trustees council executive during recent years has been opposed to the idea of the termination of contracts because of the opportunity it gives teachers to offer mass resignation at an inopportune time for the school boards.

Vietminh Getting Steady Supply Of War Material

HANOI (AP) — Hundreds of big trucks heavily loaded with war material are rumbling over the northern Indo - Chinese frontier every day to keep supplies flowing to the Communist-led Vietminh's attack upon the French Union forces at Dien Bien Phu.

A highly qualified French Army source said Wednesday night that the flow of supplies to the rebels is being pushed over the border every day from the Chinese.

Chinese drivers are piloting the big trucks into northern Indo-China where four of every five turned over to Vietminh operators to complete the journey to Dien Bien Phu.

Most of the war material is coming of Indo-China's Vietminh capital of Langson, 80 miles north of here and 250 miles northeast of Dien Bien Phu.

Despite the long haul and frequent French air attacks, the Red supply gaps in the roads and destroying some of the convoys, the vital war supply appears to be getting through to the army of Indo-China's Vietminh concentrated in the low-lying jungle-covered hills surrounding the French fortress.

Russian, Chinese Security Officers Do Not Want Barbed Wire Barricades

GENEVA, Switzerland (AP) — Swiss soldiers began stringing flesh-ripping barbed wire around the fancy lakeside villas reserved for Communist delegates to next week's conference on Korea, and Indo-China here in Geneva.

Today they started taking the wire down.

Russian security officers decided they didn't want the barricade around the southern estate which will house Foreign Minister Molotov.

When the Chinese heard that, they decided they also didn't want such protection for Premier-Foreign Minister Chou En-lai.

The Swiss already had put up the wire wall along the most exposed side of Chou's future home.

Reporters said the handsome property looked like a concentration camp.

The North Koreans couldn't be reached for comment. They asked the Swiss not to start the wire work at their house, but they let them know their final decision later.

The barricades were part of the elaborate security precautions the Swiss are taking to guard the conference delegations. Two battalions of motorized Swiss troops arrived Wednesday to reinforce Geneva police.

Eastern and Western delegates already are pouring into Geneva for the conference opening Monday. Most of the principals is on the scene yet.

Gen. Reber Says McCarthy And Cohn Repeatedly Sought Army Commission for Schine

By G. MILTON KELLY

WASHINGTON (AP)—Maj.-Gen. Miles Reber testified today that Senator Joseph McCarthy (Rep., Wis.) and Roy Cohn repeatedly pressed him for an officer's commission for G. David Schine, committee counsellor eventually drafted into the army as a private.

During the period from July 17 to July 31 of last year, Reber said, he received a series of about two telephone calls a day from Cohn, chief counsel to McCarthy, regarding Schine. Reber said there also were "two or three calls" from either Cohn and that during the senator had called him to his office to talk about a commission for Schine.

At that time, Reber was the army's liaison officer with Congress. He now is commanding general of U.S. Army troops in the western European area.

Reber, on the hot-seat witness as long-heralded hearings began on the stormy row between McCarthy and top Army Department officials.

The dispute turns on the contention McCarthy and his assistants sought to "improper" and "illegal" preferred treatment for Schine and suggested their own investigation of the army motive be eased if this was done.

CHARGES INTERVENTION

Flying high, McCarthy asserts that the charges were designed to interfere with the Red investigation of communism in the army, and (B) an investigation of what he termed "homosexual and other sex-law violations" by H. Struve Hensel, assistant secretary of defense.

At the outset of the televised hearings, Senator Mundt (R., S.D.) ruled that since the formal complaint against McCarthy was not then before the committee, the point of order could not be raised at that time. He said McCarthy could bring it up again later if he chose.

Appearing in uniform, Reber testified under protest from McCarthy that it was "hearsay" evidence.

LACKED QUALIFICATIONS

Reber said the army transportation corps, the provost marshal and the office of the chief of psychological warfare all found that Schine lacked qualifications for a commission and that after the three units.

Reber related that after Schine was turned down for an army commission McCarthy asked Reber to see whether a commission could be obtained in the air force or the navy.

Reber said the air force was not interested because it was one directly from civilian life while the navy's requirements were substantially the same as those for the army.

Ray Jenkins, special counsel for the committee, began a cross-examination of Reber.

Jenkins brought out that Reber received many telephone calls with reference to inductees and prospective inductees, Congressmen and representatives and others.

Jenkins asked whether Reber felt at any time that McCarthy was "high pressuring" him as to Schine.

NO HIGH PRESSURE

Reber said he hadn't felt McCarthy was "high pressuring me to any great extent" but had "felt pressure from all sides in an unfavorable answer."

Mundt declared that "the reputations, the actions and perhaps the integrity of responsible public officials" were at issue.

Mundt pledged the sub-committee would "follow the evidence wherever it leads."

He said the sub-committee would seek to determine the truth in the charges and counter-charges between McCarthy and army officials.

Geneva Conference Plans Being Drafted by Big Three

By MAX HARRELSON

PARIS (AP) — The foreign ministers of the Western Big Three continued meetings here today to put their plans for the Geneva conference in final form.

State Secretary Dulles and Foreign Minister Bidault got together Wednesday night and Dulles and the U.S. chief diplomat arrived from Washington, talks on the problems which will come up at the Far East conference opening Monday.

Foreign Secretary Eden was due by late Thursday to rejoin the discussion at the French foreign office immediately after his arrival by plane from London today.

Earlier today, the diplomats met chiefs conferred with their chief advisers, working out the detailed proposals they will present to Communist delegates.

Most of the war material is coming of Indo-China's Vietminh capital of Langson, 80 miles north of here and 250 miles northeast of Dien Bien Phu.

Despite the long haul and frequent French air attacks and trip-ping gaps in the roads and destroying some of the convoys, the vital war supply appears to be getting through to the army of Indo-China's Vietminh concentrated in the low-lying jungle-covered hills surrounding the French fortress.

'Monster' Quiet, Plan to Bury 'Noise' at Sea

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — Bellatrix Mundt Wednesday for the "monster of Montgomery street" as quiet Nov. 22 was laid to rest at San Francisco's financial district after four months.

The monster, a giant pile driver nicknamed Alfred, spilt the air with a deafening roar at 7 a.m. each noon.

The last steel pile of nearly 500, on which will rest a new 25-story building, had been driven to bedrock.

A red box labelled "the monster" was placed in a crevice by pilebearers, workers in the district, to a waiting automobile club spokesman. Inside were appropriate speeches briefly.

It described several vocalists burst into "Happy Days are Here Again" as the automobile with the red box pulled away. The box was placed aboard a steamship bound for Honolulu, destination where hewers here and Honolulu.

it answers a Soviet note sent only to the U.S., Britain and France. The NATO foreign ministers are being informed every time since the Soviet move directly concerns the organization.

The NATO meeting is expected to be limited to a review of world problems, including those to be taken up at Geneva. It gives the NATO ministers a chance to meet for pre-Geneva consultations on the Indo-China war. It is also expected to go on to Geneva as representatives of United Nations countries to be sent troops to Korea.

The NATO group also is expected to take up the Indo-China problem in the light of reports here between the French Union and the Communist-led Vietminh rebels to establish the organization's region of responsibility. Effects of the Indo-China war on the joint defence efforts throughout the NATO and the NATO allies approved a resolution two years ago to give all support possible to the French in their fight to keep Indo-China out of Communist hands.

Amid these intensified international activities, France continues negotiations with Viet Nam on independence within the French Union for that Indo-Chinese state.

Identify Davies As a Former Red Leader

Boston Plumber Says His Name Is Shohan

OTTAWA (CP)—Montreal writer Raymond Arthur Davies, charged with giving false information to secure a Canadian passport, has been identified as a native of Russia and a top U.S. Communist in 1928-30.

Mendel Shohan, 63-year-old Boston plumber, testified Wednesday at the opening of the left-wing writer's trial in county court here that Davies is his nephew. "Rudia Shohan," who went to Boston from Russia in 1913, with his father, Nathn, and his step-mother.

William G. Nowlan of Detroit, who said he broke with the Communist party in 1936 after seven years, told the court Davies was known to him as Shohan, a leader of the U.S. Young Communist League.

MET IN CLEVELAND

He said he met him at a 1929 convention of the Trade Union Unity League at Cleveland, O., and again in 1930 at the seventh national convention of the U.S. Communist party, held in New York City at the old opera house near Union square.

"I would said he saw his nephew frequently until 1930 and 1931 when Shohan was a leader of 50,000 people."

Davies has the same facial expression, the same characteristics" as Rudia, he said during cross-examination by Crown prosecutor Peter Newcombe of Ottawa. "The eyes are the same. Dared stood him is his body. He has, become stout."

The crown claims Davies is Rudolph Shohan, that he was born in Russia and came to the United States in 1921. He was arrested near Windsor, Ont., in June, 1952 and charged with stating in a 1936 application for a Canadian passport that he was Raymond Arthur Davies, a British subject born in Montreal in 1903.

DISAGREED WITH PARTY

Mr. Nowell, who said he was once likewise a member of the party in the Michigan district, had heard through party channels that Shohan came from Russia. He said he left the party in 1936 because he disagreed with "the whole thing," but he did not make his break public until 1939.

Other witnesses called by special crown prosecutor J. J. Robinette, Toronto lawyer, included Percy Goodwin, former head of the identification bureau in Youngstown, O. He said fingerprints taken from Mendel Shohan in 1930 were identical to those taken in 1931 from a man who signed his name Rudia Shohan.

RCMP inspector Joseph Vachon, another fingerprint expert, said the two sets of fingerprints are, "beyond any doubt," from the same man.

Hundreds of Fish Turn Up Dead On Lake Shore

OTTAWA (CP) — Hundreds of fish turned up dead on the shore of suburban McKay Lake Wednesday, apparently the victim of a "winter kill"—depletion of oxygen content in the water, said Norman Smith, provincial fisheries biologist for the provincial lands and forests department.

He explained that winter kills of fish are quite common in some small lakes. They are caused by the decomposition and stagnation of vegetation in the lake, resulting in a depletion of oxygen in the lake's reserved water.

When the winter is long and ice does not break up early, no fresh oxygen can get in the water and replenish the oxygen supply.

Cunning Gall Panhandles From Police

HARTLEPOOL, England (AP)— A man on a pleasure visit to Britain for a few weeks has been locked in jail by a British court for 15 months.

The gull limps down the street, apparently unable to fly. Soon a bird-lover picks him up and takes him to the police station. The police find him while awaiting aid from the Royal Society for Prevention of Cruelty to Animals.

G. W. Spencer, an inspector for the society, recognized the winged beggar from a spot of green paint on its plumage.

Perhaps by now that he can expect this meal at the police station," Spencer said. "He won't fly until he has stuffed himself full of their bread and butter."

Special Classes For Gifted Pupils Are Advocated

ATOMVILLE (CP)—A psychologist says municipalities should provide special classes for unusually gifted school children, in the same way care is given juvenile delinquents and mentally retarded children.

Dr. Agatha Sidlauskas of Ottawa University said Wednesday that gifted children needed special attention in their early years. They can easily be ruined long before they reach maturity.

She spoke before the annual meeting of the Ontario French Canadian Association.

Children with superior intelligence often are blind to what goes on around them because their little heads are working all the time, Dr. Sidlauskas said.

A U. S. high commission official, Dr. MacDermott, said at a press conference that after surrendering, the three men gave a "comprehensive picture of Soviet activities as well as general information on the West."

DATA CHECKED

McDermott said the evidence has been the subject of world-wide investigations by U. S. security officers.

"It was their choice to stay in the East any longer," he said. "I have served 5 years in one of the secret departments of Soviet intelligence."

Prince Charles and Princess Anne Greeted by Huge Crowds at Malta

VALLETTA, Malta (AP) — Prince Charles and Princess Anne, the nine worse for their first sea voyage, were given a royal welcome the bridge today as the royal yacht Britannia nosed to a mooring in Malta.

Huge crowds, including flag-waving school children, thronged every vantage point to greet the royal children. It was their first stop on their journey to meet the Queen and the Duke of Edinburgh at Tobruk.

The little prince and princess will stay here about six days and will probably go to the beach. Their first visit ashore will be to the historic fortress city of Mdina to uncle, Admiral Earl Mountbatten, commander of the British Mediterranean fleet, and Countess Mountbatten.

Meanwhile, aboard the royal liner Gothic in the Indian ocean, the Queen and duke steamed today at 17 knots from Ceylon to Aden. There they will leave the Gothic and fly the Queen to Tobruk to join their children.

Pat Belnap of Station Street has entered the select circle of those holding perfect cribbage hands. The other night playing with his daughter, Doreen, he was dealt three fives and the Jack of hearts. When the cards were cut, up popped the five of hearts and he was home free. Perfect cribbage hands are hard to obtain, many playing their entire life without having the thrill.

Has Anyone Seen 'Spooky'?

If any one has seen "spooky" will you please return him to his home at 96 Pine Street.

"Spooky" is a handsome cat, so named because of his gravish-black resemblance to the mythical "ghost".

Mac Minty, "Spooky's" owner does not believe that the big fellow has wandered off, because he is very clever, for he can't open doors, nor does he know where to get it.

"Spooky" disappeared week-ago when Mrs. Minty took him to a residence on Foster Avenue to stay for the week-end while the Minty's were away. The lady who took charge of the cat said he ate a good meal, licked his whiskers in appreciation and walked away. He has not been seen since.

So if any one knows of "spooky" whereabouts please get in touch with Mac Minty at 96 Pine Street. The big lovable family pet is being sorely missed.

Canoeists Throw Scare into Crowd Shooting Rapids

Two young teen-agers demonstrating their skill as canoeists threw a scare into several city residents last Tuesday night when they were seen being buffeted about in the rapids of the Moira River.

The canoe was first seen in the College Street area by a resident who, thinking they were in trouble called the police department. Police in turn called firemen but the teen-agers required no assistance and paddled ashore after successfully "shooting the rapids".

Police stressed the dangers of running the rapids of the river during the high run-off period stating that an upset canoe could easily lead to tragedy.

Board Acquires New Clerk Of Works for School

The hearing of delegations at the weekly regular meeting of the Bay of Quinte district high school board took up so much time that almost no business appeared for the evening was carried out and another meeting next week will be called to conduct routine affairs.

Mr. F. W. Hewat was named clerk of the works to act during the construction period of the new Quinte District high school on College street. He will assume his duties April 26th. Mr. Hewat was named to replace Kevin Cahill, who had been on the job for two and a half months but recently turned in his resignation to accept a position with the United States government on a defence construction project.

Board members were asked to give consideration to the formation of an air cadet corps at the new Quinte District high school. A delegation consisting of Flt. Lt. Marchman, representing the Air Cadet League of Canada, and Squadron Leader Ireland of the R.C.A.F. addressed the meeting asking consideration be given to the formation of an air cadet corps.

POISON BULLET

The switch here followed sensational headlines in the West as two Soviet diplomats in 1954 in a pattern set eight years ago by Igor Gouzenko, a cipher clerk in the Soviet embassy in Ottawa.

TRAINING DESCRIBED

Correspondents were given a 25-page document describing the assassination plot. This document said:

The three were taken to Moscow for special training. They were shown photographs of Oktolvitch, described as "a Russian very dangerous to the Soviet Union and to East Germany."

Their instructors were specially silenced, electrically fired pistols and other devices which fired poisoned lead pellets were the concealment of a dummy cigaret case.

Khokhov was given the mission by his chief in Moscow, a colonel Studenikov.

Khokhov flew to Berlin last November under the name of Captain Yegorov, and Shevchenko, a two East Germans, both Germans born in his assistants.

Nov. 10, the three flew back to Moscow, where they were taken to a house somewhere in a birch fence on the outskirts of the city.

The three returned to Germany Dec. 19 and received, at the Russian High Commission headquarters in Karlshorst, false identity cards and Soviet zone visas for Austria. On Dec. 21 Khokhov returned to Moscow and then flew to Vienna.

ASSASSINATION HELD UP

Then they were told to hold up the assassination because Moscow did not want any political killing during the Berlin Big Four conference.

On Feb. 12 the two Germans met the captain in Zurich and drove to Berlin with their weapons concealed in a special compartment built into the car battery. They arrived in Frankfurt Feb. 17.

Feb. 18, Khokhov went to Oktolvitch and told him the whole story. Oktolvitch immediately called the American authorities. Two days later the MVD officer appealed for asylum and promised full cooperation.

ARRANGED SURRENDER

Khokhov arranged a rendezvous Feb. 28 with Oktolvitch's parents to persuade them to turn themselves over to American authorities. They were willing to give the American security service and readily agreed to co-operate.

Later the same day U. S. authorities picked up the weapons in the check room of a Frankfurt main railway station, where they had been checked on Khokhov's instructions.

The document handed out at the press conference said that Khokhov had also given U. S. agents information on the role played by the MVD in Berlin in the kidnaping of Dr. Walter Linse, a leading German anti-Communist lawyer who was snatched from his apartment in the line of duty.

The recruitment and despatch of agents from Karlshorst (Soviet High Commission headquarters) to West Germany for subversive and sabotage activity.

Ex-Mayor's Motion Draws Criticism from Councillor

TRENTON, (Special.)

resolution drafted by ex-mayor Kenneth J. Couch for the Trenton Retail Merchants drew unfavorable criticism from councillor Gerald Weaver. The merchants waited on a Chamber of Commerce letterhead made the following request to council:

That the retail merchants request the mayor and council that land values be decided so that parks board be left under the jurisdiction of the parks board including all the land reclaimed and beautified by the said parks board."

Councillor Weave perused the resolution and remarked: "If the merchants are foolish enough to submit this resolution that's their business." He referred to ap, sealer - resolution from the Chamber of Commerce accepted by the parks board whereby the parks directory proposed to take in the close Albert Street to the government dock area and permit parking on the north side of pieces of land north of the Trenton Park west. Councillor Weaver indicated that the one resolution contradicted the other.

It appears that the move to convert the north side of Quinte Street into a downtown parking lot will die a natural death. The investigations found the property owners in the main unco-operative.

3 RD. MAY BE MOVED.

One thing has the Mayor and Council worried. It was a report from the Chamber of Commerce that No. 8 Repair Depot RCAF is definitely moving from the Quinte District. The Chamber asked the council for prompt action in an effort to stop the move if possible. Chamber of Commerce President Goldberg disclosed that the move would mean the transfer of 700 RCAF personnel and their families. If that happens it's certainly going to be an awful "loss," he told Goldberg said. Councillor Weaver seemed not too concerned about the situation, counselling caution with a report that when the depot moves out the maintenance depot is moving in.

He spoke of the move as being a rumor for some time. He informed council that the depot's new location might be in Toronto area. Mr. Goldberg felt that something could be done to offset the proposed move. He thought that the Toronto people's attitude about planes flying over residential areas since the Moose Jaw air disaster might help in favor of the repair depot being kept near Trenton.

On a request from the Chamber of Commerce council decided to appoint the local Member of Parliament, Frank Follwell, and the Mayor and Council of Belleville. A councillor figured they would need all the help available to prevent the loss of R.C.A.F.

Roadway to the government dock from Dundas Street will be re-opened according to a resolution adopted by a unanimous vote. Work of tearing down the steel pipe fence and the cement curbing is to start immediately.

The town is faced with the problem of maintaining light bulbs on the town bridge. Erection of up by cars and trucks ends the life of an electric globe long before the expected life is spent.

SPEEDING ON BRIDGE

Maintenance men find it hard to change the bulbs as fast as they go out. Speeding on the bridge prompts greater vibration so council has decided to crack down on fast drivers. It was mentioned that the police department's new speed timing device be moved to the bridge to control traffic at a speed of 15 miles per hour.

Councillor Ingram if storekeepers remaining open last Thursday night will be prosecuted. Town solicitor Ramsay Park says the by-law governing closing is that no business shall be carried on. He questions the legality of the signatures on the petition that the by-law contained no penalty clause. He told council he would not defend any action in any action resulting from the by-law because he could see no purpose in defending an action the town was sure to lose. Councillor Weaver suggested drafting a proper by-law.

Councillor R. Smithrim added humor to the discussion by pointing out that all mermaids can now be prosecuted for staying open Friday night because the by-law proposed is not in effect now is actually invalid.

Lance Rumble Guest Speaker At Chamber

TRENTON (Special) — Lance Rumble, of Toronto, is a combination of Will and Gordon Irvin B. Cobb. He entertained the annual Chamber of Commerce dinners for 48 minutes here last night. His humorous stories were priceless and when he touched the serious the audience listened even more attentively. Mr. Rumble's collection covered a lifetime of unique experiences gathered mostly as a speaker, as he likes to be known, for General Motors.

The Chamber's yearly dinner was acclaimed a big success by newly-elected male president Mr. Goldberg looks for the businessmen's group to accomplish great things this year, providing the merchants co-operate and a request for a grant of money from the town council is forthcoming. He announced that the Chamber had been provided office space in the renovated municipal building. He called on all businessmen to help the organization and support it. He assured the gathering that the Chamber's intention was to go all out to promote Trenton.

Mayor Ross Burti extended a welcome to the visitors. He presented a good cause for Trenton and promised assistance to the Chamber of Commerce.

Charles Allerton led the singsong and at the request of Mayor Burti sang "That Old Gang of Mine." A volunteer singing duet, comprising James Uttley and Miss Chie Smith, received tremendous applause.

The guest speaker was introduced by D. J. Sutherland. The vote of thanks was tendered by H. Stanley Parr, vice-president of the Chamber of Commerce.

U.S. Airmen Must Be Staid When on Leave

LONDON (Reuters) — No longer will men of the United States Air Force horrify staid Britons by wearing loud shirts and sloppy jeans off duty. Such "spectacular dress" has been banned in an order issued by Gen. G. P. McGuire, deputy commander of the U. S. 3rd Air Force.

McGuire's edict forbids the men stationed in Britain from sporting jeans, loud shirts with open necks, T-shirts, zoot suits, or gaily patterned leather jackets when they're off duty.

He said that from now on airmen will be required "in accordance with local customs."

District Farmers Getting Anxious To Get on Fields

Daphne Price, 18-year-old Ottawa girl, has revealed she was a spy for the U.S. Federal Bureau of Investigation while she was a student at the University of Michigan at Ann Arbor. For three months, she says, she rendered reports on the activities of students suspected of Communist sympathies. She found the strain too hard on her mental and physical health and quit the school to return to Ottawa.—Central Press Canadian.

With the fine weather of the past two days many farmers dryed fields, farmers in the Bay of Quinte district are getting anxious to be at spring's work.

Intermittent rain since the first of April has kept fields unfit for cultivation with result that only a very small percentage of spring cultivation has been done and this only on high well drained land.

The only sowing so far reported in the district is in Prince Edward county where one farmer sowed a field of canning factory peas.

However, despite the fact that April will be the month in which sowing is done, farmers are not unduly worried over the lateness of the season.

One district township farmer stated today that a few warm dry days would see fields on higher ground ready for cultivation.

"I never worry if I can get at least one field sowed by the end of April," he said. "And it looks as if we will get at least that much, done this year."

Sees Many Ways To Halt Reds In Indo-China

LONDON (CP) — Defence Minister Earl Alexander said today "there are all sorts of ways and means" of saving Indo-China from communism without committing British and American troops.

He did not elaborate on this remark, however, in answering questions at a luncheon of the Association of American Correspondents in London.

Asked if he foresees any circumstances under which British will send troops to help the French Union armies fight the Vietminh rebels in Indo-China, he said:

"I hope and pray neither you (the U.S.) nor we will be committed to a situation as serious as that."

Alexander, who was reviewing British defence policy, expressed the view that if there is a third world war both sides will use "every weapon they have got," including the hydrogen bomb.

QUITE PREPARED

In this case, Britain would be hit hard, "but we are quite prepared to meet that situation."

Alexander then made other points:

1. Britain is building a medium-bomber force to carry and deliver atom bombs.

2. British guided missiles which are being developed may increase by four times the effectiveness of the RAF fighter command.

3. The government is being gradually to withdraw troops from British Guiana, Kenya, Trieste, Egypt and possibly Korea to build up a mobile strategic reserve which would be based in Britain.

Boy, 3, Rescued From Quicksand

STOUFFVILLE (CP)—A three-year-old boy was pulled from a pit of quicksand Wednesday.

Kenny Tindall, son of Mr. and Mrs. Harry Tindall, sank to the waist when he was rescued by George Brown, a farmhand.

Sixty villagers had been looking for the boy for two hours before his mother found his cries from the bank of a creek. He had apparently been chasing his new puppy when he stumbled into the quicksand a half mile from his home.

TRIP TO CANADA

AUCKLAND, N.Z. (CP)—Twenty young New Zealanders have been invited to spend a month in Canada as guests of the Commonwealth youth movement, in connection with next summer's Empire games at Vancouver. Founder of the movement, Major F. J. Ney, said here that all expenses would be paid except transport to Canada.

REFUSES TO ANSWER

WASHINGTON (CP)—Clyde L. Powell, an assistant chief of the scandal-rocked Federal Housing Administration, refused to answer questions in the Senate today. Monday, He invoked the Fifth Amendment privilege against possible self-incrimination as the Senate banking committee began investigating charges of multi-million-dollar irregularities in FHA.

BLAST HURTS 7

ST. STEPHEN, N. B. (CP)—Seven persons were injured, four severely, Wednesday night when an explosion demolished a dairy and ice cream bar at Bayside, 15 miles from St. Stephen. Built last winter, the building had been open only one day. Damage was estimated at $15,000.

Reports Disagreement on Atom Control

Andrei Vishinsky, Soviet representative at the United Nations, apparently before the 12-nation Disarmament Commission in New York, declared that Russia "has the hydrogen bomb" but will not accept the western-backed Baruch plan for international control and inspection of atomic weapons. He stated the plan "is dead" and said "we haven't accepted it and we will not now."

St. Paul's Church Resplendent With Lilies for Easter Service

By MRS. PERCY MACMULLEN

Mr. William Ainsworth opened with an Easter silver trumpet fanfare, and contributed a second selection following the benediction.

Easter hymns were sung and the Royal Junior choir sang "Joyful Eastertide".

Misses Marlene Moorcroft, Marlena Carlisle and Mrs. Harry Brown sang "Here Our Prayer". Mr. Aylsworth sang a selection from Handel's "Messiah." The Senior choir contributed Simper's hallelujah chorus "Christ is Risen." Mrs. Walter Warren rendered "My Redeemer Liveth."

Mr. Baker presided and brought a beautiful Easter message on the theme "Born Again."

The special Easter day gifts and Lenten gifts were received and dedicated. This outstanding service closed with an antiphonal Easter anthem.

EVENING SERVICE

The Royal Junior choir numbering over 50 filled the choir loft for the special centennial Easter service on Sunday evening at 8.30.

The beginners were seated on either side of the pastor and these eight little tots made their first public appearance. They were Elaine Vandervoort, who gave a welcome recitation. Heralds were Jeannette Wilson, Judy Patterson, Marion Warren, Jane Bailey, Linda Lou Mayhew, and Susan West. This group was led in an Easter prayer by Mary Ellen Bailey and they all had parts in a primary song, "Like Jesus We Bring Offering."

Mrs. Baker contributed special organ music which included selections from Handel's "The Messiah", and "Lift Up Your Heads". She also accompanied all the choir numbers.

Short recitations were given as follows: "On Easter Day", Judy Patterson; "An Easter Herald", Sandra Warren; "Easter Praise", Jean Ann Mayhew; "Rainbow of Hope", Joan Fraser; "Heavenly Beacon of Rain," Carol Sleeper; "Flowers of Easter," Sandra West.

The full choir sang four selections, "Life Is In the Very Air," "The Centrite at The Tomb," "Victory," and "Hail The King," and interesting talk about the choir.

A song "The Lilies' Message," was given by Patricia Fraser, Jeanette Aythart and Wendy Warren. The full choir sang the chorus in several of the selections.

Doreen Thrasher read the Easter Bible lesson. The Easter message was sung in double duet style by Dawn Hubel and Grace Beamish; Wendy Warren and Carilyn Belconni; Marilyn Rose and Jeanette Aythart.

Three girls from Carmel community gave a reading entitled "Easter Light," they were, Tinka Visser, Margaret Brooks and Dorothy Johnston. The choir and Jean Davidson sang "a Cornish carol."

Three boys Ralph Carlisle, Allyn Warren and Wayne Wannamaker rang "The Dawn of Easter." In this number, Garry Rose rattled the accompaniment. Throughout the service Gordon Wannamaker acted as usher.

A reading entitled "Easter Gifts" was given by Ross Carlisle, Faith Warren, Dorothy Wilkins, Marilyn Anderson, Kenneth Post and Hazel Thrasher.

"The Angel in the Garden" was sung by Peter Runle and the choir, song "Risen Today" by Helen Hawkins, Faithie Warren and Thelma Sharpe.

PANTOMIME

A pantomime, "When I survey the Wondrous Cross" was given by Wendy Warren, Jeanette Aythart, Marilyn Rose and Grace Beamish.

At the close all sang standing before the large cross, "In the Cross of Christ I Glory." Coloured lights were flashed on this number from the gallery. The girls wore white gowns, the gift of Mrs. Walter Elliott. Ross Carlisle, David Bell and the choir sang "Crown Our Redeemer."

Pauline Smart gave a parting wish, and Mr. George Carlisle expressed thanks to the Royal choir and especially to Mrs. and Mrs. Baker for their wonderful leadership in training the children.

Following the service the temperance secretary, Mr. Carlisle, presided over a social hour entitled "The Choice is Yours."

The many parents, grandparents, aunts and uncles in the audience were loud in their praise of the splendid training given the children in voice culture.

The program Sunday evening climaxed all those held previously. The children who have been members of the choir since its institution take public appearances in their stride, knowing that they can sing the selections successfully.

The centennial services continue Sunday evening April 25th when Rev. L. S. Throop, chairman of Belleville presbytery and members of Carnilton pastoral charge, also Plainfield folk will pay their centennial visit. The service will begin at 8 p.m. Daylight Saving Time.

1,500 Turn Out To Welcome Home Kenora Thistles

KENORA (CP) — Despite the heaviest one-day snowfall in years, some 1,500 persons turned out Wednesday night to welcome Kenora Thistles back home from their hockey war in Sweden.

Players were almost mobbed by wives, sweethearts and other relatives and friends as they stepped off their special railway car into a roped-off portion of the Kenora station platform.

Red and white bunting surrounded the official reception area, and fans displayed banners 35 feet long with "Welcome Home Thistles" in big letters.

Thistles won their 10 games against Japanese teams.

PLANES GET AWAY

OTTAWA (CP) — Two RAF planes stranded for two weeks by engine trouble at Resolute Bay on Cornwallis Island in the Canadian Arctic, finally got away to Britain Wednesday, the RCAF said here.

Dents in Hood Work of Boys Using Car for BB Gun Target

The epidemic of mysteriously pock-marked windshields currently being reported throughout Canada and the United States apparently hasn't reached the Belleville area as yet.

From other parts of Ontario and all across Canada have come reports of automotive windshields and even plate glass windows becoming suddenly dented under mysterious circumstances, but a check of Belleville motorists and used car dealers indicated the Belleville area is as yet unaffected.

However, one RCAF man from Trenton, said he had found a mysterious dimple-like dent in his windshield that had not been there a day or so previously. The dent was smooth and there was a complete absence of small cracks which normally appear when the damage is done by a stone or pebble. A grayish substance covered the small dent.

So far used car lots have apparently been the hardest hit by the epidemic of dented windshields, but Belleville dealers have escaped so far. "Absolutely nothing," was almost the stock answer received from local dealers.

NO ACCEPTED CAUSE

But despite the wide publicity being given the phenomena of damaged windshields no accepted cause for the damaged glass has been set forth.

Suggestions that the damage is being caused by radio active materials drifting from the scene of recent atom bomb tests are being discredited by atom scientists who stated that if the cause was radiation all glass would be pock-marked.

Others put the mystery down to spring road conditions. Exponents of this theory claim there is no mystery. Flying sand, cinders and gravel or other materials used to de-ice snow covered all across Canada have caused the damage and the pock-marks are just now being discovered.

PUT DOWN TO PETRIFIA

That is the attitude of one Belleville car dealer, who puts the whole thing down to hysteria brought on by publicity. "People read or hear about it. Then they find dents in their windshields, which have been there for weeks or months," he said.

But pock-marked windshields or no, at least one Belleville motorist is sure of the dents in the metal hood of his auto.

This motorist is his car parked in the vicinity of the Swift Canadian Company plant on Station St. The motorist he discovered no less than 39 dents in the hood.

Yep. Boys armed with BB guns and using the car as a target were the cause of the denied hood.

DAIRY INDUSTRY STATISTICS

The monthly dairy report of the Ontario Department of Agriculture presents a mass of statistics. Wandering through it, the observer quickly becomes convinced that Canada is a land flowing with milk and money.

This is nothing new. Back in 1939, 3,705,350,000 pounds of milk went into the production of creamery butter and cheddar cheese in Canada. The amount of milk used for these purposes rose to 3,518,213,000 pounds in 1949, slumped to a low of 3,307,947,000 pounds in 1951 and was back up to 3,574,017,000 pounds in 1952.

But this tells only part of the story. While the total amount of milk turned into butter and cheese has not changed greatly in two decades, statistics for exports reveal wide variations. Remember when butter was rationed during the war years? Why no wonder. Butter was scarce here. In the last years of the war, 1945, Canada exported 5,698,300 pounds of butter, worth $2,235,749. Last year, the volume of our exports of butter was less than a thirtieth of our 1945 total. In the 180,090 pounds shipped abroad being valued at $125,798.

But if you think there was a wide variation in butter exports, consider the figures for cheese. In 1946 our exports totalled 135,409,300 pounds, valued at $27,909,305. In 1953 they were down to 16,424,900 pounds, worth $4,308,414. But, while butter exports last year were less than half those in any other year since 1940, our cheese exports were eight times the low of 2,094,900 pounds exported in 1952.

These figures, however, do not tell the full story on the export of dairy products. Last year 13,942,800 pounds of whole milk powder, valued at $5,375,007, were exported, a peak in volume, when compared with only 1,033,500 pounds in 1946, $366,581, shipped abroad in 1943. Skim-milk powder exports, at 23,478,900 pounds worth $2,113,228, were not a record, but were almost four times the amount shipped in 1945, when our cheese and butter exports were so heavy. Condensed milk exports, on the other hand, were only a third of the 1945 figure and evaporated milk exports were a little more than a fifth of those eight years earlier.

It is against this background of the ebb and flow of trade for the country as a whole that we should consider statistics presenting the picture for this district.

In the Belleville sales area in 1953 commercial sales of fluid milk totalled 3,947,000 quarts, valued at $705,175. Fluid cream sales totalled 1,084,000 pints at $705,175. In addition there were sold 91,253 quarts of chocolate dairy milk, 14,689 quarts of cultured milk and buttermilk and 178,735 quarts of skim milk. Commercial dairies in this area brought 10,504,251 pounds of standard fluid and special fluid milk during the year, at an average price of $4.24 per hundredweight, or a total price of $445,500. Average price paid for 1,337,360 pounds of standard secondary or special secondary milk was $2.42 a hundredweight, for a total price of $32,350. Ontario farmers thus received an average of $4.03 per hundredweight for 11,841,611 pounds of fluid milk, their total return being $477,858.

During the year Belleville produced 3,339,053 pounds of cheddar cheese and Prince Edward County 2,598,076 pounds. A striking contrast is provided by the figures for production by months. Prince Edward's output production is steady. It was low, being 65,587 pounds in December and the high 396,636 pounds in June. Hastings County, on the other hand, produced only a meagre 7,863 pounds of cheese in December but turned out a whopping 657,756 pounds in June.

When it comes to butter, there is no comparison between the two districts. Hastings produced 3,926,305 pounds, Prince Edward only 302,389 pounds. The Hastings output of 503,031 pounds in June alone far outdistanced the Prince Edward production for the entire year.

THE WHEELS OF OUR YEARS

Among the male of the species, in the upper age brackets, the name Stutz will strike a responsive chord. But how many of us, unless we were given a hint, would know whether Tinney Burnham's car was a Stutz or a flivver? Or a variety of tulip? Ever hear of a man who owned a Pullman? Or took a ride in a Postal?

If you have not already guessed, these are all the names of old-time artists' studios whose walls have left behind them nothing but memories and unpaid garage bills. "Business Week" recently published a complete list, ranging from Abbott, Detroit, Ace and Acme down through Buckmobile, Cricket, Durant, Four Wheel Drive, Marmon, Mercedes, Noma, Paige, Pierce-Arrow, Renault, Stanley Steamer, Templar, Velie and Winton to Zentmeyer, Zimbalist and Zimmerman. All told, the list has almost 800 names.

The Stutz? That's the car that, in the twenties, had the same effect on a college man that mink has on a chorus girl.

THE VICTIMS ARE FINED

Edward Martell, writing in "The Recorder Weekly" of London, Eng., has voiced a novel complaint—and a legitimate one.

"A stationary railway engine emitted black smoke for 20 minutes.

"This was against the law.

"The owner lurked a fine of five pounds.

Who paid the fine? Why the people who had to breathe that black smoke, of course. British railways are state-owned. So, when the Transport Commission pleaded guilty, the owners of the railway, the people, were required to pay. Not directly, of course. But, as Mr. Martell observes, "this item will be found somewhere in the transport accounts for the year when they are published."

GLEANINGS FROM OUR FYLES OF BYGONE YEARS

20 YEARS AGO

APRIL 22, 1934.

The Belleville Board of Trade this following officers were elected: president, H. Freeman Ketcheson; vice presidents, Fred J. Deacon and J. W. Johnson, M.P.P.; treasurer, Arthur Hall; secretary, Lieut. Col. W. N. Ponton; executive council, Charles M. Reid, W. C. Springer, F. Blackburn, C. Owens, Hector Charles J. Sowell, W. B. Rigg, Lieut. Col. Lorne Marsh, Arch. McLaren, O. Scott, W. S. Dickson and Mark Sprague; auditors, H. Sweet and A. M. Chapman.

A hearty vote of thanks was extended to John Elliott, the retiring president, for his valuable services during the past year.

The following description of Belleville in the year 1854 has appeared to an English traveller, but it is somewhat quaint, and still interest. It formed part of a book entitled, "Canada in 1854," and was published in the Intelligencer on April 3rd, 1867: "Belleville which is the county town of Victoria District, is situated on the shores of the Bay of Quinte and from an insignificant village in 1837, it has risen in 1848 to the rank of a large and flourishing town, the main street of which now arrives me not a little by its extent, the beauty of its buildings and the liberality of its shops. I mounted the hillside which overlooks it and there saw three fine churches, the English, the Roman Catholic and the Scotch places of worship, also a large well built court house and goal and some private residences. From it should think that Belleville has a population of nearly 4,000 inhabitants; it is the outlet of a rich back country and is on the main road—from Kingston to Toronto and will increase most rapidly. The worst feature about Belleville in 1837 was that it was the focus of American and die-hag preachers, teachers and rebellious disposed folk, but I am told that these have now left and that its character is improved wonderfully."

Pennies Now Spurned

(St. Louis Post-Dispatch)

A maxim, or familiar phrase, may endure for 400 years, now seems on the verge of falling down. We refer to the admonition, "A penny saved is a penny earned." "Who so spareth not the penye shall never come by the pownde," quoth Miles Coverdale in a translation of the Bible, "nor the monye" in 1541. Lord Chesterfield, Benjamin Franklin and Bernard Shaw are only a few of the many who have said it since.

But youngsters don't believe it any more. Not if we are to take the word of Bill Graf, who runs a filling station in Waco, Neb., and ought to know. Mr. Graf flagpoles a penny here and there on the ground around his filling station, to observe what people will do about them. Youngsters spot them—but won't stoop to pick them up; sometimes kick at the coins in annoyance, he says. The only people who bother to pick up the pennies are the older people.

We don't presume to know what the young folks' indifference stems from. The dwindling number of two pieces, each decorated with a buffalo, that can be bought for a penny? The tough competition pennies have been getting from tops? The growing opulence of childhood? Or a complete indisposition to stoop?

Whatever it is, the kiddies are missing fun. There is no other pleasure quite like the special pleasing sure of spending a windfall. It gives one a delightful sense of solvency. We hate to see children missing that particular pleasure. For as we always say, "Take care of the little people's pennies, and the big people's fun will take care of itself."

Wedgwood Was Genius

(Royal Ontario Museum of Archaeology)

At a time when English pottery was relatively in its infancy Josiah Wedgwood caused it to rise to unprecedented heights in Europe. Here was a man, himself of humble origin, who rose to be the most successful businessman in the pottery trade of the wealthiest commoners in the land.

A trade which has hitherto scarcely been able to make itself pay was turned by Josiah Wedgwood into a million dollar industry. As well as inventing the famous blue and white jasper he set out to perfect a cream-colored earthenware called "Queen's Ware," which is the basis of most of our pottery used today. Its discovery was such a great advance in the time that Queen Catherine of Russia commissioned him to make a dinner service for her. It is now at the Royal Palace of Tsarskoe Selo near St. Petersburg. Instead of the fifty-two piece services used in most of our homes today, Wedgwood made hundred and fifty to two pieces, each decorated with a handcolored landscape. There were only two or three of these dishes have survived, and one of the trial plates is in the collection of the Royal Ontario Museum in Toronto.

Then Wedgwood did what at the end of the eighteenth century seemed impossible, by bringing fame and fortune to the pottery industry in Staffordshire; and what today would mark a great advance in international relations, by making a set of typically English pottery plates, Derby and Staffordshire landscapes, by royal command of the Czarina of Russia.

(Editor's note: The following article was written by Alfred B.A., of Belleville. Mr. Lott, who is totally blind, is well qualified to speak on behalf of the blind. He writes on the elimination of the "means test" for recipients of the blind persons allowance. His straightforward presentation of this difficult problem, the lives of blind Canadians, deserves the attention, and support, of almost every one of his fellow Canadians).

By ALBERT LOTT, B.A.

Do not all sightless people receive Blindness Allowance?

No. Contrary to a very general impression, only war-blinded veterans are automatically eligible for a government pension. Civilian blind are subject to a means test just slightly less exacting than that required of those in the old age assistance group, sighted, age 65, to 69.

The sightless people of Canada and those most familiar with their difficulties, contend that all blind persons over 21 should be paid a handicap allowance, regardless of their financial status, as a matter of right.

You may ask, "If a blind person is able to earn a reasonable living salary, why should he expect any more financial consideration than a sighted person with a similar income?" The reason is that the blind person's expenses are higher. If he is to enjoy a standard of living equal to that of his sighted friends, he will be government payments must be regarded not as a gift but as a basic wage allowance.

DOUBLE EXPENSES

For example, if a blind person goes out for a taxi, he must have a guide. Even with the concessions which railroads and steamships so kindly make, there are still double expenses at hotels and restaurants. Again, in his own modest travel alone, he will require extra assistance from porters and waiters and this will mean extra tips. He must also make frequent use of the telephone, a need man would walk or take a bus. This, too, means extra fare, extra fare concession.

Even if he stays at home, the blind person is at higher expense. There are dozens of home duties devolving on the head of the house which the average blind man or woman just cannot do efficiently. He needs some sighted assistance, such as tending a coal furnace; caring for the garden; keeping windows clean; painting and decorating; doing baking and sewing; caring for children, etc. You may know blind people who do some part or all of these jobs but they are exceptional. We speak of the average blinded person, most of whom fall into this class.

Again, too, we may as well admit that, even in the exceptional case, where a blind person and kind friend with a good pair of eyes somewhere around the corner, the latter is not essential to the blind person and is certainly entitled to the free time of his good friend but it brings home the fact that inevitably, the blind person is, and at least some extent, on the sighted. By the very nature of things he cannot earn his own mail, unless, as is rarely the case, it happens to be written in Braille.

EXTRA DEMANDS

Since he is the recipient of constant favors he feels bound in some way to show his gratitude. Of course, the best way to do this is by an inner attitude of sincere appreciation, but along with this he wants to make some outward expression of thanks. This costs money. Everywhere the sightless person turns, there are extra demands on his pocketbook.

In addition to all this, his earning capacity is greatly limited. It is true that since the war the list of 40 years conditions have improved greatly for blind Canadians. Many of our people are now self-supporting. Some of the jobs is commendable and encouraging. Be that as it may, the fact remains that only of these earn only a small margin of income above their daily needs, and it is only by the strictest economy that this margin can be maintained. The handicap allowance would make all the difference between scrimping and worrying along, and, unfortunately, but in reasonable comfort, with an assurance for a little trust now and then.

You may say, "I could do with you could, but is not your earning capacity far greater than it would be if you were without your sight?" You may have high expenses at home, but these are largely optional. You could perform these duties if you had to, but you find it more convenient to hire them done. This is your privilege. If you can afford it. But the man without sight has no choice in the matter. Whether he can afford it or not, these things must be done.

HANDICAP ALLOWANCE

A handicap allowance would not be a maintenance grant to any person setting up a home, or starting a business of his own. It would be a contribution to any young person, but it is especially to be realized that the blind person can hardly afford to marry, and if he has a small but certain income, it might make all the difference between domestic happiness and loneliness. Even when we're struggling for a real asset to his community.

At present the amount of Blindness Allowance (pension) paid to indigent blind people in Ontario is $360.00 per person per year. A blind person, single, may earn up to a maximum of $360.00 in excess of his allowance, or $840.00 including his allowance. If his income exceeds $840.00, his earnings are reduced by $1 for every $2 he earns over this ceiling. If his wife is sighted, his total income, including his Blindness Allowance, may not exceed $1320.00. If his wife is blind, he may draw $320.00 allowance.

SLIM TREATMENT

Many people and their friends maintain that this a slim treatment to a class so seriously handicapped. If the means test were abolished, this monthly income would be an incentive to the young and a comfort to the old. Furthermore, it would enable a real asset to his community.

Rotary Club Hears Inspiring Easter Message

CAMPBELLFORD — In keeping with the season, Rev. Harry Howson brought an Easter message to the Rotary Club on Monday.

In his remarks, he stressed the historical truths of the Easter story, emphasizing the fact that the Christian faith is founded upon the fact that Christ arose from the dead, inspired His followers by His resurrection, and ascended into heaven.

This brief summary of events has changed the entire character of history for 2,000 years. It has been suggested that Christ did not rise. According to Matthew 28, 11-14, the enemies of Christ bribed the guards to say that the disciples had come and stolen the body. Coming from enemies is strong evidence of the resurrection. Even Pontius Pilate is said to have written the emperor, asking that He be entered among the Roman gods.

The greatest of all arguments, however, is the church. It owes its greatness to truth and to the victory of Christ over death and evil. The power of the church is the reflected greatness of the Master—He is the way, the truth and the life. His influence over people is because of the fact announced by the angel: "He is not here, He is risen. He is a living Master whose power and help is available to all.

Rev. Harry was introduced by Rotarian Frank Linton and thanked by Rotarian Roy MacLaren.

X-Ray Survey To Be Held In Six Weeks

CAMPBELLFORD — Plans are under way for an X-ray survey of this area to be held in about six weeks time. This will be the fourth time the survey has taken in the Campbellford area. The surveys are spaced four years apart.

The regular chest clinic will be held on May 31, and June 1 and 2nd. A survey will be conducted throughout the local high school and industrial concerns on May 31.

A meeting of chairmen from various parts of Northumberland East was held in Campbellford, when the members received instructions from Mrs. T. W. Hawke of Cobourg, general chairman for the United Counties of Northumberland and Durham. The chairmen will in turn, instruct their own canvassers in their own districts, on the methods to be used in putting the campaign over.

SURVEY MADE POSSIBLE

The survey is made possible through the sale of T.B. Christmas seals by the Northumberland and Durham T.B. Association.

Chairman of the local campaign is William Rothwell, principal of the Campbellford Public School. Forrest R. Dennis, of Campbellford, is urban assistant for Campbellford, Hastings and Brighton. District survey chairman for Northumberland East is Mrs. Fred Warner of Castleton. All were present at the Campbellford meeting, along with Max Slessor, general publicity chairman of Cobourg.

Mrs. Hawke spoke to the various chairmen, stressing the fact that a complete survey is important. The clinic is absolutely free and it is the duty of every citizen to avail themselves of the opportunity to help the organization to stamp out T.B.

QUAKE HITS LIMA

LIMA, Peru (AP)—A strong and prolonged earthquake shook this city at 3:25 p.m. Wednesday. No damage was reported.

Mrs. A. T. Donald Marks Her 90th Birthday

CAMPBELLFORD — Friends and relatives of Mrs. A. T. Donald gathered on Tuesday at the home of her sister, Mrs. John Thompson, Ranney St. N., Campbellford, to do honor to Mrs. Donald on the occasion of her 90th birthday.

Though confined to the house, and somewhat hard of hearing, Mrs. Donald has excellent eyesight which permits her to do much knitting and handcraft, at which she is very expert.

She was a lifelong resident of Burnbrae. She has lived with Mr. and Mrs. Thompson for about twenty years, since Mr. Donald died. They have lived in Campbellford for the past nine years.

On Tuesday there was a quiet gathering of old friends and relatives, when Mrs. Donald cut the birthday cake, appropriately decorated for the occasion.

Deportation Order Upheld

MONTREAL (CP) — The Quebec Appeal Court Wednesday rejected a habeas corpus demand by the lawyer of a family awaiting deportation because it entered the country as visitors.

Mr. Justice Edouard Rinfret upheld a Superior Court decision which ruled the Lamer family are "not bona fide immigrants to Canada."

The family, now faced with deportation, consists of Paul Walter Glazer, an Austrian; his wife Dorothy, an American; a son Anton, born in Austria; another son, Richard Dwight, born in the United States, and a two-year-old baby born in Canada since the family arrived here more than two years ago.

The appeal court ruled the father was not admissible as an immigrant because he did not have a legal passport.

The court did not indicate to which country the family should be deported.

GERMANY REBUILDING

MONTREAL (CP)— West Germany is rebuilding at a remarkable rate, T. C. Davis, Canadian ambassador to that republic, said Monday night after returning from four years service at Bonn. He said homes in that city, West Germany's capital, are being constructed at the rate of 450,000 a year.

Eisenhower Will Call on Papers To Aid in Peace

AUGUSTA, Ga. (AP)—President Eisenhower flies to New York today to call in a major address tonight for help from United States newspapers in transforming "an age of atomic hysteria" into an era of world peace.

The trip interrupts an Easter holiday the president started April 13 at the Augusta National Golf Club. He will return to Washington from New York tonight, spend Friday in Kentucky and then fly back here for another week-end of golf.

The president's half-hour speech at 8 p.m. EST before the Bureau of Advertising of the American Newspaper Publishers Association will be broadcast by the major television and radio networks.

The theme of the speech was outlined last week-end by James C. Hagerty, White House press secretary, who said the president would appeal to U.S. newspapers to help "make mass age of atomic hysteria and horror into an age of interracial understanding and co-operative peace."

"NEEDLESS FRICTION"

He added that Eisenhower would say that "misconceptions of the aims and aspirations of America, as well as those of the other free nations, reported and circulated here and abroad, often cause needless misunderstanding and friction between the governments and the free peoples of the world."

The president is reported deeply concerned, for one thing, about the adverse reaction in some friendly countries to the development and testing of the hydrogen bomb by the United States. He is understood to feel that an unwarranted hysteria has resulted.

French Troops Not Ferried Across India

WIESBADEN, Germany (AP)—A United States air force spokesman confirmed today that the American airlift of French troops to Indo-China is not crossing India. But the air forces still refused to divulge the route of the giant C-124 Globemasters on the grounds that such information might endanger the success of the operation.

Prime Minister Nehru told parliament in New Delhi today that his government will not let the troop-carrying U. S. planes fly across India, the normal route for aircraft bound from Europe to the Far East.

India's policy, he told Communist questioners, is "not to allow any foreign troops to pass through or over India, by air or any other means."

NO PROTEST REQUIRED

Nehru added that no action is necessary by the Indian government since "the Globemasters are not flying over India now."

Commenting on Nehru's statement, a spokesman at the U. S. air force's European headquarters here would only say, "They aren't flying over India."

The spokesman also refused again to announce the number of planes and troops involved, but advices from Paris previously had said possibly 1,000 troops are being moved in 20 planes.

The first contingent took off from Orly field near Paris Tuesday.

St. Thomas' Woman's Auxiliary Sponsors Charming Spring Tea

Azure skies, warm sunshine and balmy breezes were a fitting background to usher in the spring tea which took place in the lofty rectangular auditorium of which was that of the Woman's Auxiliary of St. Thomas' Anglican Church, held in the Parish House, Bridge Street East.

Welcoming the many guests into the delightful tea room with its soft lights, swung by rippling fringes of pastel yellow and green; its lovely baskets of downy pussy willows, accented with yellow bows; the pleasing fragrance of the youthful Easter lily which adorned the treasurer's table, and the vase of pail-like forsythia on the piano, were the gracious receptionists, Mrs. Watson, president of the Senior W.A., Mrs. Welwyn Jones, president of the Evening Branch, and Mrs. W. J. Robinson, wife of the rector.

ATTRACTIVE TEA TABLE

The tea table was most attractive with its snowy Italian linen cloth accented by punchwork, and centred with a silver basket of golden daffodils, pussy willows and sprays of British Columbia huckleberry. Five-branched silver candelabra with four tall yellow candles centred by each green candle, carried out the springtime motif, while the little green tables, each with its white cloth and centrepiece of golden daffodil in holder, highlighted by tiny sprays of purple bells added further to the spring symphony of color.

Mrs. H. E. Gibson was tea table hostess, assisted by Mrs. R. C. Morton and Mrs. G. Beamish, Mrs. H. Singer and Mrs. R. Hogle presided at the tea tables.

MRS. H. Dillmuth acted as treasurer for the afternoon.

In adjoining rooms were the displays of homecooking, marmalades, and candy table, and novelties. Each table was prettily adorned with green and yellow in various designs, in keeping with the season.

The homecooking table centred by a lovely purple African violet, conveyed by Mrs. Gordon Brunton, had a breath-taking display of apple, lemon and cherry pies, nut and fruit breads, "Hamlitta" muffins, homemade buns and bread, tarts, white hats, angel cakes, iced and plain, rich chocolate, fruit and spice cakes with chocolate tops, upside down buns with minced candied fruits, heavy dipped, all kinds of cookies; individual cocktail pies, salad dressings and home butter.

GOLDEN MARMALADES

The marmalade table was aglow with golden and amber marmalades. Including ginger, orange and lemon; plain lemon in various sized jars, white jars of rich dark purple Damson jam, all added a pleasing contrast. This was in charge of Mrs. Frank Bennson and her assistants. The display was under the auspices of the Evening Branch of the W.A.

At one side of the table was also a delightful display of floral decker cards, serviettes with music and verse of well known old time songs, as "After the Ball was Over"; golden notes, and floral writing paper.

The candy table with its bands of yellow and green, its centre of brass candle holders with green tapers was replete with cups and saucers in shades of yellow, rose and green, of divinity fudge, chocolate fudge, maple cream and pieces of mouth-watering toffee. There were also cellophane, bags of the same and highlighting all these were little chocolate pyramids with cream centres and topped with a whole walnut meat, which had been, it was understood, sent from England. That they were as good as they looked, was proven in the eating. This was in charge of the Girls' Auxiliary under the leadership of Mrs. W. Aiker.

NOVELTIES

Other articles included novelties of little darkie dolls formed from knitting towels, face cloths, baby needs as nightlies, handkerchief and some fine red-backed scrapbooks. A cozy flannelette pincushion quilt completed this table.

Those who assisted at the tea, from all departments, included: Mesdames B. Feather, E. Wheatley, John Clarke, Jack Clarke, K. Atwell, T. Bromfield, F. Leach, C. Coleman, L. Arnold, A. Athey, A. Clarke, H. J. Winn, R. Goddard, E. Martin, J. G. R. Stone, A. Cochenour, A. Lewis and Miss Muriel Scott.

A charming and successful tea bringing much credit to its convenor, Mrs. Harry Smith.

Mrs. Gilleland, who is president of the "Elizabeth Fry Association," and vice-president of the "Canadian Association or Penal Reform," is well qualified to discuss the following excerpts from the Canadian Committee on the Status of Women's Report:

"In Canada, under present enacted laws, a wife is legally entitled in marriage to only her board and keep"; "A wife's dowry right does not entitle her to one-third of her husband's whole estate but only to one-third interest in improved real estate in Ontario"; "If a thrifty Canadian homemaker saves any money over and above her housekeeping expense, this money is legally regarded as her husband's—subject to succession duties"; and "evidence in Canada usually find themselves paying succession duties on their own earnings."

Women's Hospital Aux. Hears 'Coffee Snack' Report, Plans Tea

In the absence of the president, Mrs. J. H. Forrester, Mrs. C. C. Taylor presided at the Women's Hospital Auxiliary's April meeting.

She welcomed Mrs. S. Safe and Mrs. S. Spiegel, representatives of the Ladies' Auxiliary of the Sons of Jacob Synagogue.

Representatives recently appointed from other organizations are: Mrs. L. B. Fonger, St. Julien Chapter, I.O.D.E.; Mrs. H. Alford of St. Thomas Church Guild; Mrs. C. Hyde and Mrs. R. Denyes of Bridge Street United Church; Mrs. H. Arnott and other nurses of the Nurses' Alumnae and Mrs. Flora Bell of the Lydia Orange Lodge.A donation from this lodge was gratefully acknowledged.

The representative of the University Women's Club is Mrs. P. Seibert, who has given generously of her time for several years.

A letter was read from Mr. Kenneth Rex inviting members and friends to visit the hospital on Hospital Day, May 12th, when all will be welcome to see through the building. The auxiliary members are helping with this under the convenership of Mrs. C. Taylor and Mrs. P. Burrowes. They will be served under the auspices of Mrs. R. H. Wray and her committee.

Last Sunday morning, all the patients found an Easter card on their trays with good wishes from the hospital auxiliary. Easter eggs were given to the children and suitable gifts to many of the adults.

"COFFEE SNACK" REPORT

Mrs. Lennox Smith gave a favorable report of the "Coffee Snack."

Mrs. W. H. Fiskin suggested a novel method by which any organization could raise funds. The only requirement is always in need of articles to sell. The group could bring clothing and household articles to the shop. The hospital auxiliary does the work, and the club receives half of the selling price," Mrs. Fiskin concluded.

It was decided to eliminate the tag day this year, and to hold the annual tea in the early autumn.

A committee of volunteers to send out quarterly literature pertaining to the hospital building fund, was formed under the convenorship of Mrs. W. N. Ponton.

Announcement was made of the Beth Sigma Phi dance this week. This sorority is doing valuable work in conjunction with the hospital auxiliary.

On May 5th the Nurses' Alumnae will hold a spring tea at Bridge Street United Church. The proceeds from both dance and tea will go towards the Hospital Building Fund pledges.

Miss Elizabeth Baker, of the hospital staff, showed the film "House of Mercy", which depicted the way a citizen takes for granted the presence of the hospital in his vicinity without realizing, till he has need of them for his own family, the never failing facilities available at all times.

ADVICE to the LOVELORN

By HEATHER FAIRFAX

SHE RUNS UP PHONE BILLS FOR HER BOY FRIEND'S CALLS

Dear Miss Fairfax:

My step-daughter tells me that it is rude of anyone to expect a boy friend to pay for a long distance telephone call to her, so she has the bills for such calls sent to her. Since of course, no school girl has the money to pay that kind of bill, it has to come out of the household money.

It seems to me, that if a fellow cares for a girl, he will call without her asking him to do so and pay for the call himself.

I would like to know if I am wrong about this.

B.C.

You are perfectly right in thinking that a boy should pay for his own long distance calls to a girl, and I certainly have never heard of anything else before. Also, I think it a mistake for any girl to ask a boy friend to call her long distance, but of course I would not suggest your step-daughter does.

If I were you, I would tell your step-daughter plainly that if she continues to make any such arrangement with her boy friend, it will be up to her to find a way of earning the money to pay the bill. Let her earn it by baby-sitting in her spare time, if necessary, but insist on her paying.

Wiser still, I think you should have her father take over in the matter, and put his foot down on her running up telephone bills in any such way. She would probably resent it less coming from him than from you. However, if he is unwilling to do this, then you should do it yourself.

PICKING A HUSBAND ISN'T THE SAME AS SHOPPING FOR A DRESS

Dear Miss Fairfax:

There are three fellows in my life.

One is a sailor who is coming home next month, and I have been going with him. The second is a fellow in the army who will be coming back from overseas in about two months, and who expects me to go with him. The third is a fellow who has been out of the army for quite awhile and who has asked me to marry him. I have been going out with him since he got home.

I like all three fellows very much, and they would all make very good husbands, so I don't know which one to choose. Also, I would like to know how to tell the other two, when I have made my choice, without hurting them.

I am 26 years old.

S.M.J.

Dear S.M.J.:

Frankly, it seems to me that a young woman of 26 should have a little more mature judgment than you appear to have. And, again frankly, I don't think you ought to make any attempt to choose a husband until you have acquired more maturity and more judgment. You pick out a dress for its wearing qualities, but there's more than that to picking out a husband.

Any young woman who doesn't know which of three young men she wants to marry is far from ready to make this kind of serious decision; if she were ready, she would know herself who she wanted to marry.

The only sensible thing to do in such a hurry to get a husband that you make an impulsive decision which you may later very much regret.

Beauty

THE CARE OF THE HANDS

Have not noticed that your hands can look as they always have, fairly smooth and respectable, if not glamorous, and suddenly one day they appear as old as the hills? Perhaps you used a harsh cleanser again for digging out dusty corners around the house and it was too strong for the tender skin. Sometimes it is necessary to use these, but when you do, put on rubber gloves. Protection is the thing. The skin on your hands, being subjected to soap and water many times a day, is really more sensitive than the skin on your face. Actually it requires greater care.

Hands are wonderfully responsive to proper daily treatment. Use a hand lotion freely, after washing dishes. You should use a hand cream at least once a week with this three-times-a-day task. Don't have the dishes piled up, but make your hands red and the redness may remain for days.

Hand lotions that are quickly absorbed by the skin are convenient ones, if you can go about your household duties shortly after the application. But they do not contain oil and oil is necessary to take the place of the natural lubricant that is being destroyed by water every. Hence the need of massage with a rich cream at least once a week.

The best time for this treatment is at night, so the cream can remain on. If you fear will soil the bed linens with cream, slip on cotton gloves. The cream will soften up the cream and in the morning your hands will look younger and lovelier.

Retart the treatment at your fingers, oiling the nails and surrounding cuticle. Friction will stimulate the blood streams that give nourishment and color to your nails and will keep them from breaking. Do circles along each finger to the base.

Follow the end of your hands do rotary movements forming a square—pressing across the knuckles, down to the wrist, across the wrist up on the other side to starting point then kneed, briskly inside the square.

Your case is to recognize the fact that you are not yet at the point where it's wise to become engaged to anyone. Let each one of these young men know you would like to go out with him as a friend. Any one who isn't willing to do that isn't very serious about you, and if he eliminates himself, then it will automatically simplify matters for you.

Life Begins At Sixty-Five

By Mary Moore

Your roving reported has been roving and is now reporting.

When your busy doctor friend, Kay Bates, calls you off the phone and says "Mary I have a story for you" you listen.

Some ladies who are his patients had gone into the home baking business in a modist way, and before they were wall aware of what was happening to their sweets, lives on the farm, they are in the baking business in a big way.

That's what quality does for you. All you have to do is make a better loaf of bread.

When I arrived at Kay's office he left word with his nurse where he was off to, and he and Margie his wife and I drove to the home of Mrs. Lovely (80), the manager and head baker. Her daughter-in-law Marguerite is her capable (and pretty) assistant and makes and lots all of the cakes. Her oldest sister, Mrs. Maude Harrison, was up to her elbows in bread dough when we arrived and is the member of the team who keeps the place in order. Mrs. Lovely is everything else —tarts (butter and almond), nut breads, cookies (thousands), muffins, etc.

The dining-room table was covered and loaded with boxes full of cakes—sponge, angel, sponge of the yolk and white variety called by some of us "munaline" and white cakes in every guise. They were beautifully frosted by Marguerite in various attractive icings and decorations — indeed so much so that I didn't know where to start with my note-taking. One thing I did know though was that Mary wasn't going to do any baking over the week-end with all those goodies under her very nose to choose from.

The taking-down-of-facts was pleasantly interrupted by the offer of a butter tart to each of the visitors, which united in one mouths. Two dozen more were a-baking in the oven. "You cooks realize what a treat it was on me not to be able to ask for those recipes!

While we were munching on tarts two other members of the family came into the kitchen— Mrs. Lewis' grandchildren, Larry who is two and Anne who is a brown-eyed little beauty of six. Susan who is eight was at school.

To get ready for the Saturday market the ladies start making cookies on Tuesday and Wednesday. On Thursdays they make their cakes and an important thing to note is the fact that they do not use baking powder in them. Baking soda and sour milk are their standbys because the sometimes fresh longer. I guess they can teach me a thing or three!

How would you gals of 65 and over like to spend the evening of Thursday "in town" then come home around 10 to 11 o'clock and start making bread dough, so it will be set to rise by morning, ready for a Friday morning attack on their orders for bread?

If any of you who read this are over 65 and 70 don't get an idea in your dear grey heads that you are part your usefulness. The ladies get up at 5 a.m., on baking days.

And on Saturday morning at 8 a.m., Mrs. Lewis' son, Lawrence leads all of the baked goods into his car, plus Maude and Bertha, and they set off for the city market. They arrive there at 7 a.m. and between that time and 11 a.m., every last delicious item is sold.

I asked Mrs. Lovely 85-she had any pies for sale for all of my children were coming home for the week-end. She said "Why would you fill your oven with four pies that would take you an hour to make and another hour to bake when you can make 12 or 15 cakes in the same length of time—and charge more for them?" The thing that amazed me the most though was those "four pies in one hour". It takes me 1 hour flat to make a lemon meringue pie—just one!

. . . and that isn't all. Son Lawrence is a fine artist, for we saw three samples of his beautiful detailed work, very like the etchings of the head of an Indian and a rearing horse in charcoal and pastel. He could doubtless sell them in a very select market.

The wonderful thing about the whole family is their modesty and serenity and cheerfulness.

At 63 I thought I'd be dandling grandchildren on my knee. By the looks of things at present I'll be doing that—but if one runs short maybe I could take some bread-making lessons from Mrs. Lewis, get a stall on the market and hope somebody would buy bread—or old people!

Friday's Fish Menu Best Meals of Week

OTTAWA (CP)—Canadians are being shown that some of the best meals of the week can be turned out on Friday's fish menus.

Recipes for fine fish dishes are coming out from a spotless kitchen in the cellar of the West Block on Parliament hill, a stone's throw from the Peace Tower.

The recipes, for housewives and restaurant chefs, show how good fish can taste when it's cooked properly.

The "dream kitchen" is run by the inspection and consumer service of the fisheries department. Formed here in 1950, it has branched out to Montreal, Toronto, Winnipeg and Vancouver. There are four home economists in Ottawa and one in each of the other cities.

TESTED RECIPES

They talk to women's groups, fairs and university classes on preparing and cooking recipes they themselves have tested.

Mary Myers of Toronto, assistant chief economist, explains: "It's more or less a public relations job. Our aim is to interest people in fish."

The way they do it, it's good for both the fishing industry and cooks. They show films illustrating how fish should be cooked, give talks and demonstrations and print hundreds of recipes for distribution across Canada.

The Ottawa kitchen is the heart of the service. Girls here make the recipes in a kitchen that would delight any housewife. It is equipped with a modern stove, a refrigerator, deep freeze and working counters.

"We take a basic recipe," Miss Myers said, "and perfect it with variations if we find it isn't up to our standards."

MANY DISHES

Titles of their books give an idea of what they turn out: "Canadian Fish Recipes," "Fish for Year-Round Salads," "Shellfish for Everyday Meals," and "Fish for Parties."

They are all available to the housewife. All she needs to do is write to Canadian Fish Recipes, Department of Fisheries, Ottawa.

Most recipes are worked out for the girl servings, the average family group. The department hopes to do more work in future for restaurants, hotels, railway dining cars and other public eating places.

"Canada's Fish Recipes" is the pride of the department, full of varied recipes with tempting pictures. It also tells how to buy fish, can it and prepare it for home freezing.

GOOD MANNERS

SHOULD THE GROUP HAVE WORN HATS?

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

A group of women who belong to a certain organization had a group photograph taken, and this is to be published soon in a magazine. Some the ladies wore hats, and some did not. Who were right about this? (Perhaps I should add that this group works for the church, and the members range in age from 25 to 75.)

Anxious-to-know

There isn't any rule about this. It depends on the judgment of the majority of the members of the group as to what they consider most appropriate and effective. But I do think that in this kind of photograph, particularly when there is such range in ages, it is best, in the interest of uniformity, for all to wear hats or all not to. And although I like hats, hats in a photograph do very quickly "date" the photograph, and therefore in this case I should have voted that all not wear hats.

BRIDE SHOULDN'T OVER-DRAMATIZE HAVING FLOWER GIRL

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

1. I'm to be married in July. My relatives are trying to give me advice in their way, but I find it's more an interference than a help. So I believe I should have the advice of someone like you because I read your column and like very much your advice about the planning of weddings. My sister and sister-in-law say that I should be married in the evening, but I prefer an afternoon wedding. I understand that I, the bride-to-be, have the say as to what plans I want, but I do want to do what is correct, and what is best for all concerned. I'm to have a 3½-year-old flower girl, and I am sure she would be very tired and irritable around 8 o'clock in the evening.

Also I want to invite several children to my wedding. I know no child likes to miss a wedding, and if my wedding is in the afternoon, the parents can take them home early, in time to put them to bed at the usual hour.

2. I am to wear a long wedding gown, fashioned on classical lines. Do my maid of honor and bridesmaids have to wear long gowns also? Or would it be permissible for them to wear cocktail-length dresses?

1. You're entirely right. . . You, the bride-to-be, should plan your own wedding. If it is an afternoon wedding you want, do plan to have an afternoon wedding . . . though I hope that the other reasons for your choice are more authentic than the ones you give! I hope too you aren't being so sentimental about having this little flower girl that you will let her steal the show . . . which is, alas, what so many brides do.

2. Even though you wear a long wedding dress, it is today entirely correct for your maid of honor and bridesmaids to wear cocktail-length dresses, or ballerina-length dresses, or even short dresses. As a matter of fact, today this is quite customary.

Indo-China Rebel Leader Has No Real Following in Viet Nam

By WILLIAM L. RYAN

SINGAPORE (AP) — Ho Chi Minh, Indo-China rebel leader, has no real following in Viet Nam, said a Viet Namese leader. Ho is losing ground politically in Viet Nam, said a French officer. He would wid three-quarters of the vote in Viet Nam were there an election tomorrow, said an American observer.

All three are more right than wrong. Ho's power was forced on the people in the areas he controls. Many people in the Vietminh areas have been disillusioned by what he has done to them with his power. In an election, Communist terror in Red areas would frighten voters away from the polls. In other regions a combination of nationalism, hatred of the French and the appeal of Ho's propaganda probably would be decisive.

LITTLE UNITY EVIDENT

The Viet Nam side has only the appearance of unity, at best. There is even a feeling of rivalry and resentment between south and north. The south is a surplus area, the north a deficit one. The southerners, who pay most of the taxes, are unwilling to accept the appearance of domination by the hard-working northern people.

That is only part of the story. Viet Nam has a number of political parties, but all seem to be made up only of leaders without members to speak of. One of the firmest unifying influences probably is the Roman Catholic Church, but it has only 2,000,000 members.

Religious sects operate their own armed forces. Only about a week ago, some of these para-military organizations announced willingness to place themselves under the national army. It probably took some persuasion, and there was no firm prospects of success for the venture in view of the weakness of the Viet Nam government.

CAO DAI SECT LARGEST

The oldest and the strongest of the armed sects is the Cao Dai, which actually is an attempt to embrace all religions. Basically, there was no real religion in the past in Viet Nam except ancestor worship. The Cao Dai has saints from many religions and from outside the religious field. Victor Hugo, for example, is a Cao Dai saint.

The Cao Dai has had physical control over a large area of south Viet Nam. Its armed force numbers about 20,000, with authority over about 2,000,000 persons, like a state within a state. The Cao Dai, a member of the so-called anti-Communist bloc, has opposed the government in the past and has resisted having forces taken into the national army. Armed by the French, the Cao Daists are fairly well equipped.

Another sect, the Binh Xuyen, has about 6,000 troops, also armed by the French and led by Gen. le van Dien, known as a gambling czar. This organization has control of the area from Saigon to the sea at Cap St. Jacques. It has gambling privileges to finance itself and it is also rumored that it exacts tribute from Chinese merchants in Cholon, a city of 875,000. Cholon is composed 90 per cent of Chinese who are not considered a political faction.

The Hoa Hao sect has about 6,000 troops, organized militarily on similar lines to the Cao Dai but far less influential.

There seems to be no single leader who can rally the whole country, no single ideal, no single rallying point at all. Possibly the only unanimity might be hatred of the Chinese, who dominated the country for a thousand years and whose troops pillaged after the Japanese left following the Second World War. But the ordinary person still remain unaware that victory for Ho would mean victory for the Chinese, too.

Against all this, Ho has a right organization of disciplined Communists, organized down to the village commissar level.

Ho divided the country into military districts, with Communists in control of each district. The army is organized on the approved Communist line with a political commissar wielding unquestioned power over military officers.

Shower of Tiny Missiles Marks 40 Windshields

WINDSOR (CP) — The owner of a Windsor used car lot reported a shower of tiny missiles marked the windshields of between 30 and 40 cars during a short space of time Wednesday night.

Salesmen at the lot noticed a burning or stinging sensation on their arms and other exposed parts of the body, and had to take shelter. One late-model car had a 16-inch windshield crack. Others had gouges like those made with a BB gun.

One of the missiles was found Tuesday embedded in a car windshield. It was about the same size and consistency as the broken end of a lead pencil.

Damage on the lot was estimated at $2,000.

Easter Services Well Attended

MADOC — Easter services held in the churches at Madoc were well attended. At St. J. John's Anglican church, Canon Penny, rector; John Lee, lay reader, took the service. Easter communion was observed at the morning service and Easter hymns, and a special Easter anthem were sung by the choir.

The junior choir sang "This Joyful Eastertime," and the senior choir sang three anthems with Miss Annie Nickle taking the solo parts.

The morning hymns were a musical service and William Aylesworth opened with an Easter hymn, followed by a baritone solo "Why Hast Thou Forsaken Me" by Dubois; a instrumental quintet, "Cast Thy Burden" from Elijah; junior choir, "I Walked Today Where Jesus Walked," duet or solo by Jan Druff, "The Lord's Prayer," baritone solo by W. Aylesworth, "The Trumpet Shall Sound," from The Messiah; instrumental quintet, "O Sacred Head" by Bach. Wigle taking the solo parts, and the junior choir joining the senior choir for two numbers.

Mrs. Reid and Mrs. L. Ashley were the accompanist for the evening. A fine service of song and a fitting close for an Easter Sunday service.

Sub-Committee Tackles Problem Of Comic Books

By ARTHUR EVERETT

NEW YORK (AP)—A U.S. Senate sub-committee tackled the problem of blood and thunder comic books on Wednesday. It ran into testimony as contradictory as Superman at a tea party.

Most witnesses agreed there was too much stabbing, maiming, torture, slaying and sex.

But up stepped a childless second-generation comic book publisher, William M. Gaines who boasted that he introduced horror into the playroom. Said he of comic books in childish hands:

"I don't think it does them a bit of harm."

HEADLESS WOMAN

Gaines was shown one of his covers. It depicted a man with a bloody ax standing over a woman and holding her severed head in one hand.

Gaines said he considered this in good taste.

What, then, asked the startled senators, would Gaines consider bad taste?

Replied Gaines:

"It would be bad taste if the head were held a little higher with the blood dripping out."

OPPOSING VIEWS

Richard Clendenen, staff director of the sub-committee on juvenile delinquency, testified that experts generally agreed that crime and horror books are most dangerous to the disturbed child, rather than the well-adjusted one. But Dr. Frederic Wertham, senior psychiatrist of the New York City department of hospitals, testified just the opposite.

Wertham said abnormal children are too wrapped up in themselves to be swayed by comic books. He added:

"It is the good child who is tempted and seduced by the comic books. As long as these books exist, there are no secure homes. . . .

"Every type of crime and delinquency is described in detail. The whole point is that evil triumphs and that you can commit a perfect crime."

$500,000 Fire Levels Depot Of Bread Co.

TORONTO (CP)—A $500,000 fire Wednesday levelled the two-month-old delivery depot of Wonder Bakeries Limited, in suburban Mimico. Many 40-cartn-baking explosions rocked the street as gasoline tanks of loaded bread trucks blew up.

Chain-reaction blasts at two-minute intervals could be heard 10 miles away. Columns of black smoke rose 3,000 feet and flames shot 150 feet into the air as walls of the brick building crumbled under the blaze and fire.

Firemen estimated the loss at close to $500,000. They said the building alone cost $150,000 and the trucks, other equipment and bread were worth upwards of $400,000.

The company normally makes no deliveries Wednesday in the area. For that reason, its 66 trucks were all in the delivery depot when the fire started from an exploding gasoline tank on one of the vehicles.

The company said there will be no deliveries in the lakeshore area today as a result of the fire.

TORONTO (CP)—Public school children's knowledge of the world is suffering under the present system of lumping geography and history broadly under social studies, members of a panel at an urban teachers' meeting said yesterday.

W. R. McVittie of Guelph, panel chairman, said many teachers have reservations about the social studies course. He said this was shown in a recent questionnaire sent out to teachers in his district.

W. E. Rowe of Galt said teaching of history and geography as separate subjects should be reinstituted. Other panel members said under the present system there is too much stress on remote places and not enough on local geography.

The panel was one of a number held by educational groups meeting here in connection with the annual convention of the Ontario Educational Association. The convention concludes today after a four-day session.

ASK FEDERAL SUBSIDIES

Federal subsidies for education that would give rural and remote areas the same opportunities as others were recommended by the Ontario School Trustees and Ratepayers Association. It decided to ask the Ontario government to ask for such subsidies.

One argument was that the federal government is bringing many immigrants to Canada who require increased facilities that taxpayers must provide. Immigrants were mentioned as those whose presence should help pay for the extra facilities.

The association also said Remembrance Day, not being a statutory holiday, should not be a school holiday. Appropriate services, however, should be held in schools on that date. This was to be recommended to Ontario's Education Minister Dunlop.

SUFFRESS HOMEWORK

Dr. Earle Zeigler of the University of Western Ontario said pupils should not be asked to do homework. Children should be more active after sitting in school all day, he added, a group discussing children's health.

To give children a balanced activities, recreation should be given more attention by community planners, he said.

ENJOY LIFE

Children must be taught to enjoy living, he said. He said he remembered teachers who appeared set, to make life miserable, and who never cracked a joke in the classroom.

The Association conferred life membership on three members for long and valuable service to education in Ontario.

Recipients were Miss Lena Monaghan, Ottawa, Dr. Margaret S. Gordon, Guelph, and retiring president, and Dr. Arthur G. Hooper, Toronto.

Glass-Pitting Hits Building

TORONTO (CP) — Glass-pitting, previously a "disease" of car windshields, was reported to have hit the glass in a building Wednesday.

An office window at Cargo Doors Limited in east Toronto on the lakefront was found spotted with tiny holes over most of the 24-by-30-inch glass area. The window faced west.

Operators of used car lots have reported thousands of dollars damage done to windshields of automobiles on their lots by the pitting during the last two days. Cause of the pitting is still undetermined.

Contract Price For Tomatoes Is $30 A Ton

HAMILTON (CP) — Growers and processors agreed on a basic price of $30 a ton for tomatoes in Toronto Wednesday after previous recommendations of the Ontario vegetable growers' marketing board, it was learned here.

The agreement is for a $13 price spread between No. 1 and No. 2 grades. The quota limitation during a 10-day consecutive period of peak production was set at 85 bushels per acre.

Last year the quota limitation was 125 bushels per acre per week, during a two-week period of peak production. The minimum price of $30 is $3 lower than last year.

Price for No. 1 tomatoes will be $36.50 a ton, as compared with $38 a ton in 1953, and No. 2's $22.50 as compared with $23 a year ago.

Other provisions in the 1953 agreement closing date fixed at Oct. 5, and processors can only close before Oct. 5 if 90 per cent of processors, growers, have served notice their crop is harvested, or if 90 per cent of company's growers have failed to make any deliveries during seven-day period after Sept. 15.

Frank Parry, Chatham, chairman of the growers' negotiating committee, termed concessions gained in this year's agreement "a big step forward."

Two Committed To Stand Trial On Bribe Attempt

TORONTO (CP)—David Tushet, 57, and his brother-in-law, Alex Bornstein, were committed for trial Wednesday on charges of attempting to bribe a witness not to testify against them in another case.

The two, who operate an egg melange factory, are charged with selling food unfit for human consumption.

Victor Movay testified that he was offered $2,500 if he would change his testimony against them in the first case or just disappear. He said he had been employed at the factory of the accused for four days when he decided and he was instructed to appear as a witness.

Tusher was allowed bail of $5,000 and Bornstein's bail was set at $1,000. Maximum penalty for bribery is two years and a fine.

Police Arrest 33-Year-Old Man After Stabbing

TORONTO (CP) — An 18-year-old Fork Arthur girl told police she feigned unconsciousness in her rooming house bed Wednesday while her assailant pulled a knife from her back after stabbing her.

Police later arrested Wilbert Maidment, 33, whom they said lives in a basement room of the same house. He was charged with wounding in the stabbing of Helen Hordy, an unemployed, ex-legirl.

Miss Hordy was allowed to return to her room after hospital treatment for a 1¼-inch wound in her back.

She told police a man entered her room on the second floor, quarreled with her, then stabbed her. Police said the weapon was a penknife with a two-inch blade.

The man fled after the stabbing and the girl alarmed another roomer, who called police.

Worker Rescued

HAMILTON (CP) — Two Hamilton men dug through wet earth with their hands for half an hour Wednesday night to save a construction worker who had been buried up to his neck in a trench cave-in.

Giuseppe la Civita, 33, was repairing a broken water main when the trench collapsed.

Steve Benning and Arthur Nutter, ran across the street to rescue him. La Civita suffered only bruises.

Victims Identified

NORTH BAY (CP) — Two air force students killed in the crash of a CF-100 jet fighter at the RCAF base here Tuesday night were identified Wednesday.

They are Pilot Off. Donald Freckleton, 22, of Taft's Cove, N.S., and Navigator Yvon Marcel Joseph Turpin, 23, a native of Sturgeon Falls, Ont., whose parents live in Ottawa.

The RCAF here, in identifying the navigator, gave his name from their records as Joseph Marcelle Turpin, 23.

Members of Turpin's family have his name as Yvon Marcel Joseph Turpin.

FAVORS REARMING

PARIS (Reuters)—Yugoslavia's President Tito, in an interview with the Paris newspaper Le Monde, has come out in favor of the rearmament of Western Germany within the framework of the European Defence Community. The Germans, he said, should be rearmed on an equal footing with the other states to safeguard their independence.

Soviet Union Starts Calling Home People in Close Contact With Australia's 'Gouzenko'

CANBERRA (AP) — The Soviet Union appeared today to have started calling home any of its people in Australia who were in too-close contact with the Russian embassy's fugitive third secretary, Vladimir Petrov.

In the wake of Petrov's defection to the West and the dramatic last-minute rescue of his wife from armed Soviet couriers hustling her back to Moscow, the Kremlin was reported today to have recalled Victor Antonov, correspondent in Australia for Tass, the official Soviet news agency, and a junior Soviet embassy attache, Y. E. Flatkats.

Reliable sources said the embassy commercial attache, N. G. Kovalev, also is preparing for an early flight home.

Antonov is believed by Australian security officials to have been the chief contact man in the espionage ring in Australia which Petrov claims he headed. Petrov turned over a huge mass of documents to the Australians to back up his claim when he sought refuge from communism early this month.

Already on its way back to Moscow empty-handed is the embassy second secretary, P. V. Klishin, who with two armed Russian diplomatic couriers tried unsuccessfully Monday to chaperone Petrov's tearful wife back to Russia.

CONTINUE FLIGHT

Klishin and the two couriers continued their flight after Australian authorities released Mrs. Petrov's two burly escorts and took the woman and the European-bound plane at Darwin.

Granted the right to rejoin her husband as a political refugee, Mrs. Petrov left Darwin before dawn today in a Royal Australian Air Force plane and headed for his secret hiding place.

The government meanwhile drew up its reply to a Soviet embassy note angrily accusing the refugee former third secretary and purported MVD security police chief in Australia with obtaining by forgery "large sums of state money." The embassy demanded that Petrov be turned over to the Russians as a common criminal.

The Australians plan to ask the Russians for detailed proof of their charges. Prime Minister Robert G. Menzies scoffed at the embezzlement accusation, branding it a "purely conventional Soviet allegation." He said it will in no way affect the investigation now going on by a special royal commission into Petrov's spy-ring disclosures.

Big Crowd Hears Russian Artists In Massey Hall

TORONTO (CP)—Six Russian artists gave a concert here Wednesday night before a packed house. Every seat of the more than 2,500 in Massey Hall was occupied and there were persons standing in many of the aisles.

The artists, who are to give concerts in six Canadian cities, were a violinist, pianist, soprano, tenor and two ballet dancers. They were sponsored by the Canadian Soviet Friendship Society.

Hugh Thomson, writing in the Toronto Star, called it "a strangely mixed-up concert with emphasis on technical brilliance and virility, but sensitivity in short supply." George Kidd of the Toronto Telegram said "the audience was not well enough acquainted with concert manners to carry sincerity for its boisterous approval of everything that took place."

John Kraglund of the Globe and Mail said "the event proved highly interesting and at times, enjoyable."

The concert was held without interference, although five police officers were stationed around the building to prevent demonstrations.

DROPS SUIT

LOS ANGELES (AP)—Barbara Gray Aiking, 27, striptease dancer, dropped her $25,000 battery suit against actor Sonny Tufts Wednesday. She had charged he hit her right thigh last March 13 in her apartment.

Last Wednesday evening, Rev. R. Giffen, of Foxboro United Church, was the guest speaker at St. John's United Church and on Good Friday evening, Rev. W. K. Pace received into full membership of the church by profession of faith the following: Mr. and Mrs. Robert Ogilvie, Mrs. Allen Foster, Caroline Vance, Betty Cocchio, Mrs. Gerald Campbell, Marcen Engel, Donna Reyner, Garry Blakely, Donald Hodgins, John Foster, Carman Deahane.

By transfer: Mrs. Gertrude Dunning, Mrs. Aubrey Reid, Miss Jessie Walker and Gerald Campbell.

Rhona Campbell, infant daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Gerald Campbell was baptized at the Good Friday evening service.

At the 11 o'clock Easter Sunday service at St. John's United, the church was filled to capacity, chairs were placed in every aisle as the crowd thronged the church. Glorious Easter lilies and other floral tributes were in evidence on the altar.

SPECIAL MESSAGE.

Rev. W. K. Pace, pastor, had prepared a special Easter message for his congregation and had chosen as his subject, "This Long-ing After Immortality."

The senior, intermediate and junior choirs conducted by R. H. Connor, with Fred Porter at the organ and Mrs. Connor at the piano, rendered special anthems. The senior and intermediate choirs were heard in the anthem, "Hallelujah, Now is Christ Risen" (Stinger), and the intermediate and junior choirs, "An Easter Song."

Holy Communion was served at the conclusion of the morning service.

In the evening a religious film in color was presented, "I Beheld His Glory."

Rev. L. E. Hawkes, rector of St. James' Church of England, conducted four different services on Easter Day.

Special Easter Sunday masses were celebrated at St. Carthagh's Tweed, and St. Michael's, Stirlingbridge, with large crowds of worshippers attending all these services.

At St. Andrew's Presbyterian Church, Rev. M. W. Scaip had prepared a special Easter message for his Tweed congregation. At the Salvation Army Citadel Lieut. William Brown conducted a sunrise service at 7:30 Easter morning.

CNR Champions Honored At Bowling Party

Harry Robinson, that old master of bowling fame added another feather to his cap of achievement last night.

He piloted his Locos team in the Canadian National Railway Association Bowling League to the 1953-54 championship, and was formally presented with a handsome trophy at the league stag party held in the ANAF auditorium.

The Locos led the Stores, Combines, Despatchers, Wreckers, Boilermakers and Orphans to the wire in a closely-fought seasonal schedule and playoffs. Included in the champion team are Don Leckie, Harold Young, Bill Osmond, Bill Huskinson, Ted Hopkins, E. D. Adams and R. Bandy.

Skipper Robinson was formally presented with the McMillan Trophy by Mr. A. R. Wilson, superintendent of the Belleville division of the CNR.

Individual prize winners were The Bellis, high average, 232; Bill Adams, high triple, 823 and Lionel Train, high single 404. The champion Locos won the team average prize with a mark of 200.

At the election of officers "Cy" Young was named president for the coming year. Allan Bushnell was given the secretarial position with Doug McLaughlin named treasurer.

The remainder of the evening was spent at cards and social amenities.

Mistake Brings New Entry To Empire Games

VANCOUVER (CP) — An innocent mistake has resulted in an unexpected entry to the British Empire Games here July 30-Aug. 7.

A formal invitation was sent to Singapore asking that the Federated States of Malaya attend the games. Singapore, bursting with national fervor, interpreted the invitation to apply to the State of Singapore and speedily accepted.

The mixup was discovered when B.E.G. officials here noticed the flag sent from Singapore was not the same as the one displayed by Malaya at the last games in Auckland, New Zealand.

A polite inquiry about the flag's new design prompted the reply there was nothing wrong with the bunting — it was the flag of Singapore.

Officials here realized only then that Malaya had not received a formal invitation to the games. An invitation was hurried off to Malaya and a reply is expected within a week.

Should Malaya also accept, Canada will be host to 36 nations, counting Singapore, an unprecedented figure for the games.

Sport in Brief

SIX NEW PLAYERS

HAMILTON, (CP)— Jake Gaudaur, president of the Tiger-Cats football club, has revealed that six new U.S. players have been signed by the Hamilton team. He refused to divulge their names.

"They are college rather than pro types," he added. He intimated that the six were a variety of tackles, centres, ends and back-fielders.

One of the six is rumoured to be a centre from Syracuse University. Coach Carl Voyles has been looking for a replacement for Gaudaur who retired as a player after the 1953 Grey Cup game. Hamilton's other centre of last year, Quincy Armstrong, is not expected to return as he has received an offer from a U.S. professional club.

MAIN WINS

GENOA, Italy (CP)—Lorne Main of Toronto and Vancouver, winner of last week's Monte Carlo invitation tennis tournament, Wednesday entered the quarter-finals of the Genoa international tournament by defeating Umberto Bergamo of Italy 8-6, 6-2.

A GREAT VICTORY!

Dashing, debonair Whipper Billy Watson, the idol of thousands of Canadian wrestling fans, not to mention innumerable darn south of the border, has won the toughest bout of his long and honorable mat career.

It was the longest in the thousands of bouts in which the Whip has participated since he joined the moneyed ranks of wrestling. It took nearly five years before the Whipper was forced to concede the fall.

WHIPPER WATSON

But the Whipper did not fail victim to the coilsnot of the ring such as Fred Atlas, the Masked Marvel, Lord Layton and other graduates of the college of applied pachyderm. He suffered a neck injury in a bout some five years back; and the continued activity accentuated the condition until, the reports state, the discs between the vertebras had been pressed down.

The result was gradually increasing pain, in the arms and head that finally became excruciating and this added to mental torture, as a Toronto columnist puts it, wherein the Whip imagined such things as cancer, polio, etc., finally floored the popular British Empire champion.

Now, after taking treatment that proved almost as painful as the condition itself, the Whip says he feels better mentally and physically than he has in five years. He has been a patient in St. Michael's Hospital for the past six weeks and expects to return home on Saturday.

Whip's doctor says he can see no reason why the wrestler cannot return to the sport. The only difference is that before he had pain. Now he has none.

Watson said in an interview: "I've had a lot of hefts put on me but this one was the toughest. They told me I'd be all right if I'd been in my last match. But I made up my mind that I'd try wrestling again whether they said yes or no. Now I have my pain for the first time in months. I should have four or five good wrestling years left yet."

According to Al Nicklson of the Globe and Mail, the Whipper is working himself back into shape at St. Michael's. He is at his fighting weight of 235 pounds and is allowed the use of the hospital gymnasium, where he works with 25-pound weights and on a stationary bicycle.

Wrestledom in general and fandom herebouts in particular, will be glad to hear of the Whip's recovery. Whenever he steps into a Belleville ring, the rafters rock with the plaudits of the faithful, specially those of the younger fry to whom the Whip is an idol, a god, and the epitome of all that is clean, and good in sport.

We have known Whipper Billy Watson personally for quite a number of years. We found him to be an outstanding type of Canadian manhood, the kind of a guy you would like your son to be. He is rated as one of the finest sportsmen in the world of wrestling sport, and on occasions we have seen him refuse to accept victory when the opposition was rendered hors-de-combat through accident.

He has a creed of living which a lot of people would do well to emulate. He loves kids, as the 100,000 members of the Whipper Watson Boys' Safety Club prove. And the kids love him. Wherever he goes, he is surrounded by the moppets, the light of hero-worship flaming in their eyes. He's the kind of a fellow we would like to have on our side, always.

The best news of all is that the popular champion expects to be back in mat action within five or six weeks. And in all probability he will appear in one of his favorite out-of-town centres, the city of Belleville. Best wishes to a stout fella.

HAIL THE CHAMPS!

The Thomas Bata Trophy, emblematic of the championship of the Trent Valley Hockey League, will lie atop a Point Anne mantel for the rest of the year. Earle Anderson's gallant crew came through with a sparkling 9-4 victory over the fighting Marmora Millionaires to annex the series, the title, and the silverware.

It is the first time for the Ox Pointers and they are worthy champions. They battled hard and long through a tough schedule and through the playoff series. No one will begrudge them the honors won. Point Anne is justifiably proud of its champions and the glory that goes with the title couldn't have gone to a finer crew of sportsmen.

The Ox Pointers won the title the hard way. They had to. For they were up against a gallant, hard-battling team that wore the colors of Marmora. The boys from the mid-Hastings village were as fine in defeat as were Point Anne in victory. They deserved a better fate but somebody must lose and somebody must win. The Millionaires snifted enough hockey under their sweaters the last five weeks to cover five schedules. Four and five games a week, plus plenty of travel, will take its toll and we are not detracting from Point Anne's glory by saying the Millionaires were hockey-gorged and possibly leg-weary.

They brought honors to themselves, their village and Hastings County in a fine all-round performance, both within the Trent Valley League and in the OHA intermediate playdowns. This department salutes a fine team of sportsmen who are worthy champions in their own right.

Larry Doby Hits Four-Bagger In Ninth to Give Tribe Win; Lopat, Homers Win for Yanks

By BEN FELLEGAR
Associated Press Sports Writer

Baltimore's Bullet Bob Turley may still be earning a baseman's headache today, but he probably will end up glad that he didn't pitch that no-hitter.

Wednesday night he came within two outs of holding Cleveland Indians hitless, but wound up losing 3-2 when Al Rosen singles and Larry Doby, twice a strikeout victim, lined a high pitch 360 feet into the right field stands of Baltimore's Municipal Stadium.

It was one big headache, Turley said. "He never should have swung."

Turley, just out of the army, wasn't around the last time a member of his American League team pitched a no-hitter. That was in May last season when the Orioles were still in the St. Louis Browns. Bobo Holloman was the pitcher, and nobody would go broke giving prizes for answers to the question "whose Holloman now?" (He was lost in the minors.)

MORE FORTUNATE

Bob Porterfield of Washington Senators, whose last effort was all bad, was more fortunate than Turley. He pitched a three-hitter against Philadelphia Athletics and his mates supported him with a 13-hit attack that produced a 10-0 victory.

New York Yankees whipped Boston Red Sox 3-1 in the only other American League game. Brooklyn defeated Philadelphia Phillies 5-2, Pittsburgh edged New York Giants 4-3, St. Louis beat Cincinnati 4-0 and Milwaukee thumped Chicago Cubs 7-3 in the National League.

The Yankees used their best weapon, the home run, to ruin young Lou Kretlow's return to the army to the Red Sox. Yogi Berra, Gil McDougald and Billy Martin each parked Kindly's left-handed slants into the Yankee Stadium seats while the Sox were being mystified by Eddie Lopat.

The Phils threw their game away in Brooklyn in the first inning when three throwing errors by the infield enabled Duke Snider to score five walks and a single gave the Dodgers three runs.

Whitey Lockman had a bad night in Pittsburgh, the Giants' first-baseman hit a home run in the fifth inning only to have it disallowed because base runner Dusty Irvin had called time. Then in the eighth inning he muffed a pick-off throw and Toby Atwell scampered home from third with the winning run.

Gerry Staley of the Cards won his first game and a new suit of clothes in Cincinnati. Manager Ed Stanky, moaning over his pitching, planned a new outfit for the new suit to the first St. Louis hurler to stay the distance. Staley immediately responded with a nine-inning nightcap.

Stanky wasn't around for much of it. He was chased in the third inning by umpire Bill Jackowski for making rude gestures after being warned to stay within the lines of the coaching box.

Pegs, Penticton Battle to Tie

VERNON, B.C. (CP)—Winnipeg Maroons and Penticton V's continued their toss-up battle for an Allan Cup finals berth here Wednesday night, battling to a 4-4 overtime tie, their second of the series, to leave the best-of-seven western final set deadlocked at four points each.

Fifth game in what now amounts to a best-of-three affair will be played Friday in Penticton.

Rookie sensation Gary Aldcorn again emerged as the hero of the piece for the Maroons, tying the game at 16:03 of the third period. It was the third goal of the night for the 19-year-old Winnipeg star.

Maroons almost won it in overtime when Bill Robinson netted midway through the period while V's were unscathed but referee Chick Little ruled that the 'Peg rearguard had batted it with his hand and that Tom Hockey was in the crease.

Matanè Keeps Chances Alive With 5-1 Win Over Sudbury

SUDBURY (CP) — Matane Red Rocks kept their hopes of entering the Allan Cup finals alive Wednesday night by defeating Sudbury Wolves 5-1.

The Wolves, who needed only a tie to clinch the series, now lead the best-of-seven Eastern final 3-2 with one game tied. A tie in Friday's game will send the Wolves into the Canadian Senior Hockey championships against either Winnipeg Maroons or Penticton V's.

The Red Rocks were never behind. They jumped in front 1-0 in the first period, allowed the Wolves temporarily to tie the score before going ahead 3-1 in the second and then rounded out their total with two goals in the third.

Rene Pepin led the Red Rocks with two goals. Playing coach Gerry Plamondon, Bernie Limoges and R. Bilodeau were the other snipers. Frank King scored the only Sudbury goal.

SCORES WINNER

Pepin scored the winning goal on a penalty shot in the second. He had only Al Millar, Sudbury netminder, to beat when he was pulled down from behind by Lennie Speck. A penalty shot was awarded on the play and Pepin scored his first goal of the evening.

Plamondon opened the scoring at 13:33 of the first period after taking a pass from Leger who was behind the Sudbury net. King fired a waist-high shot from about 10 feet out to beat Marcel Paille and tie the score at 5:05 of the second. The penalty shot sent Matane ahead for good. Limoges made it 3-1 while both teams were shorthanded at 16:25. Leger fished the puck out of a scramble and passed it to Limoges to start the play.

Pepin's second goal which came at 6:45 of the third was scored when the Matane forward flew down the left boards, circled the defence and let go with a low shot into the corner of the Sudbury net.

Brunt broke away during a Sudbury attack late in the game and passed to Bilodeau for the final score. The goal, which came at 17:34 was corrected from Millar's sight and went through his knees.

Pt. Anne Defeats Marmora 9-4 To Win Trent Valley Crown

(By GARRY ALEXANDER)

The Trent Valley hockey championship and the Thomas Bata Memorial Trophy rest in the hands of Bert Anderson's Point Anne Cementmen after their clean-cut 9-4 victory over the Marmora Ironmen in the latter's home arena last night.

The win gives the first that the Potters have been able to take over the Marmora crew in Marmora during league and playoff games, gave the Cementmen the series 4-2 in games. The two teams took turns winning at the first of the series, with each club winning a pair at home but looking bad on the other's ice. Then Pointers edged them 7-6 here last Monday evening, and then came up with a fine performance with the money game on foreign ice.

Last night fixture started out at a high scoring pace with the winners getting three and the home team coming back with four to hold a 4-3 lead after the first bell. From then on it was all Point Anne as they went ahead 8-4 in the middle stanza and pumped home another trio in the final twenty minutes.

WENT DOWN FIGHTING

Marmora did not, however, go down without a fight and at the 17:40 mark it appeared they might make it close yet. Bill Strahan had gone off for charging a minute before and then Doc Bates tripped a Marmora man and he skated through the goaltender's crease with the result that he too was given a penalty. The Marmora coach, having nothing to lose, moved his goaltender with an extra forward. They roared around the net, and missed several close chances but were unable to beat Bates.

Pat Gilmour opened the scoring on a backhander from close in front at 3:34 with Bill Strahan and Bob Hunter making it 2-0 by the same method. Glen Lavender took matters in his own hands at this point with two goals for Marmora in the early seconds and then with Mulholland in the six-bin for tripping, Bill Jones took passes from Marcin and Brooks to knot the score. At 13:15, Glen Green went off for elbowing and once more Mr. Lavender beat Bates, this time on a long backhand shot that was partly screened, to put his team out front for the first and only time in the game.

Bob Hunter tied the count at 4-4 early in the second period with Gayer and Ted Williams drawing assists and then at the ten minute mark Don Bates was hit on the face with a hard drive that sent him to the dressing room for repairs. He returned and played brilliant hockey to shut out the Millionaires the rest of the way.

Bill Strahan got what proved to be the winning goal at 18.54 when he banged home Gilmour's rebound to make it 5-4 with one second to play Tim Williams notched another for a final 6-4 lead.

George Jacklin hit the hemp after only 22 seconds had passed in the third period to make the counties later, playing-coach Williams sank his second for the eighth. Bob Hunter, who played an outstanding game, got the final marker at 8.50 with both teams one man short.

Pat Gilmour had a goal and three assists to top the point getters, while Hunter claimed three goals, Williams two and one, Strahan two goals and Gerry Gayer a trio of assists. Jacklin picked up one goal and an assist.

For the losers, Glen Lavender blitzed the lights with his five decisions while Jones got the other.

After the final whistle had blown, Bill Reagan, president of the league, and Art Duncan, first vice-president, met the two clubs on the ice and presented team officials with the trophy with the Thomas Bata trophy.

The teams:

Point Anne—Bates, J. Green, Mulholland, Gilmour, Strahan, Hunter, Gayer, Jacklin. Williams, L. Goyer, G. Goyer, Hunter, Williams, L. Maracle, P. Maracle, Twa.

With The Minors

By GARRY ALEXANDER

This Friday evening 578 boys, ranging in age from seven to 10 will gather in the Bridge Street Armouries to close out a very successful season of minor hockey. Seven-thirty is the time and the occasion is the big party that the Belleville Minor Hockey Association is giving to players, coaches, managers, referees, sponsors and supporters.

A great deal of planning has gone into the preparation with Jim Thomson, star defenceman for the Toronto Maple Leafs NHL club as the special guest, trophies and crests for winning teams and individual award winners, food and soft drinks for all, not to mention movies.

Bob Bland has been in charge of the "special guest department." Pay the man what he has tried to get King Clancy, Sid Smith, Ken Reardon and several others but Jim Thomson is one of the finest selections he could have made.

It was Jim's goal that brought the senior trophy to the Leafs goal keeper, Harry Lumley, in the last game of the season against the Detroit Red Wings. Although he only scored two goals this year, both were important to his club. The first, he notched against Montreal to give the Leafs a very important win, it being his first goal after an 81-83 season. Jim should have some pretty good stories to hold the fellows interest when they gather for supper, hot dogs and coke.

"Red" Doran, who has done a great job for the B.M.H.A. with president Frank Grandamo, reports that 192 of the 578 active players this past winter were under the jurisdiction of the O.M.H.A. insurance which paid out $73.00 to three boys for medical and dental expenses. That's an excellent record when only three boys out of five leagues are hurt bad enough to need medical attention.

Turning from hockey to baseball, the Belleville Minor Baseball Association has begun their organization with election of the executive for the past approaching season.

Frank Grandame has surrendered his official title as president after leading the group since it's beginning in the city but you can bet that he'll be around when he's needed.

Bill Gault was named president at last week's meeting with "Red" Doran, vice chairman, and Bill Brennan taking over as secretary.

Several ideas that should make for a better season all around, are being put into force. One is school for umpires and coaches which will be sometime near the middle of May under the supervision of Mayek Scheff, Toronto.

A school for the minor players will also be conducted. The CNR recreation field has been obtained for that use. The school will probably be held between the end of this month and the middle of May. Al Kelleher, Ed Wallis and Don Dolan will be three of the men in charge.

So far about eight sponsors have agreed to foot the bill that comes from running say ball team and it is hoped that many more will attend the next meeting. The schedule will start early in June and run through until August with playoffs to follow.

Gridiron Star Ignores Draft, May Play Here

WASHINGTON (AP) — Bernie Faloney, the No. 1 draft choice of the San Francisco 49ers, said Wednesday he definitely will not sign with that National Football League club.

It's a matter of fact, the University of Maryland quarterback said, he may very well pass up U.S. pro football altogether in favor of a baseball career.

Faloney, a classy shortstop and a good hitter, already has received feelers from Brooklyn Dodgers, Philadelphia Phillies and Washington Senators.

Faloney, a second team all-American, said that if he plays pro baseball, it will be with a Canadian club. He didn't say which one.

Simcoe Scores Six in Third To Trim Oshawa

SIMCOE, Ont. (CP)— Simcoe Gunners Wednesday night scored six straight goals in the third period to defeat Oshawa Truckmen 8-7 in the first game of their Ontario Hockey Association senior B semi-finals.

Gunners had a 2-1 lead in the first period but Oshawa put in three goals in the second to take a 5-2 advantage. By the middle of the third period, Oshawa was ahead 7-3. Then Gunners caught fire and put in their six goals. Benny Cardas was the chief Simcoe scorer with three goals. George Kendrick put in two and Reggie Smith, Ron Rohmer, Lennie Cooke and Fred Kenny scored one each.

Jack Thaley bagged four of Oshawa's seven goals and the others went to Wally Samanski, Don McBeth and George Samonkin.

Summer temperatures kept the ice sheet wet during the game.

Kings, Wings Spark International Trim Leafs, Richmond Two in Row

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Havana's Cuban Sugar Kings, one of the two new members, are off to a rigg start in the International Baseball League along with one of the circuit's oldest—Rochester Red Wings.

The Sugar Kings made it two straight over Toronto Wednesday night, defeating the Maple Leafs 4-2 while the Red Wings won their second game by trouncing Richmond Virginians, the other new entry, 11-4.

Ottawa Athletics opened their season with a 4-3 victory over Buffalo Bisons and Syracuse Chiefs nipped Montreal Royals 7-6 in their inaugural.

CUBAN HOME RUN

Havana took a run-filled lead over Toronto with a three-run rally in the second inning. Camaleon Garcia's home run of the season in the fourth, and another tally in the fifth.

Julio Moreno blanked the Leafs until the seventh when he gave up singles to Al Rubeling and Ray Demars and a double by Sam Jethroe to account for Toronto's two runs.

Rochester, which won the regular-season title last year, collected 15 hits off two Richmond pitchers.

Bob Bowman's ninth-inning home run broke a 6-6 tie with Montreal and gave Syracuse its opening-day victory.

Bowman, who hit 18-homers for Schenectady in the Eastern League last year, made two brilliant plays in right field and figured in the Chiefs' three-run sixth inning with a double.

Frank Marchio and Dixie Howell of the Royals, Lou Leyman of the Chiefs also hit home runs in the tight battle.

Mack Mackinson pitched 7 1-3 scoreless innings for Ottawa as the Athletics pounded out 10 hits off three Bison pitchers. Mackinson entered in the second inning with the bases filled and limited Buffalo to two hits the rest of the way.

Aylmer Wins Over Elmira

AYLMER, Ont. (CP) — Aylmer Trojans Wednesday defeated Elmira Polar Kings 6-4 to tie their Ontario Hockey Association intermediate A final series 1-1.

Referees kept a tight rein on the game and handed out 20 penalties. Stan Stoddard, Elmira forward was given a five-minute penalty for high sticking that injured Cliff Simpson and caused the Aylmer playing coach to retire for the rest of the game.

Stoddard, Jack Oberle, Ted Lacey and Lorne Wildfong scored for Elmira, Cy Kelly and Lou Mustos put in two goals each for Aylmer while Doug Parsons and Jimmy Peterson scored singles.

NEW YORK (AP) — Jackie Gordon, centre and captain of the Cleveland Barons, tied a record in winning individual scoring honors in the American Hockey League playoffs.

Gordon had 18 points on five goals and 13 assists in nine games to equal the playoff scoring marks of Fred Thurier, Frank Mario and Harry Sullivan, all now retired from professional hockey.

By leading playoff scorers for the second straight year, Gordon set a league mark.

Gil Mayer of Pittsburgh, the regular season scoring goal tender, led the playoffs on defence, giving up 13 goals in five games for an average of 2.60.

VANCOUVER (CP) — Calgary Stampeders chalked their way into a 1-0 win in the best-of-seven Western Hockey League finals here Wednesday night.

Majors Sign Bob Drake

LONDON, Ont. (CP) — London Majors of the senior Intercounty Baseball League Wednesday announced the signing of Bob Brake, a right-handed pitcher who chalked up a 11-2 win-loss record with the Majors in 1953.

HORSE SENSE BRIDGE

BY SAM GORDON
The Ribitzer

Always in a daze is Oscar Pendergast. In every game he plays his luck runs out to fast. Each new attempt he brands the goal to be great renown. But just before he lands somebody cuts him down.

Unlucky was the player who sat south in this deal:

NORTH
♥9 6 5 4
♦K 9 6 5
♣8 6 5

WEST
♠J 9 4
♥10 3
♦Q 9 7 4 3
♣10 7 3

EAST
♠8 5
♥A K Q J 8
♦10 8 2
♣Q J 9

SOUTH
♠A K Q 10 7 6
♦A 8
♣A K 4 2

He opened with a sound bid of two spades. The two-no-trump bid he got from his partner promised a sure trick there. So, south wound up in a contract of a mere tract of four spades. And it looks as if he should make it easily with nine of only a club and two hearts.

But east had aluck in a heart bid and the opening lead was the best trump in the deck. The declarer is going to run into a snag that will keep him from getting his proper ten tricks.

East took the first two tricks with heart and returned a third heart. Look at the unfortunate position south must find himself holding. Shall he ruff high or low?

If he ruffs with lower than the spade queen, west will over ruff with the jack and south ruffs high. west is bound to get a trump trick later with the jack of spades.

Opposite should ruff with two tricks in hearts. They will take a third of clubs and west is now sure of getting a trump trick; a total of four tricks that will defeat the contract.

The lead of a third heart by west forces south to play before west is natural. When it forces south to ruff before west is given west a decided advantage under conditions like these.

Sometimes, figure out of south's high trump he needs badly for pulling west's trump. For this reason such a play is known to bridge players as the knockout. The knockout is not needed for a knockout of your bridge opponents. You can sometimes deliver the lethal punch with a weak hand.

Movie Column

By BOB THOMAS

HOLLYWOOD (AP)—Jose Ferrer, to whom nothing seems to be impossible, now is doing songs and dances in movies.

The multi-talented Puerto Rican is embarking on the life of Sigmund Romberg in the MGM film biography "Deep in my Heart." While portraying the late composer of "middle-brow" music, Ferrer will have a chance to display his singing and dancing for the first time professionally.

He has one number in which he acts out all the roles in a musical. It last seven minutes, and Ferrer has been trying it out at Hollywood parties.

"I did it at Cole Porter's last night," he remarked. "All they have to do is ask me, sometimes even that isn't necessary. By doing the number privately, I can see what parts are good and what needs trimming. It's just like a tryout in the legitimate theatre."

The casting of Ferrer as Romberg was a puzzler to many people, and the actor himself admits there is little resemblance.

"I never knew Romberg." Ferrer remarked, "but people tell me he and I are not at all alike. What we are trying to capture is the spirit of his life, and I think the script has done that admirably.

"There couldn't be any conflict in the story, since Romberg, was apparently a success from the start. Primarily, it is the story of a happy man. The script covers a span of 20 or 25 years, and it shows how he progressed from being a song writer to composer. The climax of the picture will show him at Carnegie Hall conducting a concert of his works, which by then had achieved greatness."

Name Players For Scottish World Cup Team

GLASGOW (AP) — Scotland's soccer selectors Wednesday named 18 players from whom their World Cup team will be chosen—and out into the cold went many old-established internationals.

The selectors came up with a bold selection, including several newcomers to international soccer.

They backed up their decision to try out new blood by giving trials to several new men in the game against Norway at Hampden Park, Glasgow, May 5. All the 11 players in that team are included in Alan Brown (Blackpool) and Willie Ormond (Hibernian).

George Cox, who captained Scotland against England April 3, is dropped together with George Farm (Blackpool) goalkeeper, Mike Haughney (Celtic) full back, Bill Brennan (Newcastle) centre half, George Aitken (Sunderland) half back and Jackie Henderson (Portsmouth) forward.

The Scottish selectors who obviously were disappointed after England's 6-0 victory in April.

Senators Edge Quebec Aces To Take Lead

OTTAWA (CP)—Ottawa Senators will be clinging to a one-game edge when they meet the Aces in Quebec tonight in the fourth game of their best-of-seven series for the Quebec Hockey League championship.

Gerry Foley, 20-year-old winger, pulled the third game out of the fire here Wednesday night to give Ottawa a 2-1 victory and a similar margin in games.

Foley slipped the rubber past goalie Jack Gelineau from five feet out to break a 1-1 deadlock with less than three minutes remaining in the game.

The teams battled through two scoreless periods. Aces then went into the lead on Red Kelly's goal but, the Senators tied it up when Leo Gravelle beat Gelineau.

After the game, Quebec manager Punch Imlach had no comment on the game, but read the riot act to some of the 6,500 fans for littering the ice for a number of times during the game.

The fans in Ottawa are the worst I've ever met. They resorted to littering the ice with tin cans, stones and other missiles, including a muskrat skin which was slit open with part of the vendors banging."

Quebec player defenceman Bill Burege ran for short spells. He was the centre of charges by Ottawa owner T. P. Gorman that he was used in Monday night's game here just to cause injury to Ottawa players.

Referee George Gravel of Montreal called seven minor penalties. Gravel was ordered by QHL president George Slater to clamp down on rough tactics following Monday's game.

Smythe Leaves For Europe To Arrange Tour

NEW YORK (CP) — Conn Smythe, general manager of Toronto Maple Leafs, sailed aboard the Queen Elizabeth Wednesday for Europe where he hopes to arrange a hockey tour which will include a demonstration for Russians of how hockey should be played.

Smythe wants to arrange an exhibition tour for September in several European cities. He is primarily interested, however, in arranging games between the Leafs and Moscow Dynamos, world amateur hockey champions by virtue of their victory in Stockholm over Toronto East York, a senior B team.

Chicago Hawks Buy Sullivan For $25,000

CHICAGO (AP) — The Chicago Black Hawks of the National Hockey League Wednesday purchased centre George Red Sullivan, record-breaking scorer of the American Hockey League, from the Hershey Bears for $25,000.

Sullivan last season scored 110 points for Hershey, a Boston Bruins farm club. That broke the AHL record of 118 points set by Cliff Lacombe, Hershey fifth forwarder in the 1947-48 season. Sullivan's 80 assists while scoring 30 goals also broke an AHL mark.

Sullivan, 24, from Peterborough, Ont., broke into pro hockey with Hershey in the 1951-52 season. He played time in the 1952-53 campaign between Hershey and the Boston Bruins.

Purchase of the 180 pound, five foot 11 player was announced by Bill Tobin, Black Hawk general manager.

FAMED NOVEL, "JUBILEE TRAIL," MAGNIFICENTLY BROUGHT TO SCREEN

Trucolor Cameras Capture Epic Sweep, Dramatic Impact of Great Brilliant Best-Seller

One of the greatest American dramas in modern literary annals, Gwen Bristow's best-selling novel and Literary Guild selection, "Jubilee Trail," is brought brilliantly to the screen in magnificent Tru-color which unveiled its new smash offering at the Capitol theatre this afternoon.

The unforgettable characters in the history novel are found their way to the historic Jubilee Trail from old New York and the blazing cabarets of New Orleans of the 1800's, are colorfully brought to life by a strong star cast headed by Vera Ralston as the vivacious and alluring Florinda, Joan Leslie as Garnet, Forrest Tucker as John Ives and John Russell as Oliver. Augmenting the cast of this powerful drama of the Old West and the trail which led to the golden land of the Californias are Ray Middleton as Charles, Pat O'Brien as Vrain, Jean Hagen as Lucy Armstrong as the Handsome Brute and Jim Davis as Silky.

THUNDEROUS IMPACT

"Jubilee Trail" is a potent movie magic with thunderous dramatic impact. It sweeps across the screen in a gigantic drama of scintillating and tense action on a canvas as broad and colorful as the great trail which it portrays.

A brief outline of the story fails to capture the scope of this moving romance which springs from American history, however. It concerns the love of Florinda, the Southern bride of a young California trader, who makes the perilous overland journey to her husband's home, in New Orleans, she is befriended by Vera Ralston, beautiful and vivacious darling of the cabarets, who in turn is aided by Joan in escaping when wrongly accused of murder.

POWERFUL DRAMA

The two become fast friends and Florinda's reminder of the trip West, where the bride discovers her husband has been involved with an illegitimate child when he married her, although he wasn't aware of the circumstances of the affair at the time.

Joan's husband is killed by the abandoned girl's father and Joan and Vera continue on to Los Angeles where Florinda is born as California becomes a state, and where she subsequently weds Garnet

Your Individual Horoscope

BY FRANCES DRAKE

Look in the section in which your birthday comes and find what your outlook is, according to the stars.

FOR FRIDAY, APRIL 23, 1954

March 21 to April 20 (Aries) — A stimulating, encouraging day for sound investments and business. However, do not be too aggressive and do not indulge in fuss or try to override others. Intelligent management wins.

April 21 to May 20 (Taurus) — Not an entirely helpful period for big returns in the early hours but excellent aspects appear during the p.m. and tomorrow. Plan and work consistently. Some money gains possible.

May 21 to June 21 (Gemini) — Mercury and Jupiter rays today offer fresh incentive for you who are constructively busy, who think carefully as you work and don't waste time on non-essentials. Patience needed.

June 22 to July 23 (Cancer) — Your Moon's position urges patience and avoidance of worry and self-pity. This advice can reap a good harvest from even small efforts. Children's interests, useful matters honored.

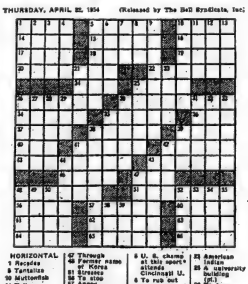
July 244 to August 22 (Leo) — Use first in new matters but keep steadily, usefully busy at your specific work or obligations and you will have things in tune for a more benefic tomorrow. Mind details, heed advice.

August 23 to September 22 (Virgo)—Cheering influences. Go forward with confidence in familiar activities or undertake new propositions that should advance your status in some way.

September 24 to October 22 (Libra)—Be wise in management and you can have an interesting as well as productive day. Avoid irritability, stubbornness. Be amendable to intelligent advice and suggestions.

October 24 to November 22 (Scorpio)—There are tendencies to irritation, undue annoyance at trivial things now. Us your fine sense of proportion and good humor and you will gain instead of being disappointed.

November 23 to December 22 (Sagittarius)—Your Jupiter encouraging for personal attainment, certain money matters and gains of lasting nature. You must do your best, of course. Study, brain work highly favored.



December 23 to January 21 (Capricorn)—Some good influences lingering from yesterday's aspect but be alert and careful to get the most out of opportunities and good associations. Avoid contention; be cheerful.

January 22 to February 20 (Aquarius)—It's greatly up to you how well you progress today. Take time to study your obligations carefully before you start, thus preventing errors and retracing steps. Day has fine possibilities.

February 21 to March 20 (Pisces)—Not an entirely easy day perhaps, but it grows more encouraging as it advances and is followed by several benefic days ahead. Concentrate on urgent matters, duties of family, children.

YOU BORN TODAY are dependable, loyal, very talented, capable. You have a knack for construction building, are inventive, can take others' ideas and inventions, improve upon them till they seem like your own. Knowledge of the earth's products, care of animals and interest in life generally are second-nature to you. You can manage groups of people, institutions with understanding, and kindly intelligence. It is important to your happiness and success that you curtail extravagance, oversensitiveness and fondness for luxuries. Birthdate: Jas. Buchanan, 15th U.S. pres.; Wm. Shakespeare, poet, playwright, player.

TOKYO (Reuters)—A Japanese doctor says three persons badly injured by atomic radiation in the wartime bombing of Hiroshima apparently were cured by a series of drinking bouts.

There now had written to tell him that after being affected by radiation in Hiroshima they had become so despondent that they went on heavy drinking bouts. After a short time they found that the symptoms of loss of hair, loose teeth and bloody skin had completely disappeared.

Canadians Grow More Different From Americans

MONTREAL (CP)—A group of West Germany's top building contractors arrived here Wednesday from Toronto on a survey of United States and Canadian building methods and were promptly warned by their consul not to confuse Canada with the United States.

"Don't mistake Canadians for Americans," Dr. Adolph Reiffenschmidt, West German consul general in Montreal, told them. "During the short time I have been in Montreal I have seen Canadians become progressively more different from their neighbors across the border."

"We used to say in Germany that Europe represented the present and the U.S. the future. The truth now is that the U.S. represents the present, Canada the future."

German business men visiting this continent should always keep that in mind and make a beeline for Canada.

Weekly Parties Aid Many Good Causes in County

PICTON — During the winter months, hundreds of people have met at weekly parties in all parts of Prince Edward County with progressive euchre as the attraction. These are neighborly events where small prizes are awarded and a social time spent, the ladies providing refreshments. Many good causes have been aided by the proceeds.

One of these series of parties has been held in Oddfellows hall, sponsored by the Cancer-Polio and Tuberculosis committee of Oddfellows and Rebekah lodges here. At the final party this week, all other players were invited to take part in play for the Prince Edward County championship.

As a result a capacity crowd was in attendance.

Scoring the most points, George W. Allan, of Picton, was named "king" of euchre, while Mrs. Oscar Blache, Picton, was named "queen." They were seated on thrones while C.P.T. chairman, Phil Deeks placed suitably decorated crowns on their heads and presented them with silver cups and other gifts.

Those with low scores were crowned as "knaves" and their tall hats were emblazoned with cards with low numbers. Recipients, Milton Dunnage, Picton, and Miss A. Hicks, Waupoos, were also presented with gifts. Many other awards were presented during the very successful evening.

Newfoundland's Former Economic Director Arrested

Charge Dr. Alfred Valdmanis With Extorting Huge Sums

ST. ANDREWS, N. B. (CP)—Dr. Alfred Valdmanis was roused out of bed at the home of his brother at 2 a. m. today by an RCMP officer and arrested on a warrant charging extortion while working for the Newfoundland government.

Dr. Osvald Valdmanis, brother of the former director of economic development for Newfoundland, said the RCMP officer allowed his brother 20 minutes to dress and then took him away.

He said he had no idea why his brother was arrested.

"I really don't know what it's all about. My brother didn't tell me anything," he said.

BEING FLOWN TO TRIAL?

After Dr. Valdmanis left with the RCMP officer, his whereabouts became a mystery. It was presumed, however, that he was being flown back to Newfoundland to face trial.

Dr. Valdmanis arrived in this resort town near the New Brunswick-Maine border from Montreal Thursday to begin negotiations for opening of a new fish plant he bought in January.

The plant, formerly owned by Dr. Anderson of Boston, Mass., is three miles from here. It has not been in operation for some time but residents said Dr. Valdmanis was making preparations to start fish processing.

Dr. Osvald Valdmanis, living here since 1952, was manager of the plant.

RCMP in St. John's announced that a Newfoundland officer made the trip here to serve the warrant.

MONTREAL GIRL GIVES SELF UP IN MURDER CASE

Accused of Slaying Restaurant Owner

MONTREAL (CP)—Pretty, redhaired Gertrude Servant Thursday night gave herself up to police to face a charge of murder in connection with the bludgeon slaying of Montreal restaurant owner Teur Burt J. McAbbie.

Inspector Henry Bond of the municipal police homicide squad said the 25-year-old girl will be arraigned today on the murder charge. She had been sought for more than a week.

Inspector Bond said the ashen-faced suspect surrendered with her lawyer.

Police described the suspect as the girl friend of Gerald McGuben, also wanted in connection with the slaying Jan. 19, 1953.

Her brother, Leo, and Roy Colligan, were arraigned Thursday on the murder charge. A third man, Jonathan (Slim) Dawn, 32-year-old former private investigator, was arraigned on a similar charge last week.

GIRL WHIPPED

McAbbie was pistol whipped during a holdup at his restaurant that left him fatally attackers Nov. 16 and two days after the beating.

Dawn was arrested in Salinas, Calif., on a minor charge. After several hours of questioning he was released when a lawyer filed a writ of habeas corpus.

Police said the girl left the apartment she had been staying. She was not heard from until she surrendered Thursday.

Tree Cut Down As Crazed Woman Clings to Top

KENOGAMI, Que. (CP)—A demented middle-aged Quebec woman precariously to the top branches of a huge tree here Thursday for four months before the tree was cut down beneath her and lowered to the ground by cables.

She was taken, uninjured, to hospital at nearby Chicoutimi. Name of the woman was not released.

The woman climbed into the tree on a Sunday after suffering a mental fit, and clung to the branches some 100 feet from the rocky ground in the Price Brothers Limited park.

Police, with some 250 spectators gathered in a steady rainfall, pondered over the problem until some Kenogami and neighboring towns pleaded with her to come down. She refused to budge.

A ladder was placed against the tree, but police were climbed to within reach her.

Finally a net was stretched across the ground, cables attached to the tree to control its fall and the flinch trunk was sawed through near the base.

The woman landed unhurt in the net.

Geneva Conference Will Be Tough, Complicated Struggle Between East, West Delegates

By ALAN HARVEY
Canadian Press Staff Writer

LONDON (CP) — The problems confronting Western statesmen in Asia come into sharp focus Monday when the 19-country conference on Korea and Indo - China opens in Geneva.

It will be a tough, complicated and important chapter in the struggle between East and West. The British diplomats make no secret of the fact that they approach it with hope rather than confidence.

The issues look too big, and the differences of view too wide, to encourage optimism about the outcome.

Though the rival sides have met across the bargaining tables many times in post-war years, this will be the first occasion for full-dress political talks involving Communist China and Soviet Russia on the one hand and the major Western powers on the other. China made a brief appearance at the United Nations in New York after the outbreak of the Korean war, and had a part in the truce negotiations, but there was no discussion of broad political problems.

If there is a tendency in London official circles to underrate Soviet reprehension, it may be because of a feeling that the West is less united than the East in its approach to such specific questions as Korea and Indo-China. In Indo-China, for instance, there is an apparent disparity between what

Russian Exiles Have Built Resistance Cells Within USSR

BONN (Reuters) — A leading official of a Russian exile group in West Germany said today—following exposure of a Soviet "espionage mission" here — that the group has been building up resistance cells in Russia.

The official of the NTS organization said some of these cells were built through Soviet soldiers who had been stationed in Germany.

His remarks followed Thursday's revelations that Oleksiy Okolovich, a member of the NTS executive committee, had been earmarked for murder by Soviet secret authorities. The intended assassin, Nikolai E. Khokhlov, balked at his assignment and gave himself up.

American intelligence officials here have expressed the belief that Russia will be compelled to resort to guerrilla and sabotage warfare to sabotage set-up in Germany and Austria because of Khokhlov's defection.

The NTS official said Okolovich directed the psychological warfare efforts against the Russians.

The official said NTS has been building up small groups, prefer ably not exceeding three members, in Russia. These are instructed to form underground cells when ordered to avoid a "chain reaction" if one member is arrested.

This, the officer said, was why the NTS wanted anti-Communist refugees from Russia living in West Germany not to desert, but to go back home and help carry out the work and set up such groups.

The NTS official declared Bonn considers Soviet soldiers regard themselves members of the NTS, he added.

He reported that Okolovich himself has been to Russia' frequently, as far as the Caucasus mountains.

Contrary to earlier reports, the official added, Khokhlov first surrendered to Okolovich Feb. 17 in Okolovich's apartment in Frankfurt. The surrender to American authorities was then arranged.

Aussies Refuse To Return Petrov To Red Embassy

CANBERRA (Reuters) — The Australian government today refused to return Vladimir Petrov, former Soviet embassy secret police chief who has been given political asylum here, and asked for details of his alleged "crimes."

A Soviet note delivered yesterday had asked that Petrov be detained and handed over as "a criminal." It said he had misappropriated embassy funds by forgery.

An Australian note presented today to the Soviet Embassy said: "Australian law does not permit the executive government to take in the manner requested with persons accused of offences."

SAFE PARTICULARS

It added that the department of external affairs has "taken note of the embassy statements, and requests that any detailed particulars of the allegations be entered in which the embassy may be in a position to supply, should be forthcoming in due course."

Meanwhile, the wife of one of the "forged" documents reported back to Moscow was seen in a butcher shop here this morning. Mrs. Evdokya Petrov, and helped her to board the plane at Sydney airport for the journey which ended with her decision at Darwin to accept political asylum with her husband, instead of returning to Russia.

Aid to India Asked Despite Nehru's Action

WASHINGTON (AP) — Foreign aid chief Harold E. Stassen said Thursday he will ask Congress to approve $200,000,000 wheat program for India despite Prime Minister Nehru's charges that U.S. planes fly over his territory with battle-bound French troops en route to Indo-China.

"We must respect differences of opinion," Republican Stassen said, "and carefully analyze the long-term struggle of which we are a part."

Stassen made the statement at his press conference shortly after a storm of protest over Nehru's action broke out on the Senate floor.

Chairman Styles Bridges (Republican, N.H.) of the appropriations committee virtually challenged Stassen to explain why any American aid for India in view of that country's record of opposition to U.S. policies.

Noting that the United States has given nearly $2,000,000,000 aid to India, including $200,000,000 worth of wheat, Bridges said he was "amazed and shocked" at Nehru's attitude.

The senator said it was "almost unbelievable" that Nehru would charge that American planes were flying French reinforcements to prevent the spread of communism in southeast Asia.

WAR INVENTION

LONDON (CP)—A. J. Langley, former commander in the Royal Navy now living in Ottawa, has been awarded £700 by the royal commission awards to inventors for his "time pencil" detonator. Langley claimed that 15,500,000 of the "pencils" were used during the Second World War.

PRESIDENT CALLS RED AIMS LIKE THOSE OF HITLER

Counsels Free World On Co-Operative Peace

NEW YORK (AP) — President Eisenhower likens Communist aims to those of Adolf Hitler, and counsels the free world to build a co-operative peace to avert Red domination.

"Aggression is still a terrible reality," he said Thursday night at a dinner of the American Newspaper Publishers Association's banquet advertising.

"Either the nations will build a co-operative peace or, one by one, they will be forced to accept an enforced peace now sought by the Communist powers, as it was by Hitler.

"If this is not to be an age of atomic hysteria and horror, we must make it the age of international understanding and co-operative peace.

"Even the most rabid Marxist, the most ruthless worshipper of force, will lie moments of sanity admit that."

MEXICO POLICE GUARD

An unprecedented police guard was posted for the president, largely because of threats made on American public officials by Puerto Rican Nationalist fanatics here last March 1.

One thousand policemen lined the president's route between La Guardia airport and the Waldorf-Astoria hotel here tonight.

Approximately 250 policemen, including 88 detectives, were stationed in and around the grand ballroom during his address.

Eisenhower discussed every facet of tention of telling the publishers "how to run your business," but suggested that the press can do more to promote domestic unity and international understanding.

More than 2,000 publishers, advertising men and guests applauded when he said "the press should give emphasis to the things that unite them, rather than to those that divide them."

Eisenhower discussed every facet of the cold war. He said:

"This is one of the most fodder, dishonest things I have ever heard of," McCarthy began.

Jenkins started yelling at the same time that McCarthy was remaking a point of order and Chairman Mundt told the Wisconsin senator to state it without embellishment.

"This is completely indecent — to monitor a conversation without telling the other party that what you are doing it," McCarthy began.

"It is completely ifproper, indecent and illegal under the law," McCarthy said that the Fort Dix eription were put into the record yesterday and that a second compilation of notes taken by someone who was listening in, but would not subject to the same put in the record.

Mundt upheld this point.

ADJOURN MORNING SESSION

In the upshot, the committee recessed until 2:30 p.m. (EST) with the understanding that Lucas, the man reported to have served as a go-between of the conversations would be called then to testify as to whether the tapes are full and complete.

Stevens stated he believed his telephone notes to be an accurate verbatim report of the conversations. Jenkins disagreed.

The morning session of the hearing today was devoted to questioning of Stevens by Jenkins. Stevens testified that Senator McCarthy (Republican, Wisconsin) and Roy Cohn, assistant counsel to the committee, had threatened to "wreck" the army if Stevens did not agree to give preferential treatment to Pvt. Irving Peress, a Communist dentist who refused to answer questions about his political beliefs.

Stevens stated he believed the threat was made by Cohn in the New York apartment of Schine's wealthy parents, Mr. and Mrs. Meyer Schine. He said McCarthy invited him to the apartment.

Red Thugs Blamed by British For Brutal Beating of His Mother

LEEDS, England (AP)—Derek Kinne, 23-year-old British hero of the Korean war, today blamed Communist thugs for a vicious attack on his mother, and offered to fight them "one at a time or all together."

Mrs. Vincenza Kinne, 50, was kicked and slugged unconscious two days ago by three men who apparently were demanding money to see her son. Kinne was not at home at the time.

McCarthy Calls Stevens' Action Indecent, Illegal

Monitoring of Conversation On Telephone Arouses Ire

WASHINGTON (AP) — Senator Joseph McCarthy threw the Senate investigations sub - committee into an uproar today by denouncing as "indecent and illegal" the action of Army Secretary Robert Stevens in monitoring a telephone conversation with him.

Testifying in the second day of hearings into his controversy with McCarthy, Cohn, the committee's started to detail a telephone conversation he said he had with the Wisconsin senator last Nov. 7.

Chairman Karl Mundt (Rep.-S.D.) ruled, after a verbal battle, that an army employee identified only as Lucas, in the testimony must come before the committee and swear that he made a transcription of the phone call.

SUGGESTED WEEK-ENDS OFF

Before McCarthy exploded into action, Stevens had told the committee that McCarthy said to him on the phone that one of the two things he had trouble' about with Roy M. Cohn, McCarthy's chief counsel, was G. David Schine.

Stevens had charged that McCarthy and Cohn had been "improper" means to get special treatment for Schine, a committee consultant later inducted into the army. McCarthy has denied anything improper.

Stevens quoted McCarthy as telling him in the telephone talk:

"Roy thinks Dave ought to be a general and spend his time in the White house on the top of the Waldorf Astoria."

Stevens said that McCarthy "thought that a few week'- ends off for David Schine might be arranged, perhaps for taking care of Schine's girl friend."

LOVELY EXCHANGE

When Ray Jenkins, sub-committee counsel, asked if the transcript of the conversation were available McCarthy erupted with a point of order.

"This is completely indecent — to monitor a conversation without telling the other party that what you are doing it," McCarthy began.

"It is completely ifproper, indecent and illegal under the law," McCarthy said that the Fort Dix eription were put into the record yesterday and that a second, more compilation of notes taken by someone who was listening in, but would not subject to the same put in the record.

Mundt upheld this point.

Has 'Forgotten' Report on Dam In Saskatchewan

SASKATOON (AP) — The federal government "has forgotten all about the report of the royal commission on the south Saskatchewan river dam," Agricultural Minister Gardiner said in an interview Thursday night.

The royal commission appointed by the federal government to investigate feasibility of the proposed dam "didn't tell us anything about the costs of the project in the report," he said.

"Some people might have the idea the dam would cost as $50,000,000," he said, referring to the figure mentioned in the adverse report. "It would be hundreds of millions."

The federal government now says it satisfies the provinces had secured the water rights for the project. It also was satisfied the provincial governments had a second plan for use of the water that would be stored by the dam.

RCAF Sabres Will Participate In Fly-Past

LONDON (CP)—An air ministry spokesman said today RCAF Sabre jet fighter planes—perhaps eight—probably will be included in the RAF fly-past planned over London May 15 when the Queen returns from her Commonwealth tour. Details probably will be announced next week.

The RCAF last year was represented in the 168-piece Coronation fly-past over Buckingham Palace, at the Royal Air Review and in London, Ontario, in the past. The planes were drawn from the 12-squadron 1st air division.

NEWFOUNDLAND'S

It said then: "Newfoundland will not soon again see so remarkable a man as Alfred Valdmanis."

SAVED BY KING GUSTAF

Dr. Valdmanis had held the portfolios of finance, economics, trade and industry in the Latvian government before the Second World War, having entered the cabinet for the first time in 1936 when only 29.

Forced to flee from both the Germans and the Russians in the war years that followed, he was said to have been saved once from death or long imprisonment by the personal intervention of King Gustav of Sweden.

Subsequently he served as civilian affairs adviser to the British-American forces in Europe, and with the International Refugee Organization. He was an immigration department adviser to Canada when Mr. Smallwood hired him to head Newfoundland's economic development program.

Just a few days ago in the Newfoundland legislature a Progressive Conservative member said Dr. Valdmanis was investing money in New Brunswick fish plants while working in Newfoundland.

His salary as director of the economic development program and the government-backed companies developing the province's resources was far greater than that of Mr. Smallwood himself.

Bicycles Must Have Lights After Dark-Police Say

The dangers of youthful bicyclists riding about city streets late at night without lights were stressed today by Police Inspector Hayes who said that numerous tragedies would be issued to offenders for their own protection.

"The only way to stop these young people riding around without lights after dark is by lay charges and we are going to clamp down hard," the inspector stated.

The inspector noted that not only is riding without lights contrary to the traffic act but was also a very dangerous practice. Persons riding bicycles at night without lights are inviting accidents, the officer said.

Would Allow Germans To Wear Their Medals

BONN, Germany (AP) — The West German interior ministry today proposed a law to allow Germans to wear their Iron Crosses again.

If passed by parliament, such a law would allow the wearing of about 30,000,000 military and civil decorations and campaign medals.

But it provides that any swastika emblems must be removed first.

It also prohibits the wearing of medals given for the annexation of Austria, the Czech Sudetenland and Memel.

The wearing of German medals was prohibited by the Big Four occupation powers in 1945.

Chamber Will Take Survey On By-Law Change

Directors of the Chamber of Commerce, in response to a request from the city's planning board, decided at a meeting Thursday noon to undertake a survey of the membership concerning their feelings about changing city By-law 3101 which specifies a minimum height of 35 feet or two storeys for downtown business property.

The request from the planning board stated that there had been requests to council to eliminate the minimum height requirements in the area from the Capitol Theatre to the Bella Theatre on Front St. and on Bridge St. from the river to Pinnacle and on Campbell St. and Victoria Ave., from Front to Pinnacle.

The Chamber of Commerce will pass on the results of its survey to the planning board before that body takes action on the requests to council.

Some discussion took place concerning licence fees for store signs overhanging city property on Front St., but the matter was carried over to the next meeting without a decision being reached.

Alderman Angus Duffy's application for membership in the Chamber was accepted.

C. L. Dafoe, general manager of the Stephens-Adamson Manufacturing Co. Ltd., was nominated by the Belleville Chamber as a director of the Canadian Chamber of Commerce. To be nominated to the ballot Mr. Freeman's nomination will require the support of two other chambers.

Mr. Freeman, who is currently on the tax and finance committee of the Canadian Chamber is a past president of the Belleville Chamber and at intervals a member of the local chamber's board of directors. If elected he will become a director of the Ontario Chamber as well.

Teen-Aged Boys Using BB Guns Sought by Police

Teen-aged boys armed with BB guns are drawing the ire of residents in certain sections of the city who have been called upon to replace house windows that have fallen prey to their pellets.

At the same time city police have received complaints with requests that police "do something about it."

Yesterday a woman in the Benjamin street area complained of two windows being broken. A neighborhood lad was found to be responsible and his parents proposed to replace the windows. A similar complaint was received from another section of the city.

Police so far have been unable to locate the youthful marksman who Wednesday scored a bullseye with 39 BB pellets in the hood of a late model auto parked in the vicinity of the Swift Canadian plant on Station street.

Seven Calves, Horse Burned North of Tweed

Fire of undetermined origin completely destroyed two frame barns two miles north of Tweed on Thursday afternoon. A horse, seven calves with a quantity of farm equipment were destroyed.

The barns were owned by Frank Mahoney, who, it is stated, was out in the bush at the time. Neighbors seeing the blazing barns rushed to the scene and were successful in removing a valuable tractor.

The flames licked at the rear of the Mahoney house but a bucket brigade was successful in staving off the fiery threat.

Neighbors and passing motorists worked hard to save the buildings but the frame structures fell quick prey to the flames. Only the foundation remains.

Nobody Happy About Plan To Move 6RD to Downsview

TRENTON — Nobody seems to be happy about an RCAF plan to move Canada's biggest aircrash maintenance base.

This town doesn't want to see No. 6 repair depot go. And suburban Toronto, where it is to be relocated, doesn't want it, either.

The depot, established in 1940, is one of the big air force installations here. It has more than 1,000 personnel. If it goes, it will take a lot of business away from the town.

It's to be moved to Downsview airport in the Toronto suburb of North York, but ratepayers there don't want it. They say the increased air traffic will mean more noise and increase the likelihood of fatal plane crashes.

An advance party is scheduled to leave here shortly to prepare Downsview for the influx of hundreds of RCAF personnel, but the town plans representations to Defence Minister Claxton to try to avert the move.

Planes of all types are ferried to the depot from many parts of North America.

THOSE WINDSHIELD SPOTS!

Any spots before your eyes these fine spring mornings?

If there are—and if the spots are on the windshield of the family jalopy—you have lots of company.

Hundreds of Canadian and American motorists have suddenly discovered pockmarks on their car windshields.

Most of them want to know the cause. "Why?" they say. It is the same question which brought man out of the caves—and may send him back into them again, somewhat the worse for wear and atomic radiation.

But the more prosaic souls, instead of feeling personally insulted by that section of the scientific world which laughs at the theory that the windshield pits are connected with the hydrogen-bomb explosions, have been demanding that the insurance companies plunk a few dollars in the family pot.

One used car operator at Toronto has had the damage to windshields of his cars would run into thousands of dollars.

It is therefore no great surprise that insurance men have been shaking their heads with vigor and declaring that comprehensive and theft insurance does not cover windshield pockmarks.

What is surprising is that some people will be convinced that this is an anti-social attitude on the part of the insurance companies. These people like to see insurance companies pay. But we have yet to learn of an insurance company which actually paid out in claims more than it received in premiums.

If that Toronto car dealer and others start collecting for pockmarks, the rest of us are going to pay for those pockmarks sooner or later.

There is absolutely no reason why a car-owner should receive a cent for a pitted windshield. That is, there is no reason . . . You don't suppose . . . ? Never looked at the car this morning. If there are spots on the windshield somebody is going to pay. After all, what is insurance for?

BETTER MINDS

Do people have BETTER MINDS at age 50 than at 19?

The emphasis on the words "better minds" is not our's but is provided by the producers of the newspaper feature in which this teasing question appeared.

The answer to the question is in the affirmative. But the reply ignores the emphasized words. We are told that intelligence tests show that people of 50 have better minds than teen-agers, but we are not told what these minds are better for.

Making love or making money? Learning what is new or reciting what has been learned? Oh, you may reply, the fifty-year-olds have better minds for answering intelligence tests. Exactly. But in individual far past the teen-age class we should be somewhat happier about this result if we were sure that the intelligence tests have not been designed by fifty-year-olds.

THE SEA, THE 'EVER-FREE'

Who owns the seven seas?

Imperial Rome talked of Mare Nostrum.

After Columbus came Spain's decree to the Spanish Main.

In the Kaiser's day Englishmen would snort indignantly when they heard the North Sea called the German Ocean.

Later Mussolini tried to return the Mediterranean to the status of an Italian lake.

But all these efforts to claim ownership of the seas, "the ever-free," met eventual failure.

Have times changed? H-bomb explosions have made a big chunk of the Pacific about as free as fenced prairies. And now the U.S.A. has announced that it is extending its guided missile range 3,500 miles, from Florida past its present limit at Puerto Rico out to Ascension island in the middle of the South Atlantic.

Wordsworth said that there were two voices of freedom, the sea and the mountains. Within a few decades men were controlling all the thought that a bump of land could be an effective barrier. And yet, so fast spins the wheel of fate, today the stolid mountain appears a more effectual barrier than the restless sea, over which man can guide his glittering bolts for thousands of miles, while he twiddles knobs and presses buttons at a desk on a distant shore.

NOT THE NEIGHBORLY THING TO SAY

John Hanna, assistant U.S. defence secretary, is pleased with us—but we are not so sure that we are pleased with him.

Mr. Hanna says Canada is "an ally on whom we can depend absolutely."

Those are kind words and we thank him for them.

But we wish he could have expressed some slightly different method of emphasizing our importance to Americans. He wants his countrymen to remember that "between the United States and Russia lies only Canada."

It follows that between Canada and Russia lies nothing.

True—but did Mr. Hanna have to remind us of that fact?

JUST FOLKS

TABLE MANNERS

When company comes here for tea
I'm just as good as I can be.
I sit up straight before the table
And eat as nicely as I'm able.
My hands are always clean and white,
And I do things exactly right.
I do not cram my mouth with food,
For mother says that's very rude.
I never sprawl my arms out wide,
But keep my elbows at my side.
That may be proper, but I'll say
It's awful hard to eat that way.

When company comes here to eat
I don't slip back into my seat
But sit up very stiff and straight
And wish I'd get my plate.
My table manners are correct
And all that grows folks should expect.
I never shout for things I see
But wait until they're passed to me.
And that is proper; but, I'll say,
I miss a lot of food that way,
'Cox they forget to ask M I .
Would like another piece of pie.

And when they're serving out the cake
The biggest piece I never take;
The table cloth I never smear
The way I do when folks aren't here.
I'm just as proper as can be
When company is here to tea.
I always try the best I can
To be a little gentleman,
But, oh, I like it better when
The company goes home again,
'Cox I get more to eat at night
When I don't have to be polite.

"I know you're a live-wire Eddie - - - and I'd marry you in a minute if you had any connections."

The minstrel show which was given for the benefit of the hockey club was a great success; every seat in the opera house was taken and many were left standing around the outside aisles. John Mackie was an excellent middle man and the laugh-provoking end men were "Happy" Jack Goodwin, Ab. Wheeler, George Dulmage and Jack Winchester. Their funny chatter throughout the first part kept the audience in good humor. The end songs pleased the audience and encores were demanded for every number. The chorus was large and sang well. Ballads were given in excellent manner by Frank Brenton, J. Preston Johnson, "Reddy" Ben Millan, Harry Bowerman and Vincent Doyle. Those taking part in the first part in addition to the end men and soloists were S. Burrows, Geddie Austin, F. Kyle, L. Littlewood, Arthur Lewis, Harry McKay, W. J. Brown, J. Mitchell, H. Kennedy, George Pearce, George Grills, H. VanDerne, H. Hilliger, C. Wilson, A. Deryea and C. Walker. The Clang of the Forge" was a spectacular number and was sung by Teddie Austin in fine voice. A handsome drop curtain effect was well received, the playwrights being Lazzy Burrows, Jack Rathbun, Tom Lally and Charlie Dolan. Two "little chaps", Harry Bell and Harvey Bell, a descriptive ditty, "When we were two little boys" and they did their parts well. The following composed the orchestra: Ed. O'Connor, Gordon, R. Bland, J. Allan, J. Wease, M. Greenleaf, W. Hart, Nat Duffin and F. Anderson. It was a great show and will be long remembered. The officers in charge of the show were as follows: Hon. president, E. THE PACKSACK

By GREGORY CLARK

A trick the saloonkeepers used to employ in the bad old days was, about half an hour before noon, to send the free lunch counter on a front, with a can of beer from the bar slops, and a broom, and have him sprinkle the beer on the pavement whilst pretending to sweep the sidewalk very industriously.

Thus at noon, when the boys came out from work, the air was tingling with the scent of beer, together with sounds of revelry or good cheer.

Along about five p.m., the ceremony of sprinkling the pavement and brooming was again carried out. The happy, biting odor of the saloon was characteristic of the urban scene in my boyhood. Today, about the only merchants who employ this principle of seduction are the nut abonoce. You will observe lads that some of them have an electric fan installed in the transom over the doorway, the persistence of toasting cashews float down the wind in spite of the efforts of a few restaurants of the corn beef and cabbage level also go to the trouble of advertising their presence by the olfactory process.

Except at Christmas, the art of attracting attention to shop windows is exceedingly lost. Nothing moves. Window dressers depend upon color and shape alone to catch the passer-by's eye. In the same period the saloon keepers were sprinkling the sidewalks, stores that had soda fountains used to set up large glass globes outside, over the doorways, in which an endless jet of soda blazed all day long, audible half a block away. Shoe merchants would have mechanical dolls in the windows, tapping at you with a stick. Not infrequently, you would see in a shop window a lady, reputed to be one of the Seven Sutherland Sisters, combing her hair quite long. Not an imitation, but a real one.

Learn From Eskimos

(Fort William Times-Journal)

A vivid picture of the white man taking lessons from the Eskimo has been presented by Jim Senter, a reporter with The Calgary Herald, who went into the Northwest Territories with Royal Canadian Air Force personnel to observe their training.

It is rather fascinating thought, and one, too, that baffles the white men, who have assumed with great superiority over native Indians and the Eskimo for many years, are now figuratively sitting at the feet of the Eskimo and taking lessons on how to live comfortably in the Arctic zone.

The white man, for all his pretended superiority, doesn't even know how to walk properly Senter says. In fact, the white man, for all his doctors and men of science, hasn't even enough sense to take a few days off from eating when he might know what is best.

Take the zipper! It may make women's dresses fit more smoothly and simplify life, but a general boon to civilized living, but one day it's going to be the undoing.

Here in this barren country, 200 miles inside the Arctic circle, zips are useless. Eskimo wear loose clothing that doesn't simply pull on but slips on and off with ease. His caribou trousers and caribou mukluks simply pull on and are held up by a string that ties around the waist and calf.

But the Eskimo, while not useless has lived up here for some time, has come to realize that the Eskimo clothing is warmer than anything he can buy elsewhere.

Even the most modern clothing will reveal that there is not one type of warm parka that does not have at least two zippers on it. One zipper which attaches the hood to the jacket and a zipper up the front.

Break a zipper or get a thin coating of ice on it—it's easily enough done—and there is no way to keep the parka in shut out the freezing Arctic cold.

And walking? Have you ever watched the average man walking down the street or seen soldiers on parade? It's a swinging regulated action, simply shoved, hamming the heels down hard. That's walking the hard way, the weight moving from the heel up and over the big toe.

That's not the native. You never see an Indian or an Eskimo walk like that. He's pigeon-toed, his heel-print is light and there is no ball of his foot. While the white man plows wearying through snow out and working himself into a sweat, the Eskimo moves lightly, almost floats instead or him.

Thus, the white man, through his environment that is his, is not a person fully equipped mentally to cope with the problems that would beset him should he find himself suddenly face to face with the task of surviving in Canada's Northern bush and Arctic regions.

To teach aircrew members how to live and live under such adverse circumstances, the Royal Canadian Air Force is conducting what it calls the Survival Training School. By 1958 all aircrew will have attended.

Here at Cambridge Bay on the Victoria Island, 1,000 miles north of Edmonton, the flyers are taught how to build and live in igloos, how to catch fish under seven feet of ice and that a "snowball that never ses" is a ptarmigan, a species of northern grouse.

Building an igloo isn't too hard, Senter says, once you know how he is doing. The snow must be firm and of an consistency that will stand of one storm or blow. If the snow comes in layers it will crack and fall apart.

The snow is cut out in blocks two feet long by three from 15 to 25 pounds and placed together in a spiral that curls round and round, each layer slightly over lapping a symmetrical dome. The finishing touch or capstone of the igloo is simply by friction, is incredibly strong and, when the igloo is completed, it is good for a fully-grown man to walk over the top of it.

Sea Is Great Preserver

(Hamilton Spectator)

A freighter, torpedoed by a German submarine in 1917, has been raised from the sea bed 10 miles from the Irish northeast coast. The salvors discovered that the cargo of scrap iron was almost intact. At first glance this is surprising, but it would be inclined to think that scrap iron would have wasted away by salination. But the other cargo of ress resulting from the action of salt water on iron. A simple chemical formula explains why the process is retarded and why more ancient scrap, taken from crude iron, that have been for centuries in Egyptian tombs, are less brought up corroded but still recognizable.

In August, 1858, the American ship Islander, bound from Skagway with a million dollar cargo of bullion from the Klondike and a crowd of grizzled prospectors, was in Sitka sound, off the coast of Alaska coast, after striking a rock or a hidden reef. Not a life was lost. The Islander had a considerable cargo of Scotch whisky aboard—but that might have been better under-stood had it been going in the opposite direction.

Twenty years ago this month, Capt. Cyril Hartman, R.N.R., commanding the barkentine Forward Pride, was assisted by a barge Griffonn, made a bid to recover this great treasure that had been so securely stored in Davy Jones' Locker for so many years. In Hartman's memoirs, Skeletons of the unfortunate kept a grisly guard over the Scotch whisky, he thought determined that the sea should not give up the last thing that it had ever fought for in the Klondike wasteland. Capt. Curtis, however, did bring up some of the Scotch whisky. He declared that, far from being harmed by long sojourn on the sea bed, its condition appeared to have improved and was pronounced by all who had been kept in a dry cellar.

Sea, as often regarded as a destroyer, is obviously a great preserver, too.

Wages and Salaries

(Niagara Falls Review)

Digested from a recent speech: "Most of the people who buy all the things they are told to do. Most of them are salaried for doing whatever is up to them to do without being told. The difference between wages and salary, but the difference in dollars is amazing.

THE BORIC ACID QUESTION.

Dr. Brady

Four cases of poisoning of young infants by boric acid are reported by Drs. Goldbloom in the December, '53, Jour. of Pediatrics.

One of the babies was poisoned by a borated talcum powder supplied to soothe irritation of the buttocks, the others by other boric acid preparations applied to the irritated buttocks.

The Drs. Goldbloom state that over-all death rate in 105 cases of boric acid poisoning reported by other physicians in a period of many years and their four cases was 55 per cent, and for infants less than a year old it was 70 per cent.

The usual symptoms of boric acid poisoning are angry red skin eruptions, followed by dry peeling of the skin, diarrhea, vomiting and evidence of meningeal irritation. They say the presence of boric acid in the urine is readily confirmed by the tumeric paper test. They recommend that the use of boric acid medically, particularly for babies, should be discontinued because it is potentially dangerous.

The Drs. Goldbloom emphasize the high degree of absorption of boric acid through mucous surfaces and mucous membranes, but they say the absorption of boric acid through intact adult skin could not be demonstrated, confirming the findings of Fiedler and his associates.

Some forty years ago Louis Kahlenberg, a chemist with lithography as long as your arm in Who's Who, proved, as scores of his friends and students have assured be, that the intact skin absorbs boric acid. He demonstrated boric acid in the urine after the subject had soaked his feet in boric acid solution.

Ho, hum! Perhaps it will astonish a few readers, maybe even my dollar-a-year man if he gets wind of it, when I say that boric acid is volatile, and therefore Prof. Kahlenberg's "proof" of absorption through the unbroken skin is invalid, for there was no control against inhalation of volatilized boric acid while the subject was in the bath.

At risk of irking physicians and chemists who are so cocksure that absorption hardly occurs, I must repeat my challenge:

Any unbiased group of physicians and/or chemists may apply any substance they choose to my skin, provided it does not blister or destroy the skin — and if they can prove the presence of quantity of the substance from my blood or urine AFTER I tell the world I was wrong. Of course I must have absolute control of the portion applied to test. And to make the demonstration interesting and profitable let's say each side shall put up $1,000, the loser to forfeit it to whatever charity and trustee he may select.

Anyway I still say the unbroken skin does not absorb anything and all laboratory or other experiments purporting to prove that it does that is absorbed through the skin is P-H-O-N-Y.

BEWARE OF "PROGRESS"

Scientists have announced the invention of a computing machine which in a few minutes can work out mathematical problems that would take an individual lifetime to work out. Even now it is possible to build into this computing machine certain data and receive in balanced judgment the solution of these data. It is believed that, with the further refinement of the machine, it will be possible to feed in certain facts and receive judgments regarding matters about which scientists say—because prejudice, bias, and emotion are absent—will be more accurate than the best reasoning of man.

But on Manhattan Island stands the United Nations Building, and it looks disconcertingly like the Tower of Babel. You remember that story (Gen. 11:9). It was a tower that was planned to build which would reach to heaven and which would make a name for men on the earth. But God came down and scattered them and confounded their language.

To say this is not to disavow the fact that there is a great use for great hope. But it is a human inventiveness that has built the man can contrive—but limited in every human way. To the extent that it is the Tower of Babel, it will fail. To the extent that it is the employment of the powerful deeds of Christ, it will prosper.

Peace will come only to a world that is pervaded with the spirit of the Prince of Peace and administered by men who are well pleased in His sight.

TODAY'S TALK

By GEORGE MATTHEW ADAMS

EXAMPLE AND PRAISE

I recently watched a trainer of dogs and was impressed with two things that he was constantly employing. One was example and praise. He illustrated it all with his own trained dog, and how often the example and praise of his actions proved and praised his dog for everything done.

I have been interested in many sports that I felt I could excel in, such as golf, tennis and bowling. I always started off by watching how the experts played the game, how the outstanding thing and, of course, when I did well I liked the praise of my instructor. In the training this is very important. The example and the praise for good work done make all the difference.

Recently I heard a very interesting talk by Lady Astor, and I shall never forget one thing she said. She said she had great respect for her "betters." If we all have that it constantly grow better ourselves. I have noticed in the circus how the trainers and headlers of animals always were kind to their animals and, rewarded them with small bits after a good performance. Again it is the law of example, an intelligent animal. We better ourselves through the example of others and praise of what is reluctant to accept praise!

I remember a wonderful story in his little book called "Sickeen." They had been out all day and in fording a river, the dog had become lost carefully crossed a dangerous mountain pass, and watching him. Time and again he tried to imitate his master, but turned back. Finally he got the hang of it and he was so pleased with himself, and the praise he got, that he jumped into the air and rolled over, and barked in his happiness.

A nation's life would not be very inspiring without its example, its heroism, and we would never fail to praise them all. I wish there was more of the fellow, regardless of any party adherence. A good deed is always worthy and an example and deserves praise.

New Gadgets Are Wanted

(Milwaukee Journal)

It seems to us that the inventors and designers are continually trying to create gadgets to fill needs in car equipment.

Here's a typical problem of providing an outside seat next to a window for every kid in a large family! What about radar to hunt down parking places and some means of warning a car sideway to get into them?

And what about some radio device that will sound the horns of the cars behind you when you're stopped at a red light?

Conservation Conference Told Hydro Plans Can Wipe Out British Columbia Salmon

OTTAWA (CP) — A 45-year-old fly fisherman from British Columbia said today he expects to see Canada's Pacific salmon runs wiped out "within my lifetime" if the hydro men have their way.

Roderick Haig - Brown, magistrate, short-story writer and novelist from Campbell River, B.C., made the prediction before a national conference on Canada's resources as he urged immediate steps to protect wildlife and recreational facilities in Canada.

The conference, attended by representatives of some 50 private groups interested in conservation, turned to wildlife and recreation problems in the second day of a two-day meeting, after dealing Thursday with forest, soil and water conservation.

Mr. Haig-Brown said the wax of water by fish and other wildlife is adversely affected by three major causes: Pollution, alterations of flow through change of ground cover, and dams.

"Canada's Pacific salmon runs are one of her most magnificent resources. Yet if the present plans of the hydro-electric engineers are realized, I expect to see them wiped out within my lifetime," he told the delegates.

"This is a national issue, of fundamental importance to all Canadians and to people outside Canada. It reaches into values beyond the reference of engineers and industrialists, and it is exactly the type of national responsibility we are attempting to define here today."

URGES PROTECTED SYSTEM

The public, he said, is entitled to a carefully planned, fully integrated and completely protected system of recreational and wildlife areas.

Turning to water pollution, he said "far more than enough is known about pollution to control it," but that it is much easier to prevent than control.

"Rivers are not drainage ditches or sewers, and no wise civilization will use them for these purposes. I believe that fouling rivers with waste is an intolerable expression of arrogance towards the present and the future."

He cited delays in handling pollution problems in British Columbia and the North Saskatchewan river. It had taken months to decide the origin of the trouble and get results.

"This is not pollution control. It is a good way of allowing a situation to reach a point where it cannot be controlled."

Mr. Haig-Brown led off a panel discussion which included addresses by Dr. Harrison F. Lewis of West Middle Sable, N.S., president of the Canadian Conservation Association; Dr. W. W. H. Gunn of Toronto, field representative of the Federation of Ontario Naturalists; Dr. W. F. Tisdale, Winnipeg, president of Ducks Unlimited, and E. G. Oldham of Victoria, forester with the parks division of the B.C. lands and forests department.

MORE PARKS, SANCTUARIES

Dr. Lewis, former head of the federal wildlife service, also urged more parks, reserves and sanctuaries. He said however, that the main function of government is to provide guidance rather than performance of all that must be done in dictatorial control. Much important conservation work would always fall to private individuals and organizations.

Throughout Canada, there was a need for more specially-trained scientific workers in fish and wildlife fields. Legislation was needed to assure consideration for wildlife and recreational interests in any water project undertaken.

Dr. Tisdale reviewed existing work on the Prairies and urged delegates to learn the lessons that many others have learned before it is too late." Research, education, and preservation of watersheds and wilderness were the main needs.

Mr. Oldham called for establishment by the federal government of an agency to undertake intensive study of management of recreation resources, incentive grants to assist the provinces in the work, and provision of advisory and consultative services.

Russian Bodyguards Leave for Moscow

GENEVA (AP)—The two Russian bodyguards of Mrs. Vladimir Petrov left today by plane for Berlin en route to Moscow from Australia, airport police said.

The pair unsuccessfully tried to escort Mrs. Petrov to Russia from Sydney after her husband fled the embassy and was given political asylum. They continued their trip alone after she asked for asylum when the plane stopped at Darwin.

REJECT APPEAL

MONTREAL (CP)—The Quebec Court of Appeals Wednesday rejected an appeal from Robert Lapalme of Montreal, condemned to be hanged June 11 for the fatal shooting of taxi driver Andre Leon Lorge April 23, 1953. His accomplice, Guy Fiset, 19, now is serving a life sentence for the crime.

Oshawa Man Killed

OSHAWA (CP) — Fred K. Ostashewski, 22, of Oshawa, was fatally injured today when a panel truck he was driving went off the pavement of Highway 401 just inside Oshawa's eastern limits, ran onto the boulevard and hit an obstruction. Police said the man, alone in the truck, was thrown through the windshield.

He died in hospital.

DISSOLVE ENTERPRISE

REGINA (CP) — Saskatchewan Wool Producers, one of 16 publicly-owned enterprises the CCF government set up in 1945-46, will be formally dissolved May 15. The woollen mill was one of four closed down after they lost money. It accumulated a loss of $830,000.

Meat-Packing Industry Vital To Calgary

CALGARY (CP)—Meat packing started here 64 years ago and three years before city status was granted, is one of Calgary's main industries. And it continues to grow.

The first plant was built in 1890 by Patrick Burns to meet demands of railroad construction camps for fresh meat. There now are seven packing plants distributing fresh and cured meats throughout Canada.

Calgary plants employ about 1,300 workers and during the first three months of this year almost 50,000 head of cattle have been processed.

Between 80 and 82 per cent of cattle processed here are bought at the stock yards while the remainder are bought directly from farmers by packing house representatives. Only about 20 per cent of hogs, however, are bought at the yards.

Packing plants utilize virtually every part of a slaughtered animal.

All meat suitable for human consumption is saved, the blood is used for blood sausage, most of the offcuts are sold as fancy meats. The hide is sent to a tannery, hooves are made into glues, glands are sold to pharmaceutical laboratories and the remaining parts are made into fertilizer.

At one time animal by-products accounted for a large part of the profit made by packing houses. Although by-products have recently dropped in value, they still play a substantial part in the economy of the industry.

During 1953 Alberta's 15 packing plants produced 186,370,151 in meat products, employed 3,729 workers and had an annual payroll of $9,000,000.

Total livestock production by Alberta farmers in 1953 was worth $156,348,510.

Soviet Union and Satellities Could Mobilize 400 Divisions

PARIS (Reuters) — Intelligence reports on Russian military strength to be put before the North Atlantic Council here today show that the Soviet Union and her satellites could mobilize 400 divisions — about 8,000,000 men — within a month.

These reports show the Communist countries, excluding China, have more than 6,000,000 men under arms, of whom about 4,500,000 are in ground forces.

Soviet air strength remains at 20,000 planes, but in the last three years almost all piston-type fighters have been replaced by jets. Two-thirds of the light bomber force are jets, while medium bomber strength has doubled to about 1,000 TU-4s, similar to the U.S. B-29.

Top allied military planners consider Russia's greatest strides have been in modernizing her air force and those of her east European neighbors. But they do not find the buildup either unexpected or perturbing.

They admit that the whole of Soviet air power exceeds that of the Allies in the crucial central European sector by about four to one.

But they point to the immense problems Russia would face in a global conflict when a large part of her forces would be dispersed for home defence and another part stationed on her eastern borders to meet Allied retaliation through "the back door."

Weddings

WISKIN—STINSON

Before a setting of pink snapdragons and white Shasta daisies a pretty wedding was recently solemnized in a double ring ceremony in Christ Church, Bellecville, when the Rev. E. Smiley united in marriage Marlene Lois Stinson, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. George Stinson, Ameliasburg, to Douglas Edward Wiskin, son of Mr. and Mrs. George Wiskin, Kingston Out.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a ballet-length gown of white lace and tulle over satin with long sleeves, lily-pointed over the hands. Her fingertip veil was held in place by a halo of orange blossoms. The bride carried a white prayer book created with white feather-edged streamers, Rapture roses and white sweetpeas.

Her attendant, Mrs. Don Jeffrey, of Kingston, was gowned in a ballet-length dress of pink tulle over satin with pink accessories. She carried a nosegay of Rapture roses with hyacinth florets and carnations.

Mr. Charles Wiskin, of Kingston, was groomsman and the ushers were Mr. Wayne Stinson of Amelisburg, and Mr. James Scanlon, of Toronto.

Mr. John Croyden Withers, church organist, rendered the traditional wedding music. During the signing of the register, six little choir boys sang "O Perfect Love."

The reception was held at Tobe's County Gardens, where the mother of the bride received, wearing a printed silk dress with black and white accessories and a corsage of pink Rapture roses completing her ensemble. The bridegroom's mother wore a gown of taupe crepe with pink accessories and a corsage of pink carnations.

For the wedding trip to the United States, the bride donned a suit of dusty rose with black and white accessories, and corsage of pink carnations, on their return, Mr. and Mrs. Wiskin will reside in Kingston.

Out-of-town guests were from Galt, Toronto, Walkerton and Kingston.

Bride-to-Be Honored By Trousseau Tea

A charming trousseau tea was held on Wednesday afternoon at the home of Mrs. F. B. Wollen, 24 Catherine Street, in honor of her daughter, Miss Ann Marie Wollen, bride of this week.

Opening the door to the guests who were received by Mrs. Wollen and the bride-to-be, was the demure granddaughter of the hostess, little Donna Jane Mallouquist.

Mrs. Sam Hibbard invited the guests to the tea room, which was delightfully adorned with rose colored tulips, blue iris, yellow carnations and white daisy mums.

The tea table was appropriately appointed with an embroidered, white linen cloth, centred by a silver bowl of mauve, white and pale sweetpeas, flanked by silver candelabra with pink and white candles. Those who poured were Mrs. Allan Skinner and Mrs. Harold Sheridge, while those who assisted included Mrs. A. M. Halonquist, Mrs. E. Flindall and Miss Marilyn Shoebridge.

Mrs. Ron Olesen had charge of the trousseau.

Mrs. Wollen, previous to the trousseau tea, the bride-to-be was the honored guest at the home of Mrs. Sam Hibbard. She was also entertained by Mrs. Ron Olesen at a kitchen shower.

Smart Sandals Made in Prints Being Shown

LONDON (Reuters)—The prints so popular for dresses this summer have made their debut in shoes. Edward Rayne, the London shoemaker, is showing a series of both smart sandals and casual shoes made of brightly-colored prints in his current spring and summer collection.

Rayne is flying his collection to North America for showings at a New York hotel April 24 and at a Toronto department store April 26-28.

Fashioned in the same style as some of his models in more conventional materials, these shoes combine high novelty with a great attractiveness. At the same time, they are cool and wearable.

Cotton and chintz strike the new note in shoe style for the summer.

PATENT LEATHERS POPULAR

While the basic shoe silhouette remains largely unchanged, patent leathers have ousted kid from first place in the popularity list and even popular white has given way to a new off-white shade which Rayne calls alabaster.

Hostess Kept Names of All Canadians Visiting Centre

By MURIEL NAKRAWAY
Canadian Press Staff Writer

LONDON (CP) — A Charlottetown woman's prudent possession in London are six books filled with Canadian names and identifying comments.

The books owned by Lena McLure list each Canadian service man she has met during two years as Canadian hostess at the Nuffield centre, The Commonwealth recreation centre just off Trafalgar square. Wives and families are also listed if she has met them.

"The names will bring pleasant memories for years to come," said the soft-voiced Prince Edward Island woman who has met so many Canadian sailors, soldiers and airmen that she's lost count. "Most of the men and women serving in Europe (an estimated 10,000) come here some time during a leave," Miss McLure said in an interview.

FROM ALL PROVINCES

The names in her books cover the 10 provinces.

As hostess to visiting Canadians, middle-aged Miss McLure dispenses advice about what to do and see in London and directions on how to manage it. She sees that Canadians get a fair share of available entertainment passes.

Miss McLure, who might be taken for a kindly Canadian aunt and who has frequently served as a coadjutor to young Canadians abroad, also helps in arranging for Canadian service personnel to wish British families. Many invited to spend a British Christmas in a British home have paid return visits to their hosts.

"I've really fallen for young Canada," said Miss McLure. "They are a magnificent advertisement for Canada's future." She said the Canadian troops—average age is 20—are popular and she hopes to see many of them again at her home in Prince Edward Island.

OPEN INVITATION

"All the boys have my home address and an open invitation to visit. I have a large correspondence and many have promised to visit me when I return to Canada later this year."

Dark-haired, dark-eyed Miss McLure is proud of her family home, Bonnishbrey, a large house in southern colonial style, with three acres of grounds at Charlottetown. Her father is silver fox rancher Chester McLure, former Progressive Conservative member of Parliament.

Miss McLure was recently presented to Queen Mother Elizabeth on two consecutive occasions—March 16 at a Dominion Fellowship Trust tea and March 17 at the annual meeting of the Queen Mary Needlework Guild in London, held at St. James's Palace.

Recently she was appointed to the executive of the Associated Country Women of the World, the first Canadian representative so named since 1945.

Miss McLure came to London in January, 1952, to study drama and singing—subjects she has taught in Charlottetown and Toronto. A graduate of the Toronto Conservatory of Music and Boston University, she intends to resume teaching when she returns to Canada at a still undecided date this year.

Carmel Comrade Club Enjoys B.C. Hydro Film

The April meeting of the Carmel Comrade club was held at the church under the leadership of Mr. and Mrs. Carman Dafoe, Mr. and Mrs. Clayton Ritz and Mr. and Mrs. Amos Whitmore.

Mr. C. Ritz, assisted by Mrs. C. Sullivan and Mr. Carman Dafoe took charge of the worship service using "Easter" as his theme.

In the absence of the president, Mrs. Allen Gowthorpe conducted the business. The May meeting, which is to be a bowling party, was discussed. A letter of thanks from Mrs. P. Reynolds was read.

The Misses Patsy and Judy Dafoe favored with a piano duet followed by an amusing reading, "Popping Corn", by Mrs. Clare Horton.

At this time all enjoyed an hour and a half of fine pictures, one film being the new hydro project in British Columbia.

Refreshments and a social time closed the meeting.

ADVICE to the LOVELORN

By BEATRICE FAIRFAX

SEE PLAY-ACTING COST HER A BOY FRIEND

Dear Miss Fairfax:

All during high school I had many dates for I have older brothers, and I learned how to "act" and "play hard to get." For example it seemed to me that my brothers got most interested in girls who played hard to get, so for four years I used the same method and it proved very successful.

Recently, I met a fellow, 22 I am 18—with whom I seemed to have a lot in common, although up to then I usually preferred boys my own age.

Unfortunately, however, the way I had learned to act began to cause heated arguments between us, and finally this fellow said he had doubt of his love for me and he didn't think we could ever be happy together. I know now he was right, and that it's about time I grew up. I know I love him, but I also know that if it seemed best to give him up, time heals all wounds.

Would you advise me to start all over with someone else, or do you think I should speak to Mike and tell him I will change my ways? Do you think I could get him back, and do you think that the love that was once there may still remain? — N.N.

Dear N.N.:

I think if you really intend to stop the play-acting you have been in the habit of using, the way to begin might well be to tell this chap that you want to start being yourself and ask him if you could. n't try again. If he was really fond of you, he may still like you enough to be willing to go along with you in this. But if he has definitely decided it's over, you can't get on together, and doesn't want to see you any more, then you'd better take your mind off him and put it on getting a new boy friend. I'm glad you're sensible enough to realize that if you do lose this one, it won't be the end of the world, and that you also recognize the necessity of changing your approach if you ever want any boy to like and respect you enough to take you seriously.

So put it up to the first chap and see what happens. If he prefers to call it a day, be a good sport about it and use more mature tactics the next time.

SHOULD SHE TELL HER FIANCE OF AN EARLY AFFAIR?

Dear Miss Fairfax:

When I was 16, I had an affair with a boy I thought I loved. After two weeks he went away, and wrote me a letter saying that he realized he had done wrong, that he wanted me to forgive him, and still wanted to marry me. I refused to marry him because, after the affair, I didn't seem to love him any more.

Now, after three years, I've fallen in love again and plan to be married. Should I tell my future husband about that incident and take the chance of breaking up, or should I say nothing about it?

People sometimes ask me if parents should lay down the law about what kind of TV their children watch. Of course they should. Every parent sees that his child doesn't eat too much, but not too much; to some extent, he does not too many, and do some housework, but don't cram to exhaustion.

Because TV comes right into your living room, the people who produce TV shows are careful self-censors. But there very, and that's where parents should make the decisions.

Last Christmas, for instance, the American playwright George S. Kaufman wrote a TV show which caused a furor. Said research: Let's make this one program on which no one sings Silent Night.

It wasn't very well put; he meant it as a protest against the commercialism of Christmas. But the TV network and the sponsor got hundreds of outraged letters about the "anti-religious" remarks. Kaufman's show was fired from the program.

When TV producers and sponsors are that careful about what goes over your TV set, it's a tip that you should be just as careful in choosing a set. That's why we recommend the smart people at HITCHON. It's a name you know, and a safe buy. Clear pictures, and careful with the price, too. Next time you buy a set from us you know we'll be here to help you get all the quality out of the set that the maker put into it. That's at HITCHON RADIO AND TELEVISION, 4 Bridge St. E. Phone 854.

Readers' Friday Column

As Conducted by Mary Moore

QUESTION:

Will you please print two recipes for me: Honey Dip Doughnuts and the honey dip like you buy at the baker's and Maple Tarts (while the icing on top) like you buy at the baker's.—Mrs. E. H.

ANSWER:

I have mailed you my recipe for Honey Yeast Doughnuts which has instructions for glazing doughnuts with icing sugar. I can't be sure of the method your baker uses for honey-glazing his doughnuts, but it would be safe to heat together 1-4 cup each hot water and honey and add about 3-4 cup icing sugar. Dip warm doughnuts into the warm glaze and drain on wax paper.

MAPLE TARTS

Again I am not familiar with your baker's filling for maple tarts but think you will like this one: Make 8 tart shells (strangely enough these may be baked or unbaked) and fill 3-4 full with filling made by beating 1 egg and stirring into it 1-2 cup sugar, 2 tablespoons soft butter, 1 cup ground dried blanched almonds and 1 teaspoon almond or maple extract. Bake at 425 deg. Fahr. for 13 to 15 minutes or until filling is set. If desired these may be iced with maple icing when cold: Break maple sugar into small pieces and measure 2 cups and add 1 cup cream. Stir over heat until sugar is dissolved, then boil without stirring until soft ball stage is reached (238 deg. Fahr.). Remove from heat and beat until thick enough to spread. Heat must be low as this mixture will burn easily.

QUESTION:

Can you give me a recipe for Snow Ball Pudding made with crumbled angel cake and orange and lemon flavored gelatine? Also, what is the correct way for passing plates at a dinner—to the right or to the left?—Mrs. S. B.

ANSWER:

Place plates and remove them from the left. The only thing that is served to the right is beverages.

The closest I can come to the Snow Ball pudding you require is called

ANGEL CHARLOTTE

Dissolve 1-2 package (4 tablespoons) lemon jelly dessert in 1 cup boiling water, add about one salt, 1-2 cup powdered sugar. Chill until cold and beginning to congeal. Add 1-2 teaspoon almond extract and 1 cup heavy cream, whipped in bowl of cracked ice or ice water and beat with rotary beater until fluffy and thick like whipped cream. Line mold with strips or slices of angel cake (or lady fingers) or carefully fold into the mixture about 2 cups of crumbled angel cake). Pour mixture into lined mold (or unlined if crumbled cake is used) and chill until firm in refrigerator. When unmolded cut into wedges and garnish with marashinos. If readers know the Snow Ball pudding to which Mrs. S. B. refers I would be grateful if they would send me the recipe for her.

QUESTION

... I want to know how much honey will equal sugar. If a recipe calls for one cup sugar how much honey would I use in place of it. I can't get any recipes that call only for honey, I believe marrow is a good nourishment for growing children

I use it in soup ... is it possible for you to send a few recipes.

Is it possible that in a fruit cake calling for brown and white sugar that white sugar may be omitted for honey.—Mrs. J. S.

ANSWER:

Last Monday in this column I gave you an address to write to for honey recipes. Since some recent publicity has kindled your interest in honey I will repeat: Write to Michigan State College, Extension Division, East Lansing, Michigan, for bulletin entitled "Honey Flavor Harmonies" No. 213. Honey is about 2 1-2 times as sweet as sugar so you should use only 2-5 of the amount of honey as you would sugar however it contains moisture and cannot be simply substituted without further change. The bulletin I refer to will outline all of the adjustments.

I have a feeling you are referring to meat marrow—not vegetable marrow. Meat marrow bones cut in 2 or 3 inch lengths. Cover ends of bones with thick paste of flour and water or wrap each bone in piece of cloth to prevent marrow escaping. Boil slowly 1 hour in slightly salted water. Drain bones, remove paper and serve at once on hot toast. Marrow is picked from the bones with fork. Of course it may be removed before serving but cools so quickly it might be unappetizing to some.

GOOD MANNERS

By MRS. BEECHMAN

BOTH IN THE AIR CORPS

Dear Mrs. Beechman:

Will you please help us, Mrs. Beechman? My fiancee and I are both in the Air Corps. We are to be married soon on her leave in Omaha. I am stationed in another Western state. Practically all our relatives and friends live in Maine and Michigan. Should we send only announcements? — James F.

Only formal announcements or your marriage may be sent. Of course, if possible, in the names of the parents of your bride-to-be. I'd like to make another suggestion too: your fiancee may wish to write notes to relatives and friends (you write to yours, she writes to hers), telling them of your plans to be married; where, day, date, and hour; any other details about the event and then say that you are very much wish that the wedding could be nearer so that you both could have the happiness of having them with you on The Great Day, but since aren't living close enough but they do make such a pleasant how of friendship or friendship ... and everyone delights to know about the wedding plans of a relative or intimate friend! Then to these relatives and friends, as well as to all other friends, and acquaintances too you will also send the formal announcements.

TO GREET THE FIANCEE, AND TO MEET HER FIANCE

Dear Mrs. Beechman:

My daughter, who lives in Rosedale, is to be married in June. Before her marriage she and her fiance are coming to visit us here for a few days, I'd like to give a small party, to welcome her home for this visit, and to introduce her prospective bridegroom to our relatives and friends. What should I call such a party? Should I send invitations, or may I invite the guests by telephone?

For such a small intimate party it is entirely proper for you to invite the guests by telephone. And very convenient too, since then you will want at once how many can come, how many to plan for.

Why not simply call your party a "tea"? As a buffet supper it this is the occasion you are planning ... but the word "Reception" would, I think, be too much on the formal side.

A THANK-YOU NOTE FOR EVEN A SHORT WEEK-END

Dear Mrs. Beechman:

When I am invited for a week end, and the week end begins on Saturday about noon, and lasts until early Sunday evening, must I write a bread-and-butter letter, or is it enough for me to express my thanks as I am leaving?

Madelin T.

Even when the week end includes only one night spent in the home of someone, you must write a thank-you note to the hostess of that home.

BRIDE PREFERS TO GIVE HER BOUQUET TO HER MOTHER

Dear Mrs. Beechman:

When the bride tosses her bouquet, just before she goes to change to her going-away costume, would it be proper for her to request that it be given to her so that she may give it to her mother? — M.

It is quite proper for her to hand her bouquet to her mother, if she would like to, but she should not toss the bouquet and then ask the attendant who catches it, to give it back to her.

Sacred Bath Marks Hindu Harvest Season

Thousands of Hindoos swarm on the banks of the river Jumuna in celebration of Balaakhi a festival of spring. This festival marks the harvesting season and falls on the first day of the month of Baisakh. People get up early in the morning, even before daybreak, to celebrate the holiday with a sacred dip. Like many Hindoo festivals, this one is celebrated by bathing. Orthodox Hindoos fast on Baisakh and do not participate in the preparation of cereals. — Centrel Press Canadian

Sunday School Lesson:

You Can't Make Religion Easy

BY ROY L. SMITH.

This is the story of a king who undertook to make religion easy for his people and in doing so undermined the nation so that it collapsed in a crisis.

POLITICS IN RELIGION.

Jeroboam, the king of Israel became alarmed over the fact that his people were going back down to Jerusalem for the great religious feasts of the Hebrew people. This meant that his rival, the king of Judah, stood a good chance of winning Israel back to its allegiance to the house of David.

Thinking to forestall any such defection, Jeroboam set up two pagan shrines, gave them the blessing of his official sanction, and ordered the people to confine their religious worship to their own borders. "It is too much for you to go down to Jerusalem," he said. "Here are your gods, right here at home. Worship them."

The Uniform Sunday School lesson for May 2: "Judgment on Jeroboam," I Kings 12:25-33; 14:1-20.

Pretending to be greatly interested in making their religious worship as convenient and as easy as possible, he actually cut the taproot of the nation's faith. And it has happened many times in the history of nations that when politics has undertaken to use religion to accomplish its own ends it has destroyed the nation in the process.

WHEN THE BLOW FELL.

Matters went along very well for the king and the nation for a time. Both were fooled by their initial success, and that also is a common tragedy. God seems to go sometimes for many years without balancing his books. But no item in any transaction is ever overlooked. The final accounting is sure.

When the kingdom's affairs finally reached a crisis, the king disguised his queen and sent her surreptitiously to consult an old blind prophet, thinking that he could get word as to his destiny without revealing his concern. But the prophet, by some uncanny sense, divined the secret meaning of the ruse and spoke out frankly. Brushing all pretense aside, he pronounced the doom of God upon the king who had led his nation into evil. And when the final blow fell, all were engulfed in the tragedy.

SIN IS SO INCLUSIVE.

It seems to be one of the laws of life that no man can sin unto himself. Sinning has a way of spilling over into the lives of all those who love us and believe in us.

Had Jeroboam, the king, suffered the loss of his throne, and had the life of the people gone unscathed, it would have been abnormal. But because the king led the people in the abandonment of all their sacred heritage, they all plunged down into the abyss together.

The juvenile delinquent never wastes his life without also involving his parents, his friends, and those who love him, in the debacle. The parents who rush into the divorce court might be treated lightly, if they did not drag so many innocent people in with them. The politician who builds up a political machine on a base of graft and terrorism always brings the community down in ruins with him when he falls.

And the people are themselves to blame. The Israelites could have maintained their independence and saved their nation. It has been said that the average American city gets about the kind of government the people deserve. The German people cannot to this day absolve themselves entirely of the blame for having accepted the tyranny of Adolph Hitler.

The rights we enjoy under a democratic system of government are exactly matched by the responsibilities we must assume for the success of that system.

Blood Stream Used to Combat Rheumatic, Arthritic Pain; No Pills

Penetrant Dilates Capillaries, Flows Fresh Oxygen-Rich Blood Through Afflicted Areas

Toronto, Ont. (Special) — Discovery of an entirely new method of relieving pain has been announced here. The new method applies, for the first time, a well-known medical principle of pain relief to a product now readily available to the public for home use. The discovery literally calls upon the blood stream to bathe away pains of rheumatism, arthritis, sore muscles and pains of most kinds.

Sold under the brand name "InfraRUB", this new cream is odorless and greaseless. InfraRUB has the unusual ability to penetrate the skin and dilate tiny blood vessels deep down in sore muscles and joints. This permits fresh, oxygen-rich blood to flow freely through the afflicted area. The fresh blood, combined with InfraRUB's soothing action, relieves pain at the source. Users claim quick relief from pains from rheumatic and arthritic pains, sore muscles and backache.

Another feature of this new product that appeals to many people is its ease of application. No long and painful rubbing is necessary as InfraRUB penetrates in a few seconds and vanishes with a moment's light massage.

InfraRUB leaves no oily film or penetrant objectionable odor on the skin. Users find they are able to put on clothes in comfort shortly immediately after application.

InfraRUB is now sold at all drug counters. No prescription is necessary.

Heavy Rains Delay Seeding In Province

TORONTO (CP)—Heavy spring rains during the Easter week-end delayed spring seeding in most areas of southern Ontario, the Ontario department of agriculture said Thursday in its weekly crop report.

Fall wheat started to show in Waterloo and Wellington counties. Farmers in Brant county began rolling and harrowing meadowland and a few fields of grain have been planted. Plowing for early seed corn got under way in Norfolk. Further soil erosion in Oxford county was caused by 1.65 inches of rain during the last week.

HOW TO PASS PROPERLY

Pass only on straight, level road—never on a hill or curve or at an intersection!

- Be sure you have plenty of clear road ahead of car you want to pass.
- Pick up to passing speed (10 M.P.H. faster than car you are passing) before you move out into left-hand lane.
- Be sure no one is going to pass you. Then signal to driver ahead that you want to pass, by horn or flashing headlights.
- Don't cut back into right lane until you can see the car you have passed in your rear-view mirror.

1. Be sure of enough straight, level passing space.
2. Pick up to passing speed and don't cut back in too soon.

Vancouver Province Fined $2,500, Columnist $250 For Contempt of Court on Story

VANCOUVER (CP)—Mr. Justice J. V. Clyne Thursday fined the Vancouver Province $2,500 and costs for contempt of court when it published an article by columnist Eric Nicol condemning capital punishment. Nicol was fined $250.

The article followed the conviction of 19-year-old William Gash for the gold-course slaying of Frank Pitsch, 61, Gash was hanged by Mr. Justice Clyne to be hanged June 22.

It was published March 20.

On April 2, A.W. Moscarella, Province publisher; R. C. Anderson, editor-in-chief; and Nicol were called before Mr. Justice Clyne. Mr. Moscarella and Mr. Anderson personally were not fined in Thursday's judgment.

After hearing the contempt proceedings Thursday morning, Mr. Justice Clyne reserved decision until Thursday.

EFFECT OF CONTEMPT

In his judgment, Mr. Justice Clyne said: "I cannot escape the conclusion that the effect of the writing and publishing of the article is such as to bring it clearly into contempt. . . or to obstruct or interfere with the due course of justice or the lawful process of the courts."

There can be no appeal in contempt proceedings of this kind.

In his judgment Thursday, Mr. Justice Clyne said he would have imposed a more severe penalty if he could do so as to bring it home to Vancouver Province possessors a proper understanding of the background in this community."

Mr. Justice Clyne said the conclusion he reached was "inescapable."

"It consists in the publication, after the conclusion of a trial, of a statement of the facts in the prosecutory of the court and, calculated to bring the court and the administration of justice into contempt and disrepute."

"EXTRAVAGANT LANGUAGE"

Dealing with the article, Mr. Justice Clyne said "from the extravagant language used by the writer there can be no doubt that it was written in opposition to capital punishment.

"It is to be noted, however, that the article does not merely attack but has a discussion of capital punishment and indicates that in the writer's opinion society is responsible for having caused William Gash to commit murder."

If the jury's verdict in the Gash trial had been perverse, the newspaper would have had a "perfect right" to criticize it.

"The exercise of imagination could the verdict be said to have been perverse," he said.

"Mr. Nicol and the publishers of the newspaper are not to be denied every right in the world to express their views on capital punishment, but, in choosing the capital punishment they have chosen to include in their observation those who are charged with the duty of carrying out the law as it exists."

Judge Rules Writer Guilty Of Passport Fraud

OTTAWA (CP) — An Ottawa judge has ruled Montreal writer Raymond Arthur Davies is in fact Canadian citizen Raymond Arthur Roback.

Judge A. G. McDougall Thursday sentenced Davies—or Roback—to two years in penitentiary for falsely declaring in an application for a Canadian passport in 1936 that he was Raymond Arthur Davies, British subject born in Montreal in 1902.

The county court judge said evidence at a two-day trial showed conclusively Davies is a Russian Jew, emigrated with his family to Boston in 1921 and later became active in Canada and the United States as an organizer of the Young Communist League.

In sentencing the 46-year-old writer to the "rather light" maximum of two years, Judge McDougall said: "I can find no excuse for you."

SAYS "RED HERRING"

Peter Newcombe, defence counsel, described the trial as a "herring" evidence of Davies' Communist activities in the 1930s. The evidence had nothing to do with the charge, he said he may appeal.

Judge McDougall, who presided at some of Canada's spy trials in 1946, said he could "well recount Davies' Communist past.

He said he discounted testimony given for the defence by Davies' wife, who had "done her best to help him" by committing perjury.

"EXTRAVAGANT LANGUAGE"

Dealing with the article, Mr. Justice Clyne said "from the extravagant language used by the writer there can be no doubt that it was written in opposition to capital punishment.

"It is to be noted, however, that the article does not merely attack but has a discussion of capital punishment and indicates that in the writer's opinion society is responsible for having caused William Gash to commit murder."

If the jury's verdict in the Gash trial had been perverse, the newspaper would have had a "perfect right" to criticize it.

"The exercise of imagination could the verdict be said to have been perverse," he said.

"Mr. Nicol and the publishers of the newspaper are not to be denied every right in the world to express their views on capital punishment, but, in choosing the capital punishment they have chosen to include in their observation those who are charged with the duty of carrying out the law as it exists."

Sen. McCarthy Past Master At Getting Headlines

By HAROLD MORRISON
Canadian Press Staff Writer

WASHINGTON (CP) — Senator Joseph McCarthy, big, rugged-looking and confident, stole the show at Thursday's opening session of the investigation into his row with the army.

The Wisconsin Republican, a past master at grabbing headlines, didn't take the witness stand himself. But by raising points of order and in cutting cross-examination to bring a charge of prejudice against the first witness, he managed to keep his side of the story before the public.

Television cameramen, recognizing McCarthy as the dominant personality in the proceedings gave him considerable attention, constantly switching from the witness to the senator to catch his reactions.

FOCUS ON McCARTHY

Press photographers, on hand as the Senate investigating sub-committee prepared to begin its hearings, took some shots of Army Secretary Robert T. Stevens but observed most of their ammunition for McCarthy.

Senator Karl Mundt of North Dakota, the chairman-to-be of the group, rapped his gavel repeatedly for order, trying, to get the proceedings started. But for a full three minutes of gavel-rapping, the cameramen ignored him, preferring shot after shot of the smiling McCarthy.

With McCarthy was his chief counsel, Roy M. Cohn, who also faces army charges of using "improper means" in attempting to get a commission for his buddy, Pfc. David Schine.

In contrast with McCarthy's confidence, Schine, a short dapper man, seemed nervous. He kept fidgeting and looking around.

Smash Down Door To Rescue Boy

TORONTO (CP) — Police smashed down a padlocked door to rescue a screaming seven-year-old boy from a locked room of a boarding house here early Thursday.

Roomers in the house called police when they heard the frightened crying of the boy whose mother, police said, was out at a party.

The mother denied being away and told police that she was at a party in another room of the house. The youngster's speech and mental growth were affected by a fall two years ago, police said.

First Paratroopers Arrive In Indo-China as Vietminh Step Up Assaults on Fort

SAIGON (AP) — United States-airlifted paratroopers from France began pouring into Indo-China today as the desperate French defenders of Dien Bien Phu battled new Communist-led Vietminh attacks on their hard-hit northwest defences.

The first of a fleet of huge U.S. Air Force C - 119 Globemasters stopped briefly in Saigon today with 220 French jump troops who were rushed out of France Tuesday.

Vietminh troops meanwhile smashed into the key northwestern defences of beleaguered Dien Bien Phu, and the French high command said fierce hand-to-hand fighting was in progress.

A brief French communique did not indicate whether the continuing see-saw battle for the northwest defences marked the start of the anticipated third mass try at overrunning the battered French defences in the entire area.

The Vietminh were driven out of some forward points in the northwest corner Thursday by fierce counter-attacks. The French claimed the enemy suffered "heavy losses."

But the rebels came back early today with renewed attacks at this point, trying for a break-through to the heart and nerve centre of the fortress' shrinking perimeter.

RING TIGHTENS

Already, by a series of night assaults and furious digging and thrusting, the Vietminh had managed to draw their steel ring tighter around the fortress. They have cut its girth from a broad six-to-four mile area to one not more than a mile and a quarter across.

The sudden Vietminh infantry assaults came after almost two days of intermittent artillery fire. When the skies cleared for a time, U.S.-supplied B-26 bombers plastered the rebels from a hill at the southeastern rim of the fortress. The French claimed "probably several companies" destroyed. Pilots reported blowing rebels by the score out of their trenches in the hill with 1,000-pound bombs.

French Army sources here described today's fighting at Dien Bien Phu as "bitter and furious."

The French, Moroccans, foreign legionnaires and Viet Namese charged over the top of newly-dug trenches to strike at the rebels with hand grenades and bayonets. They were backed up by heavy machine-gun fire and artillery barrages from banks.

Stepping up its aid to French Union forces fighting the Communist-led Vietminh, the United States Air Force hauled paratroopers from their field near Paris Tuesday. Advices from the French capital said the Americans possibly would airlift 1,000 troops in 10 planes.

Their route they were forced to detour from the direct Europe-to-Asia commercial route to refuel at the British base at Colombo, Ceylon. India's Prime Minister Nehru announced that his government would permit no foreign troops to cross Indian territory, by air or by any other route.

THREE LANDED THURSDAY

Dispatches from Colombo said three of the giant, troop-packed globe-masters landed there Thursday and two more came in today. Bangkok, capital of Thailand, was the next stop before Saigon.

Jump-troops—220 of them—wearing their characteristic berets were aboard the first Globemaster landed here by the airlift's American crews.

The airlift leader stopped only briefly in Saigon. It later roared off toward an undisclosed airfield inside the combat area to deposit its burden of fighting men. Planes manned by pilots from the French Air Force and civilian crews will drop them into Dien Bien Phu.

British Woman Visits Her 'Boys' Of War Years

WOODSTOCK, Ont. (CP) — A grey-haired, sparkling-eyed British woman who played mother to 40 Canadian airmen during the war, is on a country-wide tour to visit her "boys."

During the Battle of Britain and in the later years of the war, Mrs. Ida Bailey opened her Cambridge home in Surrey, became a haven for Canadians from the nearby airbase.

It was dubbed the "Dunnoville Overseas Club" by flyers who were trained at Dunnville air base, Mount Brant.

Of the 40 Canadian servicemen who made her home theirs during the war, four were killed in action. First was F/O. George Webster of Winnipeg, whose parents said on the channel; P/O. John Fryguson-Bell, killed in a hill at the Dieppe raid; P/O. Jack Ernst of Waterloo, Ont., while piloting a Spitfire; and Flying Officer Jack Kealy of Saskatoon, in the Battle of Britain in September, the matron's month-long trip Mrs. Simmons will visit three of the men's mothers.

Mrs. Simmons has been in Canada since March. May visiting her daughter and son-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. H. W. Kerr of Woodstock. She leaves today for the West Coast, dropping in on families at Winnipeg, Regina, Saskatoon, North Battleford, Edmonton and Victoria before she goes to her return trip to England is scheduled for July.

Awarded Damages

SIMCOE (CP)—Mrs. Margaret Ann Overbaugh, Thursday was awarded $1,200 in a Supreme Court action here over the traffic death of her husband, Murray Overbaugh, and their baby son, Richard, Christmas Eve, 1952.

Her three children were awarded a total of $900.

Carl Allan Churcher, driver of the car which was in collision with the Overbaugh car, and Vivian Jean Hall of Tillsonburg, were defendants in the action.

FAST METHOD

ST. JOHN'S, Nfld. (CP)—Federal fisheries inspectors in Newfoundland will make their trips by helicopter with a $100,000 machine leased by the department for a one-year test period. It can also be used for patrol service off shore.

Four Queens Now Appearing On Broadway

NEW YORK (AP)—Broadway today has four queens in a row to enchant theatre-goers.

The triumph came sharply into focus with the arrival a few days ago of Shirley Booth in "By the Beautiful Sea," a musical beach party written by Herbert and Dorothy Fields with music by Arthur Schwartz. The critics immediately classed Miss Booth favorently, a circumstance which the lady who has been called the "world's best actress" must by now find a delightful monotony.

Prior to her arrival, this season saw three other damsels garnering equally enthusiastic notices: Josephine Hull, the eloquently-voiced spinster of "The Solid Gold Cadillac"; and Judith Anderson, Hepburn in "Oodine"; and the dazzling Jean Marie of "The Girl in Pink Tights."

CHICKS DELAY CASE

DETROIT (AP) — Raymond J. Smarszosz 44, a farmer, had 500 reasons why he couldn't appear in traffic court. He received word of his scheduled court appearance on the same day he got 500 baby chicks with no one to take care of them but himself. The court postponed the case.

Red and White Pine Exhausted Within 20 Years

OTTAWA (CP) — Ontario's supplies of marketable red and white pine will be exhausted within 20 years, the head of the University of Toronto's forestry faculty said Thursday.

Prof. J. W. B. Sisam, discussing Ontario's forest policies before a provincial conservation commission, added that spruce pulpwood is being cut "considerably in excess of its productivity, and the reproduction of this species is often inadequate."

The present Ontario policy, he said, should assure the flow of new newable resources are managed to serve the present and future needs of the people of the province. But past policies had left a heritage which had been damaging to Ontario.

For many years, the province's forests had been looked on mainly as a liability than an asset. The public considered the forests "as the one hand as being inexhaustible and on the other as a hindrance to settlement and agricultural development."

ANCIENT LAND

Ceylon, now a dominion, was known to the colonists from India in the 6th century BC.

Secret Orders Again Showing In Singapore

SINGAPORE (Reuters) — A sudden stab in a narrow alley . . . tattoo marks . . . ritual oaths . . . revenge in the dark . . .

These are the signs of Chinese secret societies which are again blossoming in the underworld of this outwardly-placid British colony.

Police estimate there are 400 secret societies in Singapore. The police know of at least 10,000 members.

Singapore's secret societies have their roots in ancient Chinese history and at times the ritual of the societies has been purely idealistic. But in Singapore, in recent years, the groups have deteriorated into little more than extortion rings, governed by a multitude of cowering prostitutes, hawkers, coffeeshop proprietors, small traders and taxi-dancers.

Each society has a group of "strong arms" who go out with guns, broken bottles, knives and bamboo sticks to punish those who do not pay protection money.

Almost 100 years ago, the forerunners of today's societies fought a gang war. Six hundred persons were killed and 300 houses burned. Secret society members swear an oath never to betray confidences, and they are ready to kill those who do.

Conditional Grant Of $40,000 Made To Foundation

STRATFORD (CP)—The Rockefeller foundation has made a conditional grant of $40,000 to the capital funds campaign of the Stratford Shakespearian Festival of Canada foundation.

The grant depends on the Stratford festival raising the additional $80,000 in its objective of $120,000 to place the foundation on a "sound financial basis," John R. Anderson of Stratford, campaign chairman, said.

The grant, payable in Canadian funds, will be made on a basis of $10,000 for each $20,000 the festival raises from June 20.

Mr. Anderson said:

"This magnificent grant, together with the $100,000 bequest which we are receiving throughout Canada should assure the financial stability and permanence of the festival.

"The plays are to be presented this summer, starting June 28, in the second annual Shakespearian festival, James Mason, British film and stage actor, will star in "Measure for Measure," and the Greek tragedy "Oedipus Rex." An all-Canadian cast will be featured in "Taming of the Shrew."

GETS REVENGE, JAIL TERM

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Actress Virginia Ruby Conway, 21, was sentenced Thursday to serve a year for knocking down her actor husband, Thomas, 25, with the family auto. She said she rammed her husband with their car last Oct. 29 because "I just wanted to punish him for beating me up."

WOMAN SHARPSHOOTER

Mass Arrests Will Follow Red Agent's Revelations Of German Murder Mission

By IAN FRASER

BONN (Reuters) — The United States today accused Russia of a "deliberately outrageous and uncivilized course of conduct" for ordering a murder mission into West Germany.

The sources said the protest was made in a letter from the acting U. S. high commissioner, Walter Dowling, to Soviet high commissioner Vladimir Semenov. An official statement was expected later today.

Dowling referred to the cases of Capt. Nikolai Khokhlov, Soviet secret police officer who said he was sent to the American zone of Germany to murder a leading member of the anti-Soviet NTS organization, and of Dr. Alexander Trushnovitch, West Berlin head of the group, who was reported kidnapped in Berlin April 13.

MASS ARRESTS COMING

American sources said mass arrests of Communist agents in western Europe will be carried out as a result of the Soviet captain's disclosures of Kremlin intelligence secrets.

They said the 32-year-old Capt. Khokhlov will be kept in hiding for "at least another three weeks" to give American authorities time to gain further information from him on the workings of Russian espionage.

Khokhlov broadcast an appeal in Russian over the Voice of America to the Russian people Thursday asking them to help his wife, Vera Vasina, who persuaded him to give himself up to the Americans, commit murder, and their son, Alexander. Both are believed still living in a village near Moscow.

HAD SILENT PISTOL

Equipped with a silent pistol concealed in a cigarette case and fitted poison bullets, Khokhlov was sent by the MVD (Russian secret police) to kill a fellow anti-communist Russian in Frankfurt, West Germany.

But—spurred on by the pleas of his wife, he decided even before he left Russia that he would not carry out his murder mission, and instead gave away all his poison weapons, with him were two East German pilots whom he had chosen himself.

He brought information on the work of the MVD since he took action of its chief, Lavrenti Beria, who said it had built up advanced outposts for its agents in Western Europe—at Karlshorst, the seat of Soviet high commission for East Germany, and at Baden, in the Soviet zone of Austria's Vienna.

A slight man with fair hair and blue eyes glasses, Khokhlov told his story quietly and with scarcely a gesture at a huge press conference.

HOPED TO SAVE WIFE

He said he gave up his mission and came over to the West because his wife, still in Russia with their two-year-old son, had told him she would have to denounce him to the assassin.

"I asked her whether she realised what awaited her if I went to the West. She knew, and it is in no way changed her decision. Then I made up my mind to come here," he said.

Khokhlov indicated he had much more to tell about Soviet espionage to safety, possibly with American help.

But there were "found to be unexpected difficulties in the way."

James McDermott, an United States high commission, said. He did not amplify his remark.

Racing, Jai-Alai Bring Dollars To Florida

MIAMI, Fla. (AP) —Florida squeezed a few more dollars out racing enthusiasts last winter in the 1953-53 season, the state racing commission reported today.

The state's four horse tracks, three jai-alai "frontons" and 15 greyhound racing plants attracted 3,497,886 fans who wagered $393,- 139,228 through April 19, the commission said. This was $4,323,021 more than the 5,346,305 who wagered $239,816,207 during the previous season.

Principal increase, the racing commission said, came from Hialeah's improved facilities which included a new $2,500,000 clubhouse, and from jai-alai activity—a murderous Spanish game that has attracted Florida tourists for the last few years.

St. George's Day

This royal throne of kings, this sceptred Isle,
This earth of majesty, this seat of Mars,
This other Eden, demi-paradise,
This fortress built by Nature for herself
Against infection and the hand of war,
This happy breed of men, this little world,
This precious stone set in the silver sea,
Which serves it in the office of a wall
Or as a moat defensive to a house,
Against the envy of less happier lands,
This blessed plot, this earth, this realm,
this England.

King Richard II.

Pittsburgh's Surprising Bucs Tangle With 'Bums' After Deflating Giants

CHIPS OFF THE SPORTS BLOCK

By Geo. H. Carver, Sports Editor

STILL A HOPE!

The Central Ontario Baseball League, vintage 1954, was almost still-born. In fact it passed away rather suddenly after giving promise of developing into a healthy husky youngster.

Belleville, Oshawa, Peterborough and Kingston were the quadruplets at the birth. Then Oshawa decided a larger family would be more to its liking and tossed in its lot with the Toronto Viadnct League.

Like a bolt from the blue came the announcement that Kingston would not participate this year. The announcement followed the edict of the Kingston Baseball Association that players performing with its team would be suspended if they played with the COBL entry. It was as neat a deep-freeze as one would wish.

Peterborough got thoroughly organized with a strong executive and forwarded the $100 entry fee to the COBL secretary. With only two teams left, there was nothing to do but forget the idea for another year.

But there is a ray of hope for senior baseball fandom. The Viadnct League has stated it will consider applications from the Peterborough and Belleville clubs. If accepted these teams would round out an eight-squad circuit. Both Belleville and Peterborough clubs are sending representatives to the Viadnct League meeting being held in Toronto tonight.

In the meantime, according to Kingston reports, the city league of that town would consider an entry from Belleville, along with Napanee. The games in this loop are played on the cricket field and would be afternoon or twilight affairs.

This department favors the Viadnct League set-up rather than the down-east idea. Toronto teams would prove a big drawing card here and the majority of the games would be played under lights.

We understand, and it is only a rumdr, that in the event of the Belleville and Peterborough teams being accepted by the Viadnicrs, the league would be a sectional affair with all teams playing a brief interlocking schedule. If this is true the eastern section would be complete for Oshawa, Belleville and Peterborough with a Toronto team. As a matter of fact, as far as baseball and fandom is concerned this idea seems better than the original four-team set-up.

Definite information should be available following the return of the Belleville delegates from the Viaduct confab.

BIT BY BIT!

Sault Ste Marie hockey minds have come up with a neat fund-raising idea. They have formed a Booster Club, membership to which can be paid on the installment plan. A membership costs twelve dollars and members pay two dollars down and two dollars a month until fully paid up. The idea might be worth consideration on the part of Belleville baseball and hockey authorities.

After all, what's another instalment in these days of trend-sited financing with almost everything on the dollar-down-and-a-dollar-when-they-catch-up-with-you plan. People could clip a quarter off the monthly tabs on the television, stove, radio, washing machine, automobile, home and lawnmower, and toss the wad into the sports kitty.

SOFTBALL PRACTICE!

Herby Ted (The Ole Clucker) Henn was cackling again this morning in an effort to broadcast the news that his softball-chasing cockerels will hold a practice at the CNR field on the "week-end", starting at ten o'clock in the morning. Between clucks he managed to get out the word that he could use players of all kinds with special emphasis on pitchers. Seems as how his Northern Electric brood could use a flinger or two. No, he hasn't announced his annual retirement yet. It is the CNR field at ten of the morning, come the week-end.

SOFTBALLERS MEET

The Belleville District Softball League is holding an open meeting at the West Moira Street Fire Hall on Tuesday, April 27, starting at 7.45 p.m., president Gord Steward said today. There is important business to be done and all associated with the league are urged to put in an appearance. Time is getting short and the first thing you know opening day will be around the corner. Don Lee, OSA executive member, will likely give a report on the annual convention held in North Bay, with emphasis on the important player-insurance question.

YOUNG HOCKEY NIGHT!

Tonight is Young Hockey Night in Belleville. Upwards of 600 proteges of the Belleville Minor Hockey Association will converge on the Bridge Street armouries where they will gorge themselves on hot dogs, soft drinks, ice cream, etc. Proud young champions will receive trophies and crests with the main feature of the event being an address by Jim Thomson, starry defenceman of the Toronto Maple Leafs. Looks like a big night for the puck-chasing moppets.

'Who' Kids Flatten Durochans With Three Wins Out of Four; Orioles' 5-Hitter Whips Tribe

By Ben Phlegar
Associated Press Sports Writer

Pittsburgh's "Who" kids, the surprise of the National League baseball race, tangle with Brooklyn Dodgers tonight, hoping they can carry over at least some of the luck they had against New York Giants. They beat the Giants three out of four.

The four-game Brooklyn series is an important one, not only to the two clubs but to the rest of the league as well. It has been the Dodgers' almost unfailing ability to make the Pirates play dead the last two seasons that has eased the Brooklyn pennant path.

In 1952 the Dodgers beat the Pirates 18 times. Last year they beat them 20 times. The other clubs' chances of catching Brooklyn while the Dodgers had such hospitable "cousins" were just about impossible.

This is the first full scale series between Brooklyn and the "Who" kids, so don't expect too over heard of them? More than half of the Pittsburgh starting lineup never had played in a major league park until two weeks ago. Quarterback Frank Thomas is the only member of the line-up that beat the Giants 7-4 Thursday who has played as many as 100 major league games in a season. And he's only in his second year in the big time.

Bob Skinner, fresh from the marines and 29 games in class-D ball in 1951, slammed two long-ers for four straight hits—a double, triple and two singles.

The only other major league action Thursday was at Baltimore, where the Orioles' Frank Saucier and Ian Dobson behind the five-hit pitching of Duane Pillette, 4-1.

Toronto Mayor Seeks Olympics For Canada

LONDON (Reuters)—The mayor of Toronto, Allan Lamport, arrived here by air Thursday night on his way to Athens to press for the 1960 Olympic Games to be held in Canada.

"We know that 32 American cities want to have the games for 1960," he said. "But we feel that Toronto should be recognized."

If Canada failed to get the Olympic games for 1960 it would ask for the 1964 meeting to be held in Toronto, he added.

Accompanying Lamport to Athens is Robert H. Saunders, chairman of the Ontario hydro-electric commission. He will attend the Athens meeting as a representative of the Canadian Olympic Association and thus will present the official Canadian bid for the 1960 Olympics.

British Racing Moguls Modify Grand National

LONDON (AP)—The bosses of steeplechase racing in Britain received a six-point plan Thursday for the modification of the Grand National — the world's toughest steeplechase.

The plan from the influential Royal Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Animals (RSPCA), the society's representatives put their points to the National Hunt Committee at a get-together Thursday.

The committee is the ruling body of steeplechase and hurdle racing in the British Isles.

The meeting followed a loud public outcry over the deaths of four horses in the March 27 Grand National.

The six-point plan:

1. Tightening qualifications for entrants; 2. Lowering top weights; 3. Tighter qualifications for jockeys; 4. Modifying the distance —increasing or decreasing — between the start and first fence; 5. Modifying certain fences; 6. veterinary examination of horses at first forfeit stage, including electrocardiograph test to ensure no horse is liable to drop dead during the race from a weal heart.

Smooth-Working Edmonton Oil Kings Qualify For Memorial Cup Finals

EDMONTON (CP) — Edmonton Oil Kings, with a wide margin of pep and polish, moved easily into the Memorial Cup final Thursday night with an 8-2 victory over Fort William Canadiens, winning the best-of-seven western series 4-1 and outscoring the Lakehead club 35-7.

Oil K.ngs now will meet either St. Catharines TeePees or Quebec Frontenacs in the Canadian junior hockey final.

It was speed and a smooth Edmonton passing attack that baffled Canadiens, whose only victory in the series—a 2-1 decision in Fort William—snapped Oil Kings' winning streak of 35 games, believed a Canadian junior record.

While Kings will be the first junior club to represent the oil capital in the national junior final since 1939, they have a record which promises to make their bid a husky one.

ONLY FOUR LOSSES

In 55 Western Junior Hockey League and playoff games they were beaten only four times. In four playoff series, involving 19 games, they scored 149 goals to their opposition's 22 while goalie Bill Jacobson racked up five shutouts.

The Fort William series was the only one not won by Edmonton in straight games. The scores were 6-0, 1-2, 8-0, 5-1 and 8-2.

In their WJHL schedule, Oil Kings won 33 games, lost three and scored 263 goals to 84 against them, Jacobson earning four shutouts.

Western Canada has not held the Memorial Cup since 1948 when Fort Arthur Bruins turned the trick. And it has been 20 years since a team from Alberta, Calgary Canadiens, won national honors.

Edmonton won the Abbott Cup, emblematic of the western title, in almost a walk Thursday night. They led 1-0 and 5-0 before outscoring Canadiens 3-2 in the final frame.

The high-scoring line of Norm Ullman, Billy McNeill and Johnny Bucyk continued to supply the scoring punch for Kings. The 18-year-old Ullman, the WJHL's leading point-getter for two seasons, and left winger Bucyk each scored two goals. McNeill added one with others coming from Ray Kinasewich, Chuck Holmes and Ed Diachuk.

Fort William didn't score until Don Chupka and Johnny Kowalchuk fired two goals within five minutes in the third period.

The final game saw 18 penalties handed out. Fort William drawing 11, including two misconducts.

Mosdell, Lumley on All-Stars, Howe Gets Nod Over Richard

MONTREAL (CP)—Two 10-year men, never National Hockey League all-star choices, made the first team in selections announced by the league today. Two other players are newcomers on the second team.

Harry Lumley of Toronto, with three clubs in his 10 years, snatched the goal-tending crown from Terry Sawchuk of Detroit, first-team choice the last three years. Ken Mosdell of Montreal, who just ended his 11th campaign, won the centre spot.

Second team newcomers are Tim Horton of Toronto and Fern Sandford of Boston.

In a close finish Gordie Howe of Detroit won first-team right wing place over Maurice Richard of Montreal by two points. Howe is a repeater along with Detroiters Red Kelly and Ted Lindsay, and Doug Harvey of Montreal.

The teams, with points bracketed:

First team: Goal: Lumley, Toronto (127); defence, Kelly, Detroit (177), Harvey, Montreal (130); centre, Mosdell, Montreal (107); right wing, Howe, Detroit (164), Lindsay, Detroit (163).

Second team: Goal: Sawchuk, Detroit (95); Defence: Gadsby, Chicago (84), Horton, Toronto (84); centre: Kennedy, Toronto (43); right wing: Richard, Montreal (142); left wing: Sandford, Boston (64).

VOTING WEIGHTED

Voting on a 5-3-1 points basis for first, second and third choices, was weighted to give each NHL city equal voting strength. Balloting was done by hockey writers and broadcasters.

There were two votes in the season, one at the end. Richard led Howe by one point Jan. 1. Kennedy won second-centre place over his teammate Ted Sloan by half a point.

Maximum points for the season were 180, or 90 each half. Kelly was nearest to a perfect total with 177 points and a unanimous 90 for the second half.

Sports Roundup

By GAYLE TALBOT

NEW YORK (AP)—The Amateur Athletic Union, the governing body of amateur sports in the United States, has long had the reputation of being a very stuffy organization, and it has been a label not entirely undeserved.

The head men of the AAU have, with rare exceptions, seemed to live forever. Unlike old soldiers, they haven't even faded away.

Almost everyone concedes that they all have been fine and dedicated, determined to keep amateur athletics at the high moral level that they were, say, 50 years ago. They have labored without pay, being men of independent means. They have, in fact, done everything they could have done for amateur athletics except recognize the need for publicity.

They have steadfastly fought shy of the press, and those who did get it has been to whomp up to reading matter about track and field events, in particular, have had hard going. It might only be a coincidence, but the crowds have fallen off steadily at such events in the United States while they were zooming in other parts of the world.

CHANGE SETS IN

Now, the AAU, or at least its branch, the Metropolitan Association, is changing.

The local body has taken on the renowned Col. Walter (Cappy) Wells, who knows almost every body in the U.S., to edit its monthly magazine, "The Met," and to speak pleasantly at all times to seekers after information.

Throwing himself into the great humanizing project is Jim Farley, the former postmaster general, who knows almost everybody in the world, and who sincerely feels that the AAU and the press should become acquainted for the benefit of the youth of the land.

Seaforth Wins Title In Peewee Tourney

GODERICH (CP) — The third championship of the Young Canada Week Pee Wee hockey tournament was decided here Thursday when Seaforth defeated Temiskaming Que., 5-1 to take the B-group title.

Winnipeg's entry, the Red and Whites, was defeated in its first game, losing 3-2 to Kingston in the AA group.

In A-group play, Goderich moved ahead by beating Simcoe 6-1 and Owen Sound 4-3. Goderich was awarded the game over Newmarket on the basis of 20 shots on goal to Newmarket's 17.

In AA-group games North Bay eliminated Tillsonburg 4-2, North Toronto knocked out Stratford 7-1 and Waterloo beat North York 9-1.

Fred Curran was the leading marksman of the Goderich Winnipeg game, scoring two for the Ontario team. Ron Brown scored a Kingston single. Pete Carnegie and Terry Clark put in Winnipeg's goals.

HANDICAPPED BY LOSS

Some observers said Winnipeg was handicapped by the loss of Mike Hnatiw, players who were over 12 years old in Western Pee Wees, they said, are allowed to play to 13 but Hnatiw sets the limit at 12.

In the B-group championship, Temiskaming got its only goal at 11:39 of the final frame when Don Starko drove one home. Larry Dale, Jim Broadfoot, Ray Scoins, Bob Relth and Garry Hall scored for Kingston.

Goderich Lions Club, one of the tournament's sponsors, had its hands full finding accommodation for the players, with a record 47 entries in the tournament. Western Ontario teams normally need only overnight billets but teams from Toronto, North Bay, Winnipeg, Temiskaming and other distant centres pose a larger problem.

PUT UP WHOLE TEAM

Mrs. Fred Price, mother of Eddie Price of Chicago Black Hawks, put up the whole North Bay crew of 16 persons. North Bay officials said they made a point of getting in touch with Mrs. Price because her son formerly trained in North Bay and was well known to hockey enthusiasts there.

Mrs. Wilfrid Larder took in 12 players from Port Perry. Two Winnipeg players were given the nickname of "The dead end kids" when Mrs. Reg Goode is "a wonderful experience for young boys."

Senators Wallop Quebec Aces For 3-1 Lead

QUEBEC (CP) — Turk Broda's Ontario Senators are hitting pretty today with a commanding 3-1 lead in their best-of-nine final playoffs against Quebec Aces.

The Senators had too much of everything for the Aces Thursday night, walloping them 5-2 before more than 7,500 disappointed fans. The victors are heavily favored to take the fifth game of the Quebec Hockey League series at Ottawa Saturday, and possibly win the playoffs here Sunday.

Before leaving for Ottawa Thursday night, Broda said he would like to see the series completed this week-end but declined to make any prediction on the outcome of the next two games.

Thursday night's tilt was comparatively slow-paced. The Aces had as many, or more, opportunities to score as Ottawa, but the Senators had the extra punch.

Except for a first period goal by Ottawa's Gerry Foley, all the scoring took place in the final frame. Bep Guidolin's tally proved to be the winner. Red Johnson, Dusty Blair and Leo Gravelle rounded out Senators' scoring.

Michel Labadie and Gerry Cabana were the Quebec marksmen.

FOAM FOR OUTFIELDERS

BOSTON (AP) — To protect charging outfielders, particularly Jim Piersall, the Boston Red Sox have cushioned their fences and right field bullpen with expensive foam rubber padding. Last year an outfielder suffered a severe scalp laceration when he crashed into a fence trying to snare a high drive (8).

Sault Wins All-Ontario Juvenile Title

SAULT STE. MARIE, Ont. (CP) Sault Ste. Marie Thursday night won its second all-Ontario juvenile hockey title in three years when they downed St. Catharines Bisons 5-3 in the fourth game of the all-Ontario finals.

A crowd of 2,800 saw the Sault Dorans break a 2-2 tie with four successive goals late in the final period for a victory that gave them the best-of-five series 3-1.

The Dorans scored single tallies in the first and second periods and the Bisons tied the score with two goals in the opening minutes of the third period.

Gary Barone scored twice with Gene Ubriaco, Archie Stocco, Jumper Johnston and Tom Lahaye getting their Sault goals. Mair Thompson and Eddie Hoekstra were the St. Catharines marksmen.

Sault won the series opener 6-5 before dropping the second game 4-2. They came back with a 5-3 verdict in the third game and capped it off Thursday night.

The rest of the clubs can have the honor and glory but when it comes to the "money" series the G. H. Woods team of the Major "A" Bowling League came up with the performance that took the cream of the prizes milk.

HORSE SENSE BRIDGE

By SAM GORDON
The Kibitzer

The best bridge players in the world make mistakes. Both in the bidding and in the play. Proof of this can be seen by looking over the hands in their title matches.

Before me is a record of every deal bid and played in the masters pair championship at the Summer nationals. Listed is the final bid and the tricks taken by each of the 36 tables of 72 master pairs.

Hand number 7 caught my eye first. You see the cards here:

NORTH
♠A 8 6 4
♥K J 9 7 5
♦A 7 4

WEST
♠7 9 7 5 2
♥3
♦K 10 9 5
♣10 3

EAST
♠K Q 10 3
♥Q 8 6 4
♦J 6 3 2
♣A K J 7 5 4

SOUTH
♠A Q 10
♥A 10 3 2
♦Q 8
♣Q 8 6 2

Nearly all the north players ended with hearts as trump. Most of them were in four hearts.

A few were in five hearts. Of these, a couple of tables went down by some manner of bad play.

One west player was doubled at five diamonds. Another in east was doubled at three clubs. Each of these went down three for a loss of 800 points. Bad judgment for such players.

Obviously, the final contract should be in hearts. North has a count of five tricks and south counts six. With a total count of 11 they should not be in a slam. So, four hearts is the correct final bid.

But what struck me most about this deal is the fact that nobody there took 12 tricks. Not that it is easy to do. In fact, it takes a very nervy player to take that many tricks. But it can be done.

Remember that the players in that match were supposed to be the greatest in the world. They are supposed to be super-players. If so, at least one of them should have taken the most possible.

East takes the first trick with his club king. If the club ace is the second lead it is easier for declarer, if east makes a switch to a diamond for his second lead it is tougher for declarer.

From there on, however, a hard try by declarer could find a way of making a small slam in hearts. The play is interesting enough for you to work on it. Give it a try.

AT THE McCARTHY

Raoul Walsh, veteran Hollywood director, began an acting career thirty-eight years ago in the role of John Wilkes Booth in D. W. Griffith's "The Birth of a Nation." To the actors and technicians who accompanied him to the Canadian Rockies for the production of Universal-International's Technicolor adventure "Saskatchewan," held over today and Saturday at the Odeon McCarthy Theatre, Walsh is still one of Hollywood's most enthusiastic performers.

Though Alan Ladd and Shelley Winters are the stars of "Saskatchewan," the behind-the-cameras "mugging" of director Walsh was an acting high-spot of the ambitious "location" schedule.

Pacing back and forth while a scene is in progress, the colorful director pantomimes every bit of action going on in front of the camera. A kiss packs even more passion, a Sunday punch even more power, a death-scene even more agony from Walsh out of less-range than the scene being photographed under his supervision.

It is not unusual, therefore, to find the crew watching Walsh rather than the stars. It has become automatic that his off-stage gymnastics are a reliable barometer for the scene's acceptibility. A prattfall with the stuntmen means that Walsh is happy about the whole thing out front. Facial contortions from the director indicates a sour reaction—and a "retake."

Aaron Rosenberg produced "Saskatchewan" and Walsh directed from Gil Doud's screenplay. Featured in the cast are Robert Douglas, J. Carrol Naish, Hugh O'Brian, Richard Long, Jay Silverheels, Antonio Moreno, Lowell Gilmore and Anthony Caruso in the large company of players that spent the entire production schedule in the Canadian Rockies.

Your Individual Horoscope

BY FRANCES DRAKE

Look in the section in which your birthday comes and find what your outlook is, according to the stars.

FOR SATURDAY, APRIL 24, 1954

March 21 to April 20 (Aries) — Through the unexpected your outlook could be bettered. Be on the beam, look around for new faces and new favors. Earn reward with utmost intent and action, but don't rush things and err.

April 21 to May 20 (Taurus) — Measure your ability to carry on to a successful conclusion the tasks before you. Don't overload self; it can react more harmfully than you think. Give priority to important matters.

May 21 to June 21 (Gemini) — You may be under pressure, encounter irritating circumstances in early hours. Be smart, hold emotions in check. Plan thoughtfully, then carry on with faith and determination.

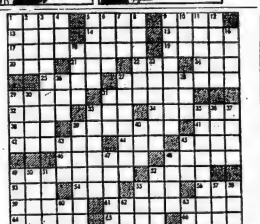
June 22 to July 23 (Cancer) — Most sound activities are under favorable aspects now. Financial, business transactions are under business transactions can improve, and personal matters can advance. You will need to judge keenly, discern fact from fantasy.

July 24 to August 22 (Leo) — Encouraging opportunities for you who think logically. Keep your good nature in order to counteract adversary, adverse tension. Be sensible about pleasures, personal relationships.

August 23 to September 22 (Virgo)—Possibly you will have assistance in business efforts. Be gracious, return in kind. Your ability to make the best of a so-so situation will come in handy.

September 24 to October 23 (Libra)—Work harder to improve prospects. Your business acumen and intuition will guide. Have a determined but not foolishly optimistic attitude. Some assistance from outside sources.

October 24 to November 22 (Scorpio)—Don't harass yourself and your progress by undertaking tasks or transactions that do not belong in your schedule. As the day advances it can gradually become most pleasant, prosperous.



November 23 to December 22 (Sagitius) — Scorpio's prescription is sound for you now. Your tendency not to get sufficient rest could be a hindrance. Devote some time to home, family, relaxation.

December 23 to January 21 (Capricorn)—Planets, in generally inauspicious aspects, stress common sense, conscientious treatment of business, personal, any matters. Stay in your proper sphere; carry on with faith and grit.

January 22 to February 20 (Aquarius) — Somewhat difficult; you may encounter snags through others' lack of concentration, laxness. Do not let down your guard these vital days. But smile the while.

February 21 to March 20 (Pisces)—With application and perseverance you can surmount obstructions much more easily. Lethargy can hinder progress while willful ambition can bring lasting success.

YOU BORN TODAY are of Taurus, a brainy Sign. You are determined and, once you make a decision, will stay with it. This attitude must be developed properly or you will only become stubborn where you could be progressive. Of course, hold to principles, tried-and-true methods. Be open to good suggestions. You are self-reliant, have stability of character; can do almost anything to which you set your mind. Many noted intellectuals in this Sign. Taureans have the ability to soothe others and are kindly at heart. Birthstone of: Anthony Trollope English novelist.

THE LITTLE WOMAN

"Wake up, Herbert! You can stop worrying—I just remembered what I did with that missing $30!"

Wellington on the Lake

THE SONG SPARROW

One April morn when skies were gray
And damp the air with mist and rain,
When heart and spirit were depressed
And life and labor seemed in vain,
Then suddenly upon the ear
There fell a burst of tuneful song—
A naught to him were skies of gray—
This feathered migrant brave and strong!

I watched him as he perched and sang
Upon the gray and leafless tree,
His little head raised to the skies
In singing his song of ecstasy;
His throbbing throat swelled with the strain—
A song of gratitude it seemed
For life renewed and home and spring.
For hope that for the future gleamed.

A little bird, thy song of praise
Hath brought to me a lesson grand—
To sing although the skies are gray
And mists envelop all the land;
To courage keep amid the storm,
To sing of peace 'mid stress and strife,
To hold on high the torch of hope
All down the devious road of life.

—Helen B. Anderson.

WELLINGTON—Easter Sunday was fair, with church services well-attended, the United church being filled to capacity. An impressive and inspiring discourse by the pastor, Rev. A. Poulter, on the Resurrection, and contributions by both the senior and junior choirs, with a vocal solo by Mr. Reg. Bishop combined to emphasize the Resurrection as the foundation of our Christian faith. Mrs. McNeil was the capable organist.

Mr. and Mrs. E. Gratton, Montreal, spent a few days the guest of Mr. and Mrs. Percy Cleave, Mr. and Mrs. Will Alexander and other friends.

Mrs. Elmer Carley is spending Easter week with her parents at Chesterville, Ontario.

Mrs. Wiley and son and daughter of Springfield, Ontario, were Easter guests of Miss Mary Lumb and Gladys, Maple Avenue.

Mrs. Alex Tait is spending a few days in St. David's and Toronto, the guest of her daughters.

Miss Beverley Tait, teacher of North Lakeside School, Consecon, is enjoying the holidays at her home in Wellington.

Miss Fern Sarles and Miss Sally Sarles, Toronto, spent Easter with their mother in Wellington. Sally returned to Toronto Monday evening to resume her medical studies at the university.

Mr. and Mrs. Glendon Sanders, Toronto, and Mrs. Arthur Goodmurphy were dinner guests of Mr. and Mrs. Harry Pettengill, Easter evening.

Mr. and Mrs. Putnam and children of Peterborough, were Monday guests of Mrs. Jolley and Donald.

Mr. and Mrs. Roscoe Vandewater and Mr. and Mrs. Orr of Belleville, were dinner guests of their parents, Mr. and Mrs. Arnold Vandewater on Good Friday. Easter guests were Mr. and Mrs. Fred Vandewater and daughters of Bath.

Mr. and Mrs. Murray Smith and daughter Judith of Cobourg were Easter guests of Mr. and Mrs. Dayton Murphy.

WELLINGTON W.M.S.

The April meeting of the W.M.S. of Wellington United Church was held at the pleasant country home of Mrs. Percy Cleave on Tuesday afternoon with the president, Mrs. Gerald Sarsburg in charge, who opened the meeting with a poem, "The Sun Shines From Calvary" and thanked the hostess for opening her home and extended a welcome to all. Mrs. Barton Crook read the minutes of last meeting and the roll call. Mrs. Ross reported for Christian Stewardship; Mrs. R. Dorland reported on Temperance; Mrs. Yourt reported on Korea, and Mrs. Gay reported on friendship calls. A survey on literature was conducted by Mrs. C. Hicks. Mrs. Nash announced that Rev. Mr. Lane of Madoc would be guest speaker at the W.M.S. Easter meeting on Sunday morning.

The devotional was in charge of Mrs. Yourt who spoke on The Cross and Easter. Mrs. McMaster read the Bible lesson and reviewed a chapter of the Study Book. At the close the hostess served refreshments. The May meeting will be held at the home of Mrs. Sprague and Mrs. Lane.

The Easter Sunday service on Sunday morning in St. Andrew's Anglican Church was well attended. Rev. Mr. Heaven conducted the service. The flowers were very beautiful.

Miss Maxine McArthur and friend of Welland returned home on Wednesday after spending a few days guests of Mrs. Edna Platt.

Madoc

MADOC—Visitors at the home of Mrs. John Armstrong at Easter time were Mr. and Mrs. Kennedy, Mr. and Mrs. George Armstrong of Toronto, and Mrs. Fitzgibbon of Belleville.

Guests of Mr. and Mrs. Carl McCoy over the week-end were Mr. and Mrs. Bayley and daughter of St. Catharines, Mr. and Mrs. Bob McCoy of Oshawa, and Miss Marilyn McCoy.

Mr. and Mrs. K. Fenn, of Toronto, spent Easter with the latter's parents, Mr. and Mrs. W. Alger.

Miss Violet Alvey, of Toronto, spent the holiday at her home in Madoc.

Russians Order End of Relations With Australia

Diplomats Burn Documents Before Leaving for Home

CANBERRA (CP) — Documents went up in flames in embassies 12,000 miles apart today as Russian diplomats here and Australians in Russia prepared to return home after Friday night's break in diplomatic relations over the Petrov case.

In Moscow, the Australian embassy staff worked at top speed to be ready to depart by Sunday night, Prime Minister Russia said.

Andrei Gromyko, Soviet deputy foreign minister, told the Australian charge d'affaires, Brian Hill, Friday that Russia wanted the Australians out in "three or four days."

The Russians here, recalled by the Kremlin and not ordered out, can take their time. It is expected to be several weeks before the last Russian official has left Canberra.

The break in relations was called by Russia in a note protesting granting of asylum to Vladimir Petrov, former embassy official and secret police chief in Australia, and his wife Evdokya. The note said Petrov was a criminal who should be arrested by Australia for theft and that Mrs. Petrov had been "kidnaped" by Australian government officials.

These developments make any reconciliation impossible, the note said.

Australia had rejected the demand for the return of Petrov when it was made earlier, and is keeping him in a secret hiding place. The Petrovs are living with him after a tumultuous incident in which she was taken from a plane in Japan Sunday as she was about to depart with Soviet agents for Moscow.

In that incident, the Soviet note charged, "Australian police used violence against the second secretary of the embassy . . . (and) subjected the wife of diplomatic couriers to forcible search with the use of physical violence."

The two couriers had been disarmed by the Australian police at the airport, the note charged, which further authorities from talking to Mrs. Petrov.

Moscow radio's announcement of the break note was the first the Soviet public had heard of the Petrov case.

It came just before the opening Monday of the Geneva conference on Korea and Indo-China, which both Russia and Australia will be represented.

READS NOTE TO HILL

Gromyko read the contents of the note to Hill in Russian, and then they were translated.

The Australian diplomat immediately informed the British ambassador, Sir William Hayter, who is expected to take over responsibility for the Soviet post in the Soviet Union.

Passage on all commercial flights out of Australia is booked solid, as it is for persons who left the people connected with the Soviet embassy here can get out of the country. Besides the entire staff of members, 19 wives and 13 children, there are 30 or more members of the correspondent of the Tass news agency, Victor Antonov, and his wife, who have been Russian officials here for the break.

Meanwhile, the staff today was busily destroying all documents they could not carry with them in their exodus from Australia. Indoor fireplaces apparently were inadequate for the task. An accession of men and women was seen carrying bags and brief-cases filled with papers and books to a secluded spot in the embassy garden, where a huge fire was burning.

WITHHELD DEDUCTIONS

TORONTO (CP)—A fine of $1,500 was slapped on Henry Pierrynowski, an architect, Friday for not remitting to the government employees' income tax deductions of about $5,000. The $5,000 has now been paid, the court was told.

NO INTERVENTION PACT REQUESTED BY PREMIER NEHRU

Wants all Countries To Leave Indo-China Alone

By EUGENE LEVIN

NEW DELHI (AP)—Prime Minister Nehru called today on all countries, including Britain, Russia and Red China to enter into a pact at Geneva agreeing not to intervene directly or indirectly in Indo-China.

He made his proposal in a statement before the Indian Parliament, as part of a five-point program for ending the Indo-China war.

Nehru also asked that the big powers "refrain from the use or threats and stepping up the war," give priority at Geneva for a ceasefire in Indo-China, and initiate direct negotiations to end the fighting.

He told the Parliament India welcomes next week's Geneva talks to seek a settlement of the Asian conflicts centring in Korea and Indo-China. His country was "interested in the restoration of peace in Indo-China, and the Indian aim was 'to create peace' there.

NEHRU'S PLAN

Nehru felt "concern and forebodings in references to instant and massive retaliation" which had been made since the Geneva talks were scheduled. "Misgivings have been mounting. And there is a mish stepping up the tempo of the war and the United States aiding the French-Viet Namese side.

Nehru's proposal for a peace four-power agreement for non-intervention would bar any kind of intervention, such as furnishing troops and war material. Events in Indo-China have continued to be that he had "committed the percrime."

Miss Davies testified MacLean, a former assistant accountant, told her at a party he came in which he and his wife were riding last Aug. 22 and swam around until he thought his wife, a non-swimmer, had drowned.

Mrs. MacLean's death was ruled accidental at the time.

WANTS HER BACK

Miss Davies was testifying in the hearing of a false pretenses charge she brought against MacLean, to whom she said she became engaged after his wife was drowned. She said she gave MacLean $1,600 to pay off a loan on a house.

Dien Bien Phu Counter-Attack Sets Up New Line of Defence

HANOI (AP)—The French high command announced today that French Union troops defending Dien Bien Phu have established a new defence line in the northwestern corner of the Indo-China fortress area, beating back Communist Vietminh forces in a strong counter-attack.

The French quickly dug a system of trenches and erected fortifications to the south to further thrusts towards the heart of the fortress by the Vietminh from the northwest.

Both the Vietminh and the French during the counter-attack were reported to have had heavy losses.

Brig.-Gen. Christian de Castries, commanding the fortress, tried in his counter-attack to take back the third outpost to the northwest captured by the Vietminh in their furious assault Friday.

But the Vietminh threw in overwhelming numbers of troops and de Castries was forced to recall his forces to the heart of the fortress.

NEW LINE SET UP

However, said a French army spokesman, the counter-attack succeeded in that it had permitted the French to set up a new line of defence immediately south of the outpost now held by Vietminh.

The French said two Vietminh battalions, or nearly 2,000 men, had been particularly hard hit by French tanks and artillery fire during the counter-attack and had suffered severe losses, probably running into hundreds of killed and wounded.

The French meanwhile parachuted more tons of ammunition and food into the narrow dropping zone of the fortress.

A heavy mist hung over the battered fortress today. The French hoped for clearing weather to permit new waves of bombers and fighters to blast at the enemy.

SMALL DROP ZONE

Monsoon rains this week have turned the bowl-shaped Dien Bien Phu battlefield into a swamp of red mud, hampering the planes and beginning down field armament.

The French defences still intact, the whole area less than a mile across. This is a tiny target for the planes that must parachute in food and ammunition. The plight of the defenders is considered especially acute because all escape routes have been blocked by the encircling Vietminh.

RCAF ACCUSED OF NEGLIGENCE IN RECENT CRASH

Many Unsigned Letters Received by Officials

By DAVE McINTOSH
Canadian Press Staff Writer

OTTAWA (CP)—The RCAF received a number of letters, nearly all unsigned, accusing it of everything from gross negligence to a happy-go-lucky disregard for human life.

These letters have arrived at RCAF stations since the recent collision of an air force Harvard training plane and a Trans-Canada Air Lines North Star over Moose Jaw, Sask., which killed 37 persons.

No official here will discuss what the transport department and RCAF inquiries into the crash will show, at least until the government has announced the findings.

But, by pulling together the bits and pieces which have already been made public and studying Canada's flying regulations, these factors emerge:

1. The Harvard was not "buzzing" or trying to intercept the North Star. An interception would have been impossible anyway because of the relative speeds of the two aircraft. The pilot of the Harvard was climbing after a takeoff on a routine training mission.

2. A study of all probabilities for the cause of the collision indicates that the most likely explanation is that the Harvard and North Star pilots did not see each other until the last split second, if even then.

HUMAN ERROR

That is not to say that either or both of the pilots are blameless. There could have been an error somewhere or the accident might not have occurred.

The RCAF does not intercept civilian aircraft except when it wants identity unknown persons. Without such interceptions, there would be no aerial defence of Canada. In the Moose Jaw crash, the North Star was not an unknown.

When necessary interceptions are made, the interceptor planes, usually radio-equipped CF-100 jets, are under orders of the controller, who can "vector" them under ground Red aircraft and the interceptors on radar. Harvards are too slow to be used as interceptors.

Only one interceptor approaches closed enough to make identification and it is under orders to fly no closer than 500 feet to civilian craft. If the interceptor cannot make identification, it must, under normal circumstances, obey the controller's orders from the controller.

Rules forbid routine interceptions on civilian aircraft under any circumstances.

Flying regulations for all aircraft both military and civilian, are laid down by the transport department.

The Gulf of the transport department regulations, the RCAF has its own, and more stringent, regulations. And the RCAF has special RCAF stations may have further regulations.

NO RIGHT-OF-WAY

No plane flying in clear weather has any absolute right-of-way over another plane such as a train has right-of-way at level crossings or a motorist has right-of-way at a through highway.

Thus the North Star did not have automatic right-of-way over the Harvard, or vice versa.

But there is a general rule of the air road that the plane which sees another plane on its right-hand (right) gives way.

On the crash at Moose Jaw crash, the Harvard, flying roughly north, had the North Star, flying west on the right. In this case the Harvard should have given way. However, both pilots in such an instance are required to keep a lookout to make sure their aircraft are not on collision course.

It is unlikely that the North Star pilot could have suddenly became involved in a mental tug-of-war over which should give way.

Free Hand Given Foreign Minister By French Cabinet

Bidault Gets Carte Blanche For Geneva Negotiations

PARIS (AP)—The French cabinet today gave Foreign Minister Bidault a free hand to negotiate for France at the Geneva conference opening Monday.

Bidault had demanded that the cabinet let him go to the Far Eastern conference with no strings attached.

By giving him carte blanche on handling negotiations on Indo-China, Premier Joseph Laniel effectively headed off what might have resulted in a collapse within its own ranks.

MANY PROBLEMS

Bidault got the go-ahead after the Big Three foreign ministers had wound up four days of private strategy talks. There are many obstacles to be hurdled before the Geneva conference gets down to its primary business of trying to bring peace to Korea and Indo-China.

Bidault met later today with the other two foreign ministers—State Secretary Dulles and Foreign Secretary Eden.

Following this meeting, Dulles and Bidault planned to leave for Geneva. Eden is scheduled to leave Sunday.

A long-distance clash in diplomatic notes between Russia and the West over the role of Red China at the Geneva conference has made it clear that this problem is itself only one major issue to be worked out before the conferees in Switzerland come to grips with the problems for which they were convened.

Russia formulated her demand that the Communist Chinese delegation headed by Premier-Foreign Minister Chou En-lai be granted the position of a great power in the Big Five meeting. The West said no.

NOW MAJOR ISSUE

Although this is described as merely a procedural problem, it has assumed the proportions of a major issue at the conference.

The Russians apparently realize Dulles is too adamant against the cause of strong U.S. feeling against any sort of recognition of China, and hence think the partial parting among other Western powers with the United States is attaching too much importance to this issue.

For this reason, it is generally believed that the real battle on the issue simply because formal Western approval Friday rejected the Big Five proposal.

The Western stand is that China is no different than any of the other several interested countries which were invited to the Big Four to confer on Korea and Indo-China. The Big Two insisted that the Big Four invitation make it plain that China's attendance is only limited consideration of the Peiping regime.

WANT CEASE-FIRE

But a high French official said Friday that his government will make the agreement on an immediate cease-fire in Indo-China before the Geneva parley bogs down on the issue involved in the Big Five proposal.

This proposal is backed by the strong popular demand in France that the senseless slaughter of the Communist-led Vietminh rebels in Indo-China be brought to an end.

The Western powers are generally agreed on the broad lines of the strategy they will employ at the Geneva conference, but few of the ground rules for starting the conference have been set at Geneva. However, both pilots in such an instance are required to keep a lookout to make sure their aircraft are not on collision course.

It is unlikely that the North Star pilot could have suddenly became involved in a mental tug-of-war over which should give way.

Daylight Saving Time Starts Early Sunday

Old Father Time will live on a borrowed hour of his product for the next few months starting tonight.

Tonight the clocks, watches, grandfather types, the port anchors suspended in the engine room, conferred by the oldtimers, in fact all kinds of time producers will be set forward an hour.

Daylight Saving comes into effect at midnight, or any time you feel like hiking the hour hand a full lap ahead. But be sure and do it before dawn streaks the eastern sky.

It is necessary, the people in the know declare. But it is tough for a day or so on cats and kiddies. The Health Times and Minister will be ousted from their favorite lap times for entertainment, the date for the evening arrives. The kiddies will be hauled out of the cribs and beds an hour sooner than the regular bedtime time.

And if you forget, you are liable to meet the next door neighbor coming from church when you are spending your week's pay envy dressed in your Easter finest.

So don't say you were not warned.

Set those clocks ahead tonight—sometime.

Woman's Death Natural Says Coroner's Jury

STURGEON FALLS (CP) — A coroner's jury returned a verdict of death from natural causes at an inquest Friday into the sudden death of Mrs. Jacqueline Reine, 22, on New Year's Eve.

Dr. J. R. Hall, who performed the post-mortem, testified the death was caused by a blood clot on the wall of the heart. Such a condition was unusual in such a young person, he added.

The expectant mother died in her home here, 12 miles west of North Bay, shortly after returning from a movie with her two-year-old daughter, Barbara, and her husband's 13-year-old sister.

Dr. Ward Smith, director of the attorney-general's laboratory, testified that examination of a woman's heart revealed 1-300th of a grain of strychnine. This was the same that could be found in ordinary medication and he did not associate it with death.

THE WEATHER

TORONTO (CP) —Synopsis—A fresh outbreak of cold air swept down from across the Prairies bringing snowstorms and blizzards into northern Ontario Saturday morning. Temperatures in the north country will moderate a little today but will fall again by Sunday evening. Clouds will move into the Windsor area this afternoon and advance across southern Ontario by evening. Scattered showers or thunderstorms will spread across southern regions by night and Sunday.

Judge Criticizes Immigration Dept. Methods

TORONTO (CP) — Mr. Justice J. L. Wilson of the Supreme Court of Ontario criticized the Canadian immigration department Friday and said it should have disclosed any information it had against Mrs. Shirley Brent, 23, of Buffalo, N.Y.

He deferred judgment on whether Mrs. Brent should be deported or be allowed to remain in Canada.

Testimony was the woman entered Canada as a visitor Jan. 1 to Shirley Brent and married to Barry Brent of Toronto March 6. On Jan. 28 she appeared before an immigration board and was told she "didn't meet requirements."

John D. Pickup of Toronto, representing the immigration department, said no reasons had to be given under the statutes.

"The whole affair is in this country where there is supposed to be justice," said Mr. Justice Wilson.

Hold Three Men For Questioning About Slaying

MONTREAL (CP) — Police said Friday night they are holding three men for questioning in connection with the slaying of Frank Battaglia, 36, of Oakville, Ont.

Homicide squad detectives declined to reveal the identity of the men.

Inspector Henry Bond, chief of homicide, said all three were known to police in other cities. They had been in the city shortly before Battaglia was murdered. He said their specialty is safe-cracking.

NATO Approves Closer Liaison Plea by Pearson

PARIS (CP) — The North Atlantic Treaty Council Friday adopted a unanimous resolution calling for closer liaison on political matters among members of NATO.

The resolution, introduced by External Affairs Minister Pearson, urged NATO members to keep each other informed "on international matters of significance to the alliance" and to develop the 14-nation council into a means for political co-operation.

Asked if this resolution would conflict with the declared U. S. policy of "instant retaliation," Pearson said no measures now being undertaken by the U. S. with massive weapons can stop the atomic bomb without first consulting U. S. allies.

Elected to Board

MONTREAL (CP) — The Southam Company Ltd., announced today that at its annual meeting in Montreal it. W. Southam, publisher of the Ottawa Citizen, and F. G. Auger, publisher of the Winnipeg Tribune, were elected to the board of directors.

They fill vacancies created by the death of H. S. Southam and the resignation of W. Wood Southam, who retired as vice-president and managing director of Southam Press, Montreal, in 1945.

Snappy Telegram Puts End To Work Stoppage

WINDSOR (CP)—A snappy telegram from a top American Federation of Labor official Friday ended the work stoppage on a $41,000,000 expansion at Chrysler Corporation of Canada.

AFL carpenters and ironworkers unions put picket lines around the $41 million plant Wednesday. They objected to boilermakers, also AFL men, installing overhead conveyors in the new plant. They felt the conveyor job should be under their jurisdiction and claimed boilermakers were making installation at lower rates.

John T. Dunlop, chairman of the AFL national joint board in Washington, instructed heads of the carpenters' and ironworkers' unions to get their men back on the job. The boilermakers went back to work Thursday after picket lines were removed.

The wire instructed the union heads to present the complaints "in accordance with joint board procedures."

Defers Sentence For Manslaughter

TORONTO (CP) — Mr. Justice F. H. Barlow of the Ontario Supreme Court Friday deferred to April 30 the sentencing of Mrs. Doris Martyn, 23, who pleaded guilty to a charge of manslaughter in the death last October of her one-year-old daughter.

Mrs. Martyn, who psychiatrists say has the mental age of a person nine or 10 years, was originally charged with murder. Police quoted her as saying she banged the child's head on a table with the hatchet.

Her three other children are in the custody of the Catholic Children's Aid Society.

Gets Meal Tickets, Sleeps in Cell, Arises Early to Shine His Limousine

BRANTFORD (CP) — Police told the story today of a 50-year-old man who parked his "million dollar car" in front of the station and then asked for a meal ticket and a night's sleep in a cell.

The trouble is, officers said, they didn't find out about the situation until Friday, after they had been given two meals and free lodging for two nights.

They said Carl St. Regis of Bothwell, Ont., was caught in the act when he left the station at 6 a.m., walked up to a limousine, unlocked it and started to polish it.

The lodger explained that he had "a million-dollar car and no money to run it," officers said. He accepted the hospitality until he got "a new start."

'This Is Lovely One' Shouts Prince Splashing His Shirt in Malta Pool

VALLETTA, Malta (Reuters)—Prince Charles and Princess Anne scrambled barefoot over rocks, swam in the Mediterranean and had a picnic on the south of the island Friday.

Queen Elizabeth's five-year-old son splashed his cream shirt and blue trousers as he jumped gleefully into a pool shouting "this is a lovely one." Three-year-old Princess Anne echoed his shouts.

Later the children had a picnic lunch with their great uncle and a great aunt, Admiral Earl Mountbatten, commander-in-chief of the Mediterranean, and Lady Mountbatten.

The picnic was the big event of the first day the prince and princess have spent ashore since they sailed from Britain eight days ago in the royal yacht Britannia on their way to meet their parents.

The Queen and the Duke of Edinburgh are on board the Gothic in the Arabian sea sailing towards Aden. They will see their children again when they reach Tobruk in Libya at the last leg of their Commonwealth tour.

The RCAF social centre at the Trenton Air Station was the scene of a gala dance Friday night when members of the RCAF Association (418 Wing), their wives and friends, danced to the music of Warrant Officer Harnes and his orchestra.

Association President Larry Murphy welcomed the members and guests, noting that in 1954 the Association would commence to raise funds in aid of the air cadets.

The dance program was planned by Bob Melbourne, assisted by James O'Bryon. Luncheon of cold meats and salads was served. The door prize was won by Harry McConnell.

Police Blotter

Little more than routine matters occupied the attention of police during the past 24 hours.

Patrol officers carried out their check of motor vehicles for equipment, failing in some up to that required under the highway traffic act. As result no less than three motor driving trailers will be summonsed for not having dual attachments. Several older motorists were checked for not having a valid operator.

At least half a dozen persons were picked up for intoxication and they will face drunk charges.

CAS Members Accept Revised Constitution, Hear Reports At Society's Annual Meeting

A review of last year's work and the outlining of a vigorous new program of work for the coming year were features of the reports submitted to approximately 80 members of the Children's Aid Society of the city of Belleville, county of Hastings and the town of Trenton at the society's annual meeting held Friday evening in the church parlors of Holloway Street United Church.

The members accepted a complete revision of the society's constitution, the first re-writing of the society's rules and regulations since 1930, and elected unanimously by the slate of officers recommended by the nominating committee to direct the affairs of the society for the entire state appears elsewhere in this edition.

Summaries of the various reports follow:

SUPERINTENDENT'S REPORT

The superintendent's report submitted by the newly-appointed superintendent, Bruce M. Kerr, stressed the contribution made to the work of the society by the late Mr. Lockyer and Mrs. Ward Melenbacher, who carried on after Mr. Lockyer's death. He asked the co-operation of the public support them, in terms of the future.

Mr. Kerr reported that at the end of the year ending March 31st, 1954, the society was responsible for the welfare of 218 children. Of this number 200 were living in boarding homes or foster homes, 18 were in institutional care and 14 were in their own homes under care with families no longer living in Hastings County. Of the 200 children looked after 18 wards of other societies living in Hastings and Prince Edward, another 18 children, mostly infants placed in adoption probations.

Mr. Kerr pointed out that according to statistics a large number of children would tax the skills of four trained and experienced social workers.

Records also showed 68 young persons, expectant and unwed, had come to the society for assistance in planning for their confinement and for placement of their babies.

23 CHILDREN ADOPTED

Twenty-three children of children were placed in adoption.

Mr. Kerr stated that this phase of Children's Aid Society work alone could very well utilize the services of one full-time, experienced worker.

The court placed 71 children, all but 18 of whom were in the care of the Society during the year, in foster homes, stated Mr. Kerr. "Will cost the taxpayers of this district a total of $50,000 during the next 12 months."

He stated that some of these children need not have been taken into care had a good case-worker been available to the parents prior to their apprehension and committal.

In pointedly emphasizing a changing attitude on the part of the Society in the matter of the removal of children from their parents, Mr. Kerr said that 1953 records showed that the Society received $10,900 from sources to provide the multiplicity of services expected of the Society while it received less than $70,000 statutory maintenance to care for children taken from their parents and placed in the care of the Society.

"I wonder if this is not putting the cart before the horse," he said.

In elaborating on this theme Mr. Kerr stated that the County of Hastings paid $50,500 to maintain children in the care of the Society away from their natural parents and homes, and only $600 towards the work of the Society. Surely primary objectives should be to keep children in their own homes, where they can be maintained by their parents.

Similar contributions from Trenton were $12,000 maintenance and a $900 grant while Belleville paid $18,000 maintenance and gave no grant.

Mr. Kerr pointed out, however, that contributions to the Community Chest were sufficiently large to pay for the services of one full-time social worker, a need that this service has not been provided.

"It would appear to me that Belleville is subsidizing the county and the town of Trenton," he said.

WANTS FULL-TIME WORKER.

Mr. Kerr, in strongly recommending that the society engage the services of a full time, professional worker, stated that a trained adoption worker and home finder, said, "I am convinced that this service has not been provided. It's not to mention the fact that the work is not being performed."

He noted that the services of a full-time trained worker for one year, costs less than the maintenance of one child for one year. Children remain in ward care for 10 years. "At the end of the present year our agency was very badly understaffed," said Mr. Kerr in noting that the work of the Children's Aid Society of Frontenac County, while caring for 100 children, was divided between twice the number of workers.

"There is the need for more visiting routine and many of our records have not been touched for a long time," he continued.

"If we are not prepared to adequately meet the needs of the children placed in our care — in the interests of the children concerned — they would be well advised not to have anything to do with us," he said. "It is a heartbreaking stricken country, nor is this a poverty stricken area.

"There are few Societies in the province of Ontario today in a more favorable financial position —yet, in terms of the value of the service rendered this community, evaluated by accepted authority on child welfare in the Province of Ontario to whom we are responsible, we are but a third child welfare unit."

The Board of Directors, realizing that our case load is increasing in numbers, have authorized me to take immediate steps to engage two additional workers," said Mr. Kerr in announcing that he had been given the services of an experienced, male worker who, it is hoped, will be able to establish a regular weekly or bi-weekly service north of Highway No. 7 to the Hastings County area.

EXPRESSES APPRECIATION

He expressed his appreciation for the co-operation given himself and the staff by Judge J. C. Anderson, Magistrate T. W. Wills, the municipal police departments, the detachments of Ontario Provincial Police in the county, to the board of directors for taking prompt and willing action on his suggestions and recommendations and to the provincial department of Child Welfare for their assistance and guidance.

"We do not operate a business for financial gain," said Mr. Kerr, "but we must operate in a business-like manner. Furthermore we must never lose sight of the fact that the primary aim of the Society is to help boys and girls become decent, useful, well-adjusted and self-supporting citizens."

PRESIDENT'S MESSAGE

A. Fred Wilson, in his president's message, stated that "the emphasis of our work must be upon the protection of children in their own homes. Secondly, if wardship becomes necessary, we must have available effective, modern adoption procedures and, thirdly, if adoption is not possible, satisfactory foster homes must be available."

He said that there seems to be no problem in placing babies for adoption and "I cannot help but think that there are couples with no children, who might take an older child, or couples with one child who might adopt another, that he or she might grow up sharing the companionship of a brother or sister."

He paid tribute to the conscientious work of the field and clerical staff of the Society, to the provincial director of Child Welfare, Mr. W. H. Bury, and to the members of the municipalities in our area for their financial and moral support.

SECRETARY'S REPORT

Mrs. Pearl Holmes, secretary of the Board, noted in her report that the Board of Directors met 10 times during the year and that while there were 46 clerical and the County elected to the Board, average attendances at meetings was 14.

There were 18 executive meetings during the year all of which were well attended. The Society was represented at the annual Conservation Week Association or Children's Aid Societies of Ontario held in Toronto, and late in the year, a committee of the Board, to be known as the Committee on Child Welfare was set up under the chairmanship of Mrs. W. J. Bowerman. Recommendations of this committee committed the Society to a high standard of child care.

TREASURER'S REPORT

Mr. Charles L. Hyde, in presenting the treasurer's report, said that total expenditures for the year were $97,855.24 against receipts of $92,208.00. He announced that a new system of accounting was being introduced which will permit the Society to determine its monthly financial position at the end of each month.

He also stated that in order for the Society to meet the ever-increasing demands for service and the increasing cost of providing these services, it will be necessary for the Society to apply to the courts for an increase in the per diem rate, which he stated was one of the lowest in the province at present.

Mr. Hyde also noted that in the past 10 years the annual expenditures had almost tripled from its previous total of $35,000 to almost $100,000.

Stories of Famous Hymns

by HORACE S. POWELL

NEAR THE CROSS WAS MARY WEEPING

Near the cross was Mary weeping,
There her mournful station keeping,
Gazing on her dying Son;
There in speechless anguish groaning,
Yearning, trembling, sighing, moaning,
Through her soul the sword had gone.

When no eye its pity gave us,
When there was no arm to save us,
He His love and power displayed;
By His stripes He wrought our healing;
By His death, our life revealing.
He for us the ransom paid.

Jesus, may Thy love constrain us,
That from sin we may refrain us,
In Thy griefs may deeply grieve;
Thee our best affections giving,
To Thy glory ever living,
May be in Thy glory live!

The "Stabat Mater" of the Franciscan monk, Jacopone, is one of the world's outstanding Latin hymns. The poem which appears above is a translation of that hymn by the Reverend Henry Mills, a Presbyterian minister and professor of theology, who was graduated from Princeton Theological Seminary and later was named professor of Biblical Criticism and Oriental Languages at Auburn Theological Seminary.

The hymn dates from the thirteenth century and its author, Jacopone, died in 1306. The Flagchants, an eccentric religious group, brought the hymn to public attention in the fourteenth century by singing it as they journeyed from town to town in their religious pilgrimages.

It is one of the most popular of all the Latin hymns in the Roman Catholic church and music for it has been composed by Palestrina, Haydn, Rossini, and other great masters.

What to do..

TO SAVE MONEY WHEN SICK

When someone is ill in the home, it's important to have the sick room as comfortable as possible. St. John Ambulance says there are lots of ways you can improvise useful sickroom equipment—and it won't cost you a penny.

For instance, a bed table is a mighty handy thing on which to place meals. An easy way to make one is to knock out the two long sides of a light wooden box. It can be covered with chintz or some pretty cloth if you really want to be fancy.

Another way to make a table is with an ironing board. Put a chair with a square back on each side of the bed and extend the ironing board between the backs of the chairs.

If the sickroom is not near the bathroom you can improvise a washstand from a wooden crate. A screen for the patient can be made from an old-fashioned clothes horse covered with a sheet or bedspread.

HOMEMADE WHEEL CHAIR

If your patient is not able to walk you don't have to buy a wheel chair. A lightweight armchair on heavy casters serves very well. If you need a footrest you can tie or fasten a narrow board to the front of the chair slightly above the floor level.

A marked measuring bottle is another piece of medical equipment that is easy to improvise. Just attach a piece of adhesive lengthwise to the side of a wide-mouthed glass bottle and pour two tablespoons of water (equal to an ounce) into bottle and mark the level of water on the adhesive. Continue pouring and marking the level of each extra ounce up to the top of the adhesive strip.

If the patient is going to bed for quite a while it will make things easier for the person who is nursing him if the bed is raised to a higher level to avoid back strain. This can be done by mounting the bed on wooden blocks or on tin cans which are partly filled with sand, pebbles or gravel.

A little bit of ingenuity can go a long way in making things easier for both patient and home nurse.

SURPLUS MILK OFFERED

WASHINGTON (AP) — Agriculture Secretary Ezra Benson has offered to sell at cut-rate prices a part of the stocks of government-owned surplus dried milk processed for human use—for livestock and poultry feed. Some of this milk, bought under a United States dairy price support program, has been distributed for human relief use, but such outlets have not been large enough to absorb the large government holdings.

What About Inspiration?

By DR. RALPH W. SOCKMAN

How inspiration comes to men is hard to explain. But nothing is more certain than that at times something seems to break in upon the familiar tenor of our thoughts. There come moments when we are carried beyond the usual range of our thoughts and active at insights which seem to be given from a Higher Wisdom. No doubt every one of us has had some moments of inspiration.

When we experience these flashes of inspiration, we find that they are not wholly intrusions from outside. When Isaac Newton was asked how he discovered the law of gravity he replied, "By thinking about it continually. I keep the object of my research constantly before me, waiting until the first light begins to dawn, little by little; finally this changes and at last the light is complete."

Thus the mind seeks and works and waits and then, to use a radio analogy, the mental tubes get warmed up and the message is received. So from the silence of brooding listeners, inspired voices break forth when "deep calleth unto deep."

MELODY IN DREAMS

Some time ago James Francis Cooke, former editor of "Etude," wrote me that he once asked Victor Herbert where he got so many of his beautiful melodies. The composer replied that many of them came to him in his dreams and he woke up singing and whistling them.

Then Mr. Cooke told how he himself had recently dreamed about a famous contemporary composer who was going around Florence bragging of some new composition. This boasting suggested a poem. Mr. Cooke woke up and went to his study in the middle of the night and wrote some verse which he called, "The Moment of Triumph." The lines end thus: "Do you not realize that you are merely the glove on the hand of God?"

To be sure, men gifts often mistaken in their claims of divine inspiration. Cranks and fanatics frequently claim to have heard messages from God. But do the words which men think come from God stand the test of experience? Do they carry the spirit and power of God?

HALF HUMOROUSLY

The late Heywood Broun is reported to have said half humorously that he would go to church if the ministers would be honest enough not to preach when they had no message. He wished that sometimes the preacher would stand up and say, "Perhaps next Sunday, but not today."

No doubt many parishioners would agree that such pulpit honesty would be rather refreshing. But the point they must not overlook is this, that the preacher does not pretend to be himself inspired of God every Sabbath. He claims to be merely the interpreter of inspired Scripture. He reside from a Book which has been tested by time. The reality of inspiration must be tested in part by its results.

Here is where the Bible demonstrates its divine authority. As Coleridge said, "the Bible finds us." We listen to psalms whose haunting beauty and truth linger so timelessly on the air of the ages that we feel sure the authors were thinking God's thoughts after Him.

HEROIC PROPHETS

When we hear speakers talking about the comfort of having a God to die with, we might dismiss it as wishful thinking, but the heroic prophets heard the call of a God to die for. The words of psalmists and prophets which stir us to creative effort and new capacity for goodness, whose appeal knows no limits of date or place—whence come these if not from God?

And when did we need to hear these higher voices more than now? In a day of hydrogen bombs and war threats, we want to know that our leaders are listening to God. When rival partisan voices are shouting to prove that they are right, we need earnest seekers who try to hear from a Divine Voice what is right.

And if our nerves are getting too jittery, maybe you and I better listen long enough to hear what the Psalmist heard, "Be still and know that I am God."

Then we too will be inspired.

A QUESTIONABLE ARGUMENT

Every year the Ontario Educational Association holds its annual convention during Easter Week.

Many important addresses are given—20 a wide variety of subjects.

Tuesday of this week H. C. Immerson of Lombardy, the O.E.A., presented his annual report.

He made some observations which are interesting, but to us, hardly clear.

Mr. Immerson said that, even with the aid of government grants, the income of rural residents was not sufficient to support the schools as efficiently as was done in urban centres.

The Canadian Press report then carries this quotation:—"Migration from the rural areas is meant chiefly that the wealth of the country is transferred to the much of the wealth of the country is transferred to the city, as the sons of dwellers become the heirs of the rural property left behind. The change in population is shaking the structure of rural society and is making new adjustments necessary."

Now the problems created by shifts of population from rural to urban areas certainly exist and have been discussed in the past. But we have not heard the argument meaningless.

We have not yet heard of any rural school board declining to levy taxes on real property just because this property happened to be owned by a person resident in an urban community.

Mr. Immerson may argue, of course, that if an urban resident owns rural property one of two things happens. He either rents it or he leaves it vacant. If it is rented, then the rent may come out of the pocket of the tenant, through the rent he pays, and because he has to pay this rent his financial position is not as good as it would be if rent his financial position is not as good as it would be if he owned the property and his income is, in Mr. Immerson's words, inadequate to support schools as efficiently as is done in urban centres. If, on the other hand, the property is left vacant, the assessment would tend to be lower than if it were occupied.

This line of reasoning, however, overlooks the most striking development in the ownership of real estate in many rural districts, including the Perth area in which Mr. Immerson resides. During the past decade there has been a tremendous increase in the number of summer cottages owned by urban residents. The owners of these cottages pay school taxes, but their children do not attend rural schools. Absentee landowners, far from increasing the difficulty of financing rural schools, would appear to be making a large cash contribution toward the solution of the problem.

H-BOMBS WILL BE USED IF WAR COMES.

The power of the hydrogen bomb is a two-edged sword.

Fear of its destructive capacity and attendant radiation may serve as a deterrent to war. But fear of retaliation may serve as a deterrent to war. But fear of retaliation may serve as a deterrent to war. But neither East nor West can abandon the H-bomb as a weapon and for this reason each day makes more certain that any future war will be a war of thermonuclear weapons.

It is no longer possible for either East or West to abandon the H-bomb. The secrets of its construction are known to both sides. The overpowering destructive bomb power is imperative that both sides continue their feverish pace of research and experimentation.

The foreign policy of the United States in the past year and one half has been predicated on the deterrent power of the H-bomb; on its ability to inflict mortal damage on any potential enemy in retaliation for aggression. This policy is effective only so long as the United States and United States can maintain its ability to retaliate in a form more destructive than the initial attack upon itself or upon its allies. This means that the United States must continue to the development of ever more powerful thermonuclear weapons if it is to maintain its capacity to retaliate and effectively enforce its policy of curbing war by the threat of overpower.

Any dynamic or thermonuclear program is expensive. The more powerful the weapon, the more expensive its development. The more urgent the necessity of developing a more powerful weapon, the more expensive such a weapon becomes. In other words, as the necessity for maintaining technical superiority becomes more important by virtue of the development of new weapons by an enemy, the more expensive will be the United States' attempts to stay in front in the atomic race.

And the greater the expense of developing new weapons the more imperative it becomes that these weapons be used in any conflict to justify the expenditures for them.

The huge amounts of money now being spent for atomic projects of defence, in which colossal expenditures for large, high-speed aircraft to deliver the bombs are a part, make it more and more impossible to maintain a uniform flow of money to all other departments of defence. The defence budget of the United States is not inexhaustible. Money spent for the H-bomb cannot be spent for rifles, tanks, or destroyers. While expenditures increase for the hydrogen bomb, expenditures for routine needs of the army and navy must necessarily decrease. Providing means of defence, other than with thermonuclear weapons, becomes more and more impossible, and the United States slowly but surely commits itself and its allies to waging war with H-bombs should there be war.

The frightening reality of the atom, a reality that grows more frightening day by day, does not offer man the formula for a certain and lasting peace by engendering universal fear. Mutual distrust and goodwill are still the only forces that will save mankind from self-annihilation—a certain consequence of a blind trust in power.

THE PACKSACK

By GREGORY CLARK

When you consider how easy it is to attract birds to a feeding station there they stay as they do so strictly within their appointed areas. Robins, for instance, there are a great many western birds that are never seen in the east, and just as many in the east, never seen in the west. Yet some species of them will winter together in central and south America, and come funnelling to their breeding grounds in North America about now, heading for their respective territories in a long line, and wide to travel, it is a wonder so few of them do not get wandering.

Yet wander some of them do. And a great deal wider and further than is usually found among the American continent. Roger Tory Peterson's new book, "A Field Guide to the Birds of Britain and Europe, lists a large number of our Canadian birds that have strayed, probably from the far north, at the start of the fall migration, not only as far as England but to Germany, Denmark, Italy. The blue-winged teal, baldpate, bufflehead and hooded merganser have been collected in Scotland. The ruddy shelduck, Little sparrow hawk has been picked up in Denmark. The slidner has been found in Britain and the common little spotted sandpiper in Ireland, Britain, Belgium and Germany.

Our nighthawk, kingfisher, catbird, hermit thrush, olive backed and grey cheeked thrushes have all been recorded in Europe, and our junco was found in Italy! Of our warblers, the black and white warbler, the Shetlands, and the Pacific and black-throated green got to Britain. The redeyed vireo, the preacher bird, turned up in Ireland, and the white throated sparrow, singing Canada, Canada, Canada, has been collected in Scotland.

The experts believe that these "accidentals," as they are called, these far wanderers are the victims of storms that forced them in the wrong direction when the season demanded that they begin their migrations. It might be these strayed birds had lost or been born without that strong migratory urge which guide birds on their path up and down the thousands of miles of their routine migrations.

Of them all, I think that tickling junco that found its self in Italy, or that white throat in England are the two that might have given me heart failure. I'll say, in the middle of the late war, I had heard and seen them on a tree, exiles too.

THE PHOTOGRAPH

They smoothed the little lines of care
And took the crow's feet all away.
The marks of pain he'd had to bear
They saw, but would not let them stay.
They made his forehead smooth and fair
His face, a polished bit of clay.

For us he had that picture made.
And though this photograph is mine,
With perfect blend of light and shade,
We miss each little tender line.
Upon his face no suffering laid,
Through which his spirit used to shine.

He vanished us to think that he Had come unscathed through pain and care.
He never wanted us to see
One sign of heartache or despair.
He chose this picture so that we Might always see him smiling there.

Letters to the Editor

Wage Rate Variations Related to Migration

Editor,
Ontario Intelligencer.

I get food for thought from The Intelligencer's editorial titled "Immigration—New Style" based on the following item in the news from overseas: "Britain's Australian nurse is saying that fodr of her friends have come to Canada as nurses 'and I've had good reports from them that I made up my mind to go too'. That is good news for Canada. We need more nurses. But is it not possible that it may be disturbing news for Britain?

Yes, it is possible, Indeed, Mr. Editor; but, as I see the situation, this trend is going to be increasingly unsettling for the world which, at last, has caught up with the warning of a wise statesman back in 1912 (Woodrow Wilson): "The world has become one place!"

I thought, too, of the none too pleasing fact that in 1953 emigration brought 8,500,000 new people into Canada which was the highest in years 1841-1940, according to the experts, we lost 6,000,000 outbound people in that same period—85 per cent to our great and good neighbor to the south.

In one of the farm papers last week, I saw the following quotation which I suggest is not unrelated to the above difficulties and trends: "Britain is in the grip of speedy transport and the accenting of the trend to a freer flow of goods around the seven seas, it is thought-provoking to observe that the average wage in the following hourly wage rates in the textile industry in the following countries—India, 9 cents; Japan, 11 cents; Italy, 34 cents; Britain, 70 cents; and $1.05 in Canada."

I have no doubt that a case can be made for these latter figures, as to the desirability and effectiveness of protective methods, but the sum of the tariff; but, over the long run, it seems pretty clear that the room for improvement in the so-called under-developed countries is by no means the full future; to social and economic peace; and is properly described by one of the political observers as "the biggest room in the world".

Metternich's Methods Seen as World's Need

Editor,
Ontario Intelligencer,

Clement Wenceslaus Nepomuk Lothaire, Prince of Metternich Winneburg Beilstein, guided the political affairs of Austria with almost dictatorial power for some 30 years after the downfall of Napoleon. His views and politics as influenced all Europe that during this period no one power was permitted unchecked expansion at the expense of its neighbors. In many ways, Metternich stifled all progress in his efforts to maintain a status quo among nations. But he did bring forty years of peace to Europe by maintaining a balance of power among the major countries.

If there had been a Metternich at the helm in the years from 1930 to 1940, Fascism would have been controlled in Germany and Italy; the Italian conquest of Ethiopia would have been prevented; the Spanish civil war would not have occurred, all the horrors of World War II would have been obviated.

Churchill, Roosevelt, Stalin and Truman are no Metternich nor were they framed after the pattern of "unconditional surrender." This led to the complete destruction of Germany and Japan as military powers. The international balance of power was upset and the wife of a Hungarian tailor into the void which had been created. Russia and Japan have gone far beyond their former territorial ambitions. Communist aggression in Europe and Asia is the direct result of the war will continue until either Communism is in control or until Germany and Japan have been re-armed to make a new balance of world power.

President Eisenhower and his advisers have full appreciation of the present need for power politics. Is it not time that Canada had our own Mr. Pearson has never heard of Metternich.

"CITIZEN".

Prodigies Wear Well

(Edmonton Journal)

Science, that perennial spoilsport, is ruining another favorite illusion.

For many generations, normal people, and, particularly youngsters in school, have envied the mathematical child prodigies in various types as they solved fantastic mathematical equations in their heads, and graduated from classes at the age of six or qualified for university at ten. The one consolation most of us had was that the widespread belief that these dazzling achievements were not half Sooner or later the boy genius would "crack up" and end his days a scrap heap, while the prizes of life would go to the less gifted but hard-working plodders. The parable of the hare and the tortoise was far back in history for this idea goes.

One of the leading American psychologists, Dr. Lewis M. Terman, has long questioned this view and has studied over a long period of child prodigies for thirty years, following their careers through childhood and on toward through life, and he recently reported on his findings—that the child prodigy is becoming insane, taking to drink or otherwise going to pot. The vast majority are still well adjusted and socially, and... the children selected in his early studies as the most general population." What is even more surprising is that they seem to have carried their childhood promise into youth and maturity.

Thus, of some 1,500 prodigies studied, 150 have become staff, ninety per cent entered college and several per cent graduated. Of the graduates, thirty per cent were awarded honors in their subjects, and many received job postgraduate work. Of the 800 men in the group, 78 per cent were listed by 1949 as among the top-ranking scientists of the United States. Seventy-seven of the group have published sixty-seven books, mostly on scientific subjects as well as 2,000 scientific, technical and professional articles, 300 short stories, novelettes and plays, and 236 miscellaneous articles on a variety of subjects. According to Terman the number of men who have achieved some sort of distinction among these 800 is twenty or thirty times larger than it would be in a similar number of men of the same age picked at random.

These results certainly tend to refute the theory that prodigies are unhappy misfits in adult life or life. However disillusion this may be to the egos of those of us who have to compete with them, it is a good thing for humanity as a whole. Superior minds are perhaps the greatest asset the race possesses—more needed than ever now than nowadays—and it would be a tragedy if a large proportion of them were doomed to spoiler out their lives uselessly.

Metternich's Methods Seen as World's Need

Dr. Brady

When medicine was a profession, I was an honest doctor and Topsy was a cult, a clinic was what Webster says it is—an institution, often connected with a medical school or hospital, where patients are examined and treated in the presence of "pupils" (Webster's quaint term for medical students).

When medicine was a profession the doctor was curious or even seemed to court newspaper publicity was more or less ostracized by his colleagues. Today the doctor who wrangles such publicity is envied by his competitors.

In the interval between Topsy and Crow-Elkhart I carried on my extensive practice on Broadway and shank's mare—well, anyway, I attended three patients a day—and still found time to read the papers.

I learned that the busy doctors in Elmira believed in advertising, thus: "Mr. and Mrs. A. B. Jones announce the Barber well-comed a bouncing baby boy to their home last evening. Dr. Whatisname was the attending physician." Oh, we lidded our eyes. I had plenty to bide. But at long last I delivered a gangly young wife of a husky, tall lawyer. In the excitement around the arena I forgot to test Reflex 2. Dance. I hurried right home and wrote up the case for publication. Mrs. Jones? Mrs. Luigi Pagliacci is happy . . . Dr. Wm. Brady was the accoucheur.

A Star-Gazette man called me and said they'd like to know whether it was catching . . .

Whether my treatment did any good I don't now, but after that I wasn't necessarily news when a doctor attended childbirth in Elmira.

But, shucks, that's just inside stuff. Let's get down to the vital statistics. Nowadays the business people in this game do their sights on front page stories. They are aided and abetted in this by the so-called medical societies. Every week the newspapers of the country are bombarded with full bundles of ready-to-print copy from the American Medical Association and other "medical" associations up and down from that level. This copy, of course, is well salted with names of the boys who pay the "dues". Did you know that million dollar "assessment" goes merely to maintain the Washington lobby and distribute "The Doctor"?

Medical research was formerly the proving ground where new remedies, gadgets and methods were carefully tested, tried out on animals and on volunteer human subjects and their advantages and dangers determined before they were introduced into practice. For example, a researcher from a Canadian university read a paper at a medical meeting of a surgeons' organization, not on a medical subject, but on the treatment of this and that with cortisone and anti-cortisone. Immediately after the newspaper headlines in a full column, articles and all, were set up by a regular newspaper reporter who evidently attended the meeting or transplanted the doctor's manuscript into layman's parlance.

When medicine was a profession sure enough to theorize was not to be published in medical journals and medical books. Now, publication is a business the "leaders" from day to day are the owners of the 1st race for headlines.

TODAY'S TALK

By GEORGE MATTHEW ADAMS

A QUIET HOUR

I wonder how many people there are who realize the value of a quiet hour? Certainly it is not usually the fashion to say that they devote a single hour out of the 24 to meditation or to prayer and more courageous in the facing of life during these rushed and confusing days.

A friend of mine, who spent many years in China, once gave me that he had just finished building a "Prayer Room" in his home of Madame Chang. Any room, however, in any home, can become a "Prayer Room" if you make it that. A quiet hour spent in it each day can be a veritable source of tremendous transformation in any life, bent upon less worry, less nervous tension, and fewer misgivings.

Our attitude of mind can become a powerful aid to us, or a curse, what our attitude in life, or the circumstances of our birth or environment. A healthy mind is the main partner to a healthy body. A quiet hour, given over to regenerating thoughts and purposes, gives that strength to the whole day before us. We conquer or are defeated within ourselves.

The one hour of stimulating reading is a wonderful antidote for sleeplessness and brings success to the soul. None of us fully realizes the full power that is within us to be expolled for great purposes. We become masters of ourselves, none the less, in the midst of our better moments. Anyone can easily spare one hour out of the twenty-four with this inspiring purpose.

In nature are to be found the elements that contribute more to our well-being than almost anything else, but the God of us all is there! Our wonderful soggiers have no knowledge of a confused or frustrated world. Only man's wars can wipe their songs from the air. They have their own appointed hours for quiet and hope!

MARMORA

'Gophers' Defeat 'Rodents' For RCAF Trophy

MARMORA — The Trenton Air Station inter-unit cup which has been in competition since 1944 with a lapse for the years 1950-1953, was won by CHD at Marmora on Tuesday evening as they shut out a team from South Station in the finals by the score of 9-0.

The Flyers have this inter-unit house league, which they dub the "Underprivileged Hockey Players League, composed of one team from CHD, dubbed Gophers and seven teams from South Station whose team to reach the finals was Rodents.

Unfortunately the Rodents missed the services of two of their outstanding players but despite this played determinedly.

Almost half of the first period elapsed before there was a score. Then Hanatuk on a break away put the puck past Hill. Curry, playing aggressively for his team, added two in that period, the first on Moore's assist and the other on a solo effort.

The winners amassed another three goals in the second stanza. Cameron netted at 1.35 on an assist from Gillis and about five minutes later Farmer hit the twine as he received from Henley. Curry got his third on Hanatuk's assist to close the period.

In the third, Farmer again was helped by Henley to get his second goal. Larose baffled Hill on Moore's assist and Henley registered on assists from Chuck La Blanc and McLeod.

Five penalties, three going to the winners indicate the cleanness of play.

The cup was presented the winners by Guy Parnell, sports captain of South Station, and the consolation cup, which was made by workmen in South Station went to the Rodents as runners-up. Capt. Keith Moore receiving the former trophy on behalf of his team.

The teams were as follows:

McCarthy Gets Bill For Film for TV Show

NEW YORK (AP) — A bill for filming Senator McCarthy's television reply to CBS commentator Edward R. Murrow's criticism of the Wisconsin Republican's methods has been sent to the senator's Washington office.

A spokesman for Fox Movietone News, which made the film, said the bill was mailed at the request of Roy Cohn, chief counsel to the Senate permanent investigations sub-committee. Cohn had engaged Fox Studios.

Estimates have placed the bill at from $6,000 to $7,500.

In Washington, McCarthy told a reporter, "I'll submit the bill to Alcoa (Murrow's sponsor). They paid more for Murrow's attack on me than this would amount to.

U.S. Economy Loses Punch For First Time Since 1949

By HAROLD MORRISON
Canadian Press Staff Writer

WASHINGTON (CP)—For the first time since 1949, the giant American economy has lost its punch. President Eisenhower's advisers are none too sure when it will start perking up again.

The dip in United States prosperity is by no means general. The American economy is big and powerful and can take a lot of punishment.

But a mere dip here can have a serious impact on the smaller countries, such as Canada, which depend largely on the rich American markets.

Let's look at the picture:

W. Randolph Burgess, deputy secretary of the U. S. treasury, said in an interview that employment is still as high as it has ever been with the exception of one month—1953. The number of jobless, about 3,700,000 in March, compared with the 60,000,000 that had jobs.

MARGINAL UNEMPLOYMENT

He believes further that most of the unemployed are the marginal types: The elimination of one breadwinner in families which formerly had two; the housewife with a husband who has a full-time job; the youngster of 18 who has been told to get work but still has a fully employed father to support him.

"Employment, is still pretty good," he said, but against this top commerce department statisticians report that national production, key to economic health, has dropped.

This decline is measured against a background of fairly firm prices. There has been some recent drop in consumer prices, following Eisenhower's tax cuts. But the consumer price index, based on 1947-49 prices equalling 100, touched 115 last February, just a fraction below the all-time high of 115.4 last October.

The Eisenhower administration has frequently cautioned against "more talk about depression." And Burgess said the economic drop has "not gone far enough to justify calling it a recession."

ADMINISTRATION WORRIED

The Eisenhower administration is concerned. Tax cuts this year are estimated to amount to an annual rate of $7,500,000,000. This would seem to increase the purchasing power in the hands of the public, but Burgess noted that the government has trimmed its spending by an annual rate this year of $8,500,000,000. So it could not be said that the government is following an "easy money" policy.

"We are following a flexible money policy, designed to contribute to stability," Burgess said.

But the economic drop can not be overlooked. The American business cycle seems to have taken a definite turn—and not for the better.

"The turn started last summer," said Burgess. "Sometimes in these four-year-cycles, it takes a year to go down before they start coming up again. But they are too variable. You can't pin it down.

"Nobody can be sure just when it will turn."

Bingo-Playing Mother Sent Home to Children

KIRKLAND LAKE, (CP)—Police told a bingo-playing mother to go home Wednesday night after they learned she had locked her two young children in her apartment.

Officers investigated a telephone call from a neighbor and found the woman's apartment locked and a child peering from the window. They found the mother in a local hall.

The neighbor told police the mother would often put the children to bed and then lock the apartment while she went out to play bingo.

Police said the mother thought there was nothing wrong with her action.

Last Shots Fired

IN KOREA (CP)—The last shots fired in Korea by the 4th Regiment, Royal Canadian Horse Artillery, were fired Wednesday—in honor of Queen Elizabeth's 28th birthday.

The regiment, which hurled more than 100 rounds at Communist positions during its tour of duty in Korea, sails for home soon. It will be relieved by the 3rd Regiment, RCHA, which has already left Camp Petawawa, Ont.

SAYS ITALIAN REDS QUIT

ROME (AP)—The organ of Italian Catholic Action, Rome's Quotidiano, today said 59 Communists and fellow-travelling Socialists resigned in a body from their local party units at Pannarano, near Naples. Quotidiano said the mass resignation was caused by dissatisfaction with the parties' labor policies.

Garden Notes

Garden Records and Insect Pests

By FLORA M. SAVILLE

Keeping a garden ledger will help you have a better garden. In it write down the date of planting, the name of the plant and the particular variety. If the source was unusual note that, too. Also the name of the fertilizer used, the amount and the number of times it was applied. Make occasional notes on the yield, the defects, weather conditions, pests and insecticides used, and how effective these were.

If some vegetables run to seed before they are used make a note of this and then you will remember to plant half a package instead of a whole one. The other half might be planted two weeks later and so extend the crop.

SOIL LEECHED

If you have sandy soil you will notice part way through the growing season the tomato leaves begin to turn yellow, or at least lighter green, the same with corn. This means that the available plant food has been leeched away by the rains and the plants are signalling for a new supply. At the end of six weeks side dress these vegetables with a pound of chemical fertilizer for each 50 feet of row.

Squash bugs and cucumber beetles can be controlled by spreading the ground and vines with pulverized limestone before these bugs start to spread.

Dark bitter cauliflower wasn't tied up in time to keep the sun off.

NOTE BETTER GROWERS

Peas like cool, damp weather, but there are some varieties which do better than others. Make a note when something is better than the neighbor. In this way you will have a growing reference book recording your past experience in your own garden.

It may look like a lot of trouble but it will need but a few minutes two or three evenings a week through the summer. Then you will find yourself referring to it for all kinds of data the days you planted the evergreens, the date you planted the lilies of the valley, the day they bloomed, and how many plants you got out of 25 seeds, when you dug the tulip bulbs, made the graf on to the apple tree and took the currant cuttings. All these things will help you have a better garden in the years to come, if you keep it faithfully.

A word now about houseplants: If you have new plants see that they are not carrying pests before you put them near other plants. Red spider, white fly, scale and mealy bugs get around in this way.

WASHING FLOWERS

To get rid of aphid wash, or dip foliage and flowers only into a mild soap and water solution. Make a light suds and sponge, or spray at three-day intervals. If they persist use a spray of Black Leaf 40. Do not use detergents to wash or spray plants. Many of these burn the leaves.

Mealy bugs are like tiny bits of cotton batten stuck tightly to the joints of the leaves. Frequent spraying with cold water will often banish them all. If not wrap a matchstick with cotton, dip in alcohol, and touch the bug with this. Scale is a tiny, shiny, shell about an eighth of an inch across, often on ivy leaves. Wash with soapy water, and push off wet scales with the nail. Do this each week for three weeks or use a fish oil soap.

EGGS PROTECTED

To eliminate white fly, wash foliage, especially and undersides of leaves, with soapy water. The eggs are protected with a waxlike substance which will disagree with a thorough soaking or sponging.

Red spider is really a little and not a spider at all. When it attacks foliage will begin to curl and little grey specks develop. The spider is almost invisible. Soapy water, or just frequent cold water sprays will rout this pest. Pyrethrum or rotenone sprays are also useful.

All plants need a bath occasionally. Hairy-type leaves, such as those of the African violet, hold dust too. These may be cleaned and freshened by a tepid sponging. Do not touch the leaves with the sponge, but squeeze the water over them until they look clean. Cold water will discolor the leaves.

Ivies and smooth surface leaves will welcome a weekly, or semi-weekly shower. Water at least decorators for no apparent reason cut it off and there is a dry surface with powdered sulphur. This goes for cacti also.

Another source of plant pest is new soil. Recently a friend showed me some violets she had planted. We discovered the "special African violet soil" she had bought in a package had contained tiny white worms. The soil had to be cleaned out and fumigated.

BENNETT—WITHUN

CAMPBELLFORD.—St. John's United Church was the setting of a very pretty wedding on Saturday, when Ann Denise Withun, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. W. J. C. Withun, and Robert Byron Bennett, son of Mr. and Mrs. A. D. Bennett, were united in marriage. The ceremony was performed by Rev. R. Simpson Black, of Uxbridge, assisted by Dr. D. M. Smith.

The church was beautifully adorned for the occasion with white snapdragons, gladioli and tall candelabra added to the effectiveness of the wedding scene.

Entering on the arm of her father, the bride was lovely in a full-length gown of antique white finely-corded faille with portrait neckline, crinoline skirt and lily-pointed train. She wore her mother's bridal full-length lace veil, and carried a bouquet of red with white tulls and stephanotis.

Miss Charlotte Jamieson of Toronto, was maid of honor. The bridesmaids were Miss Barbara Wight, Miss Sally Maxwell, both of Toronto, and Miss Nancy Watson, of St. Catharines. They were similarly attired in full-length crinoline gowns of tulip pink crystelet. The white bodices were styled with soft folds of crystelet at the top. They wore matily pleated stoles in cape effect, and carried cascade bouquets of ivy and white hyacinths.

Mr. Murray Locke attended the bridegroom. Ushers were: Messrs. Craig Withun, of Campbellford; James Bennett of Toronto, and Gervais Hank of Kingston.

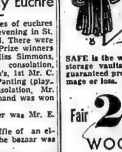
3 Girls Tame Make Pets Of Two Cougars

VICTORIA (CP)—Three young daughters of trapper August Schnarr have succeeded in taming and making pets of two cougars on lonely Sonora island off the British Columbia coast.

Schnarr brought the kittens home in 1944 after shooting the mother cougar. At first Marion, 13, Pearl, 14, and Fanny, 16, fed the animals from an ordinary bottle.



Until the kittens were three months old they ran about and slept in the house. Then they had to be chained in the open where comfortable houses' were built for them.

When the girls for any reason have not been near the animals for any length of time, the enormous cats whimper and are uneasy. They greet the girls by rubbing their heads against them and purring loudly.

Once one of them got loose and advanced, drooling, on a pig, but Marion coolly grabbed the dragging chain and smacked the cougar across the nose. That ended that.

ler, Mrs. A. Gibbons, Mrs. J. E. Poirier and Mrs. J. M. Lawn. Mrs. P. F. Hallorn presided at the door.

ADVICE to the LOVELORN

By BEATRICE FAIRFAX

ATTENTION, PARENTS: ARE YOU SURE YOU TREAT YOUR CHILDREN FAIRLY?

I wonder if there are not a great many mothers and fathers who would be very much surprised to hear that their teen-age daughters are writing me letters to complain that their parents don't give them a fair break.

It is true, of course, that many times teen-agers only think they're not being fairly treated, when they're frequently apt to believe they should have more privileges than is always wise. But on the other hand, there do seem to be, me, almost as many cases where the young folks have good reason to complain.

Let's take that all-important question of dates, for example.

It is, of course, not only perfectly natural but entirely right that a parent should want to make certain the boys who invite their daughters to go out with them are proper companions for them. It is quite generally felt and right that parents should want to know, when their young people go out, where they're going and what the general program for the evening is to be. And the third point on which they are entirely right is that is that the girls should be brought home by the escorts of the evening at a reasonable hour. All this is fair enough.

Where the unfairness, of which I continually hear these teen-agers' letters, enters the picture is when parents refuse to be moderate in their attitude toward these points.

Sometimes they make snap judgments about the boys with whom their daughters want to have dates, and without being willing to take the trouble to get sufficiently acquainted with a particular boy to determine whether or not he usually is a proper friend for the daughter, they clamp down on the acquaintance and forbid the daughter to have anything more to do with him. Their disapproval of a boy is often based on some very superficial thing indeed, yet they rigidly maintain their prejudice and refuse to give him a chance to overcome it.

Some parents, again, cling to the conventions of their own youth expecting their daughters to live by the same ones and refusing to recognize the fact that times have most definitely changed, and that modern custom approves a great deal more freedom in girl and boy friendships than the case in their own young days. And finally, many parents arbitrarily set the hour when their daughters must be home from a dance or other party, or even for just an ordinary date, and will accept no explanations for even minor tardiness. Not infrequently, teen-age girls write me that because they were just a little later than the stipulated hour for coming home, the privilege of going out on any dates at all is revoked.

And just one more thing. Many a teen-ager complains that she is not allowed to use any sort of make-up at all, not even a little lipstick, her parents insisting that she is "too young" for cosmetics. What I would beg of parents who take this stand is that they look back on their own adolescence and remember how they themselves felt when it seemed to them they were "different" from other boys and girls because of some parental prohibition. As I see it, it is far better to teach a teen-ager how to use cosmetics properly than to forbid their use entirely. For a young person to feel too "different" from her contemporaries can set up a complex that may adversely affect the whole later life.

Must because a person is a parent doesn't give him or her the right to force a child into the mold of their own ideas. The only fair thing is for the parent to be willing to look at things from the young person's viewpoint, as the daughter should be willing to consider the parent's and then for the two of them to get together in comradely co-operation and work out a compromise.

For Parents Only
Friendly Feelings

By NANCY CLEAVER

"Janey is sometimes very rebellious, to our authority, and extragantistic to her brother. But a good deal of the time she is an delightful, happy, little person. I do think friendly feelings are important!" has recently said to her neighbor, Mrs.' Brown, who said thoughtfully,

"Our Janey is quite changeable, too. But then he is entering adolescence. Naturally he wants to be very independent. I do think that parents should try to meet their child's emotional needs—although sometimes it is hard to know just what they are! It's a lot more difficult to do this than plan a balanced diet or shop for clothes!"

Never say of your son or daughter when he is angry and anti social, "It's just his father's temper." In a disparaging way, "Just feelings" are very important to mental health and physical well-being.

Even a very little child needs to think well of himself. There is a poem with two lines about,

"I have to live with myself and so I must be fit for myself to know!"

ON WRONG TRACK

Mother or father are on the wrong track when they immediately label their child as "bad." Junior's actions may be undesirable, But he should not be made to feel that he is of little worth. His behaviour may be a result to certain necessary requirements. At the same time, he must not be continually made to feel that his "feelings" or emotions are wrong. A child is a bundle of needs, urges and desires. Among these is the urge to achieve and gain recognition. He needs to picture himself as succeeding at various tasks including his school studies and games. But when he fails, he should be helped to learn from his mistakes and try again. His parents' understanding and encouragement assist a child to be on friendly terms with himself.

In every family where there are several children, a certain amount of conflict is inevitable. Sometimes it is difficult for two children in a home to be good friends. One may be jealous of the other or fear his domination. Parents need to help each child feel secure.

Favoritism must never be shown. Brothers and sisters are usually better friends if they do not have to see too much of each other! As they grow older they often draw closer that they have similar interests and can enjoy each other's company.

Children seek the companionship of their peers, or other youngsters around their own age. A child learns a great deal in the give and take of play with his chums. The ability to make friends and keep them is an art learned very gradually. In every stage of life, individuals need closeness to others they can trust and confide.

Parents should make their children's friends welcome. The only pre-school child with no playmates in his backyard is a lonely little person. Other people's children make a noise, scatter things around and track in dust—but friends are part of the necessary environment for happy humans. A child cannot develop friendly feelings toward others in a social vacuum!

SEEN STRANGE

It may seem rather strange to stress that children need to be very sure of the warmth and constancy of their parents' love. "Of course, a mother loves her own flesh and blood!" you protest—But have you not heard a mother foolishly threatening something like this?

"If you do such and such naughty thing, Mother won't love you any more!"

Love is not a stream to be turned off and on like water in a tap. One observer suggested that modern parents are often so preoccupied or fatigued at the end of a busy day in the competitive world in which we live, that instead of giving their child lavish armfuls of love, they dole out small, tight fistfuls! Friendly feelings are the natural product of a loving home atmosphere. There is no more essential emotional need than abundance of love from father and mother.

Beauty

By HELEN JAMIESON

SELF-CONSCIOUSNESS

Self-consciousness usually starts in childhood, and parents should watch out for this trait in their children. It is a thoughtless mother who will talk about the child's shyness when she is present. The wise one will endeavor to create a social life for her little daughter. It will invite her friends to the home. Contact with them may help a lot. She must be permitted to sit on the side lines. If she does, self-consciousness may continue to plague her for many years, causing misery and heartache.

When she reaches the high school age she will be constantly taxing herself questions. Does she appear stupid? Does she say the right thing? Let her remember that even the smartest women aren't always tactful, sometimes make remarks that they regret making. There are no perfections-ists when it comes to conduct and manners.

"If the girl goes to college and she suffers shyness, then she should take a course in public speaking—at night school—but not a sure cure if she can live through it. When making the first dreadful mistake, her heart will beat, her tongue will be dry, her hands moist, but she will survive. It's unlike that it hasn't been so bad. Eventually she will acquire a feeling of confidence.

She should do everything possible to make herself attractive and interesting. She can do that by reading good books, keeping in touch with what is going on in the world. Pretty clothes are a sustaining help.

She must permit her mind freedom of action. In other words, her thoughts must not continually dwell upon herself, but be responsive to the life she are offering in the way of conversation.

"Laugh it off" is a good slogan for her. Especially should she learn to laugh at herself.

Readers' Saturday Column

As Conducted by Mary Moore

QUESTION:

I wonder if you might have a recipe for Chili Soup. I understand it is something like Chili Con Carne in taste, but have been unable to find the recipe. It is a specialty of a number of restaurants in Chicago.—A.M.B.

ANSWER:

I have heard of the Chili Soup you question from my friend Garry who lives near Chicago This is her version of it:

CHILI SOUP

In frying pan in 3 tablespoons melted butter cook 1 lb. ground beef and 1 1-4 cups minced onion gently for 10 minutes or until delicately browned. Add 2 1-2 cups (1 lbs. 2 can) cooked kidney beans and 1 can condensed tomato soup plus 1 canful water and simmer 10 minutes. Blend together 2 or 3 tablespoons chili powder, 2 tablespoons flour, 1 teasp. salt, and make into a paste by adding 3 tablespoons water. Stir this into the mixture until slightly thickened, then simmer about 30 or 35 minutes, stirring frequently. Serve very hot in bowls. Garny serves here with hot corn bread. If this is too thick for you, thin with a little more water.

NOTE:

If you do not add the 1 canful of water this is one recipe for Chili Con Carne.

QUESTION:

. . . I especially liked the recipe for ale-in-one cookies. So handy to have in a freezer. It seems to me I saw a recipe in your column for pickled eggs one time . . . would you please give it to me? Also recipe for the filling for the chocolate roll?—Mrs. John K.

ANSWER:

I have mailed you the recipe for the chocolate roll filling. The recipe for the Pickled Eggs will appear here for it is popular and I have not printed it in the column for some time.

PICKLED EGGS

Hard cook 12 eggs by starting them in cold water to cover and simmering 30 minutes. Drain, chill quickly and remove shells. Boil together 4 cups vinegar, 1 teaspoon each dry mustard, salt and pepper (and if desired 1 bay leaf and 1 slice onion), for five minutes. Pour vinegar into glass jar with spices left in. Drop in eggs. Cover and let stand at least ten days in refrigerator before serving. Cloves may be stuck in eggs before pickling them if desired.

LETTER:

A lady asked you for a way to keep fresh parsley over winter. You have helped me as I thought I would let you know how I do it. I do not care for dried parsley so in the fall I take a big bunch from garden, wash it well and chop it quite fine, put in a bag and carton, like you do for frest peas to be frozen, seal the bag well, put in freezer compartment at your frig to freeze. As you need it shave it off with a sharp knife and just put the rest back in the freezer in the bag. It keeps perfectly and stays a lovely green. I keep kale the same way for soups—Mrs. Arthur M.

ANSWER:

Very ingenious and thank you ever so much. I shall follow your advice myself.

QUESTION:

. . . I would be pleased if you could give me a recipe for Gluten Bread as my husband is on a diet.—Mrs. A. M.

ANSWER:

GLUTEN BREAD

One-half of a moist compressed yeast cake, 2 cups lukewarm water, 2 1-2 cups gluten flour (preferably Hoyt's), 1-2 teaspoon salt. Soften the yeast for 5 minutes in 1-2 cup of the lukewarm water, then mix together all of the ingredients. Turn out on floured board (gluten flour) and knead. If dough sticks to board sprinkle with more gluten. Knead until dough is smooth. Shape into loaf, place in buttered pan and allow to rise until twice its bulk—about 1 1-2 hours, covered. (Knead dough again and let rise until doubled if desired— second kneading and rising results in finer texture.) Bake bread at 400 deg. Fahr. for about 40 or 45 minutes.

NOTES:

Water must not be too warm for bread—it kills the yeast. I desired 1 cup chopped nut meats may be added to dough. The bread is very popular with folks on diets—if the doctor will allow them.

GOOD MANNERS

By MRS. BEECKMAN

TO SHOW ALERT APPRECIATION

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

I am a widow and my daughter and I have recently moved into a ranch-type house which we have bought. Last Sunday afternoon we gave a little party for some relatives and friends, to show them our new home. We had decided to make a point of not calling it a "house warming" so that no one would feel that they had to bring a present. But two relatives and three long-time friends of ours did bring presents, and I thanked them and placed the packages on a nearby table. I didn't open them because I thought it might embarrass the other guests who hadn't brought anything. The next morning I telephoned thank them. My daughter is quite cross with me, and insists that I should have opened the presents at once, that not to do so was most unappreciative, really unkind. Was I so wrong, Mrs. Beeckman, in doing what I did?

Mother.

I am sorry to have to tell you that I also think you were in the wrong not to open the presents at once, to show your alert appreciation of such kindness and generous thoughtfulness, and your enthusiasm for the present itself. It was a particularly nice gesture of these relatives and dear friends . . . and you should have been particularly (and quickly) responsive.

THE COOK-WAITRESS-HOSTESS

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

When a hostess is also cook and waitress at her dinners for six guests, should the men guests stand as she rises to go to the kitchen to make ready the foods to be served? And should any of the women guests follow her into the kitchen in order to help her?—Reader

No. . . . to both questions! Only the woman who is cook-waitress-hostess knows how confusing it is to have guests attempt to help her. What she appreciates most is to have guests remain seated and carry on the conversation, paying as little attention as possible to her as she goes about her service-proper. Also she has planned them.

Taking Children from Homes Should Be Only Last Resort Children's Aid Meet Told

W. H. Bury, provincial director child welfare acts in Europe and of Child Welfare, told members of the Children's Aid Society, of the city of Belleville, the County of Hastings and the County of Trenton at their annual meeting held Friday evening in Holloway Street United Church hall, that "taking children from their own homes and from the custody of their natural parents should be the last resort of any Children's Aid Society."

"The unfortunate practice of taking children from their own homes, a practice fostered by limited finances and limited staffs, has resulted in many children bouncing from one home to another with the loss of the child's sense of security," said Mr. Bury.

"These children never establish a sense of security which stands them in good stead for the rest of their lives," he continued. "To some extent, then, the Children's Aid Society in Ontario has actually contributed to unemployment, to our jail population and to the making of fringe citizens."

ATTITUDE CHANGING

Mr. Bury was pointing out to members the changing attitude of the Society and the department of Child Welfare towards the best means of serving not only the children but the community as well.

Mr. Bury noted that it was approximately 80 years ago that Kelso Roberts, a reporter on the old Toronto Globe, aroused public opinion in Ontario for children living in conditions "as bad as anything ever described by Charles Dickens".

In 1893 the Children's Protective Act was passed giving assistance to children who were neglected or exploited. Mr. Bury stated that so well written was this Act that it became the forerunner of such Acts throughout the world and that portions of it were incorporated in the best

The Children's Aid Society was established under the terms of this act as a voluntary society of civic-minded citizens. However, so great did the work become that volunteers could not cope with it and the Society was obliged to hire permanent employees.

TAKING

The act financed the agency to take children from their parents, not to assist parents to keep their children in their own homes, said Mr. Bury. Assistance to parents could be financed only by voluntary contributions, a source of revenue dependent on changing public opinion, depressions and wars.

"Despite recognition that keeping children in their own homes is the best type of child welfare work, the Children's Aid Society was financed only to care for those children taken from their homes. In some cases, taking children from their homes became the easy way out," said Mr. Bury.

LEARNED BY MISTAKES.

"Over the years, Children's Aid Boards and their superintendents have learned by their mistakes," said the speaker, "and today, before a child is taken from his own home and his natural parents, the Board must be convinced that the move is the last resort."

Mr. Bury stated lack of funds to provide protection and adoption services, together with a decrease in the number of social workers, has resulted in the past in the almost complete neglect by most Societies of projection work.

However, Mr. Bury pointed out that maintenance of a child in a foster home costs the Society $360 per year while the cost of assisting parents to care for their children has averaged about $35 per year in the part.

"This protection is not only the best social approach to child welfare but the best economic approach any agency can take, as well."

"It costs money to provide protection and adoption," said Mr. Bury, "and because of our statutory obligation to use almost all funds for the care of children in the agency, agencies are often unable to implement apparently new policies for lack of funds."

The speaker went on to point out that in some cases, close co-operation between the Society and the municipal councils in his area has resulted in the municipalities extending the Society capital grants for the inauguration of a protection policy.

Under a program dominated by a policy of protection, agencies have been able to reduce by 50 percent the number of days' care extended annually. In addition such a policy has resulted in an absolute decline of approximately 30 percent in the cost of providing Children's Aid Society services.

Mr. Bury urged the directors of each agency to co-operate to the fullest with the municipal councils in bringing about such a revision of policy.

"If you can bring about such a change I think the youngsters in your care will become fine citizens and the people in your area will be a lot happier because it will cost them a lot less money to provide child welfare services."

The speaker was introduced by the president of the local society J. Fred Wilson and the thanks of the society were expressed by Frank S. Follwell, M.P.

FOLLWELL ENDORSES VIEWS

Mr. Follwell paid personal tribute to the board of the local society and to the members who had just elected their officers for the coming year. He endorsed the opinions expressed by Mr. Bury and felt certain that should the local society seek to implement such a program it would find the municipal councils in Hastings prepared to give their support. He lauded the work of the provincial department of child welfare and thanked Mr. Bury for presenting such a stimulating challenge to the local board.

During the program Mrs. D. L. Fleming expressed to the members the thanks of the clothing committee for their generous support during the year.

The constitutional revision, prepared by J. Ramsay Park of Trenton, was accepted by the members without amendment on a third reading. Two previous readings had been given the new constitution at executive meetings.

Mr. C. B. Morgan, newly-elected first vice president, expressed the thanks of the society to the Women's Association of Holloway St. Church for their services in catering to the turkey dinner.

Mr. Morgan also moved that the Board of Directors request the Ont. Department of Child Welfare in Toronto to officially confirm the appointment of Mr. Bruce M. Kerr as the superintendent of the Belleville society. This motion was seconded by Mrs. H. McCabe and was passed unanimously.

Daniels, pastor of Victoria Ave., Daniels, pastor of Victoria Ave., Baptist Church, sang three and accompanied by his daughter, Carolyn, on the piano. The thanks of the society to Mr. Daniel was expressed by Mr. Follwell.

At the conclusion of the meeting Mr. J. Fred Wilson introduced Miss Anglin, superintendent of the Children's Aid Society in Picton and Prince Edward County; V.O.N. representative, R. E. Follwell, and V.O.N. nurses, the Misses Connor.

Those at the head table were — Mr and Mrs. J. Fred Wilson, Mr. W. H. Bury, Mrs. Clarence Holmes, Mrs. Herbert McCabe, Mr. and Mrs. C. L. Hyde, Mr. and Mrs. Harry Ackerman, Mr. and Mrs. C. B. Morgan, Mr. and Mrs. Elmer Sandercock, Mr. Frank Follwell, Mr. Bruce M. Kerr, Mr. and Mrs. Sidney Lapman and the Warden of Hastings County, Mr. Fred Mitchell and Mrs. Mitchell.

BAND LEADER IN ACCIDENT

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — Band leader Paul Whiteman was involved in a two-car collision here Wednesday but escaped without injury although his car was severely damaged. Police said Whiteman complained of a painful knee, but declined medical treatment.

Driver Kicks Out Windshield Just as Truck Catches Fire

Trapped in the wrecked cab of his highway transport after it had been in collision with an auto, a Cornwall district man saved his own life early today by kicking his way out through the windshield just as spilled gasoline set the cab afire.

The accident occurred about 1:30 this morning four miles west of Belleville on No. 2 highway. Following the collision the car careened down the highway into the ditch and crashed into a tree. The transport went out of control, went through the ditch and turned on its side before catching fire.

The transport driver, Harold Fever, about 30, of Cornarunk Centre, suffered a broken or dislocated hip, while the occupants of the car, William York, 40, of Valleyview Crescent, and his brother, Allen, 26, of Corbyville, have scalp lacerations and possible internal injuries. None of the men was said to be critically injured.

Belleville firemen raced to the scene and were able to save the transport load of silk from catching fire.

The injured were taken to Belleville General Hospital, by Bush's Ambulance.

CAR, TRACTOR WRECKED

Police said both the car and the tractor of the transport were almost completely wrecked although most of the damage to the transport was caused when it went through the ditch following the accident.

Occupants of the car were both knocked unconscious when the car slammed into the tree. Car and transport were nearly a quarter of a mile apart when they ended up following the accident.

Traffic was heavy and five provincial police officers were despatched to investigate and direct traffic. Cpl. Ivan Finkres and Constable J. McBride, investigated, assisted by Constables MacKenzie, Toll and Besteman.

RAWDON

Wesley Steinhaver Addresses Carmel Y.A.G. on 'Prairie Life'

RAWDON. — On Easter Monday evening Mr. and Mrs. Russell Pyear entertained Carmel Young Adults group at their home with a good attendance.

The guest speaker was Mr. Wesley Steinhaver, who recently transferred his church membership from Calgary to Carmel. He gave a graphic picture of life on the prairies, visiting various Indian dances, the work of the sections hand and interesting accounts of pioneer missionary work among the Indians.

His grandfather, the Rev. Henry Henry B. Steinhaver and his wife and family were the first Methodist missionaries at Norway House. Mr. Steinhaver interpreted various portions of the scriptures and a hymn book in Cree language. He was responsible for over 400 professed Christians along the frontier.

RIEL REBELLION

He did effective work in quelling the Riel Rebellion and he opened many new trails across the frontier. During his ministry, he visited many places in Canada, United States and England, doing deputation work. In one of the many historic books written of these first missionaries Dr. Maclean has said that this great pioneer missionary lived as a saint among men and in his quiet way he molded a new civilization and his memory will always be revered as his influence is engraven on human hearts.

This noted man was a school teacher before becoming a missionary. He was a graduate of Upper Canada Academy at Cobourg and Victoria University, Toronto. He is a descendant of the "Chipwayonwohs", a peaceful tribe of Algonquin Indians. This missionary labored in the Lake Superior and Hudson Bay area and also blazed a trail across the Rocky Mountains.

A family in Philadelphia was responsible for the education of this noted missionary who was born in 1820 and died June 28, 1884.

There were two sons, Rev. Egerton Ryerson Steinhaver and his brother, Robert, both college graduates. Egerton joined his father in the missionary work and enlisted the people along the frontier. He visited native camps, erected schools, helped to renovate old mission stations and went about the county organizing choirs and singing classes. He labored in the mission fields of Western Canada from 1884 till 1934.

He was supported by the Bay of Quinte Conference of the Methodist Church and by the Woman's Missionary Society. During his sojourn on the mission fields many glowing accounts were written of his church work.

The guest speaker named "Wesley" had a fund of first-hand information to tell of those days on the prairie when father and grandfather threw deep in missionary work.

Mr. Wesley Steinhaver is a war veteran and came to Glen Ross to reside in 1953. He was graciously thanked for his interesting address.

Mrs. R. Pyear presided and read an Easter selection and the devotional continued with a selection on that theme deep in Mrs. Charles Bailey and Rev. W. S. Irwin sang two solos, playing his own guitar accompaniment.

Following the special address the program continued with readings given by Mrs. Douglas Pyear, Messrs Jack Bailey and Don Hubel. All enjoyed a couple of interesting contests.

Mr. Baker spoke briefly and voiced thanks for hospitality, address and program.

Refreshments and a social half hour closed a most outstanding meeting.

Canada Knows Relatively Little About What Natural Resources She Has Says Howe

OTTAWA (CP) — Canada still knows relatively little about what natural resources she has, Trade Minister Howe told the national conference on resources Friday night.

"It will be a long time before we in Canada know with a sufficiently high degree of accuracy the extent of our mineral, forest and resources and what they are capable of producing," the minister said at a banquet meeting which wound up a two-day conference of some 50 private groups interested in conservation.

Mr. Howe was echoing sentiments expressed by most speakers at the conference—first of its kind in nearly 50 years—who stressed that federal assistance is needed to assess the extent and value of forest, soil, water, wildlife and recreational resources before any over-all conservation program can be plotted.

Conservation had become not only a matter of protecting future generations but of ensuring continuing progress in our own time, he added.

GOVERNMENT AWARE

"The federal government is fully aware of this fact and that is why it has stepped up its rate of activity in conservation matters."

The conference concluded with a recommendation that delegates bring to the attention of their respective organizations a suggestion that a royal commission be appointed "to investigate and appraise the national resources of Canada and to project their probable development and use during the next 50 years, particularly in view of the increasing demand from outside sources."

James A. Vance, board chairman of the Canadian Forestry Association, announced at the banquet a continuing committee has been set up to study the possibility of formulating a national conservation program.

Elimination of the bounties paid on predatory animals was suggested by C. H. L. Gunn, field representative of the Federation of Ontario Naturalists. He said too little is known about predators to make the present bounty system satisfactory.

Addressing a panel on wildlife and recreational aspects of conservation, Dr. Gunn urged preservation and extension of wilderness areas in their natural state, both in farm and forest areas.

He recommended a more even distribution of hunting activities, by supplying ready access by roads and air to central staging points, from which travel would be by canoe and licensed guide.

"Hunting should not be made too easy if it is to retain its proper flavor," he said.

He deplored the encouragement of bears to come to garbage dumps and deers to scrounge for food about resorts along the highways in Algonquin park. Wildlife should be seen in its natural environment.

Plan New Parley If European Army Is Not Approved

By JOSEPH DYNAN

PARIS (AP)—The foreign ministers of the North Atlantic Treaty Organization decided Friday to call a special session later this year to reconsider their defence setup if the European Army Treaty an informed source said.

The informant, who was present at the closed meeting of 14 ministers, said the proposal was made by U. S. State Secretary Dulles who warned his colleagues that NATO would be faced with a grave situation if the European Defence Community does not come into being in the near future.

With French Foreign Minister Georges Bidault sitting impassively in his chair, Dulles said NATO at its meeting last December had noted the EDC was aimed at ending the rivalry between France and Germany.

DIVISIVE FORCES

If EDC is too long delayed, he said, divisive forces could set in and be added to those divisive forces already were making their appearance.

Dutch Foreign Minister J W Beyen, addressing Bidault directly, also asserted he hoped the French foreign minister could convince the French Parliament EDC should be ratified.

British Foreign Secretary Eden also spoke out strongly for EDC, the informant said.

At the end of the session the foreign ministers of the NATO na[illegible] issued [illegible] communique [illegible] [illegible] [illegible]

BELLEVILLE INDUSTRIAL, HOME AND

Bedrooms And Bathrooms

By "Home Builder"

Most rooms of the house may be regarded as "community property" with the exception of bedrooms. A bedroom is the personal domain of its occupant and the decoration and arrangements of a bedroom should suit the occupant's personal taste.

For instance, if boys want bunks let them have them. If teen-age daughters prefer a decorative scheme dominated by pennants, tennis racquets and photos, it is better to go along with their ideas because then she will take a personal pride in her bedroom.

It is important for the prospective home builder to remember that bedrooms are often just places to sleep. In many cases they are used as room for reading, writing, loafing, or just as islands of solitude in a sometimes too busy house.

In planning a bedroom the location of windows and the amount of wall space available have a decided bearing on the furniture arrangements. Often it is practical to save space by using built-in vanities, chests and closets.

SOUNDPROOF

For sound sleep a bedroom should be as soundproof as possible. This makes it imperative that draperies be selected to keep out light and deaden sound.

If a bedroom is one of the corner rooms of a house then corner windows can be used. They save wall space, are more economical to dress and are smart in appearance from both the interior and exterior of the house. Other window arrangements such as bay windows, picture windows and double glazing units like thermopane can be used in certain styles of rooms but are not common. Thus there are available to every home builder a wide selection of treatments and custom stylings in windows.

For economical bedroom walls and ceilings there is a variety of new, standard sized composite building materials in plain finish or in woods finishes of knotty pine, mahogany or walnut, not to mention the fir plywoods and hardwood veneers.

PLASTER POPULAR

Plaster is always popular for bedrooms because it takes paint and wallpaper well, while the effects created by wood finishes can make a bedroom appear luxurious.

There are on the market today pulp board wall panels and ceiling tiles in a variety of shades and surfaces which provide economical walls and ceilings with the added qualities of insulation and sound deadening. These materials need no additional surfacing or finishing.

The quietest, warmest and most luxurious floor covering is wall-to-wall carpet, a convenience that not everyone can afford. For this reason hardwood flooring, particularly of birch and maple, have been popular in bedrooms. They are easy to maintain, attractive, and the initial cost is moderate. Some people may prefer modern linoleums, asphalt or vinyl floor tiles, while others like sheet linoleum with pattern designs in a variety of colors.

MOST IMPORTANT

However, the most important thing to remember about a bedroom is that it should be built and decorated in such fashion that it can be as dark and as soundproof as necessary for a quiet, restful sleep. This is important to the prospective home owner who may be building his home on a busy street. If the house faces a source of noise the bedroom should be located as far as possible from this noise.

Some houses are large enough to accommodate extra bedrooms in the attic. This space is wasted until remodelled so why not take advantage of it? Often the job can be done by the homeowner in his spare time with economical materials. Build-it-yourself pamphlets on this subject are available to the prospective decorator at all building supply houses. Most builders' supply firms will gladly give you a free estimate of the costs of such remodelling.

BATHROOMS

Bathrooms, too, need careful planning. Wise bathroom planning will pay dividends in convenience, beauty and comfort for years to come. If it were feasible a minimum of two bathrooms would be recommended for every new house. However, space and finances do not permit such an arrangement for most prospective home builders. Therefore, a single bathroom should be planned to give good service.

One way of, providing a "double duty" bathroom is to set the bath tub /and shower off separately from the lavatory and the toilet. Both units of a divided bathroom can then be in use at the same time affording privacy to each user. Another way of increasing bathroom efficiency is by the installation of two lavatories instead of one.

COLORFUL FIXTURES

Colorful fixtures combined with harmonious planning and the correct selection of materials for walls, floors and ceilings, will make your bathroom one of the most attractive rooms in the house.

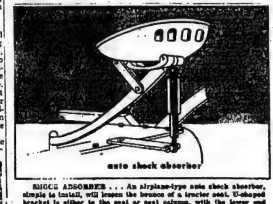
For instance, almost every possible decorative effect can be achieved by using modern floor coverings such as rubber, asphalt or vinyl floor tile or inland linoleum with its wide choice of designs and colors. Inexpensive and attractive wall finishes are available and in a variety of materials including tile-board, cement plasters with cross hatchings to simulate tiles that can be painted any desirable color.

The ultimate in bathroom finishes is ceramic tile walls and terrazo flooring. The variety of finishes is good and your choice depends entirely on one's taste and the amount of money one wishes to spend.

The powder room, or downstairs lavatory, has become almost a must in new construction. This small room on the first floor is readily available to guests and saves unnecessary stair climbing for the entire family. In some cases powder rooms can be built under stairs in space that would not be used anyway.

SHOWERS SAVE

In planning a bathroom do not overlook the convenience and time-saving qualities of a shower. If the bathroom is not large enough to accommodate a separate shower stall then install one over the tub—a most satisfactory arrangement.



Bathroom accessories are not only inexpensive, but offer much in convenience, color, utility and beauty to the general appearance of any bathroom .Soap holders and towel racks are necessary and can be colorful.

Tub rails are not only attractive but definite safety devices.

If space is available a towel shelf in the bathroom comes in handy. Favorite perfumes and lotions are so attractively bottled today that a lotion shelf, if space permits, is a decorative addition to any bathroom.

MAKING ELBOWS . . . When installing drain tile around foundation, skip the ends of two clay tiles at a 45-degree angle in order to form a right-angle elbow. Mark angle with pencil, break away waste with adjustable wrench. After tile is laid, cover the angle joint with strip of roll roofing.

auto shock absorber

SHOCK ABSORBER . . . An airplane-type auto shock absorber, simple to install, will lessen the bounce of a tractor seat. U-shaped bracket is either to the seat or seat cutouts, with the lower end pivoting on a bolt passing through the eye of bracket attached to transmission housing.

Who's Who In The Building Trade

WATSON AND WIEGAND

The art and science of construction is the province of an architect. An architect, by inclination, training and practice is dedicated to the task of solving building problems in the most attractive, most functional and most economical form.

It is therefore only sound business practice for the prospective home builder to consult an architect about his building problems before committing his money and his future to the construction of a home that might never well turn out to be unsuitable if not properly planned.

W. A. Watson and M. R. Wiegand of the firm of Watson and Wiegand, 344 Front Street, are graduate architects with wide experience in all types of design and construction. Their experience and training are the prospective home builder's guarantee of satisfaction no matter what the size, style and price of a house.

HELP RIGHT SITE

Watson and Wiegand service begins by helping the client select the right site. Often, while not always used, is available and architects prefer to render this assistance when possible. In the initial phases of work on any project is a thorough interview with the client to ascertain his needs, the size of his family, the amount of money he is prepared to spend, the number of rooms wanted, and the type of life which the individual would like to live in his new home.

In other words, they try to tailor a home to the needs and the personality of the client.

Following the interviews, sketch plans are drawn up. These are rough plans of the projected home, and often are accompanied by perspective drawings of the home to give the client an idea of the appearance of the completed building. These sketches also crystallize the client's own ideas and bring out more specific and complete detail.

EASILY ALTERED

These sketch plans are easily altered to suit the client. They also provide the architect with an opportunity to explain to the client why some features are not practicable, uneconomical or overly practical. They also provide a means of estimating the cost of completed construction. Such estimates often provide the client with good reason for postponing immediate construction, or delaying construction until his financial position is improved and able to afford what his tastes desire.

Sketch plans are revised in their rough form until they are satisfactory to both client and architect. The architect then proceeds to draw up detailed working drawings with dimensions of structural beams, joists, heating layouts, size of furnaces, ducts, details of rooms and detailed drawings of the positioning of the house on the lot.

In designing all homes Watson and Wiegand keep the house in conformity with local housing and zoning by-laws, and design the building according to regulations and recommendations in the building code, electrical and plumbing codes and the Central Mortgage and Housing restrictions when these apply.

They also prepare specifications—detailed written descriptions of all materials and types of workmanship to be used in construction. If the contract is to be let on tenders, the lowest tender is usually accepted.

SERVICES CONTINUE

The architect's services continue while the house is being in the form of supervision. The architect will see that the building is built in accordance with the plans and specifications, and will certify the accounts of the contractor.

This complete service relieves the home owner of worry and responsibility of dealing with trades men, materials, with which he may not be familiar.

Watson and Wiegand point out that while it is their work is done in the construction of schools, offices and factories, they like to work on homes because of the satisfaction which they derive in solving the interesting problems arising from home construction.

Watson and Wiegand, in addition to being capable of undertaking design work on construction projects of almost every kind, are in constant touch with builders and material suppliers over every part of United States and are prepared to advise clients about the use of the latest kinds of materials.

LATEST DESIGN

They are also familiar with the latest ideas in design and are able to advise home builders on the most advantageous features of modern home construction—a factor that is most important in establishing the future resale value of any house.

One of their most valuable services is the knowledge and ability to plan houses that are functional, with rooms in their most workable, and at the same time, most pleasing arrangement.

It will pay any prospective home builder, or any home owner contemplating major renovations, to sit on the services and advice of Watson and Wiegand and insure satisfaction from a well-balanced building program.

Make Flower Box Last With New Metal Lining

By J. RALPH DALZELL
Author of Books on Home Building and Repair

Wooden flower boxes without metal linings leak water, and very soon lose their paint and rot away. Metal-lined flower boxes are easy to make.

A simple wood box is made to your requirements from three-quarter inch boards, as shown in the picture. Interior dimensions shown are suggested, although the box may be of any size. Simply nail the parts together, sand and paint.

Thin sheets of an alloy called Etraydo, a zinc product, are suggested for the lining because it has all the qualities of copper but costs about half as much. It is available at hardware stores in 60-inch rolls 12 inches wide, and is rust-proof.

To line the box, first make patterns (as shown in the picture). See the pattern for the sides, of which two are necessary. Flange F will cover the tops of the boards of the box. Lay the metal flat, and draw the two sides on it with pencil. Draw lines BSPT. The drawing is cut in the middle to show the side view of flange F. The measurements given will fit the wood box illustrated. Dotted line H shows where to bend at a right angle three-quarters of an inch from the edge.

Now note the pattern for the bottom and two ends. Draw the rectangle as shown on the metal with pencil. Bending lines A, B, C and D are given to make the sides and flanges. Follow the dimensions.

Using tip snips, cut the metal except where the bending lines (dotted) are shown on the pattern for the sides. Use a file to smooth rough edges after cutting.

Now bend along the dash lines to form the flanges. To ease the work and keep it accurate, bend with the aid of a straight piece of wood held tightly, perhaps with a C-clamp, on the dotted lines. Follow this by cutting and bending the pattern for bottom and ends.

The liner assembly picture (unfolded view at the lower left) shows how the parts fit together. Flanges E and G fit next to the ends of both flanges, at F. S shows the bends in the sides, and D and E show bends of the ends.

An electric soldering iron is best. Use solder in wire form. Assemble the lining in the wood box. Make any corrections in the bends or cuts to make the lining fit. Now solder the flanges together by holding an end of the solder wire on the joints and pressing on it with the hot soldering iron. A little practice may be necessary. When the solder has set, turn the wood box upside down and the lining will drop out. Now solder the two sides to the inside to the piece forming the ends and bottom. Fill the lining with water to test for leaks, and make any repairs.

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS

Q.—Can I buy water faucets which will stop hammering noises?

A.—Hammering is not a faucet fault. Extend the pipe several inches beyond the faucet to form an air pocket to absorb the momentum of the water.

Q.—Flaky and hard materials sometimes come out of our water faucets. Can this be prevented?

A.—No, not easily. When the water boils it precipitates minerals. Overheating also dislodges sediment from the inside of the tank.

Laundry Location Important Item In The Modern Home

When mother was a girl, there was only one logical place to look for the laundry in any home. That was the basement, and, as an outright it was as a rule, too. Usually tucked away somewhere in the dingiest corner, surrounded by an accumulation of family junk, and gently powdered with a coating of coal and ash dust, it generally consisted of a couple of unglazed tubs, with a single low-wattage electric bulb suspended somewhere nearby.

No wonder mother viewed Monday morning with an air of funereal gloom.

But that's all changed now. Not only in new houses, but when homes are being renovated, consideration of the home laundry, both as to location and equipment, is high in the list of specifications, according to reports received from contractors all over the country.

Location of the home laundry depends largely upon the size of the family, how much laundry is actually done at home, and the type of laundry that is done.

For instance, when the family is small, and most of the heavy laundry is sent out, there is a strong demand to incorporate laundry facilities into the bathroom.

Depending upon the amount of space available, and how much work is to be done, this can range from merely adding a medium-sized laundry tub to the bathroom fixtures, right up to the installation of an automatic washing-machine and dryer. Housewives in this type of house sometimes find the bathroom location convenient because the bulk of the laundry they want to do comes from the bedrooms, is usually put into a laundry basket in the bathroom anyway, and goes back to the bedrooms when finished.

Where there are children in the family it usually means much more laundry to do at home. Children soil washable clothing so fast that it would take the stock of a complete shop to keep up with them if all the laundry were sent out. In this case, where there is more work than could be conveniently done in a bathroom laundry, the kitchen is the best choice.

Here, both space and equipment make a more comprehensive set-up possible to begin with a much more practical sink fixture can be installed. The most popular is the combination sink and tub unit, incorporating a good deep laundry-type tub as well as a normal shallow sink. A swivel mixer-faucet gives water at any desired temperature in either sink or tub as needed.

In addition, washing machines of rectangular design are now available which will fit in with modern kitchen fixtures, thus saving space and harmonizing with the balance of the kitchen at the same time. The kitchen is convenient to the garden drying area as a rule, too, which makes the installation of a dryer convenient rather than essential.

But for the woman who likes to have all her linen home-laundered the basement laundry is still the ideal. Only what a difference from the old-fashioned one used to know.

Today's housewife demands the right equipment in proper surroundings to do her job. Her basement laundry is now built into a little room of its own, preferably with a good-sized ground-level window, and plenty of illumination, both daylight and electric. It is painted white or some light, gay colour.

Focal centre of the laundry is a twin-tub sink, in gleaming vitreous enamel, fitted with a swivel mixer-type faucet, and most likely a retractable spray attachment. Her sorting table is located to one side of the tubs, her washing machine on the other. For bad weather, she will either have an indoor drying area or an automatic dryer. The floor of the room will be waterproofed and have its own drainage.

And, back of all this, she will have a hot water heater that is adequate to take care of the job she has to do each Monday, not to mention the rest of the week. Modern requirements of cleanliness, as well as modern appliances, take plenty of hot water . . . more than, as a rule, the builders of houses ever thought of in pre-war days. So, wise home renovators are making the installation of new and larger hot water supply units a prime consideration in their planning.

But, whether her Monday's chore is large or small, whether she finds it more convenient to wash her laundry in the bathroom, kitchen or basement, to-day's housewife has a much lighter task than her mother had, thanks to modern ideas of plumbing and laundering.

HOUSTON'S HOME OF THE WEEK

—A long planting area, wide eave overhang and generous corner window arrangement are among the eye-catching features of this new, three-bedroom bungalow designed by architect M. G. Dixon, of Ottawa.

The busy housewife appears to have gained the special consideration of the architect in the planning of this home. Note the complete separation of the living and sleeping areas, always a prime asset in family accommodation. There is space in the large living room for dining on special occasions but other meals can be served in the light kitchen which has a compact arrangement of cupboards, counters, equipment and closets. Note also the handy side entrance with direct access to the basement and bathroom, another attempt to make it easier for the housewife to attend to the needs of young children.

The total floor area of the house is 1,022 square feet and the cubic measurement is 22,500 cubic feet. The exterior dimensions are 40 feet by 29 feet. Working drawings for this house, known as Design 248, are available at minimum cost from HOUSTON'S

Baltimore Orioles May Be Major League Surprise; 'Bums' Win Marathon

CHIPS OFF THE SPORTS BLOCK

By Geo. H. Carver, Sports Editor

GRAND PARTY.

Tributes, trophies, hot dogs, ice cream, and soft drinks mingled in a merry melange at the Armouries last night as the hockey moppets of the Belleville Minor Hockey Association assembled for the annual bunfeed that climaxed another highly successful year.

Youthful exuberance tossed boos and cheers into the air as favorite or foemen National Hockey League teams and players came up for mention in a post-address "quiz" held by Jimmy Thomson, popular defenceman of the Toronto Maple Leafs who graced-speakered the function. Jimmy gave the youngsters a fine talk on the requisites of a National Hockey League star, emphasizing such points as physical condition, hard work, and the importance of taking advantages of natural ability.

The youngsters machine-gunned questions at the good-looking rearguardsman of the Leafs after they were "warmed-up" and many and varied were the queries fired at him. Jim came through handsomely with the answers, some of which were not exactly "popular" with his audience, especially when they touched on teams and players. Belleville moppetdom definitely is not solid in its support of one National League club.

It was a grand party and President Frank Grandame and that "old warhorse", "Red" Doran, and his cohorts deserve resounding pats on the back for a fine job well done. Hoodlei at his best never put on a disappearing act as did those kids when the general assault was made on the hot dog annex. The "mysterious disappearance" of some youthful gullets at an alarming rate, while ice cream and solid rinks suffered a similar fate.

Proud young champions received their awards, and the association paid fitting tribute to its referees, the press and radio. It was a great night for the kids.

BASEBALL

With eleven of his 1953 junior Regents baechaliers over the war drum, Alderman Byron Reid has a problem on his hands. But he has come up with an idea that not only wielded the answer to the problem but remove a lot of headaches at the same time.

He is strongly-considering entering a team in intermediate ranks, thus eliminating the age problem and giving players from nine to ninety the chance to play baseball.

If we recall the Ontario Baseball Association ruling correctly, an intermediate club cannot be operated in a city of 20,000 and over unless a junior club is also in operation. This, in fairness to centres of much lower population.

Reid said today that he expected two or three or possibly four of his 1953 junior club would graduate to senior ranks, "but", he added, "that are the cost I'm willing to do".

Over the age "bump" are Claude Carr, third baseman, Doug. Hull, infielder, John Maichellor, second base; Billy Sirahan, pitcher; Pat Gilmore, outfielder; Wally Mead, pitcher; Ted Stephens, first base; Johnny McWatt, pitcher, Billy Greer, pitcher and Reg. Bird, outfielder.

"There is no reason why those players who will not not make the senior club should be left out of baseball" says the alderman. "I do not think that there is sufficient junior material available this year to fill in the gaps caused by age graduation."

If his plans to form an intermediate squad materialize, Reid will apply for entry to the Lakeshore Intermediate Baseball League, comprised of Newmanville, Port Hope, Cobourg, Colborne, and another squad. It would make a compact loop.

It will be recalled that Alderman Reid carried the banner of baseball for Belleville last season with his Regent juniors who wept to the Ontario finals bowing to the Hamilton Crawfords in the championship series.

DON'T MISS THIS.

Major Pere. Krichenon, formerly of Napanee and well-known here in Belleville, will be the guest speaker at the monthly meeting of the Belleville and District Game and Fish Association scheduled for the YMCA, April 28th. Major Krichenon authors the column "Kicky's Korner" for the Carling Conservation Club. An ardent angler and hunter, the major will have plenty of information and stories for the association besides showing some thrilling colorful and educational motion picture films. Members should not miss this meeting.

Henderson To Coach Hershey

HERSHEY, Pa. (AP) — Murray Henderson, former Boston Bruin player, Friday signed a new contract to coach Hershey of the American Hockey League for the next season.

Henderson, 32-year-old Hershey player-coach the last two years, led the Bears to a second-place finish in the 1953-54 campaign and to the finals of the Calder Cup playoffs before losing out to Cleveland. In 1952-53 his team finished fourth.

Salary terms were not disclosed. It was indicated the new contract was for a single year.

Birds' Sore-Armed Flinger May Give Team Last Laugh; Bucs Bow in 4-Hour Struggle

By Ben Phlegar
Associated Press Sports Writer

The new Baltimore Orioles, criticized in some quarters for picking up too many Athletics and not enough siddings, are rapidly making the point where they can have the last laugh.

One of the biggest reasons is Joe Coleman, a sore-armed right-hander resurrected by Philadelphia last season from Savannah of the Sally League where he had lost 18 of 19.

It has been five seasons since Coleman had shown real promise in the majors. But now he really has blossomed.

He made his second start Friday, pitched his second complete game, and won for the first time, 5-1, over Chicago White Sox in 10 innings. His other loss was a 1-0 lost a three-hit heartbreaker to Ned Garver and pitched 9 and 10 innings he has given up only nine hits.

NEEDED HIS SKILL

Coleman needed all of his skill because Orioles weren't getting anywhere against Billy Pierce until Vern Stephens homered in the eighth. Then in the 10th they picked up two on Billy Hunter's single, Bob Nieman's double and a single by Coleman himself.

Garver, who had beaten Coleman for one decision, pitched another good one Friday, beating Cleveland 4-0 behind relief. The Tigers battered Early Wynn for five runs in the first inning. The game was an hour late in starting because Cleveland's equipment got sidetracked in Pittsburgh. The Indians were sorry it showed up.

Rain washed out one game of the scheduled night games, but from the standpoint of total time they weren't missed. Pir a d r i a and Pittsburgh used four hours and 13 minutes before the Dodgers won 6-5 in 13 innings. Milwaukee and St. Louis played two hours and two minutes with the Braves winning 7-5 in 14 innings.
